Arthur Brisbane recently quoted W. A. Seddon, vice president of the Seaboard Air Line, as stating that the one bright spot on the railroad map is the movement of perishable fruits from Florida. Then Mr. Brisbane adds the significant fact that so-called tariff reformers have a scheme to wipe out these "bright spots." "They would," he adds, "reduce the tariff on such food products, and throw our market open to competition. This would mean that Mexican perishable fruits and vegetables would supply this country. Everybody has a friendly feeling for Mexico, but Americans should eat things grown by other Americans on United States soil."

There can be no question of the soundness of Mr. Brisbane's statement. The same reasoning applies to other products grown on American farms, with which the foodstuffs of Canada, and Latin-American countries come into competition. The reasoning is sound in spite of the claims of the free traders that the protective tariff gives our farmers no benefit. When talking about farm products the free traders have only wheat in mind. For purposes of argument it is the only agricultural commodity of which they take any cognizance, although it is by no means the most valuable crop of the American farmer.

Another bright spot might be created for the railroads in the business picture by the shutting out of foreign coal and foreign oil. This would undoubtedly be a boon not only to the coal miners and operators of the country but to railroads who would get the job of hauling the black diamonds from the coal field of Pennsylvania and West Virginia to the east coast. In fact a great many things would be accomplished by a sane adjustment of the tariff which would be made with a view to helping America and not the New York importers and European and Japanese employers of cheap labor.

THE BANKING AND FINANCIAL SITUATION

During the past week the subject of universal interest and wide discussion has been the closing of the banks of the country, and the resulting financial stringency into which we have been thrown.

The blow fell first on last Wednesday when the banks of Alabama declared a ten-day vacation, following similar action by many other states. The climax was added on Saturday at noon when the Federal Reserve System closed down for four days.

While the situation has brought us into serious and very unhandy complications in the conduct of business, our people have been able to take the whole thing and keep smiling.

It seems that folks generally have confidence that the move on the part of our bankers and financial leaders is the soundest course to pursue. Our financial institutions must be saved at all cost. If they are allowed to collapse it will be a permanent injury from which we might never fully recover. Even drastic and stringent regulations for a while in order to keep our financial structure secure is far better than complete collapse.

That we have at last hit the bottom of the depression is the conclusion of many. They told us last year the depression could not be worse than it was. We have now concluded that it could have been worse, and in fact is worse than it was in 1932.

One fellow last year said we would live to see the time when we would look back and wish for the good old days of 1932. We may be surprised to have reached that time so soon. But it is here.

This period will bear its lasting impression in the minds of those of us who are going through it. We have never seen anything like it before. Some of the older citizens remember when we got into tight places in years past. They offer the assuring comment that our country has come out of every crisis in the past, and predict that we shall come out of this one in due time.

Pocket change is being guarded with judicious care in order to make sure the family larder does not run completely out. This will be a good lesson for many of our younger citizens who have never had the experience of pinching off pennies. Good times have been in style since most of our young business people have been in the game. Many of them have never known what tight times meant. That is one of the chief underlying causes of present conditions. It we had learned how to pinch off pennies, many of us would not be so alarmed now about where our bread is coming from.

I believe there is no cause for serious alarm. The future of our country, I believe, will be made secure. Our banks will be amply protected by necessary emergency measures. And when our banks are safeguarded, that means that business and individuals are safe.

Our economic system and financial system could not be reorganized without starting at the bottom of the system. The banks are the bottom. They had to be adjusted to the new order. That adjustment is now being made. It will be done quickly and swiftly and surely. Then we shall have a solid footing from which to start back to normal operations.

PROTESTS AGAINST REDUCTION OF THE NAVY

Secretary of the Navy Adams has uttered a formal protest against cutting down the appropriation of the navy by five per cent.

The navy is now engaged in its annual maneuvers in the Pacific. They have shown that the navy is now inadequate to the defense of the Hawaiian Islands and the Pacific coast. The situation alarms those who now exist in the far East, with affairs so unsettled in that part of the United States to take any steps which will result in making the navy any less effective than it is today.

This country is far behind treaty requirements so far as its navy is concerned. It now has many venerable battleships which, within a few years, will become obsolete. This is the time when steps should be taken to provide modern ships to take the place of the vessels which must soon be relegated to the scrap heap. Warships cannot be constructed in a few months. Even if our government set out to build the navy requirements of the London Treaty it will still be far hebind other nations in the strength of its fleet.

Secretary Adams' protest against additional reduction in the appropriations for the navy should meet with general endorsement.

Good Business Rules

A man who has a large number of employes under him has posted up in the various departments of his establishment cards which bear the above caption and the following rules:

1. Don't lie, it wastes my time and yours. I'm sure to catch you in the end, and that's the wrong end.

2. Watch your work, not the clock. A long day's work makes a long day short, and a short day's work makes my face long.

3. Give me more than I expect and I'll pay you more than you expect. I can afford to increase your pay if you increase my profits.

4. You owe so much to yourself that you can't afford to owe anything else. Keep out of debt or keep out of my shops.

5. Dishonesty is never an accident. Good men, like good women, can't see temptation when they meet it.

6. Mind your own business and in time you will have a business of your own to mind.

7. Don't do anything here which hurts your self-respect. The employe who is willing to steal for me is capable of stealing from me.

8. It is none of my business what you do at night. But if dissipation affects what you do the next day, and you do half as much as I expect you'll last half as long as you hoped.

9. Don't tell me what I'd like to hear but what I ought to hear. I don't want a valet to my vanity, but I need one for my dollars.

10. Don't kick if I kick. If you're worth while correcting you're worth while keeping. I don't waste time cutting specks out of rotten apples.

The few days of sunshine made everything look different out around the training school. One begins to realize readily that planting time is fast approaching when he sees the newly turned soil. Yet, no one can tell what March will bring to us. So get ready for planting and wait for the right season. Don't plant your seed in the moon, but in the soil, for the moon has other duties to perform.

Spring gardens are slowly taking form in and around Clanton, as the rainfall has been so abundant during the last months. Then, Clanton is so low that water stands much longer after a rain. Vocational boys, living in Clanton are eager to see fair weather, so that they may continue their garden work. These boys are also doing special work around home, which includes repairing steps, fences, doors, windows, barns, poultry houses, lots, porches, pruning trees, setting shrubs, and fruit trees. The following boys are to be commended on the work done at home: Robert Coker, Jessie Walter Benjamin, Arthur Lee Oden, Lindsey Draper, Arthur Benjamin and John Dickerson All of the boys have a definite schedule and they are carrying them out step by step each week.

Local Board Meets

The Board of Trustees met last Monday night. Practically all of the time was spent discussing means of meeting its obligations to the Peoples Savings Bank. Bro. James Knight, one of the newly elected members, discussed beautifully the disadvantage of just extending the note by paying the interest. It was moved, seconded and carried that each member of the board bring five dollars on the next meeting day. Thanks to Bro. W. A. Dickerson.

The new members brought wholesome boxes of all kinds of sandwiches cakes pies, chicken and pork which were served just before adjourning.—A. H. Gordon, chairman; Benj. Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

WILLIE HAMILTON MAKES OWN COLTERS FOR TURNING VETCH

Recently Mr. Willie Hamilton brought to County Agent Stapp's office a home-made colter to be attached to a steel beam plow for turning peas and vetch. Mr. Hamilton has been very successful in growing vetch. He makes his own colters and says that other farmers can do the same.

Mr. Hamilton left one of his colters at Mr. Stapp's office for other farmers to see and use as a pattern in making one of their own.

Mr. Hamilton is very interested in the soil building program that is being sponsored by our county agent, Mr. Stapp, and he states that some kind of good colter is very necessary in turning vetch or Austrian peas.

Mr. Hamilton states that his home-made colter is not as good as the store-bought rolling colter, but that it will do satisfactory work and can be made at home with no outlay of cash.

Teacher—What is your worst sin?

Seminary Student—Vanity—I stand in front of my mirror for hours admiring my beauty.

Teacher—That's not vanity—that's imagination.

COUNTY AGENT STAPP CALLS ATTENTION TO PASTURES

Mr. Stapp states that every farmer should have a good permanent pasture. He does not mean a thicket with three strands of barbed wire around it, but some low land cleaned off so the sun can shine on the ground. After the land is cleaned off Mr. Stapp points out the fact that the ground should be seeded with Dallis grass, carpet grass and lespedeza. Mr. Stapp states that it is now time to sow pasture grass seed and that farmers who haven't already talked to him or some of the farmers of the county who have good pastures should attend to this important matter at an early date.

Mr. Stapp advises us that he will be in his office practically every day and night for the next month helping farmers make applications for money for crop production, but that he will be glad to talk over any farm problems with those who may call at his office.

Food For Thought

When we read the Bible let us give full attention to it—let its truths sink down deep into our minds and hearts. Let us eat it, digest it. Let us make it our very own—something to live by and think by and work by, and get strength and hope and joy and salvation by. You remember that Christ said: "I am the living bread which came down from heaven; if any may eat of this bread, he shall live forever."

LOMAX NEWS

By R. E. L. Ward

We are sorry to state the death of our beloved one, Mrs. Elizabeth Riggins, which occurred last Saturday March 4th. Mrs. Riggins was an aunt of Mrs. R. E. L. Ward, of this place, and lived in the Liberty Hill community.

Some of our citizens of this place are very jubilant over the inaugural address of President Roosevelt, and are looking for some drastic changes in our economic system.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jackson and son, Willie, visited his brother, R. M. Jackson, of DeKalb County last week and returned home Sunday.

Mrs. J. T. Daniels spent a pleasant afternoon with Mrs. R. E. L. Ward on last Thursday.

Mrs. J. A. Duncan had as her guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones of Clanton and Mrs. Claude Jones.

Mrs. W. H. Killingsworth and Mrs. W. F. Gill were the afternoon guests of Mrs. Jack Jones Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Carter and Eudora visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Duncan, part of last week.

The Lomax independent basket ball team will play Maplesville on the latter's court on next Friday night, March 10. Everyboy is invited to come and attend.

Mrs. Willie Griffin of Thorsby was a visitor of her mother, Mrs. Nancy K. Griffin on last Friday.

Miss Bessie Marie Eiland from near here entertained at bridge and rook last Thursday night. Those sharing of this hospitality were Misses Mammie and Birdie Logan, Jessie Lee Price, Mittice Duncan and Messrs. Marion Logan, Ralph Mims, Opal Johnson, Harvey Melton and the hostess, Miss Eiland.

Misses Laura and Versa Blankenship spent a few hours with Miss Mary Sue Blackmon on last Friday morning.

Miss Jessie Lee Price spent Sunday with Miss Mittice Duncan.

Miss Dora Bell Blackmon was the dinner guest of her cousins, Misses Gertie Mae and Vera Jones, Sunday.

Mrs. W. A. Traywick and Mrs. Dewey Price were the afternoon guests of Mrs. G. E. Rush.

Miss Kathleen West of Clanton was a visitor of her sister, Mrs. G. E. Rush, on last Thursday.

Miss Mary Sue Blackmon visited friends in Maplesville last Saturday.

Mr. G. E. Rush returned to his home last Saturday after spending some time in Louisiana where he has been working.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Traywick were the week end guests of their son, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Traywick.

Mrs. Leona Knox of Cane Creek was the afternoon guest of her sister, Mrs. William Bradley, Sunday.

Miss Dorothy Gene Rush visited her aunt, Mrs. Zenia West, of Clanton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Culpepper of Clanton visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Edwards, Sunday.

Misses Mary Sue, Ruth and Dora Bell Blackmon were visitors of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Culver of Clanton, on last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Rush motored to Mulberry Sunday to visit friends and relatives there.

The people of this community regret the loss of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Stephenson's house, which was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Rush and family are leaving to go to Baton Rouge, La., where Mr. Rush will continue his work. Mrs. G. E. Rush will be greatly missed by many friends of this community.

Mrs. J. C. Price is on the sick list this week. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

Our idea of true justice is when a stenographer throws her gum out the forty-eight story window and then steps in it when she goes to lunch.

PATES CHAPEL

This community was very much saddened when the death angel visited the home of Mr. John Pruitt and carried his loving wife to rest Saturday morning about 11:00 o'clock. Mrs. Pruitt was a brave sufferer and seemed to have friends everywhere she went. She lived in Pleasant Grove community on Mr. Dock Hodgens's place. Mr. and Mrs. Pruitt have five small children. The oldest one was only nine years of age. The children were as follows: Edna, 9; Quinton, 8, Mary Sue, 7; Unice Lee, 5; and Harold Gene 2. Mrs. Pruitt was only 26 years of age. She was married to Mr. John Pruitt when she was only sixteen, and we all feel that she has been a sweet and faithful wife and mother. Mrs. Pruitt was a Miss Langston before marriage. Her parents reside somewhere near Thorsby. We all hope and pray that those dear ones who have been left behind will live in a way that they may meet her in heaven. Mrs. Pruitt was laid to rest in the Collins Chapel cemetery Sunday afternoon, March 5th, and Rev. J. E. Each conducted the funeral. We hope that those dear ones are comforted by the thought that our loss is heaven's gain. The burial was in care of Martin & Sons, of Clanton. I know they want to thank each and every one for their kindness and sympathy shown them through their bereavement. May God bless each and every one. Pallbearers were Messrs. Briggs Hodgens, Aubrey Miskelley, Tommie Childress, Malcolm Manning, and Tommie Maddox.

Among those that attended the funeral of Mrs. Pruitt from this community were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater, Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox and two children, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and son and daughter, Mrs. Lum Hayes, Mrs. Jesse Hayes and children, Mr. Arthur Pitchford and Maude Wallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion of Pleasant Grove spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion of this community.

Miss Mary Whatley and Mr. Tom Fox spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Blow.

Miss Ruby and Mr. Roscoe Maddox spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater.

Edna and Quinton Pruitt spent Saturday night with Rubye and Roscoe Maddox.

Rev. M. Lockhart filled his place Saturday and Sunday night at Pates Chapel. It was reported a very good meeting. We were very glad to have our new member, Mr. Milford Hubbard, come in.

Mrs. Tommie Maddox and daughter, Ruby and sister, Maude Wallis, visited Mrs. Steve Hughes and Mrs. Roy Pruitt Friday afternoon, and were the Tuesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Maddox and Mr. Herman Freeman.

Rev. M. Lockhart was the Saturday night guest of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pate and was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Maddox of Thorsby.

He and his best girl were seated in a dim corner.

"Give me a kiss?" he pleaded.

The girl made no reply.

"Won't you please give me a kiss?" he asked again.

Still no answer.

"Please, please, just one?" he begged.

And still no answer.

"Are you deaf?" he shouted at length.

"No," she snapped. "Are you paralyzed?"

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PAROLE

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Governor and Members of the Pardon Board of the State of Alabama for the parole or pardon of William Helton, who was convicted and sentenced by the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, on the 10th day of November, 1931, for the offense of manslaughter in the first degree and sentenced to the penitentiary of said State for one year and one day.—William Helton.

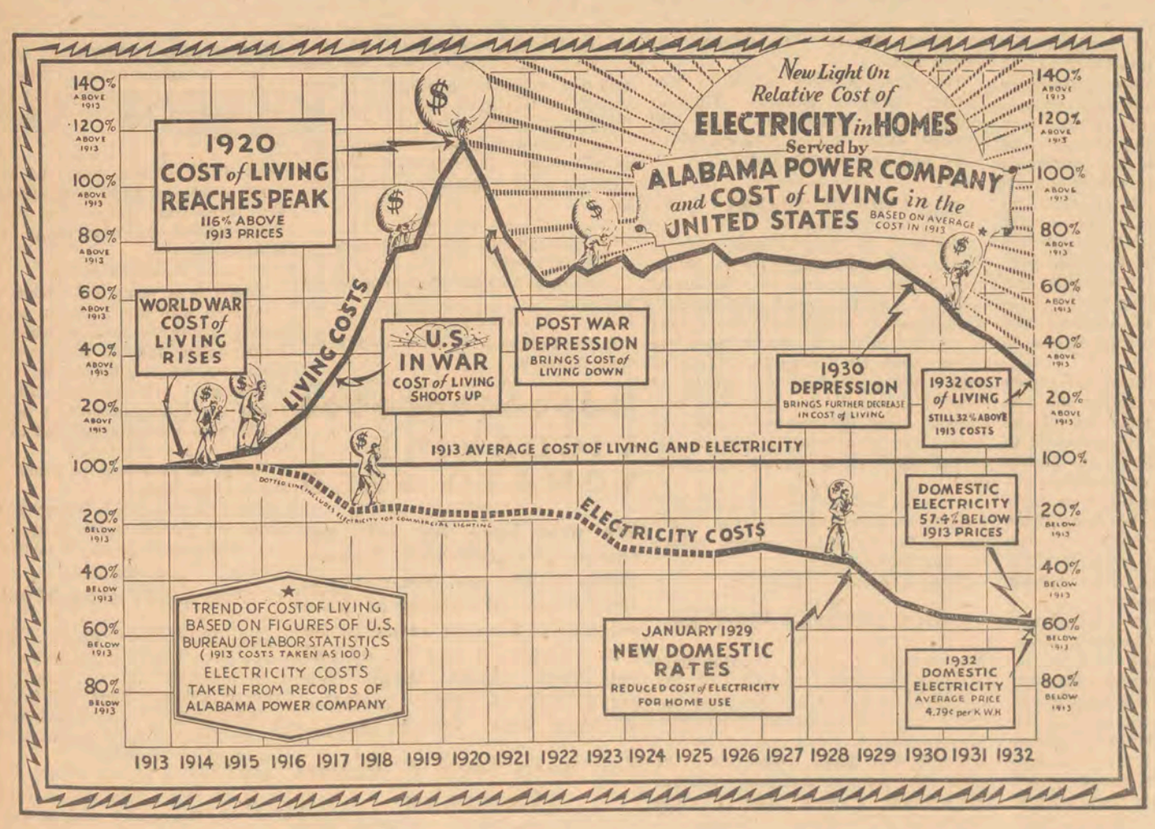
Here's the Answer to the Question:

"Why Doesn't the Cost of Electricity In Alabama Homes Come Down Like the Cost of Living?"



The Answer Is "IT HAS"

This graphic chart gives the true picture of what has been happening to both Living Costs and Costs of Electricity in Alabama since this company began its service to the people of this state, and particularly in the homes served by the Company since 1925.

It reveals these interesting and indisputable facts:

General Living Costs in the United States, despite recent reductions, are still 32% ABOVE 1913 levels.

The average cost of DOMESTIC ELECTRICITY in Alabama has steadily gone DOWNWARDS and it is now 57.4% BELOW what it was in 1913.

Alabama's average rate for home electric service has declined over 37% in the past five years alone, and is today 14% BELOW the national average.

CLAY MARCUS SELLING INTERNATIONAL TRUCKS IN CLANTON

This week there appears in the Union-Banner an advertisement by Mr. Clay Marcus, manager of Clanton Tractor & Implement Company, concerning International Motor Trucks.

Mr. Marcus has a new International truck here for demonstration purposes, and he is very anxious to have anyone interested to drive this machine and prove its wonderfud performance ability.

"You will never know what real truck satisfaction is until you get under the wheel of this new International," said Mr. Marcus. "I want every truck driver in Chilton County to have an opportunity to try it out."

LEGION MEETING NEXT MONDAY NIGHT, MARCH 13

Commander R. D. Woodson of Chilton County Post No. 6, American Legion, requests all members of the Post to attend a special meeting called for next Monday night, March 13, at the courthouse.

The call for this special meeting was issued by Commander Woodson on account of the failure of the regular meeting Monday night of this week, caused by bad weather.

"We have some important business that should not wait over until our next monthly meeting," Mr. Woodson stated, "and I urgently request all members to come to the meeting next Monday night."

Gal—My boy friend leaves me breathless.

Mother—I'd make him buy me a drink once in a while if I were you.

Diner—Were you the young lady who took my order?

Waitress—Yes, sir.

Diner — You're still looking well. How are your grandchildren?

IN MEMORY

On last Wednesday morning, March 1st, as the sun came shining over a clear sky, God came to the home of Rev. Davis Durbin and carried with Him the soul of the wife and mother, Mabel Inez. How she suffered in the last four hours of her life! But always she bore it with a smile. Many times Inez expressed the wish that she could go. Her body racked with pain, from which it seemed could be no relief. We often are made to wonder why He takes our loved ones. But with every one it makes heaven just a little brighter for those left behind.

Inez left to mourn her loss her husband, Rev. H. D. Durbin; two daughters, Dalene and Irma, and a host of friends and relatives. She was laid to rest at Liberty Hill Thursday afternoon, Dr. Ezell and Rev. Homer Carroll officiating. Martin in charge.

Weep not, dear husband and children, for Inez is at rest. We know that all was done that could be, yet God needed Inez to make a greater tie for you in heaven.

How joyful is the hope that lingers
When loved ones cross death's sea,
That we when all earth's toils are ended,
With them shall ever be.

No parting words shall e'er be spoken
In yonder home so fair
But songs of joy, peace and gladness
We'll sing over there.

Our dear ones are leaving us here,
We know they are free from all care
No shedding of any more tears,
No sorrow can reach them there.

SLIGHT DAMAGE BY WIND

Strong wind out of the south and southeast Monday did some damage to property on the farms of Monroe Foshee, Berry Blalock and Bob Holly in the Mt. Pleasant community, northwest of Clanton.

Roofs were torn away from some of the outbuildings. The damage at Monroe Foshee's place was said to have been the partial destruction of a tenant house. No persons were reported hurt.

SEAPORT WEEK AT MOBILE

Mobile, Ala., Feb. 21.—An annual "seaport week", set aside for consideration of Alabama's world commerce and its economic value to the people of the entire state has been recommended by the Mobile Chamber of Commerce as a means of informing the public by encouraging the study of this important subject.

The story of Alabama's commercial evolution; development of its waterways, railways, highways river and seaport terminals and other factors that serve to unite the state with foreign trade might well be given special attention in the schools and carried through these and other sources to the older generations as well, in the opinion of the chamber of commerce and the state docks commission.

To this end, Governor B. M. Miller will be requested to name an appropriate time for this observance and to call the subject specially to the attention of all educational forces within the states; public, private and church school authorities.

It has also been suggested that the railroads entering the port might find it expident to run occasional cheap excursions to the seaport for the purpose of enabling persons from the interior, under competent guides, to tour the water front and see for themselves these scenes of shipping with which perhaps 99 per cent of the people of Alabama are totally unfamiliar.

Many Alabamians have traveled to foreign countries and other states to see sights of less absorbing interest than those to be found at their own seaport, including one of the most modern quarantine stations in the world, ships flying the flags of many nations and their crews, often picturesque in dress and speech; ship building and repair plants operating among the largest drydocks on the gulf seaboard; fish and oyster docks where snapper smacks and many other fishing boats discharge seafoods; one of the really large paper mills of the country and other industries; modern terminals operated by railroads, private companies, the city of Mobile and the state of Alabama.

One of the new and interesting features to be observed at the Alabama seaport is the great variety of its import and export commrce. Cotton and lumber still have important places in the list of exports, though all forest products are moving in reduced quantities due to world trade conditions. The same might be said of iron and steel from the mineral districts of Alabama. Fortunately, however, other items of import and export commerce have come to keep the propellors and the wheels of commerce moving, so that while the port tonnage has shown some decrease, the variety and value of the cargoes handled has shown a marked increast. U. S. Department of Commerce statistics and port records show that exports from Alabama for the first nine months of 1932 showed an increase of 52 per cent in value as contrasted with the corresponding period of 1931.

Sugar from Cuba, Porto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands to the amount of 31,675 tons was handled over the state docks during the calendar year 1932 under rates and conditions that effect a material saving to the dealers and consumers of Alabama and contiguous states on this article of general use.

More than 100 new items are shown in the manifests of incoming and outgoing ships, and these range all the way from hog hair for exports to toys and garlic imported. Mobile handled 568,155 bales of cotton for the fiscal year 1931-32 and the estimate has been made that the competition between the various ports and carriers serving Mobile's trade territory has resulted in a saving of at least $1 per bale on this cotton.

The state docks commission, now composed of R. A. Christian, chairman, of Mobile; Frank G. Blair, of Tuscaloosa and Temple W. Tutwiler, of Birmingham, and Marion M. Caskie, general manager, shows in a late report that since 1930 the operating expenses of Alabama's $10,000,000 port terminal system have been reduced nearly 50 per cent, without injury to service nor neglect of maintenance, and that the plant is earning 2½ per cent on the entire investment—which is regarded as a remarkable showing considering the general state of world trade. The amounts paid into the state treasury to apply on interest account are shown for the calendar year, 1929, $131,375; 1930, $166,500; 1931, $256,437; 1932, $250,000.

The annual interest on the investment totals $427,500, and it is shown that the yearly cost to the state is only about one-half the amount saved to the people of Alabama by reason of cheaper sugar and lower transportation cost on cotton alone.

Mrs. Sam Box of Birmingham has returned home after several days spent here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

Doctor—Congratulations, old man, your wife has presented you with quadruplets.

Father—Four crying out loud.

CROP LOANS

ed by Secretary Hyde are similar to those in force last year. An absolute first lien on all of the crops grown by the borrower in 1933 is required by the act. In counties where fertilizer is not commonly used, the rate of loans must not exceed $3 an acre for general field crops, and $12 an acre for truck crops, including potatoes. In counties where fertilizer is commonly used, according to the testimony of representatives of the department of agriculture, the rate must not exceed $6 an acre for general field crops, $10 an acre for tobacco, and $20 an acre for truck crops including potatoes. Not to exceed $1 an acre of loans made at any of these rates may be used for repairs and miscellaneous expenses of crop production other than seed, fertilizer, feed for workstock, and fuel and oil for tractors.

In addition to the reduction required this year in acreage of cash crops, borrowers must agree to plant a garden for home use and a sufficient acreage of feed crops to supply feed for their livestock. Acreage taken of cash crop production may be planted to any soil-building crop.

Loans will be made, the regulations further declare, "to farmers who are unable to obtain loans for crop production during the year 1933 from other sources. These loans may be made to such individuals as are found by the secretary of agriculture to have acreage fit for seeding and who are without means to purchase the supplies necessary for crop production during the year 1933 . . . No loans will be made to any applicant who has a means of livelihood other than farming. . . Loans will not be made for the purchase of machinery or livestock, or for the payment of taxes, debts, or interest on debts. Loans will not be made for the feeding of livestock other than workstock used in crop production."

An application for a loan, accompanied by the necessary crop lien, will be passed on first by county advisory committees. If the county committee and the field inspector certify the application, it will be forwarded to one of the several regional field offices for final approval and disbursement.

The county agent is required to interview each applicant and sign the application. Mr. Stapp states that farmers who have security that they can offer in addition to their crops, may come to his office and apply for loans through the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother. We can never forget you who helped us in our hour of need. Especially do we thank Dr. Gragg and Martin & Sons. We appreciate the words of comfort spoken by Dr. Ezell and Rev. Carroll. May the richest blessing of heaven rest upon each of you, is our prayer.—Rev. H. D. Durbin and children.

NOTICE TO CREAM SHIPPERS

Below will be found a statement to Evan Parrish, manager of the Southern Seed & Plant Co., and operator of the Farm Bureau Cream Station in Clanton:

"Conditions have come up that leave the butter industry without any guiding market. The Chicago Mercantile Exchange has closed and like exchanges in other cities; so there will be no butter market available for the time being. As a result, no one knows what the butter made today will be sold for. This makes it absolutely necessary that we reduce our paying price for cream, and effective at once we instruct you to pay 8c per pound for butterfat, effective until further notice.

"In view of the above prices and due to the fact that we are unable to get cash from Swift & Co., to pay for cream coming in, I think it advisable to discontinue operation within a few days and will give notice to papers."

If all the autos in the world were placed end to end, 98 per cent of the drivers would pull out of line to pass the car ahead.

Dr. Arthur Johnson has returned to Clanton after an absence of several weeks spent at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

SHOE STORE IS MOVING

Another step in the moving program is being made this week. Ben Margolis is moving his shoe store to the building formerly occupied by Jesse Baker.

The place has been completely overhauled and remodeled. With a handsome new front, the building makes a much more pleasing contribution to the good appearance of Clanton's business district.

Joe Calloway plans to begin this week moving his drug store into the building being vacated by Mr. Margolis.

"Father do big fish eat sardines?"

"Yes, my son."

"But how do they get them out of the cans?"

D. S. Robinson is ill at his home near Coopers.

There is a story out about a colored man who was about to enter the pearly gates of heaven when Saint Peter asked him if there was anything he wanted before he entered.

"Yezzah," he replied, "I'll take about ten thousand dollars in cash."

His wish was granted, and the next in line was a Mr. Cohen.

"What is your last request?" Saint Peter asked him.

Mr. Cohen replied: "Just give me about ten dollars worth of cheap jewelry and that last man's address."

MRS. MABEL INEZ DURBIN

RULES AGAINST HOARDING MONEY

Statement Given Out By Gov. Black of The Federal Reserve

Gov. Eugene R. Black, of the Sixth District Federal Reserve Bank, Atlanta, Monday night issued the following statement relative to the hoarding regulation outlined by President Roosevelt in operation of banks throughout the country.

"Under the executive order issued by the president of the United States, banks over the United States are being permitted to open under federal license for unrestricted service, subject, among other things, to the obligation upon the banks to prevent withdrawals of currency for the purpose of hoarding. In order that there may be no misunderstanding on the part of the public and the banks, I quote herewith the provisions of the president's order relating to the hoarding as follows, to-wit:

"'Until further order, no individual, partnership, association, or corporation, including any banking institution, shall export or otherwise remove or perimt to be withdrawn from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof any gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates, except in accordance with regulations prescribed by or under license issued by the secretary of the treasury.

"'No permission to any banking institution to perform any banking functions shall authorize such institutions to pay out any gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates except as authorized by the secretary of the treasury, nor to allow withdrawals of any currency for hoarding nor to engage in any transaction in foreign exchange except as may be undertaken for legitimate and normal business requirements, for reasonable traveling and personal requirements, and for the fulfillment of contracts entered into prior to March 6, 1933.'

"It will be necassary for the banks as well as the depositing public to obey this law, and if full obedience to the law will be promoted thereby it will be entirely proper for depositors to make written statements that withdrawals are in line with the law and for banks to require such statements in aid of the manifest purpose of the law against hoarding."

ILLNESS FATAL TO HOWARD DOSTER

Prattville Editor Died At His Home On Tuesday March 14th

Howard Slaton Doster, 63, editor and planter, died at his home in Prattville Tuesday after a long illness. The body was brought to Mell Martin's Funeral Home in Clanton Tuesday afternoon and prepared for burial. Funeral was held Wednesday from the residence at 10:30 a.m., with the Rev. R. J. Mills, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Avery, of the Prattville Baptist church, and Dr. John W. Inzer, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Montgomery.

Mr. Doster was editor of the Prattville Progress and the owner of an extensive plantation near Prattville. He was a former state senator and representative, a former president of the Alabama Press Association, and at the time of his death, a steward in the Methodist church. He taught the Wesley Bible Class at Prattville.

Mr. Doster was born in Prattville September 14, 1869, the son of Charles S. G. Doster, a widely known lawyer. He was educated at Prattville Academy and at Auburn, graduating from the A. P. I. with an A. B. degree. Later he attended Vanderbilt University for a while intending to prepare for law, but was obliged to abandon this pursuit on account of the ill health of his father. Upon his return home he entered upon his career as a journalist and planter.

In 1899 Mr. Doster was elected to the House of Representatives in the Legislature. After serving two terms in the House he was elected in 1906 to the State Senate. His father and grandfather before him had also served in the legislature.

In 1914 Mr. Doster was married to Mrs. Birdie Inzer Robinson, who with her three daughters, Emma Sue Robinson and Anna Robinson, and Elizabeth Doster, survive him. He is survived also by three sisters, Mrs. Lula Reynolds, Mrs. Corinne Alexander, of Prattville, and Mrs. J. D. Lamar, of Fort Deposit.

J. A. LINQUIST DIED

J. A. Lindquist, age 74 years, died at the county almshouse Sunday afternoon. Burial was at Thorsby Monday afternoon. Mr. Lindquist was a native of Sweden and has lived in the Thorsby community for several years.

DELIVERY PLAN STARTED HERE

L. & N. Freight Will Be Hauled To Stores By Joe Franklin

Door-to-door delivery on less than carload shipments was started by the Louisville & Nashiville Railroad on March 15, as scheduled, according to previous announcements in which the plan was detailed.

Local transfer companies, under contract and fully bonded and insured, will act as agents for the railroad in performing the pick-up and delivery service at almost 500 stations located in nearly every state in the South, it is stated. Joe Franklin, local drayman in Clanton, has contracted to perform the service here.

Within a range of 230 miles from destination the service will be accorded without additional charge at the regular depot-to-depot rates, with an allowance of five cents a hundred pounds made to those who perform their own transfer servcie. On shipments going outside the free zone a charge of ten cents a hundred pounds will be made to cover the service, if rendered, at either or both ends.

The establishing of the plant, the railroad company, says, is the result of a two-year study of its possibilities and of its practicability.

BEN MARGOLIS HAS ENLARGED HIS BUSINESS

The Sample Shoe Store is now in its new home in the building formerly occupied by Jesse Baker. Ben Margolis, owner and manager of the business, is ready to greet his friends and customers with one of the most attractive stores in the city.

Mr. Margolis has expanded and enlarged his store to take in a wider range of merchandise than heretofore. Not only will he feature his shoe business, but has added several lines of women's wearing apparel, particularly millinery, dresses, and ready-to-wear.

Mrs. Clara Mullins and Mrs. Ludie Lenoir have been employed by the manager of the store. Those popular ladies are widely known by the people who trade in Clanton. They will have charge of the department of interest to the ladies, and will be glad to have their friends come to see them.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE THURSDAY NIGHT, MARCH 23

There will be a community singing at the courthouse in Clanton Thursday night of next week, March 23rd, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. All singers of the county are invited to take part. The Sunshine Four of Clanton and Thorsby will be present and present several selections; this quartet is composed of Jesse C. Jones and Herbert Lowery of Clanton, and Elbert Hall and Gresham Lowery of Thorsby. All societies of the county are asked to make the announcement at their meetings next Sunday. Bring both your Stamps and Henson books.

FOUR CALVES IN 16 MONTHS

Jim Mitchell of Maple Springs community was in the Union-Banner office Saturday and reported the second set of twin calves from the same cow at his place during the past sixteen months. The cow is about ten or twelve years old and is a mixed Jersey and Holstein. The two calves born in October, 1931, were both males, and one of those born last week was a male and the other a female. Jim says that this old cow is joining President Roosevelt in his drive to relieve the depression.

Appointments Made By Commissioners

Percy Pitts Named County Attorney. I. P. Kennedy, Clerk of Commissioners Court. Road Workers and Overseers Named. Salary of Workers Announced

At a meeting of the Commissioners Court last week a motion was adopted for amendment of the minutes of the court of February 13, 14, and 15, pertaining to the employment of I. P. Kennedy and Percy M. Pitts, as follows:

Whereas, the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama, has adopted a law pertaining to roads, bridges and ferries, and, whereas, there are sundry duties to be performed by the court relative to the peformance and operation of said law, relative to the roads, bridges and ferries of the county and, whereas, the court deems it to be for the best interest and for the proper performance of said laws and their application pertaining to roads, bridges and ferries that a clerk be appointed in and by virtue of Section 157 of the General Acts, 1927, page 391, to perform and carry out, as clerk of the Court all duties, laws and orders of said Commissioners Court under the authority of said Section 157, General Acts 1927, page 391. Be and it is therefore ordered by the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, that I. P. Commissioner J. C. Atkinson nominated I. P. Kennedy for clerk and Jim Mims nominated Ressie Burks. Commissioner Duke and Atchison voted for I. P. Kennedy for clerk, whose duties should be pertaining to roads, bridges and ferries of the county and he was declared duly elected.

The question of the employment of county attorney was brought before the court and it appearing to the court that Mr. Omar L. Reynolds has heretofore been employed by this court as county attorney on or about September 5, 1929, and it now be and it is the judgment of the court that his representation of Chilton County as county attorney be and the same is hereby terminated, effective thirty days after service of notice herein provided. It is hereby ordered that J. E. Cobb, Commissioner, forthwith, serve written notice upon him of the termination of such employment, effective thirty days after service of said notice.

And the further question coming before the court as to the employment of a successor to the said Omar L. Reynolds upon motion of J. C. Atchison, seconded by C. D. Duke, Percy M. Pitts was nominated to the position of county attorney for Chilton County, Alabama, and said motion being placed before the court the same was duly and regularly passed and adopted. And his salary was fixed at $50.00 per month, said compensation to be paid monthly as claims to grand and petit juries are paid, or by presenting a sworn claim to the court on the 1st day of each month, said attorney is charged with the duty of advising the court upon all questions and legal matters arising or coming before the court; it is further ordered that this contract is subject to revocation by said court upon thirty days notice to said attorney.

Salaries of road machine hands was fixed as follows: $2.50 a day for the big tractors and graders; $2.25 a day for the little tractors and graders; $1.50 a day for chunk movers.

The court confirmed the appointment of the following road officials in Mr. Duke's District:

M. Gore, driver of the big 60 tractor; Walter Jones, bladesman; Sam Mitchell, chunk mover; Dudley Tippett, driver of the 50 tractor; Ernest Grant, bladesman; Reese Baker, chunk mover.

Overseers as follows: Beat 4-1, J. A. Thompson; 4-2, Ed Littlejohn, 4-3, Dan McKinnon; west of the railroad in Beat 5, Bennie Dennis; south of Swift Creek in Beat 6, L. C. Keen; east of the railroad in Beat 10, John Cagle; west of the railroad in Beat 10, Bennie Dennis.

In Mr. Atchison's District, the following road workers were appointed and confirmed by the court:

Marion Littlejohn, driver of the 60 tractor; J. R. Bearden, bladesman; Oscar Rominger, chunk mover; Joe Davis, driver of the 30 tractor; W. C. Friday, bladesman.

Overseer west of the Selma Highway in Beat 8, W. M. D. O'Neal; east of the highway, Charlie Mitchell; Beat 7, M. S. McGee.

The court, acting upon a request of several interested citizens, voted to give $850 to Isabella High School to help pay off a debt owed by citizens of the community on the school building.

Sheriff Gillespie requested the court to transfer $1,500 from the general fund of the county to the fine and forfeiture fund. The court did not take any action on this request.

KIWANIS CLUB IS BACKING PICTURE

"Smiling Through" Will Be Shown At The Wadesonian Theater

A picture that will come at the most opportune time to be presented to the people of this section is "Smiling Through" listed as one of the best all-talking motion pictures of the season.

"Smiling Through" will be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton Wednesday and Thursday nights, March 22 and 23, and is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton. Norma Shearer, one of the screen's most beautiful women, takes the leading role in this big picture.

Several members of the Kiwanis Club have seen this picture and it was unanimously decided to bring it to Clanton and give the theatre-goers here an opportunity to see it. It is is truly a picture worth seeing, a picture worth bringing the children to see, and especially will grown folks enjoy it. It is very touching througout, leaving one to wonder from where it derived its title, and yet it will leave one in a clearer frame of mind, touching the heart strings of all.

Proceeds that go to the Kiwanis Club are to be used to continue the work of this organization in Chilton County. Admission price for this picture will be only fifteen and thirty cents. In connection with "Smiling Through" next Wednesday and Thursday nights, there will be short subjects on the screen.

SERVICES AT SAMARIA

There will be preaching at Samaria next Sunday, March 19, at 11 o'clock by the pastor; Sunday school at 10. Preaching again at night at 7:30. The members are urger to be present and the public is cordially invited.

MAPLE SPRINGS CHURCH BURNED

Fire Discovered While Sunday School Was In Progress Last Sunday

While Sunday school was going on at Maple Springs last Sunday morning it was discovered that the building was on fire. When first noticed a space about two feet across on the roof near the stove flue was ablaze, which caught presumably from a spark from the stove. There was no ladder and no buckets at the house, and by the time means to fight the fire were procured it had attained such headway that it could not be checked. However, the piano, books, and nearly all of the benches were saved. The blaze was first discovered about 10:30 and by noon the house was a heap of ashes.

Maple Springs church was organized in 1890. The house was built the following year. Founders and charter members were: Rev. Hardy Jones, H. A. J. Harris, D. F. Jacks and wife, P. R. Devaughn and wife, Rev. W. H. Wilson, Rev. R. H. Long, Fletcher Jones and wife, Joe Jones and wife. The present pastor is Rev. M. Lockhart. O. L. Devaughn is clerk, and the deacons are: J. B. Hayes, Ellis Mims and O. L. Devaughn.

No definite program has been mapped out for re-building, and probably will not be at the present, but assurance is made by the leaders of the community that services will be held at some improvised place until another building can be erected.

The church clerk has issued the announcement that regular monthly services will be held next Saturday and Sunday. Saturday at 11 o'clock there will be preaching by the pastor at the home of Jim Mitchell. Sunday services will be held at the Thomas Junior High school building; Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11. The singing society will meet there at 2 in the afternoon.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY HELD MEETING AT CHURCH

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church held its regular meeting in the ladies parlor on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. J. C. Jones, president, presided and conducted devotional services. After business discussion, Mrs. Reid Mullins gave a report of the day spent at the Missionary Conference at Selma recently.

The mission study chapter was discussed in a most instructive and inspiring manner by Mrs. J. Q. Wade. High points in the discussion were as follows: "Our lives are known and read of men—we cannot hide our personality, for the secret of the Lord is with them that fear Him." Mrs. Edgar will have charge of the study next week.

MRS. NETTIE TRACY LITTLETON

Mrs. Nettie Tracy Littleton, age 48 years, wife of Mrs. Joe Littleton, died last Friday night. She was buried Sunday at Center Hill. The deceased is survived by her husband. She was the daughter of Pinckard Tracy.

BEN F. MIMS DIED HERE ON TUESDAY

Body Carried Back To Birmingham For Burial On Wednesday

Benjamin Franklin Mims, age 42 years, died Tuesday, March 14, at the home of his brother, J. Z. Mims, in South Clanton. The body was prepared for burial by J. Mell Martin & Sons. Funeral was conducted by Dr. S. J. Ezell, at Clanton Baptist church Wednesday morning. Burial was at Valhalla Cemetery, Birmingham, Wednesday afternoon, with Masonic rites.

The deceased was a son of W. A. Mims, of Falakto. He was born and reared here, and has been in Birmingham with the Woodward Iron Company for the past eighteen years. He was not married.

He is survived by his father; five brothers, Albert, of Birmingham, Oscar, of Brighton, J. Z.. of Clanton, Chester, of Clanton, and Dacil, of Bessemer; three sisters, Mrs. A. C. Dunlap, of Clanton ,Mrs. W. J. Coggins of Clanton, and Mrs. Tom Parrish of Clanton.

CROP LOAN BLANKS NOW READY

County Agent Stapp started Monday morning of this week taking applications for crop production loans through both the crop production loan office and the Regional Agricultural Corporation Bank at Montgomery. For this purpose Mr. Stapp will remain at his office every day for the next two or three weeks, aiding farmers in making their applications.

Mr. Stapp urges all farmers who can possibly do so to make their own individual arrangements for loans, as the object of the plan of the credit corporation and the crop production loan system is to help those farmers who can not obtain the necessary aid elsewhere.

FOUR ARRESTS PAST WEEK

The business holiday of the past few days reflects itself in what seems to have been a cessation of law violations, as the report from the Sheriff's office accounts for only four arrests the past week, as follows:

One for abusive language; one for petit larceny; one for driving a car while intoxicated; one for assault.

The jail register Tuesday night showed a total of ewelve prisoners in confinement.

WOODMEN MEETING POSTPONED

The state head camp meeting of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Association for members in Alabama, which was to be held at Birmingham on March 17 and 18 has been postponed, according to an announcement by De E. Bradshaw, president. The date for the meeting will not be set until general conditions have been clarified.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TO BE ORGANIZED AT JACKSON CHAPEL SOON

On Sunday, March 19, at 10 a.m., a meeting will be held at Jackson Chapel schoolhouse, for the purpose of organizing a Sunday school. All who are interested are urged to attend.—Virgil G. Smith.

HOME-MAKERS MEET FRIDAY

The Home-Makers Class will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Grady Heflin.

This is a special meeting and all the members are especially urged to be present.

CLANTON BANKS ARE OPEN AGAIN

Normal Operations Resumed On Wednesday Of This Week

The banks of Clanton opened their doors for resumption of normal business operations again Wednesday morning, acting under authority granted by the Federal Reserve System and the Alabama State Banking Department. The institutions had been closed under the national banking holiday since the first of March.

With the reopening of the banks, every local business took on a new spirit of activity and confidence. Everybody displayed a broad smile backed by the assurance that our banks are sound, and that our business dealings with them are to be continued without further interruption.

The people of Clanton and Chilton County, along with the people all over the country, are to be congratulated upon the steady nerve they displayed while going through the greatest crisis ever experienced. There has been no expression or demonstration of opposition to the firm manner in which our recognized authorities have taken hold of the serious situation. Our people have manifested confidence that the outcome would be satisfactory and to the best interests of everybody. All are happy that this confidence has been rewarded by a hasty resumption of normal banking operations, with the assurance and backing of our government authorities.

In this paper will be found a statement from each of our local banks. We urge you to read what they say.

According to information in the state newspaper dispatches Wednesday morning, the banks at Thorsby and Maplesville were also authorized to re-open for normal business Wednesday morning. Thus every bank in Chilton County is placed on a normal operating basis once more, which is a most gratifying fact to the citizens of our county.

MINER INFANT DIED

Ara Miner, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Miner died last Saturday afternoon. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery Sunday. Funeral by Rev. Clements at the Foursquare church of Clanton.

BANK RATING BY FEDERAL RESERVE

To Determine Which Are Sound and Which Are Not

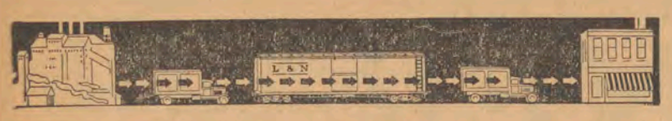
In the Washington column of the Birmingham News Tuesday afternoon there was a paragraph discussing the rating of banks for reopening by the Federal Reserve system, as follows;

The Federal Reserve banks will come pretty close to dictating which banks are sound and which are not in the re-classification of white, gray or black. No hard and fast rule will be laid down, but in essence any bank whose depositors are covered 100 per cent by assets acceptable as collateral to its regional Federal Reserve Bank will be permitted to reopen without restrictions. Sixty to ninety per cent solvency in terms of deposits will probably earn a borderline rating. A lower degree of solvency means nothing doing.

In effect this bill will amount to a guarantee by the Federal Reserve Banks of the soundness of the reopened institutions. It should be more effective in restoring confidence than a government guarantee. No matter what governors may do, state banks will not reap the advantages of this moral backing unless they join the federal reserve system. Hence the fevered rush in that direction. It's a case where moral suasion works better than a club.

Another result of this method will be peaceful progress toward a unified system with fewer but stronger banks. The future drift of free deposits will naturally be away from the black and gray banks into those which are opened immediately. There need be no element of coercion in the gradual elimination of all but the best.

About 40 New York bank executives have gone to Washington to help in the rating process. They are men who have had close contact with corresopndent banks—both national and state—and they know more about these correspondents than even the bank examiners. Their judgment will be accepted as final in many cases.



No More Danger of Late Shipments Or Loss Through Irresponsible Handling

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad is conducting a door-to-door delivery, contracting with bonded local transfer companies who will pick up less-than-carload freight shipments at the shipper's place of business, deliver to L. & N. freight depots, signing bills of lading and, at destination, other responsible transfer companies will collect charges and deliver shipment direct to the door of the consignee.

For complete details of this service call or 'phone nearest L. & N. freight agent or representative.

This is the first time that any major trunk line in the south has offered this modern, safe, convenient and speedy method of transportation.

IRISH POTATOES POINTERS GIVEN

Auburn, Ala., March 14.—Unusual interest in the spring crop of Irish potatoes for home use is being manifested throughout the state, according to Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

He reports having received many requests on proper methods of potato culture from persons who are this year realizing more than ever before the need of producing sufficient food for home use.

"There are several good varieties of Irish potatoes but the Bliss Triumph seems to be best onder most conditions for the spring crop," he said. "Northwestern - grown certified seed should, if possible, be secured."

He stressed the importance of selecting good soil and said that the rows should be bedded out three feet apart and the potatoes dropped about 16 inches apart in a water furrow except on low wet land where they should be planted on light beds. The seed should be covered about 3 to 5 inches with deep furrows of a turnploy, he added.

As a fertilizer, he recommend a mixture consisting of 650 pounds of superphosphate, 75 pounds nitrate of soda, 200 pounds of amonium sulphate, 100 pounds of cottonseed meal, and 175 pounds of muriate of potash per acre, to one applied in the drill and mixed with the soil before planting. Due to the economic conditions many farmers may wish to apply the mixture at a lower rate per acre, he said.

He emphasized the importance of using large seed pieces, recommending that the seed be cut into pieces weighing one ounce each, with each piece carrying at least one good eye and preferably two. By using this size seed pieces and spacing as suggested 11½ bushels of seed will be required for planting each acre, he said.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

COTTON CONSUMPTION

World consumption of all kinds of cotton during the first half of the present season totaled approximately 12,067,000 bales according to preliminary estimates of the cotton exchange service as against 11,660,000 in the first half of last season and 100,979,000 two seasons ago. That the world used American cotton at a relatively very high rate during the past six months is shown by the fact that American cotton contributed 56.6 per cent of all cotton consumed as against 52.5 per cent during the first half of last season and 49 per cent two seasons ago.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

In Holland and Belgium milk is frequently delivered to the market in dog carts.

Much progress has been made in recent years in transportation and delivery of milk. Milk cars and trucks glass lined tanks, thermos cans, glass and paper bottles and other improvements have revolutionized milk delivery.

In sections of Spain, Portugal, and Mexico, milk often reaches the door step in its original container. The dairy farmer without pomp or ceremony leads his cow to the door where she is milked directly into the customer's container, overhead items of delivery wagons and milk bottles both being eliminated by this system of delivery.

In certain sections of Spain there is a very interesting custom regarding milk. When the newly born babe arrives its hands are washed in milk with the hope that it will always be meek and gentle. This custom may have some discrepency in the event the boy baby is destined to become a bull fighter.

COTTONSEED MEAL LIVESTOCK FEEDER

Auburn, Ala., March 14.—The importance of cottonseed meal as a feed for farm animals is being emphasized not only because of its value as a feed but also because stocks of this important farm product are accumulating.

F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, said that cottonseed meal should not constitute over 9 per cent of the ration for hogs and not over 10 per cent of the ration for horses and mules. At the same time, he gave a menu for 1933, for dairy cows showing the amount of feed it would be necessary to raise at home in order to give a cow proper feed for one year.

This menu follows: 3 tons of silage, 1 ton of legume hay, 2 acres permanent pasture, 15 bushels of corn, 15 bushels of oats, 500 pounds of wheat bran, and 500 pounds of cottonseed meal.

He emphasized the importance of proper feeding for dairy cows, saying that more Alabama dairy cows fail to pay reasonable profit because of being improperly fed than for any other reason. He urged farmers to estimate their feed needs and begin now to plant crops and improve pastures in order to have sufficient homegrown feed.

The menu for 1933 contains enough feed to produce 750 gallons of milk or 300 pounds of butterfat if reasonably good cows are used, he said.

County agents throughout the state are stressing the importance of keeping the feed dollars at home by growing sufficient feed for the dairy cows hogs, work animals, and other livestock on the place.

JOHNSON INFIRMARY

Mary Driver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Driver, got her arm broken Saturday evening by cranking a car. She was immediately rushed to Dr. Arthur Johnson's Infirmary where her arm was set and splints applied.

Theo Wilson, son of Comar Wilson, had his tonsils removed Monday.

The child of Mr. H. B. Esco was injured on the head Monday afternoon while pitching horse shoes. He was carried to the infirmary where treatment was rendered and lock jaw serum given.

LOCAL INSPECTOR READY TO HELP FARMERS APPLY FOR LOAN

Regulations for 1933, governing the crop production loans have been issued by the secretary of agriculture and are now available to farmers in this county upon request to U. H. Prickett, field inspector of the crop production loan office. Mr. Prickett's office is in the county agent's office at Clanton, Ala.

Instead of writing to Washington or to one of the regional loan offices, Mr. Prickett announced, farmers can obtain the necessary application blanks for loans, and detailed information about the requirements, direct from him. Applications will then be reviewed by the county advisory committee, then certified and forwarded to the regional office at Memphis, Tenn., for final approval and action.

The regulations this year specify that only those who cannot get loans elsewhere are eligible for loans from the $90,000,000 fund authorized by congress. Loans can be used only for crop production, and require the borrower to reduce his acreage of cash crops 30 per cent under last year, unless he does not intend to plant more than 8 acres of cotton, 2½ acres of tobacco, 8 acres of peanuts, 20 acres of corn, 12 acres of sugar beets, 2½ acres of truck crops, 8 acres of potatoes, 30 acres of rice or 40 acres of wheat.

The maximum permitted to any one borrower this year is $300; or, in the case of tenants, the total of all loans to tenants of any one landlord within a single county cannot exceed $1,200. The actual amount advanced by the authorities will depend upon the borrower's requirements.

A first lien or mortgage on the crop will be required. The regulations require that loans be repaid on or before October 31, 1933. Interest at 5½ per cent, deducted in advance, will be charged.

Since the loans call for first lien on the crop as security, the borrower frequently has to procure waivers from prior mortgages or rights. If the applicant is a tenant, or is farming land under contract for deed or so-called crop contract, or has given a prior mortgage on his 1933 crops, the regulations state he must secure the waivers of the actual owners of the land, and or all prior mortgage holders. If the applicant is the owner of the land and farms it with tenants or share croppers, waivers of such tenants or share croppers must be secured. The regulations further specify that the person waiving his prior rights must agree not to dispense of his rent note, mortgage, or other security without first having obtained the written consent of a duly authorized agent of the secretary of agriculture.

The regulations make it unlawful for any person to dispose of or assist in disposing of any crops given as security for any crop loan, except for the account of the secretary of agriculture and provide for fine and imprisonment for violation of such regulation. The regulations also require that each borrower agree to plant a garden for his home use and sufficient acreage to furnish feed for his livestock.

MAPLESVILLE 4-H CLUB

On the 6th day of February, a small group of boys met and organized a 4-H club. The small number has now increased to twenty. The members on roll are:

Charles Parnell, Melton Wallace, Horace Wallace, J. E. Wallace, John Goff, Jr., Frank Brown, Rash Brown, Crayton Deramus, Jim Boykin, Oliver Headley, Tommie Headley, H. M. Nix, Jr., J. P. Payne, Jr., Oliver Mize, Elvin Atchison, Edward Hayes. Billie Smitherman, Henry Smitherman, George Kaiser, Tommie Williams.

Officers of the club are:

President, H. M. Nix, Jr.; vice president, Charles Parnell; secretary and treasurer, Jim Boykin; reporters, Crayton Reramus and Oliver Mize.

Since we have organized, we have had three meeting, with good attendance and good order. We have had two business meetings and one social. The former were held at Jim Boykin's and Charles Parnell's. The latter at H. M. Nix's house. At the social we were highly honored by the presence of Dr. F. G. Dubose and Mr. John Maples. These gentlemen made some interesting and inspiring talks that were greatly enjoyed by all.

The reporters have been having hard luck in getting in their reports, but we will try harded to get them in in the future. — Reporters, Crayton Deramus and Oliver Mize.

FERTILIZER SALES ARE OFF

Fertilizer sales in Alabama to March 10 showed a 10 per cent decrease from sales to the same date last year, reports Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture.

W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the department of agriculture, released a comparative statement of fertilizer tag sales showing that 47,400 tons have been sold to date this year compared with 52,400 tons to the same date last year. To March 10, 1931, over 119,550 tons had been sold.

Lesson for March 19

THE EFFECTS OF ALCOHOLIC DRINKS

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 23:29-32; Isaiah 28:1-4; Daniel 5:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder. Proverbs 23:32.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The House I Live In.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Ruled Himself.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Dangerous Enemy.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Curse of Intemperance.

I. The Effect of Alcohol Upon the Individual (Prov. 23:29-32).

1. Woes of those who indulge in wine (vv. 29, 30). No more graphic description of the evils of the winebibber has ever been given. It portrays in the most impressive manner the miseries that mark the drunkard's life. There are six of them.

a. Awful pain, causing them to cry out.

b. Bitter remorse. Many are the expressions of bitter regret upon the lips of the drunkard.

c. Strife and quarreling. The drunken man is always ready for a fight. He takes offense as well as gives it.

d. Complaining. The winebibber complains of everything, ill luck, broken fortune, ruined health, loss of friends, and even of God.

e. Wounds without cause. He has many wounds which might have been avoided—from fights in which a sober man would not have been engaged and from accidents which result from intoxication.

f. Redness of eyes, the bloodshot eyes of the tippler.

2. The drunkard's bitter end (vv. 32-35).

a. Acute miseries (v. 32.) "It biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder." Strong drink, like the poison of the serpent, permeates the whole being, causing suffering and death.

b. Perversion of the moral senses (v. 33.) This excitement causes the eyes to behold strange things, fantastic images which are produced on the brain of the drunkard. The heart also utters perverse things.

c. He is insensible to danger. The drunkard is foolhardy in his acts.

d. He is insensible to pain (v. 35). He has many bruises and wounds for which he cannot account.

e. He is in abject bondage (v. 35). He is a bond slave to the ways of sin.

f. Hell at last, for no drunkard shall enter the kingdom of heaven (I Cor. 6:10).

3. The attitude enjoined (v. 31). It is "look not at it." Total abstinence is the only safe attitude toward strong drink.

II. Effect of Alcohol Upon the Nation (Isa. 28:1-4).

Just as indulgence in intoxicating drinks brings ruin to the individual, so it destroys the nation. God pronounced judgment upon Israel because of the sin of drunkenness (v. 1). Samaria was the capital city, therefore stands for the nation. Drunkenness seems to have been a national sin at this time (Isa. 5:11, 12; 7:5; Amos 2:6, 8, 12; 4:1; 6:6). Samaria's position was an enviable one; the whole nation was proud of her. The crown of pride whose beauty had been so marked was now fading through the blighting effects of drunkenness. Even as ruin came upon Israel, so will God visit judgment upon America for its drunkenness. The instrument by which the punishment of Israel was effected was the Assyrian (v. 2). The imagery of this verse shows that destruction was sudden, swift, and irresistible.

III. The Effect of Alcohol Upon National Rulers (Daniel 5:1-4).

Belshazzar's impious feast is an outstanding example of the effect of alcohol upon rulers. Note—

1. The attendants at the feast (vv. 1, 2). There were present Belshazzar the king, his wife and concubines, and a thousand of his lords.

2. Their behavior (vv. 3, 4).

a. They drank wine.

b. They committed sacrilege. They drank wine out of sacred vessels which had been taken out of the Temple, the house of God at Jerusalem.

c. They worshiped idols. They prayed to gods of gold and silver, of brass, or iron, wood, and stone, and challenged the rule of the living God. With the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment will come not only national disgrace but the loss of that high standard which has as a rule characterized American rulership from the President to the humblest civil officer. One shrinks from the contemplation of what awaits our nation in its determination to legalize the intoxicating cup.

GAME AND FISHERIES

Florence, Ala., March 14.—A snow goose from the icy regions of Canada has become a good omen to the dwellers of this section of Alabama who have waited eleven years to see their dreams for Muscle Shoals come true.

'Exactly eleven years ago this white goose alighted along the reaches of the Tennessee river with a flock of wild geese from Canada. For six consecutive years it visited this fertile valley to escape the chill of winter in the north.

Then five years ago, when President Coolidge vetoed the Muscle Shoals bill, it failed to appear when the rest of the Canada geese flew down and the old timers expressed fear it had been the target of some hunter.

Two years later, however, the snow goose showed up again, but last year, when another Muscle Shoals bill was vetoed by President Hoover, it failed to return. About two weeks ago, just when the Muscle Shoals district was beginning to despair, Dr. Charles B. Bray of Birmingham, reported that he had seen what he believed to be the snow goose near the mouth of Elk river, immediately above Muscle Shoals.

With this report, the story revived that the snow goose began its visits eleven years ago when Muscle Shoals first came into prominence and now the inhabitants of this area are looking forward to its return next year to celebrate the opening of the government plant as decreed by President Roosevelt.

Montgomery, Ala., March 14.—From all parts of the state reports have reached the Alabama Department of Game and Fisheries that rabbits are getting in the way of motorists and even pedestrians.

One motorist driving down from Birmingham reported no less than six scampered across the highway in the glare of his automobile's headlights. Other persons have killed rabbits merely by tossing rocks at them or by weilding a walking stick.

At this time of the year, it is not uncommon to find a group of negroes rousting out rabbits by burning off sedge grass. As the rabbits scurry into the open, they nail them with their sticks and clubs.

Hunters, as a rule, were true sportsmen during the season just closed, observed Warden Augustus Oberhaus of Mobile.

"They showed more respect for the law than in many seasans," he said. "The meanest game law violator is the fellow who chases deer and other game animals with flashes and headlights.

"I hope Senator John Craft's bill taking care of the situation in that respect, will be passed by the legislature."

WHAT IS A TREE

Montgomery, Ala., March 14.—There is no definitely established rule as to what sort of a plant constitutes a tree, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry. To individual minds the term tree may convey quite different meanings. The most general agreement seems to be on the point that a tree must be of woody growth.

Most people, however, will admit that woody plants may comprise both trees and shrubs, and that it is often difficult to determine in which group a particular species or specimen should be placed. This difficulty arises from the fact that in deciding what is a tree there must be considered not only the woody nature of its substance but also its form. Thus en erect, single-stemmed woody plant may be regarded as a tree, while a woody plant that sends up several stems from the ground may be termed a shrub.

However, a third consideration enters at this point. Few people would designate as a shrub a many-stemmed woody plant fifty feet in height. On the other hand a single-stemmed specimen but one foot in height might be excluded from classification as a tree. It is clear that the element of size has an important bearing.

The best solution of the question appears to lie in the adoption of two separate criteria, both to be applied with a limiting factor of usefulness. Thus a single-stemmed erect woody plant of a sufficient size when mature to be of use for shade or for economic purposes may be called a tree, and a many-stemmed specimen, one or more stems of which may serve the same purposes as the former, may be given the same rank.

POPLAR SPRINGS

First of all we wish to give Maple Springs community a special invitation to come to our church at any time. We are very sorry of their misfortune that happened last Sunday. The church was destroyed by fire about noon. We want them to know they have our sympathy. We would be glad to have them come and join our sing class and also other sevices.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are doing fine since the weather is some brighter.

We had a large crowd at both services Sunday; and the singing was extra fine Sunday night. If you don't believe we can sing, come and hear us some time.

Our singing class meets next Sunday at 9:30. Don't forget the time, and don't forget the date. Bring your new 1933 song books.—Secretary and Treasurer.

THE WORD OF GOD

(By R. L. Huffman)

"The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul; the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple." Psa. 19:7.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Psa. 119: 105.

"The entrance of thy word giveth light; it giveth understanding unto the simple." Psa. 119:130.

"Order my steps in thy word: and let not any iniquity have dominion over me." Psa. 119:133.

"Thy word is very pure: therefore thy servant loveth it." Psa. 119:140.

"Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and thy law is the truth." Psa. 119:142.

"It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life." Jno. 6:63.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Jno. 8:32.

"Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth." Jno. 17:17.

"Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word." Jno. 17:20.

"For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." Rom. 1:16.

"In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation." Eph. 1:13.

"But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you." I Pt. 1:25.

"And the spirit and the bride say, come. And let him that heareth say, come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely." Rev. 22:17.

"All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." II Tim. 3:16-17.

"But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed." Gal. 1:8.

"For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, if any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book." Rev. 22:18-19.

The above scriptures are quoted to show the sufficiency of the Bible and its indispensibility to the welfare of humanity. No one can take the Bible as the counsel of his life to believe it, obey it, and trust in God, its author, and miss heaven for an eternal home. Its quickening, light-giving, faith-producing power regenerates new life in those who receive its message in meekness. (Jas. 1:21.) Its power to purify the soul, cleanse the heart and furnish grace when obeyed, is God's power to save. It is not only a lamp, but a light also. It contains the light-giving power of the spirit of God. (Jno. 6:63.) Those who are led by it are led by the spirit. Its power is God's power; its grace is God's grace; its spirit is God's spirit; its completeness is God's completeness to save and endure forever.

The easiest way to miss heaven is to disbelieve or disregard the Bible, and build up something in its stead. —R. L. Huffman.

ABOUT ELDER BLOSSOM

Last week's issure of The Union-Banner brought us a wonderful sermon on, "The Wells Without Water." I think he struck the keynote when he spoke of wells without water are church folks without power for good. Many members of our churches come during the big meetings and stay off until the next summer. They are wells without water.

Elder Blossom is a well that flows all the time. I am very well acquainted with him and I think his sermons in our dear old Union-Banner make it a much better paper. I always look for his sermons first, and I feel like that he is preaching to thousands of people every week. I would like to pass my paper to someone that does not take it and say, "Friend, read Elder Blossom's sermon and then run your hand down in your jeans and get $1.50 and send it to The Union-Banner offire and read Elder Blossom's sermons every week."—A Reader.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Parrish of Lock 18 visited friends at Mitchell Dam last Saturday night.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

President Roosevelt has succeeded in spité of physical handicaps.

All men who have made a success in life have had to overcome handicaps. Possibly the most physically handicapped man in public life that America ever produced was Benjamin Brewster, who was attorney-general during President Harrison's administration. Brewster had a face so painfully scarred and deformed that women would shudder when they looked at him, and men hesitated to eat at the same table with him.

When Brewster's attorney-generalship expired he was practicing law in the city of Philidelphia. He represented a corporation. The case dragged for days. Brewster matched his brain against the brain of an inferior lawyer. When the time came for the inferior lawyer to make his speech he said, "Gentlemen of the jury, the corporation represented by the attorney in this case is as black as the attorney's face." Poor scarred, deformed Benjamin Brewster stood up in all the dignity of his wonderful manhood and said, "May it please the court, gentlemen of the jury, I have been in public life for a long time and this is the first time attention has ever been called to my physical deformity. When I was a little child my mother, God bless her, said I was a beautiful child. I was playing before the open fireplace with my little sister. She fell into the fire. I leaped in to rescue her. Not a hair of her little head was singed, but when I got out of the fire my face was as black as this lawyer's heart." It has been said that this inferior lawyer was forced to leave Philidelphia after this because of lack of prestige and influence. Benjamin Brewster succeeded in spite of handicaps.

Paul had a thorn in the flesh. Every man has some thorn in his flesh. There is but one of two alternatives for every human being. We have to conquer or to be conquered. We have conquor or to be conquored. We have to be victors or victims. The smaller the thing that masters, the greater the reflection upon us. The Bible teaches that our hope of victory in every temptation and struggle is in Jesus Christ, our Lord.

LOMAX NEWS

By R. E. L. Ward

The speech of President Roosevelt, which was broadcast Sunday night at nine o'clock, was enjoyed by several at Mr. A. A. Jackson's store. The president explained why it was necessary that the banks be put on a safer system.

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

Our Sunday School and prayer services are progresing nicely, and we are increasing in number every Sunday. Our Pastor was not with us last Sunday as it was his regular appointment at Union Grove. We sure do miss him when he is not with us, but he has other work to do at other places for the Master and his very soul seems to be in the interest of the flocks that are in his care as a pastor of the church. Our pastor, Rev. J. R. Bean, is doing a great work in this church.

We are glad to know that little Norma Gene Gillespie is back at home after a stay of about two weeks in the Central Alabama Hospital. She underwent an operation for appendicitis, under the skillful hands of Dr. V. J. Gragg. Mrs. Gillespie seems to be very happy that her bright little girl is at home and on the road to health. She will soon be able to take her place in Sunday School again.—H. F. McCary.

Judge L. H. Reynolds has begun the building of a group of new residences on his property north of Clanton near the cotton mill.

Sam Pate, of Thorsby, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. For many years Mr. Pate was a familiar figure in Clanton while he was Tax Assessor. He is now actively engaged as manager of Thorsby Hardware Co.

Give your Order to any Telephone worker

. . . . . IT is easy to have telephone service in your home. And it is not necessary to visit the Telephone Office to arrange for the installation.

You probably have a friend, perhaps a neighbor, who is a telephone worker. You need not hesitate to talk with him about your telephone requirements. After all, he and the many other men and women like him compose what is known as the Telephone Company.

Remember that telephone service costs only a few cents a day; a small sum compared to the convenience and protection it offers to every member of your family.

Any telephone worker—operator, lineman, clerk or other employe, will quote rates and give you information about the service. They will be glad to take your order, too. Talk it over with your telephone friend today.

LAY DAM

(By Elery Hansen)

Fire, that ever-present menace, again struck our camp after a lapse of about three years. This time, at about 9:30 Monday morning, February 6, our school house caught fire from some unknown cause and burned to the ground.

School was in session and no one noticed the fire until the flames began to break through the ceiling. The children all left the building with very little confusion, and the men in camp were able to remove all the equipment before the roof caved in. School has been resumed in two of the houses that were vacant at the time.

Again we have reason to feel proud of our Boy Scouts Troop. The boys were awarded a loving cup, for having the highest rating for the past six months. There are 31 troops in the Central Alabama Council and the first troop to win the cup three times takes permanent possession.

This cup is awarded by Mr. Blount, a past president of the Council and is given to inspire the troops to become more efficient in their scout work.

E. W. Lakeman deserves a great deal of credit for the wonderful work he has been doing since taking over the duties of scout master.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ware and Joe, Jr., and Miss Ethel Ware, of Birmingham, were visitors in camp the past week end.

Since the last issue of POWERGRAMS we have cut in a new potential transformer on our Lay Dam-Jackson Shoals 110 kv. line. This gives us the right-of-way on two 110 kv. lines, which should be of great help to us during the lightning season.—Powergrams.

IN REGARD TO CENTER HILL

We wish to say a few words in regard to the great kindness of the people of the Center Hill comunity during the burial of Mrs. Nettie Littleton at their church Sunday.

We were all strangers at their church, but we were received with great kindness and in a wonderfully friendly and comforting manner. Rev. J. E. George and B. L. Cobb were of especially great comfort to us and willingly took the great burden of preparation for the ceremony from our shoulders and hearts.

Just a word in regard to the young folks: They were a help and comfort to a greater extent than even they themselves can realize. In other words we received at their church great friendliness, wonderful kindness and deep sympathy.—Thankful Relatives.

BASKET BALL TEAM OF JEMISON GIVEN BANQUET AT SCHOOL

The boys basket ball team of Jemison High School were entertained with a banquet by the school in the home economics department Wednesday night.

The tables were beautifully decorated with school colors, black and gold streamers and center pieces of yellow butter crepe. The meal was prepared and served by the students of the home economics department.

Mr. J. A. Peterson gave an inspiring toast to the team and coach. Mr. J. T. Cobb captain of the team responded in a most grateful manner. Miss Mabel Grissom of the music department rendered several selections on the piano. This was followed by a clever reading by Miss Margaret Turnbloom. The young ladies of the party were asked to write words of encouragement in telegram form to the team. The young men replied to these messages. Two surprise quartets were rendered.

In addition to the team the following were guests: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Zane Turner, Mr. J. P. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Seamon Reynolds, Miss Miriam Harvey, Mr. J. R. Ekblad, Miss Mabel Grissom, Mr. Bob Montgomery, Miss Vonzelle Atkinson, Miss Marion Adams, Miss Josephine Adams, Miss Charles Frances Glass.

The meal was efficiently served by the following girls: Misses Margaret Turnbloom, Ruth Glass, Virginia Price, Mary Allison Sims, Winnie Bee Davis and Gladys Cobb.

BUT YOU DON'T

Tell me where you worship God on Sunday, and I will tell you the kind of a Chhristian you are.

You can worship God in your home Sunday. But you don't.

You can worship God in the woods, and in the fields. But you don't.

You can worship God on the lakes and on the rivers. But you don't.

You con worship God on the road, in the automobile or in the buggy. But you don't.

You can worship God in a different church each Sunday morning. But you don't.

You can worship God in your lodge and neglect the church. But you don't.

You can worship God by sending the children to Sunday School and staying at home. But you don't.

You can worship God by going to church and taking the children with you. But do you?—The Baptist Reporter.

Marie Giles and daughter, Tommie Dean, and Ruth Giles spent Saturday night at the home of J. J. Foshee in Mt. Pisgah community.

To Our Depositors

It is a great pleasure to us to again open for business and to resume our normal banking service.

We know that our patrons have been inconvenienced by the enforced holiday during the recent crisis. This we regret, but we assure you it was beyond our control. It has been our pleasure to cooperate to the fullest extent with both the national and state authorities. It is our opinion that the holiday has served for the best interest of all concerned. We offer our congratulations to the President of the United States, our Governor and our Superintendent of Banks upon the happy outcome.

We thank our patrons for their kind indulgence during this emergency. We have seen no evidence of dissatisfaction among our customers, and this spirit of cooperation we appreciate.

One of our fundamental principles has been to serve our customers with "Safety First." We are prepared to continue this same service that we have been rendering for thirteen years. We thank you for your past confidence in us. Your loyal support has made it possible for us to merit your confidence by giving you a sound and serviceable institution in which to place your funds. Through this crisis we have been able to come out with the endorsement of the United States government assuring our customers that your bank is one hundred per cent sound.

We will be pleased to serve you henceforthh in the same manner as of the past. We again thank our patrons for their patience and cooperation and express the hope that our pleasant relationships will continue indefinitely.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

John A. Lindquist Dies

Just as the shades of night were falling last Sunday, the spirit and the body of John A. Lindquist parted company at the Chilton County almshouse, where he had been carried just a week before. He was a bachelor 3 days less than 74 years old. He was born in Sweden and came to America when a young man, and to Thorsby in the early days of its organization. He always lived alone, earning his living chiefly by working for other people. He was a great reader of historical, biographical, religious and educational works, and could talk fluently and often interestingly on a great variety of subjects.

He had many pecularities, but was essentially a kindly man, and one having a keen sense of honor, even in small things. Because they did not know him well, many believed him an atheist, which was far from the truth. He knew and loved his Bible and sought to govern his life by its precepts, and by doing so, gained the good will of all who knew him. He did not believe in all the dogmas of present day churches and was not slow to state his objections. The fact that he had friends in Thorsby was manifest at his burial in the Thorsby cemetery last Monday afternoon, when upwards of thirty, mostly elderly and substantial citizens of Thorsby met to give him a Christian burial, led by Rev. J. E. Each, pastor of Thorsby Congregational church, with scripture reading and prayer and a beautiful duet sung by Mrs. Foss and her sister, Miss Naemi Turnquist.

Card of Thanks

We, the undersigned, desire to publicly express our deep appreciation of the many courtesies and kind deeds shown us during our recent bereavement and funeral of our devoted friend, Mrs. J. P. Sorenson. We were greatly cheered by the beautiful and simple services at the Congregational church, the consoling words of Rev. Each, the prayer by Rev. Butler and the beautiful singing by a picked quartet composed of singers from three denominations. We were simply amazed that so many were in attendance on a few hours notice. We sincerely appreciate the hospitality and assistance of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Peterson during our stay in Thorsby, and the good will and sympathy of all with whom we came in contact. — Mr. and Mrs. Jorgen S. Brink, Chicago, Ill.

It is expected that the girls glee club of Thorsby will sing as a part of the program of the Big Brothers Bible Class at Montgomery Sunday mornnig. As the program will be broadcast from station WSFA, Montgomery, all who are interested are requested to tune in at 9:30 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson entertained at dinner Friday Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Brink of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Peterson.

We are sorry to report that Miss Caroline Skinnis is so ill as to be confined to her bed the past week.

Mr. J. H. Wilson met with an accident last Friday morning while cutting wood, which deprived him of the fore finger of his left hand. He is reported to be making good recovery.

Mrs. Walter Morgan, daughter and Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg and Miss Pauline Sorrell all of Birmingham are spending a few days with the Sobergs. Mr. M. J. Soberg, who has been very ill the past week, is reported to be improved.

The Regular Loyal Helpers of the Congregational Sunday school, Miss Lois Primm, teacher, entertained Saturday from 5 to 7:30 the Queen Esther Sunday school class, Miss Jenkins teacher. A hike and weiner roast with other refreshments were very much enjoyed.

Next Saturday night the Helen Kellar Literary Society will have an open meeting at 7:30. The Thorsby Band has kindly consented to play four numbers. The Thorsby Institute Boys' quartet, consisting of Hal Broadhead, J. T. Faircloth, Phares Raybon and Leo Spivey will make their first appearance in public.

A debate on taxation will be interesting. Lois Thompson, Carl Ekblad and Mary Bratton and Conway Thornburgh will be the debaters. Everyone is invited. Admission ten cents for all not T. I. students or teachers or members of the band. Though the band made no request for any recompense for playing, the school will share half of the proceeds with the band in order to encourage them in their work.

Vivian Lowery of Clanton was a week end visitor at the home of her grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Lowery in Thorsby.

"How far have you and your wife got in your plan to purchase a new auto?"

"We've got to the point where we don't speak."

Willie—We had raisin pie for dinner last night and pa was terribly mad.

Jimmie—What was the matter? Doesn't he like raisin pie?

Willie—No, that wasn't it, but he had bought the raisins to make some wine.

Beautiful Dinner Gown

"The Enchantress" is the appropriate title for this dinner gown. It is of silk chiffon and is worn over a silk slip having a scalloped yoke. The fishtail back is an interesting development of the skirt.

To Our Friends And Customers

Acting under license granted by the Alabama State Banking Department, The Peoples Savings Bank is again open for regular business.

This most unusual emergency has necessarily created serious hardships. Officers and directors of this bank wish to express appreciation for the patience and wholehearted cooperation shown by their many friends and customers during the natonal moratorium called by the President of the United States.

We have now passed through the most severe financial emergency ever confronting the people of America, and only the highest praise is due the residents of Chilton County for the courageous and patriotic way in which they met it.

According to the result of the debate in chapel last Wednesday, men of action are more beneficial to mankind than men of thought. The question: Resolved, that men of thought are more beneficial to mankind than men of action, was a fifty-fifty question; but the negative side presented by Dixie Johnson and Helen Roberts, of the Senior I class won the decision of the judges, Miss Josephine Martin, Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin and Mr. Walker.

It seemed as if the days of the wild west with their whooping cowboys and painted redskins were revived here last Friday. But there was no cause for any alarm whatsoever, because the four painted students with their grotesque decorations were only the new members that the science club were initiating. Very interesting and lenghty speeches were made in chapel by these baby utopians. The four students thus honored by a membership in the science club were Roberta Cochran, Helen Moore, Frances Rasberry and Virgil Robinson.

Do you know that:

Chilton County has only 3 square miles of water and 713 square miles of land.

In Chilton County, according to the 1920 census there were only 61 manufacturing establishments.

In 1920 there were in Chilton County 4,829 families living in 4,761 houses. Of these houses, 2,343 were owned and 2,418 were rented.

Clanton has an elevation of 590 feet.

On the bulletin board is a wonderful display of the fine work that is being done in the plane geometry class. These figures were all constructed with only a compass and a straight edge. No measuring instruments as the graduated rule and protractor were used.

Last Thursday afternoon a very educational and interesting trip was made by the Jr. II and the Senior I agriculture classes, under the direction of Coach Walker. These fifteen boys motored to the Kilby Prison dairy farm, near Kilby prison. This is a model dairy and the most complete and sanitary in Alabama. Here the boys saw the modern methods of dairying and stock raising. A descriptive account was given of this trip by several members of the party at the chapel period Monday of this week. The outline of the program as presented was: Sanitation, Kelly Gillespie; milking time, Bill Hodges; the feed, Earl Gray; training the cows, John Thomas Marlar; the hogs, Wade Alford; the trip, Phillip Nelson. The trip was arranged by Coach Walker so that the boys could get a concrete example of this phase of agriculture. The students going on this trip were: John Thomas Marlar, Wade Alford, Sidney Reynolds, Owen Deal, Irby Wood, Earl Gray, Kelly Gillespie, Phillip Nelson, Bill Hodges, Horace Vinson, Ted Reynolds, Crayton Taylor, Rollie Sharp, Julius Martin and Searcy Martin and Mr. Walker.

Just among us students: Silky's red cap is a good reminder that spring is almost here with her redbirds and brightly colored flowers. Oh, you want to know who Silky is?

It sure would be too bad if the front door happened to jam at the dinner bell.

The corner of the cemetery is regaining its popularity it seems.

Marylyn Hardy would make a good detective. She always seems to know where you were the night before.

Considerable signs of progress are being shown by our agriculture classes. Soon, under the able teaching of Coach Walker, they will begin raising potato slips and are to begin several experiments with potatoes.

The "C" Club held its regular meeting Tuesday, and it is whispered that some comical sights will be seen soon on the campus. When the "C" Club initiates their new members, they do it in grand style; so, wipe off your specs and prepare for some fun.

Well if it isn't one thing it's another. Here we are trying to forget the depression and a group of pessimistic or optimistic students (I can't figure out which) get together and form the "Depression Club." Their aim, constitution, and purpose is to provide entertainment without expense. Go to it girls, we boys are behind you. (Can you blame us?)

Everyone had better begin to pick out who he or she thinks is the best looking, ugliest, and all those other who's who things, because it is about time we give our thoughts to our hall of fame.

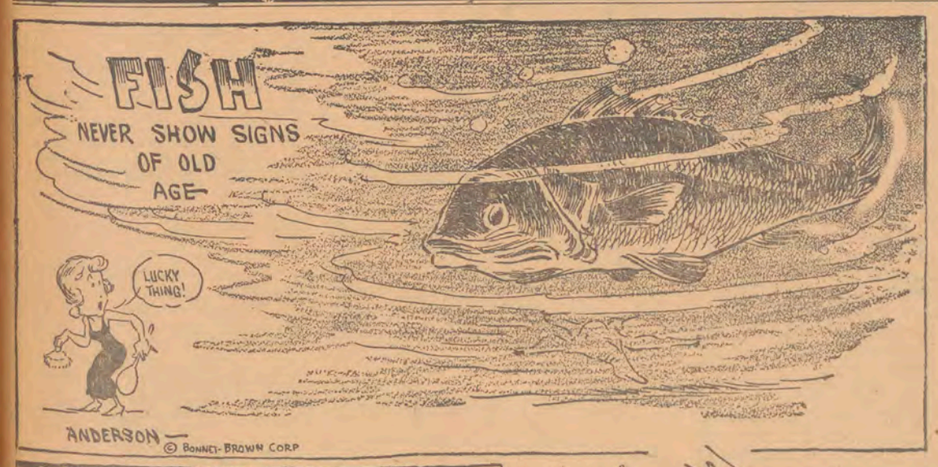
I believe that two certain students of the feminine gender would appreciate it if some one would give them a mirror.

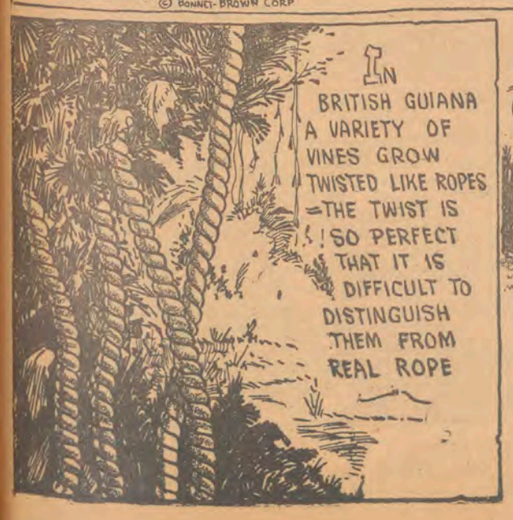
Quite a stir was noticeable among the students last week when a car took the curve at the big oak at 15 miles per hour. And when the identity of the driver was made known several of those, who do not believe the impossible fainted.

The school is proud of the fact that Omar Reynolds and Buster Foshee and Dewey Rockett are among its list of graduates. Mr. Reynolds is one of Clanton's and Chilton County's leading attorneys. Mr. Reynolds was graduated from C. C. H. S. in 1916 with high honors. He ranked high especially in the studies of civics chemistry, history, Latin and economics.

Buster Foshee was the validictorian for the graduating class of 1928. Buster's records show that he received high grades in all his studies, making the highest in bookeeping, English, economics, geometry and history. The fact that he was the validictorian speaks well of his academic abilities. Mr. Foshee received his B. A. degree at the University of Alabama, and is now the junior member of the firm of Atkinson and Foshee.

Dewey Rockett, one of Clanton's leading merchants and business men, was a graduate of this school. Mr. Rockett was a member of the graduating class of 1917, finishing with honors in chemistry, English. He was the secretary of the Senior class, captain of the baseball team; president of the Websterian society, and a member of the varsity football team. The following was copied verbatum from the annual published by the school in 1917: "Rockett is very fond of the ladies and likes to argue. He is very good natured and always wears a smile. He is also very independent."





UNCLE TOM HUBBARD HERE

The many friends of Uncle Tom Hubbard, of Macedonia community, were glad to see him in Clanton Wednesday. It was the first visit Mr. Hubbard has made to the county capital in many months. Years ago Uncle Tom was Tax Collector of Chilton County. From the very beginning he has been one of the most loyal friends and supporters of The Union-Banner, and we were delighted to have a short visit from him while he was in town Wednesday.

REPEALER FOR STATE OKEHED

Montgomery, Ala., March 14.—The voters of Alabama were assured Tuesday that the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment will be placed squarely before them in an election this summer when the House, after a turbulent session, passed the Mullins-Sossaman prohibition repeal convention bill by a vote of 69 to 27.

Final vote on the bill, substituted in the House with the approval of Senator Mullins and other leading advocates, came shortly after 2 p.m. Tuesday and climaxed a debate in which militant drys sought unsuccessfully to weaken the proposal by heading off an out and out vote.

Willie—Paw, what is discretion?

Paw—It's something, son, that comes to a person after he's too old for it to do him any good.

MANY ARE KILLED AS TORNADO HITS TENNESSEE AREA

Nashville, Tenn., March 14.—A tornado swept the Tennessee-Kentucky border Tuesday night from the Mississippi River to the Cumberland Mountains, killed at least 23 persons, injured more than 200 and did damage estimated conservatively at a million dollars.

Authorities feared the death list would increase as news of the disaster trickled in from rural communities over the wrecked communication lines.

The twister struck the cities of Nashville, Harrogate and Jellico, Tenn., and Caruthersville, Mo., as well as many villages, and left the Blue Grass region of Middle Tennessee and the hill country to the east stunned by its fury.

Property damage will reach several hundred thousand dollars.

In Nashville—capital of the state, and a city of more than 150,000—the twister swept over a fringe of hills and bore down on the eastern section of the city, where many dwellings were struck down.

The city was thrown in darkness. Ambulances shrieked through the debris-strewn streets and more than 100 persons were taken to hospitals where physicians worked by improvised lights.

The historical capital that sits on a hill overlooking the city and the Cumberland River was damaged. A legislative committee in session there hurriedly adjourned in darkness.

The wind struck first in Northwest Arkansas and Southeast Missouri. Extensive damage was reported at Caruthersville. The tornado headed due east then and dipped next into Middle Tennessee.

The little mining town of Pruden, Tenn., suffered extensively. Six persons were killed there and more than a score injured.

Kingsport, an industrial center in East Tennessee, and Jellico, next reported the tornado. Six were killed at Kingsport but Jellico reported no deaths.

Oswego and Harrogate—the latter site of Lincoln Memorial University—each reported a death.

Damage in Jellico alone was estimated at $100,000 and destruction in the Clear Fork Valley was estimated at $500,000 more.

The national guard was called out here to preserve order. Scores of buildings in East Nashville were leveled. Debris was scattered widely.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

None, even the most confirmed optimist, who keeps up with world affairs through the newspapers and periodicals, can deny the fact that at present the world is in a state of flux and that almost anything is apt to happen at any time. There is actual conflict between China and Japan, in the Orient, and between Bolivia and Paraguay, in South America, and additional trouble seems to be growing between Colombia and Peru. The dogs of war seem to be snarling at the least almost everywhere.

There are many danger spots in Europe, too. Germany is in a state of unrest seldom witnessed since the close of the World War. The suppression of the constitutional guaranties of liberty and freedom of the press, the burning of the Reichstag, and bloody riots everywhere tell the story of conditions. Trouble looms between Italy and Jugoslavia. If war should follow, France would go to the aid of Jugo-Slavia, while Hungary is bound to Italy by an alliance. This might tempt Germany to take the plunge and then the world war would be started all over again. The Polish corridor is a constant source of friction between Poland and Germany and might easily start another world conflagration. Even from Soviet Russia, ruled by an iron hand with its news carefully censored, we are able to learn that the peasants have again gone on a strike, refusing to sow grain, and thousands of persons have been forced from their homes by the government for refusing to go along with the Soviet plan. To come nearer home, Cuba is seething with revolt and conditions are said to be very serious on the island.

In the United States we have our troubles too, but up to this time they have been economic and not political. Our country has been as hard hit by the depression as most others. We have seen only recently our banking system fail to function to the great detriment of business everywhere. But Americans can "take a great deal on the chin, and stand up under it" as the saying goes. For this reason we have had few riots, and no attempts at revolution. Everybody is hoping for better things soon, and feels that it is only sporting to give the new administration a chance.

But a broad view of the world picture, and the comparative peace in the United States so far as bloodshed and violence are concerned, will bring anyone but the most avowed internationalist to the conclusion that it is Uncle Sam's duty to stay away from foreign commitments so far as possible and to work out the economic salvation of his own people. This does not mean, of course, that we ought to fail to cooperate in any sound and constructive world-wide effort to restore normal conditions. But it does mean that we ought not sacrfice legitimate interests for the benefit of Europe and a few of our own internationalists. Nor does it mean that we ought to join in a world wide declaration of embargoes or economic boycotts against some nation whose political course in the world does not meet with our entire approval. The best way to keep out of trouble is to stay at home and mind one's own business. And it is a sure guess that we will not restore normal conditions at home unless we keep out of trouble abroad.

AMERICA HAS BEEN PATIENT ON DEBTS

Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, believes that the American people have been more than patient in their efforts to secure from Europe a sum equaling a part of what the allied nations owe Uncle Sam on the war debt. In an interesting article, under the caption "Our Foreign Debt Problems," in the current issue of the National Republic, Senator Robinson says in part:

"The American people have given an exhibition of patience during the past three years that I think is unrivalled among the nations of the world. They have been sorely tried, they have been heavily burdened. They naturally have been very unhappy and very much discontented. There has been slow starvation, malnutrition. They have got to the point now where their lot is almost unbearable. Throughout the world other countries have revolted against organized government during these three years. If my memory serves me correctly, seventeen nations of the earth—no fewer than that—have changed their forms of government, more or less violently. This has occured during the last three years of world depression. But the standing for law and order, and I think American people have gone on patiently, nothing quite so fine and patriotic as that has ever been seen in history.

"But I am wondering how much further we ought to tax the patience of the people. I am wondering if we dare forfeit the confidence of the American people in those chosen to operate their government. I am wondering how far we dare go in flaunting the American people. Promises are made by public men and then apparently pledges are entirely forgotten. They go unfulfilled. Aye, to the other extreme we often go and do the opposite to that which was pledged would be done.

"I am thinking now of the foreign debts. I am thinking also of economy. I know the people of the country want economy practiced in the government, that is true. I also know that it is not in the interest of American economy to transfer eleven billion dollars of debts due the people of this country back onto their already overburdened shoulders.

"Everybody in public life has gone up and down the country pledging the American people that there would be no revision, to say nothing of cancellation of the foreign debt.

"In December, 1931, a joint resolution was passed unanimously by both houses of Congress to the effect that there would be no revision or no cancellation of the war debts. That resolution stands today as the considered judgment of the Congress of the United States. So far as I know, no other one has attempted to change that considered judgment.

"Last December, France, together with some smaller countries, largely under her influence, gave an exhibition of ingratitude that has shocked the world. France, Belgium, Poland, Hungary, Esthonia and Greece repudiated in a most flagrant manner their solemn obligations. The covenants to pay were treated as scraps of paper. This repudiation was all the more striking coming from some of the debtors whom we had helped as allies in the World War. America fought their battles, helped preserve their national existence and then furnished money for economic rehabilitation.

"A man who refuses to pay his honest debts is without standing, esteem or respect in the community. The defaulting nations have placed themselves in this category in world opinion."

The Great Wall of China, once the last word in military preparedness, now is merely an innocent barrier of masonry, through which the mikado's troops pass at will. The circumstance scarcely constitutes an argument for reduction of armaments.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

A Moral In This

A man who was too stingy to subscribe for his community paper sent his little son to borrow his neighbor's copy. In his haste, the lad ran over a $4.00 stand of bees. In ten minutes he looked like a warty summer squash. His father ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a wire fence, ran into that, tearing a hole in his old tight hide and ruining a $5.00 pair of "britches." A doctor charged him $3.00 to come and patch up the father and son. A $40.00 cow took advantage of the hole in the fence, and got into the corn field, eating enough green corn to kill her. The corn was worth $1.00. A veterinarian charged $3.00 to doctor the cow. Hearing the racket, the good wife ran out, upsetting a 4-gallon churn of milk; the farmer valued the churn and contents at $1. The milk was capsized into a hatch of baby chicks, worth about $1.00. The wife also yelled so that she dropped and broke her $35.00 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the milk and on into another room, ruining a $25.00 rug. During the excitement, the oldest daughter eloped with the hired man, who stole the old man's pocketbook, containing about $25.00; the dog broke up 11 setting hens (loss, $11.00), and the calves got out and chewed the tails off of five $2.00 shirts on the clothes line (loss, $10.00.) And hearing of all the trouble, the neighbor came over and persuaded Mr. Tightwad to take advantage of a club offer on his weekly paper. If Mr. Tightwad had only done that little duty a week before he would have saved a daughter, a hired man, and $164.00. Some economy!

More Twin Calves

About a year ago I told you a pretty good story about Mr. John H. Moore's twin calves. I told you, too, that such things only happened once in a blue moon. Now, I must confess, I don't know how much time is supposed to elapse between blue moons, but there is another twin calf story, any way. Mr. Jim Mitchell, of Maple Springs community, is the owner of a cow that is the mother of twin calves. Another strange bit of news connected with this is the fact that just 16 months ago this same cow was the mother of a pair of twin calves. Four calves within 16 months. I believe that is some kind of a record.

This Man Roosevelt

Folks, I have heard it said that "a wise man changes his mind often, but a fool never changes his." Now, I don't want to be understood as laying claim to any extraordinary wisdom, but I confess a change of mind in regard to our new president. It may be just a bit early to begin forming opinions of Mr. Roosevelt, but his actions during the first few days of his administration are enough to justify any doubting Thomas in forming a good opinion of him. He has asked for the big stick and is having it given to him; and right now it looks like the big boy has the courage to wield it. One thing I KNOW—instead of taking off for about a month to fish, play golf, etc., during his political honeymoon, he has rolled up his sleeves and jumped into this recovery business in a very business-like manner. Most presidents spend the first few weeks playing around, but not this one. He is driving for action—and getting it. And his actions are getting him lots of friends and admirors, too. Some reports, though, would tend to cause us to believe that some within his own party, up Washington way, are prone to stray away from him and his measures of economy. Already, some of our Republicans have saved the day for him in one or two things he has asked for. If he can manage a bunch of Democrats like he has all around him, then I KNOW he is a genius, and deserves all the backing we can give him. It's going to take a super-man to hold that bunch of Demmies together long enough to accomplish anything. Democrats just will not stay hitched—they are not built that way. Mr. Roosevelt needs your confidence and help in his task. He says: "We have a nation to save—not a pie to cut." And if he feels that way about it, I believe everyone should do his part to help, no matter what his political belief.

What Is Brewing?

Something must surely be brewing down around Montgomery. Things are too quiet. That bunch of stall and stable candidates are cooking up something, sure as shootin'. Public opinion has just about put the "ki-bosh" on those big ideas of Governor Miller and his associates, but all eyes should be kept wide open. This lull in the storm can mean only one thing—that when it starts blowing again it will be harder to stop than ever. So, keep your peepers skinned. I know we have not "saved enough millions" yet.

Proud of His Record

Passing around by the depot one evening this week, just as No. 3 pulled in, I heard a pretty good one. On this particular occasion (as is the case very often, I am told) nobody got off the train, and nobody got on. Some of the fellows who hang around the depot and work a bit, now and then, as duty demands, called attention of the conductor to the fact that nobody got on or off. "Oh, well," he came back, "that isn't so bad. I think that's a pretty good record for the stop. We didn't gain anything, but we didn't lose anything, either. That shows we're holding our own, and I'll bet you're not doing that well." And then he grinned, pulled the cord, and chugged on down the line, leaving his fellow-jokester scratching his head and wondering just which got the best of the exchange of jokes. I thought he was a right optimistic cuss, to say the least.

Jig-Saw Puzzles

Jig-Saw puzzles are all the rage now, and if you haven't tried one yet, you're missing something. Cross-word puzzles are hard enough, but the jig-saws — well, they're something fierce. If you think you are smart, and want to prove it—or if you have an idea you're just about half daffy and want to finish the job, so you can get in some good insane asylum somewhere, and have your meals brought to you, rush right out and get a jig-saw puzzle. It will serve your purpose, in either case. Just try one, please, and be convinced.—Man in the Moon.

The L. & N. railroad has received permission to reduce its passenger rates to two cents a mile. In our opinion the value of a railway ticket depends on where you are going.

One fellow who always tries to keep his assets as liquid as possible is the bootlegger.

THEY WANT AMERICAN BRAND OF JUSTICE

You hear radical talk sometimes, these days, about an impending "revolution." Well there may be one, but it will be peaceful and thoroughly American. It may be a revolution in our economic theories, our ways of thinking, our social and business concepts, but rest assured it will be no more. Farmers in certain parts of the country, weary of having their farms sold out from under them, or discouraged because they must sell their crops for less than cost of production are rebelling here and there and are doing some rather dramatic things, but they are as far away from believing in armed revolution to bring about redress of their grieviences, as is the smuggest capitalist sitting in his plate glass and mahogany office in New York City.

A pretty good example of the real spirit that is actuating the agrarian insurrection in some parts of the country was carried in the newspaper dispatches a short time ago. A great crowd of Ohio farmers said to have numbered some 2,000 or 3,000, met on a farm to save the farmer's goods that were to be auctioned off to satisfy a chattel mortgage. The mortgage called for $800 but the farmers bid all the goods in for $1.90 and then, as usual, turned the goods back to their owner.

But a company of reds, misinterpreting the whole thing, thought that such a meeting would be a fine place for the circulation of their propaganda, and so attended the sale in order to take part in the demonstration against what they believed was the government. It was a serious error on thir part. They did not know the American farmer. The farmers as one man chased the communists off the place, burned all their pamphlets and then raised a big American flag. After that, the "funny" sale proceeded with order and decorum.

The aggrieved farmers and working classes are seeking justice and sometimes they are employing unusual methods to obtain it, but they want it distinctly understood that it is American justice and not the Moscow brand that interests them. They know that always, finally, in this country, right has prevailed according to our own standards of right, and they have full faith that it will prevail again, in time.

WHAT OUR TAXES AMOUNT TO

Paul Shoup, of the Southern Pacific Railway lines, recently called attention to the nation's staggering tax burden in a striking and unique way. Mr. Shoup declared that the cost of government, in the nation, the state and the local units of government had now mouted to a total where it equalled a fair income on a sum equaling the total value of all the property of the country. If the total wealth were to be placed in a savings bank at four per cent interest, which certainly is a fair rate return in this day and age, the annual return on the investment would just about equal the total tax burden in the country. In short, the people of the United States are paying in the way of taxes what amounts to four per cent on all the wealth of the nation.

There is certainly something to think about here. We read a great deal in the newspapers about the tax burden, and we feel it each year, when at stated intervals we go to pay our taxes. But it is difficult to picture just what the burdens amount to in the aggregate until we get an illustration such as Mr. Shoup furnishes. If this four per cent could suddenly be cut to two per cent it is easy to imagine what an accelerated impulse would be given to business generally the country over.

And yet in spite of all this, we have lobbies around legislatures, asking for even bigger appropriations, and protesting against every attempt to cut the national, state and local expenditures. Moreover, there is too often a disposition on the part of legislators elected on a pledge or reducing expenditures, to seek to shift the burden from one class of taxpayers to another by the inauguration of new taxes. It is to be borne in mind that all forms of taxation must eventually be paid by the consuming public. The burden cannot be shifted. We all pay in some form or other, whether directly or indirectly.

Certainly this is a time when we ought to realize just how necessary is the balancing of budgets and the eleminiation of unnecessary expense. If the tax burden is permitted to increase in the future as it has in the past, sooner or later, and perhaps sooner, our various units of government will collapse under the load. And when this time comes the lobbyist and special interests desiring to live out of the public treasury will be crushed along with the rest of the nation.

CONGRESS SHOULD ACT

Driven to exasperation one day by an imbecile question from Boswell, the immortal Doctor Samuel Johnson turned on him.

"Zounds sir!" said he. "I can give you a reason, but not an understanding."

This is precisely the feeling of the country at the refusal of congress to lift a finger against the invasion of our home market and the displacement of American workers by the rising flood of cheap foreign goods, which are the combined product of pauper labor and depreciated currencies.

The reasons for Congress to act have been stated over and over again.

They have been stated on the highest authority—by merchants of the widest knowledge and experience, by industrialists of the standing of James A. Farrell, formerly president of the United States Steel Corporation, and other of equal authority.

State legislatures by formal vote have called on congress for immediate emergency legislation to offset the advantages enjoyed in our market by the depreciated currency countries of Europe and Asia.

Patriotic organizations of citizens have memorialized Congress to act.

All to no effect!

Apparently the country can give congress a reason, but not an understanding.

Instead of intelligent and patriotic action, we are fed with prattle about "world tariff" conferences and the "world economic" conferences and the advisability of not adding to the obstructions which already are choking international trade.

It is blandly asserted that the cure of the world depression is a ten per cent horizontal reduction of all world tariffs.

As if there was the remotest chance of such action being taken in a way to avert the losses that are devouring us, in a world of quotas, compensatory special duties, Ottawa agreements aimed directly at us, German tariff increases designed to bar American goods, not to speak of "Buy British", "Buy French," "Buy Italian" and "Buy German" movements, intended to solidify entire nations against the purchase of American good.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Hope and Faith Are Returning

The light of hope and faith is breaking through the darkness that has hung over the people of this country for the past ten days. At the time this is written Tuesday a great many of the larger banks in the country have already reopened for the normal functions of business operations. There is reason to expect that only a few days remain until the time when the banks in the smaller communities will resume operations. The people have faced the situation with rare fortitude, and happily we have come to the broad conclusion that there is nothing mysterious, nothing menacing about America's banking situation. In the larger sense, it may be said that our banking situation is sound and stable and has for its soul the spirit of the American people. Now that the light is breaking through the gloom, we should get a new grip on our courage, determination and enthusiasm.

We Shall Begin To Really Live Again

I believe that the American people have come to the time when they can and will get back to the old standards of living and really live. We have learned the lesson that was inevitable. We have got off our big spree and have come back to soberness and thoughtfulness. Many a person since the first day of March has learned for the first time just how far a dollar can be stretched to buy something to eat. That will be helpful. It will make us more appreciative of opportunity. If your bank fails to open in the next few days, don't waver in your confidence. There are a lot of banks in the United States, you know, and it will take time for Uncle Sam to investigate them and get them started off again. Remember no sound bank is a dollar worse off now than it was before the doors were closed ten days ago.

Don't Get Stage Fright

People should not get frightened and expect to rush down to the banks when they do open and draw out all their money. It is taking almost a super-human effort to get the financial structure back in order. Every loyal American citizen should do his part with unfaltering faith. Don't get restless. Don't be skeptical. Remember every check you write will be another step toward our goal of prosperous times. Every dollar you can keep in circulation will be your own individual contribution to accomplishing the goal we must reach. Since the first of March we have gone through the darkest hour in our history.

Alabamians Active in New York

Phil Painter, founder and editor of The Advance, Birmingham, a quarter of a century, entered the national field of journalism a few months ago and has been elected vice president of Inspirational Publications, Inc., of New York. This concern publishes Psychology Magazine. I. W. Ullman, a son of the late Dr. Samuel Ullman, of Birmingham, and Frank Z. Temmerson, former assistant city attorney of Birmingham, are president and business manager, respectively. Phil Painter has been active in state and national politics for many years, as a publisher. He has made many friends and some enemies also.

Ben Margolis Has Fine Store

During the dark days while the banks were closed and business was at a standstill, Ben Margolis was taking advantage of the holiday to fix up a bigger and better store. He has moved across the street into his new place, and has put in a much larger and more attractive stock of merchandise. He has associated with him Mrs. Clara Mullins and Mrs. Ludie Lenoir, two of the most popular saleshadies of Clanton. They have had lots of experience dealing with people who trade in Clanton, and they know people from every part of the county. Mr. Margolis, Mrs. Mullins and Mrs. Lenoir invite their friends to visit the new store. It will be a pleasure to you, I am sure.

Dr. Lawrence Is About Settled

I took a trip the other day to visit the offices of Dr. C. O. Lawrence over Upchurch Drug Store. I found everything all fixed up as snug as a bug in a rug. Had the pleasure of meeting Miss Abernathy, the faithful assistant of Dr. Lawrence. "I am ready to offer my services to the people of Clanton," said Dr. Lawrence. I am glad he is here and I am sure we shall find him to be not only a good doctor, but a very worthy addition to our town and community in every way.

"WE AINT GOT STARTED"

Look about you. Everything you touch is imperfect. Opportunity is just dawning. Let's have better hot-dog stands, better railroads, better banks, better business, better schools, better newspapers, and better understanding of life, of love, of brotherhood. Why, d—n it, we ain't got started.—Editorial in the Blue Mountain Eagle.

How painfully true. One cannot raise the eyes or extend the hand without encountering imperfection. Yet in the face of all this, a feeling of disillusionment has gripped America, as though there were no new worlds to conquer—as though the state of perfection had been reached and there was no way to go but back.

However, the sensation is not new. Few people seem to remember it now, but in the economic and consequent spiritual sagging of the middle 1890's, the expression "Fin de siecle," meaning "end of the cycle or age" was almost universal in the United states. The spiritual bears had their day. They temporarily convinced the people that the last great discovery had been made, that the ridge of the range had been crossed and there was no way to go except down. Then came the flash that gold had been discovered in Alaska; then came the furor that ended in the Spanish war. The years of pessimism passed as though they never had been. Business expanded, new inventions came out, science made strange discoveries — America began to ride in automobiles, bathe between Saturdays and wear better clothes.

And today this is not fin de siecle either. It certainly is not if perfection is the goal towards which the age strives. The observant father, taking his son and daughter for a walk, can point to every object along the street and say, "That is very primitive—there is much for you young people to do."

It will be some time before President Roosevelt can be sure as to whether March 4, 1933 was his lucky day. Doubtless ex-president Hoover was convinced some time ago that it was his.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

An Invitation and a Command

The subject today is "Come," "Go." We will get a text from the words of Jesus in Matt. 11:28. "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." And in Matt. 28:19. "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

Human nature is such that we usually wish to share all of the good things of life with others, especially those things that do not cost us any thing or detract from our enjoyment of them—that is if we can share it with others and still enjoy it. If this were not true why did boys in the olden days say to other boys, "Come with us, we have found a good 'wash hole' it is deep and wide." It was because other boys enjoying a bath in the creek did not detract from their enjoyment. In fact, it helped them to enjoy it more. So it is with other things in life: One will say to another, "Come with me to the show tonight, it's fine." Certainly he could see and enjoy it just as much with his friends there as if they were not there.

Now, when one believes on Christ, and is saved from their sins it is perfectly natural for them to tell others about it and invite them to "Come" to Jesus. How, then, can some profess to believe that we shouldn't invite others to Christ? Since Jesus said "Come," not only in our text, but in several other places in the New Testament. If a man is called to preach the gospel, why should he not say "Come," since Paul says in Rom. 1:16, that the "gospel of Christ is the power of God unto salvation?" So in His last invitation, as we read in Rev. 22:17, "And the spirit and the bride says, come. And let him that heareth say, come. And let him that is athirst come: and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely." Then how can some say that we are not to invite the sinner to "Come?"

Now we will consider the command to "Go." In our text in Matt. 28:19, is not to the preachers only. If so, why is it that the whole church is anxious about the sinner? It seems to me that the spirit would not prompt the laity of the church to pray for and admonish sinners to come to Christ. Paul says that we are ambassadors for Christ. That makes us representatives of Him who said "Go." In the 9th chapter of the gospel of John the 27th verse that poor fellow who was made to see for the first time in life said to the pharisees, "Will ye also be his disciples?" That poor man knew that he had met the Savior of poor lost blind and undone sinners, and had that peace that only comes to those who will hear and accept the gospel of Christ. I feel sure that a saved person is doing wrong in two ways when they refuse to "Go" and tell the story of the cross to those who are without God and without hope in the world. First, they are disobeying a strict command of their king who himself, labored and died to save sinners. Second, they are doing a great wrong to the lost ones around them by not saying "Come."

An old mother sat by her window looking out on the world bathed in the sunlight of a spring day when I called at her home to see her. Rheumatism had put her past walking, and in the course of our conversation she looked at me so wistfully and said, "You have been my pastor a long time and you always urged us to go out and find sinners and invite them to come to Christ and I always thought that it was the duty of the preachers only to invite sinners, but now I know that you were right. How I wish that I could be well once more. I surely would try to do some of the work that I know is needed to be done right here in this community, but I fear that I will never be able to walk again." Poor woman, she saw her duty after it was too late to act. Brother, Sister, will you see your duty now? Jesus is expecting something of you. Go and teach the sinners about Christ. Tell them how much He has done for you. It will not detract any thing from your enjoyment of Him, but on the other hand, you will be made stronger in the Lord, and a great deal more of the happiness of the Christian life will be yours; then you will not go up to Him empty-handed.

It does not matter what any one else says about going after the sinner; you are under orders from a different source all together. Your king says "Go" and we shouldn't let any one hinder us from carrying out His command. A persons that talks against inviting the sinner to Christ must not have much joy over in their own hearts. Peter said to the lame man, "Such as I have give unto thee; in the name of Christ, rise up and walk."

Brother, such as you have give unto the world, if you have Christ give Him to the lost around you, dividing Christ with a lost world will not decrease but increase your joy and happiness.—Elder Blossom.

E. W. LAKEMAN'S LAY DAM BOY SCOUT TROOP WIN SILVER LOVING CUP AGAINST 31 TROOPS

Lay Dam is proud of the achievements of its Boy Scout Troop and their Scoutmaster, E. W. Lakeman. Pictured above is the Troop with the silver loving cup which they won over 31 troops in the Central Alabama area. Seated in front of the boys is Scoutmaster "Abe" Lakeman. Standing in the front row are Scouts "Shorty" Marcus, Britt Deal, Jr., Thomas Marcus, Wesley Brown; back row, Irby Wood, Searcy Martin, Owen Deal, Julius Martin, Bobby Powers. The first troop to win the cup three times becomes its permanent possessor.

Central Singing Society

The Central Singing Society met at Providence last Sunday afternoon, and enjoyed a good singing. Prof. O. L. Devaughn presided and the opening prayer was offered by Rev. Joe Thomas. The following directed: J. W. Clackler, S. V. Miller, W. M. Devaughn, C. H. Robinson, T. E. Wyatt, R. T. Grant, Chester Wyatt, A. O. Boswell and Emmett Wilson. Two were excused from singing—I. D. Huett and R. M. Robinson. Two quartets were arranged by W. M. Devaughn.

The society will meet next Sunday afternoon at Thomas Junior school building. It will be time to meet at Maple Springs, but since that building was burned last Sunday morning the singing has been moved over to the school house.

The plan as suggested by the secretary in last week's paper regarding the singing on Easter and the following Sunday afternoon was adopted by the society. So there will be singing at the courthouse on the afternoon of the fourth Sunday in April. Then the fifth Sunday we will have no singing, giving our people a chance to attend the big convention in Birmingham if they so choose. The regular Easter singing will be held at Poplar Springs the third Sunday in April.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Last Saturday night and Sunday evening were our regular preaching days. A large crowd attended. Everybody enjoyed the sermon.

Our Sunday school is still improving. We got three more members. We sure are having a good Sunday school. Everybody come back next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and bring someone with you. Come with a well-studied lesson. When you miss one Sunday in Sunday school, you miss a good lesson and miss being with a large crowd.

We are having prayer meeting at Mt. Springs every second and fourth Sunday nights, and first and third Sunday nights at Cane Creek. We sure had a good prayer meeting at Mt. Springs and also had a singing. Everybody enjoyed it fine. Everybody go to prayer meeting at Cane Creek next Sunday night.

The ladies are going to reorganize a ladies aid at the church on Wednesday, March 22. It is time to reorganize a ladies aid for 1933. So everybody come and bring someone with you. Don't forget the time, March the 22. We are expecting a large crowd.

SURPRISE PARTY

Please allow me a space in your paper to saw a few words—to thank the people for being at Mr. Tommie Connell's last Friday night. We are glad to say we had a nice time, and wish them back again. Those who enjoyed the nice music were: Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Connell and son, Mosie, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Easterling and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Connell and children, Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley, Mrs. Leona Knox, Mr. Dewey Minor, Mr. Vastine Powell, Mr. Darby Easterling, Jodie Minor, J. D. Mims, Dalton Connell and lots of other friends who enjoyed the music very much. We welcome them back again. Those who played the music were Mr. Robert Connell, Mrs. Canzadie Connell, Mr. Tommie Connell, Mrs. Leona Knox.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley were the week end guests of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Connell, near Mt. Springs.

Mrs. Jewel Mims had dinner with Mrs. Docie Connell Sunday.

Mr. William Bradley's wife has been very ill for the past few weeks, but hopes to gain her strength back and get all right.

Mr. Hendy Ballard was the week end guest of his father, Mr. Ballard.—From a Dear Reader.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Chilton County Training School Part Time Group

The part time boys met last Wednesday night. Two weeks had passed since their last meeting. The beautiful spring-like weather brought a large number out. Most of them have already started their projects. They were given instruction on different mixtures of fertilizers. Most of our farmers today buy fertilizer by the market or manufacturer's name, because they do not understand how to read the analysis found on each tag. They base their buying mostly upon such names as "Big Crop" cotton special or "Sea Fowl" etc., when they should look for in mixtures, 15-5-5, 12-4-4, 10-3-3, meaning respectfully the per cent of super phosphate, nitrate of soda, and muriate of potash, or its equivalent, and even lower grades. More of our farmers would buy fertilizer and mix at home if they undertsood the proper method of mixing. Rather than go to the trouble of learning, they just buy it ready mixed.

It is hoped that after a few more special lessons these future farmers will be able to intelligently buy fertilizer. Those present in the last meeting were Ben Wilson, Dock Wilson, Jude Wilson, Curtis Wilson, Hubbard Wilson, Wilson Bryant, Rogers Bryant, Alvin bryant, Fred Jones, Booker T. Anderson and Monroe Gordon.

It Does Hurt

One person said the other day that the closing of the banks didn't hurt him. Don't worry, he was corrected at once. Get this in mind, anything that hurts the business and professional people of any community materially affects all the other people.

Why not take this paper? One of the most important habits in one's life, when correctly used, is reading. If you would be intelligent as to what is going on in your community, town, county and state, just read this paper. It is worth $1.50 to any man each year to know the weekly happenings. So why not subscribe for this paper, and cultivate the habit of reading.

N. F. A. to Meet Thursday

The New Farmers of Alabama Club meets next Thursday afternoon at one o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to make plans for the raising of money to represent at the annual conference at Tuskegee in July. We are urging each member to be present and on time.— Isaac Craig, president; John B. Morgan, secretary.

The Country Boys' Creed

"I believe that the country which God made is more beautiful than the city which man made; the life out-of-doors and in touch with the earth is the natural life of man. I believe that work is work wherever I find it, but that work with nature is more inspiring than work with the most intricate machinery. I believe that the dignity of labor depends not on what you do, but on how how you do it; that opportunity comes to a boy on the farm as often as to a boy in the city, that life is longer, more free and happier in the country than in the city, that my success depends not upon my location, but upon myself—not upon my dreams, upon what I actually do; not upon luck but pluck. I believe in working when you work and playing when you play, and in giving and demanding a square deal in every act of life."—Grooves.

More and more Vocational boys are realizing the truthfulness of the country boys' creed.—Benjamin Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

W. F. Thompson of Jemison Route 3 was in Clanton Tuesday on business.

Mrs. G. W. Wilson and children, of Birmingham, spent Monday and Tuesday in Clanton with Mr. Wilson, who is engaged in making an audit of the records of the office of the County Treasurer.

Prophecy Corner

Conducted By

L. A. BUTTERFIELD

A short time ago a book entitled "The Beliefs of Seven Hundred Ministers" was published. Five hundred of these ministers were in active service and two hundred were students in theological schools. Twenty denominations were represented by the seven hundred men. Their beliefs on certain doctrines were obtained by the questionaire method. In reply to the question of whether they believed that Christ's death on the cross "was the one act which made possible the remission of man's sin," 70 per cent of the ministers expressed belief, but only 29 per cent of the theological students. Eighty-four per cent of the regular ministers believed that Christ was raised from the dead, while only 42 per cent of the students voted yes. Practically the same response was made to the question whether they believed in the ascension of Christ to heaven. Sixty-four per cent of the regular ministers expressed belief "that prayer has the power to change conditions in nature," but only 21 per cent of the students. These students reflect the current religious instruction which they are receiving in the seminaries of today.

Skepticism has invaded many of the theological schools and churches of our time. A book entitled, "Current Christian Thinking," written by a divinity school professor and editor of a religious journal illustrates this modern tendency. Here are two sentences from the chapter of God:

"The religious man will, under modern conditions, have many a doubt concerning the objective reality of what the theologians call God," page 169.

"It is no wonder that men are beginning to ask whether the doctrine of God is not too difficult and too vague to furnish the best basis for religion," page 156.

Christ looking forward to the day when He should return to the earth asked: "When the Son of man cometh shall He find faith on the earth?" Luke 18:8. The form of the question leaves no doubt as to the answer.

In II Timothy 3, we are told that in the last days men would be "lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of Godliness, but denying the power thereof." The inspired words are brief, but they present a clear picture of a time when men would hold to the forms of religion and yet deny the very essence of the Christian religion—faith in a personal God.—L. A. Butterfield.

Mell Martin, C. E. Stapp, Earle Thomas and Mack Wyatt went to Montgomery last Thursday night to attend a Kiwanis Conference at the Jefferson Davis Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wilkes and little daughter, Edna Jean, of Bessemer, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones of Jackson Chapel community.

PREACHING AT MARS HILL

Dear Editor:

Please allow me to announce through the columns of your paper that I will give an appointment at Mars Hill the third Sunday, 19th, at 11 a.m.

My theme will be, "For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle." I Cor. 14:8. The subject I announced to use a year ago at Friendship, but was called to a funeral.—Fraternally yours, E. H. Littlejohn.

SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. Shevnan, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Jefferson Davis Hotel, Montgomery Saturday, Sunday and Monday only, March 18, 19 and 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m..

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increases the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired. Address 6605 N. Talman Ave., Chicago.

SUCCESS TURNS MAN AGAINST FAITHFUL WIFE IN NEW DRAMA

When he was only a first helper in the steel mills, toiling and sweating before the huge furnaces that rained soot on the town, she ran a boarding house and slaved and scrimped to save money to get them out of steel town. She craved the finer things of life! Then they became wealthy.

When their savings invested in an invention made them rich, he became a steel and dye magnate—powerful and popular. She thought life was at last perfect—and then found her husband wanted to divorce her to marry a beautiful, glamorous siren!

He flings her reputation into the mud, hires witnesses to lie about her, all so he can marry another woman, though he had once told her that there could be for him "no other woman."

Was she right in believeing through torment, abuse, disgrace, that he meant it? Did she know better than he did what he wanted?

The answers are shown dramatically in "No Other Woman," RKO-Radio Picture coming to the Wadesonion Theatre, with Irene Dunne playing the wife, Charles Bickford the husband and Gwili Andre the siren. Eric Linden, Leila Bennett, Christian Rub and young Buster Miles are also prominently cast.

J. Walter Ruben directed "No Other Woman," adapted for the screen by Wanda Tuchock and Bernard Schubert from the play "Just a Woman" by Eugene Walter and a story by Owen Francis.

BIG PAY CUT FOR WAR VETERANS

Sweeping Authority Granted President Under New Economy Law

Washington, March 19.—President Roosevelt, with the sweeping authority granted him under the new economy act, can cut millions from the annual billion dollar a year expenditure for veterans relief largely by wiping out the benefits now paid more than a half million veterans of the World War for disabilities not due to their military service.

At one swoop, President Roosevelt can remove from the pension rolls more than 400,000 World War veterans who are now receiving monthly payments for disabilities not even claimed to be the result of their military service. These are the "disability allowances." With one deep cut he may be able to reduce the pension costs by $450,000,000 a year.

Also he can remove an undetermined number of veterans now receiving "disability compensation" for certain diseases originating as late as January 1, 1925, which the law presumes to have been of service origin. The National Economy League insists that this law was based on legal fiction and there is nothing in medical science to support it.

Moreover, he may put an end to the 75 per cent pay granted retired emergency officers under the law of 1930 and return them to the straight compensation basis.

Elimination of monthly payments now being made to more than 400,000 men whose disabilities are not attributed to military service — but which may have arisen from being hit by a taxicab ten years after the war—would save upwards of $100,000,000 a year, according to the Economy League.

Another $123,000,000, it estimates, could be saved by repeal of the 1925 law which "presumes" certain diseases developing long after the war to be of service origin and for which thousands of veterans are now receiving compensation.

Discontinuance of the renewal of lapsed war risk insurance, says the league would save another $40,000,000 a year.

Thirty millions more, it contends, could be saved by repeal of the law which now extends free hospitalization, medical services and domciliary care to veterans whose disabilities are not connected with their military services. Cessation of the construction of additional hospitals and soldiers homes would save another $12,887,000 a year.

Repeal of the 1920 law which granted pensions to Spanish War veterans for non-service-connected disabilities which has since increased the number of Spanish War pensioners seven and one-half times, would mean an additional saving of $109,000,000.

As the result of these curtailments, according to estimates, administration expenses could be cut $30,000,000, thereby making a grand total saving of over $450,000,000 a year.

How far President Roosevelt will be guided by these recommendations is in doubt, though he is sympathetic with them in the main, especially with regard to payments to men whose disabilities are not attributed to their service. He also plans a cut of 10 per cent in Civil War pensions.

From the days of George Washington down to the present, says General Frank T. Hines, U. S. Administration of veterans affairs, the government has expended for veterans of all wars a grand total of more than $15,000,000,000.

Of this amount, there has been expended for World War veterans alone, since 1918, over $6,000,000,000, or nearly one-half of the total.

Though this war ended fourteen years ago, expenditures for its veterans have mounted steadily since that time as a generous congress yielding to the concentrated voting power of several million veterans and their relatives, constantly expanded the law.

The result is today's billion-dollar total—which figures out at $2,739,726 a day, or almost $31 every time the clock ticks.

Out of this ever broadening policy has grown a host of abuses which President Roosevelt hopes to remedy —a job that congress did not have the political courage to tackle. Professional athletes, firemen and policemen on active duty are listed as disabled veterans and drawing monthly checks from Uncle Sam. Business men, doctors and lawyers with big incomes, if able to secure a 30 per cent disability rating, are receiving 75 per cent of the pay to which they were entitled at discharge.

A watch is that round, metal device which the speaker of the evening places before him on the table when he arises, and does not consult thereafter.

Fox Auctioneer

Mr. W. W. Fox, of Clanton, says he is once more a full-fledged auctioneer, with his license paid up and ready to sell anything in the world. He requests anybody who has anything to sell to get in touch with him. He will sell it for you if you will bring it to his store. Or if it is something that can't be brought in to town he will go out to your place and conduct the sale.

Every Saturday afternoon, beginning at one o'clock, Mr. Fox will hold an auction sale at his store on Sixth Street. He will sell various articles for use and value on the farm and in the home. "When I put up an article, it means that something is going to change hands."

Those who attend Fox's auction sales every Saturday afternoon may be sure in advance that they will have a chance at some bargains. And don't forget if you hve anything to sell, bring it along and he will sell it.

Rail Rate Cut

Reduction of railroad passenger rates, which will mean a saving of more than $100,000 annuall to Alabama residents, was authorized by the interstate commerce commission last Friday, according to a dispatch from Washington.

Authority to reduce coach and pullman fares was given five railroads doing business in Ala. They are the L. & N., the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway, the Mobile & Ohio, the Atlanta & West Point, and the Western Railway of Alabama.

Authority was given to reduce the coach passenger rates from three and six-tenths cents a mile to two and to reduce Pullman and parlor car rates from three and six-tenths cents a mile to three cents. The railroads also were given permission to discontinue the surcharge they collect on pullman fares. This surcharge is one-third the pullman fare.

Officials of the L. & N. believe the new rates will go into effect on their road about April 15.

The reduced rates are to be effective for six months.

Verbena Museum

At the high school in Verbena, Friday evening, March 31st, 1933, beginning at six o'clock, there will be a loan exhibit of interesting and beautiful things—old and new—domestic and foreign—from the homes of the Verbena neighborhood. Quilts, rugs, spreads, crocheted and knitted articles, embroidery, handwork of all kinds, antique China and glass dolls, war relics and weapons. At eight o'clock, Mrs. B. B. Comer will give a talk on a recent trip to India. Admission ten and five cents. Proceeds will go for painting the Methodist parsonage.

OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN TO VISIT CLANTON APRIL 12TH

A letter to W. M. Bean, postmaster at Clanton, from Fourth Tank Company, Fort McClellan, Ala., says: "The Fourth Tank Company, United States Army, consisting of three officers and fifty enlisted men with thirteen pices of motor transportation, will be in your city on April 12th and will probably camp there over night."

Mr. Bean has turned the matter over to Mayor J. Lee Smith and City Clerk C. H. Pipes, and accommodations will be arranged for the detachment. It will likely be published next week where the officers and men will be assigned for camp.

SICK AT HIS STOMACH

Intruder—"I would like to get a this week's copy of your paper."

Office Attendant: "Well, Mr. Jones, why the wry face and the sallow complexion?"

Intruder: "Well, I'll just tell you. I have been reading The (name of another newspaper), and it has actually made me sick at my stomach; I believe a copy of the dear old..... would settle my stomach. Give me a copy and put me down for another year."

BIRMINGHAM POST MORE NOW

Hereafter the combination offer of The Union-Banner and the Birmingham Post will be $4.00 for a full year to each. The special offer of the Post has been called in by the publishers of that paper. So, anyone wishing to send in subscriptions for this club will please be governed accordingly.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD MEETS FRIDAY, APRIL 7TH

The next regular meeting of the Chilton County Board of Education will be held on Friday, April 7th, instead of the last Friday in March.

This change of date is made because of the meeting of the Alabama Education Association which will be in session March 30 through April 1st.

My Experience In 4-H Club Work

(By James Dennis)

In 1929 I became interested in 4-H club work and purchased a purebred Jersey heifer as my first project. During that year I attended the annual club rally and camp. I cooperated in every way possible with our county agent and club members during the local Jersey show and at the state fair at Montgomery. I was chosen to be one of the three members from Chilton County on the livestock judging team to judge at the state fair.

In 1930 I was elected secretary and treasurer of the Jersey cattle club of Chilton County. I attended the club rally and camp, exhibited my heifer at the local spring and fall shows, also at the state fair at Montgomery. I was again chosen to be a member of the livestock judging group from my county and won high score from my county. I also cared for and exhibited an Angus bull for my father at the state fair.

In 1931 I was elected vice president of the Jersey cattle club of my county, and vice president of the county-wide 4-H club organization. I attended club rally and camp. That year I exhibited two head of registered Jerseys and an Angus bull at the local spring and fall shows. I also exhibited these (except Angus bull) at the district Jersey show at Anniston, Alabama, and was again made a member of the judging team from my county. I won the gold medal offered by the American Jersey Club for showmanship in the contest with thirty-three other boys.

I made a talk before a group of more than one hundred voters in behalf of the county commissioners continuing the appropriation for county agency work.

In 1932 I was elected president of the Jersey breeders association and vice president of the county-wide 4-H club organization. I attended the club rally and camp. I exhibited my projects at the local spring show and at the district Jersey show held at Clanton in the fall. I was a member of the high scoring judging team at the district Jersey show (four teams competing) and made third individual score, which brought me a bronze medal given by the American Jersey Cattle Club. There were twelve boys competing in the contest.

I really enjoy club work; I did not join the 4-H club for merely pastime. I do not think the 4-H club was organized for this. I think it was organized for the purpose of making citizens and leaders out of its members.

The 4-H club work has given me many happy and pleasant hours. Many trips are taken annually by our Jersey cattle club. Such as visiting each member's home and inspecting his project and going to Auburn, our state experiment station, each year. This is a trip of great importance to any member. The trip that seemed most important to me, however, was a trip to Tupelo, Mississippi, with our County agent, Mr. C. E. Stapp, for the purpose of purchasing more purebred Jersey calves for our club. There are many events in 4-H club life more important than the club rally and camp.

My association with other boys and with our county agent has been of more value to me than I can estimate. I have learned to be a better judge of people and have leaned to appreciate the value of good leadership and the necessity for it. I have enjoyed exchanging ideas with other club members. I think that I am a better citizen than I was before I entered the work, because I have leaned to respect the rights and opinions of other people. I know the joy of having some definite purpose behind the work I am doing and working to accomplish that purpose.

I have had my heart, my head, and my hands in all that I did and I think that I have developed into a healthier boy than I would have been without 4-H club work.

I hope that my experience will encougrage some other boy to enter the work and enjoy it as much as I have.

HOOVER PROMISE TO MAKE SPEECH

Retiring Chief Executive Says He Will "Come Back" Some Day

Ogden, Utah, March 20. — Former President Herbert Hoover, returning to his home at Palo Alta, Cal., told a crowd of Utahans who greeted him at the train here Monday that "some day" he will come back and make a political speech "that will be worth listening to."

J. Reuben Clark, Jr., recently retired ambassador to Mexico, told Mr. Hoover:

"You have been the pioneer in the world of trouble and calamity." Mr. Clark said, "Those who come after you will reap where they did not sow. We love you, have faith in you and wish you happiness and success the rest of your life."

Responding Mr. Hoover thanked the crowd for their greeting which he said touched him deeply.

"I have gone east from California perhaps a thousand times in a half century," he said, "but I enjoy it most when I am coming west again."

As he stepped from a train into brisk Wyoming Herbert Hoover talked readily about fishing.

En route to his home at Palo Alto, Cal., Mr. Hoover alighted to exercise with a walk on the station platform the ten minutes the train stopped there Sunday night. With him were his son, Allan, and Lawrence Richey, his secretary.

Mr. Hoover said he hoped, next summer to be able to accept a long standing invitation to come to Wyoming to fish in the Jackson Hole Country.

Arrival in California was scheduled for Tuesday. Under present plans he will leave the train at Oakland, be welcomed by friends and Republican leaders and motor to Palo Alto, where an official delegation will receive him. Mrs. Hoover was to arrive at the home Monday from a visit in Southern California.

PASTORS OF CHILTON AND UNITY ASSOCIATIONS TO MEET SOON

Please announce through your paper that there will be a meeting of the pastors of the Chilton and Unity Baptist Associations, Monday, April 3, at 10 o'clock a.m.

The meeting will be held in the Sunday school annex of the Baptist church at Clanton. Laymen or other workers are welcome.—J. W. Jones.

RELIEF WORK TO BE STARTED SOON

Staff of Local Organization Selected and Are At Work Here

The executive committee of the Chilton County Welfare Board, acting as the official relief organization for Chilton County, met Tuesday morning and named the follwing workers who will be employed for social service in connection with the administration of the R. F. C. work relief funds in the county:

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin was appointed director of the social service organization. The following were named as field workers: Mrs. Avis Burnett, of Clanton; Miss Icie Bell Cobern, of Mt. Creek; Miss Ruth Jones, of Jemison; Miss Mary Ellis, of Clanton.

These field workers, under the direction of Miss Austin, will be assigned the responsibility of taking applications for relief work from people in the four districts of the county. Centers will be established throughout the county. After the applications have been received, the field workers will have the responsibility of making investingation of conditions of those who apply for relief.

Wednesday morning applications were received at Verbena, Jemison, Maplesville, and Clanton. Thursday morning applications will be received at Mt. Creek, Mineral Springs, Pletcher, and Cane Creek; Thursday afternoon at Enterprise, Mullins School house, Culp Schoolhouse and Thorsby.

People who wish to apply for work under the administration of the R. F. C. money in the county are urged to go to the places named above when and where the workers will be present and ready to take applications. The workers will push the program as rapidly as possible, and it is hoped that a number of people in the county can be put to work within the next week.

Mr. H. A. Harris has been appointed central clearing officer. He will work with the Commissioners Court in properly distributing the workers to different places in the county after they have been certified through the social service investigating authorities.

Mr. Frank Callen has been chosen as disbursing officer of the R. F. C. funds. He will issue payment to all workers after they have performed the service assigned to them.

Gasoline Stolen

Gasoline thieves made a wholesale raid on the bulk plant of the Woco Pep Company in South Clanton last Saturday night, getting away with something like 3,000 gallons, according to R. J. Sumner, local distributor for the company.

Mr. Sumner stated that he could not tell how much was carried away or how much was wasted. The lock on one of the big tanks was broken, and a hose pipe apparently used to run the gas into a tank. Then the faucet was left open. It is possible that the biggest part of the loss was represented in the quantity that was allowed to run out on the ground and into the creek after the theft had been accomplished.

No sign or evidence of the waste was available, owing to the heavy rains that fell Saturday night and Sunday. Thousands of gallons might have run out of the tank and been carried away in the flood waters of the creek without leaving any signs in the vicinity.

Shed Being Built

Strawberry growers of the Clanton district will be glad to know that the L. & N. Railroad Company has at last consented to build a shed over the platform at their freight depot in Clanton for the convenience of those who load and ship berries on freight cars from here.

For many months, in fact it might properly be said for years, Dief has been after the railroad trying to get them to do this. The work has actually begun, and will be ready when the berry shipments begin in the latter part of April.

When the shed has been built berry growers will not have to suffer inconvenience and losses on account of rain or hot sun, as they have had to do on some occasion in the past.

"Smiling Through"

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton urges everybody to see the wonderful motion picture "Smiling Through," which is being sponsored by the Club and showing for the last performance at the Wadesonian Theatre to-night (Thursday.)

Norma Shearer, one of the screen's most beautiful and gifted women, takes the leading part in the picture. It is truly a picture worth seeing, a picture worth bringing the children to see. It is very touching throughout, leaving one to wonder from where it derived the title, "Smiling Through."

MRS. DALEE THORNTON MILLER

Mrs. Dalee Thornton Miller died at her home in Clanton last Saturday night, following a long illness. Burial was by Martin Monday in Clanton cemetery. The funeral was at Martin's Funeral Home, conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, assisted by Rev. R. L. Huffman.

Pallbearers were W. H. Sartor, Dr. E. G. Hyman, W. A. Kemp, Renfroe Mullins, Frank Callen and W. I. Mullins.

Mrs. Miller was a daughter of the late L. A. Thornton, one of the pioneer citizens o fClanton. She is survived by one son, James Forsyth, and one sister, Mrs. Martin of Roba, Ala.

ABOUT SINGEING MOTHS AND SHEARING HORSES

You have heard of folks building fires in their gardens and fields to singe moths, insects, etc. Also it is a pretty general custom among the owners of horses and mules to shear their animals when the hair becomes too long and thick. Now, here we have introduced two separate and distinct subjects; but if you will read on you will be able to see that our intention is to kindly focus them both and bring them together and make something useful out of the combination.

One day last week a crowd of road workers were working a road near a field. They noticed five or six men pulling grass like fury. When they had gotten a pile together it was fired and a horse was led into the flames. After this process was completed, the men began to pull hands full of grass, set them on fire and hold them to the horse. The road men figured that the horse was being treated for some disease, but upon questioning the men in the field they learned that the long hair on the horse was merely being singed off so that he would not get so hot when put to work.

Now, this is a new wrinkle, so far as we know, but it is not such a bad one—that is, if the horse can stand it: and reports are that this particular horse showed little if any dislike for the operation.

CREAM STATION OPEN AGAIN

Evan Parrish, manager of Southern Seed & Plant Co., advises that the cream station is again in operation after a temporary shut-down. All farmers who are interested in shipping cream are requested to bring it on Saturday of each week.

300 BOYS HERE FOR CLUB RALLY

Clifford Manning of Isabella Elected New County 4-H Club President

The annual rally of the 4-H Club Boys of Chilton County, held at the courthouse in Clanton last Thursday, was a very spirited and highly interesting event. About 300 boys were in attendance, representing clubs from all parts of Chilton County.

The meeting was opened at ten o'clock, by singing "America." Invocation by Rev. Presley Cochran, pastor of Clanton Methodist church. The boys joined heartily in singing, "The More We Get Together."

The program was under direction of County Agent C. E. Stapp, assisted by Prof. J. P. Montgomery. The business session was presided over by Clyde Popwell, who has been president of the County 4-H Club organization for the past year.

Mr. Stapp made an explanation of the club work, outlining plans for the coming year and distributing club supplies.

Election of county club officers evoked a great deal of interest and enthusiasm. Particularly impressive were the nominating speeches which were made in true convention form placing the names of different boys in the race for county president.

After about an hour of balloting the following new officers were declared duly elected: Clifford Manning, of the Isabella Club, president; James Dennis, of the Calf Club; vice president; Clyde Popwell, of the Calf Club, secretary; Harry Parker, of the Jackson's Chapel Club, reporter; Floy Devaughn, of Thomas Club, song leader.

Cleveland Driver, president of the Concord Club, made a very interesting talk of a few minutes, impressing the boys with a few of the important things that make for successful club work.

Mr. J. N. Dennis was called upon for a short address. His response was fittingly expressed in words of encouragement to the boys.

Mr. Stapp read a paper which was written by James Dennis, giving his experiences in Club work for the past three years. It is a composition which will be entered in a national contest, and is one of the finest testimonials of the fine accomplishments that possible for a boy who is diligent and faithful and resourceful in his club work.

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton offered during the past year a silver loving cup to the club doing the best all-round work. The trophy was won by the Concord Club. Awarding of the cup was made at the meeting last Thursday by Mack Wyatt, president of the Kiwanis Club.

For outstanding individual club work, Leonard Eiland, of the Enterprise Club and Cleveland Driver, of the Concord Club, were awarded watches which were given by the Farmers Hardware Co., of Clanton. Presentation was made by County Agent, Stapp.

Prof. Earle Thomas awarded to Marvin Durbin, of the Isabella F. F. A. Club a trophy of the highest honor from the national organization for meeting all the requirements in all degrees of the F. F. A.

The meeting was concluded at noon, when the boys were served a lunch of sandwiches and bananas by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

The members of Concord Club express their thanks to the Kiwanis Club for the loving cup. Leonard Eiland and Cleveland Driver express their thanks to the Farmers Hardware Company for the watches.

Sing at Courthouse

There will be a community singing at the courthouse in Clanton Thursday night of this week, March 23rd, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. All singers of the county are invited to take part. The Sunshine Four of Clanton and Thorsby will be present and present several selections; this quartet is composed of Jesse C. Jones and Herbert Lowery of Clanton, and Elbert Hall and Gresham Lowery of

MR. BUTTERFIELD IS SICK

Readers of The Union-Banner will regret to know that Mr. L. A. Butterfield will not be able to continue his weekly contributions of "Prophecy Corner."

A letter from his wife says, "Mr. Butterfield is ill and is not able to write. He says that because of his other work he will not be able to continue writing for the paper."

We regret that it is necessary to discontinue this feature, and it is our hope that Mr. Butterfield may soon be restored to his usual good health.

Teacher — Tommy, where was the Declaration of Independence signed?

Tommy—At the bottom, I guess.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

GAME AND FISHERIES

Montgomery, Ala., March 21.—Rehabilitation of useful forms of wild forest life has become an increasingly important factor in the conservation program of the Alabama Department of Game and Fisheries.

This constructive work embraces the development of game and bird preserves, refuges and sanctuaries, the propagation and planting of birds, animals and fish in suitable protected areas and encouraging public interest.

In January, 1926, under contract with the Federal Forest Service, which owns approximately 135,000 acres of wild land in south Lawrence, north Winston and east Franklin Counties in northwest Alabama, Commissioner I. T. Quinn planted 105 deer and located two dozen wild turkeys within this area. Today there is a minimum of 1,200 deer and 2,500 turkeys. Other areas will be developed as revenues justify.

In 1927 Alabama's first fish hatchery was completed and dedicated to the state for fish cultural purposes. The site for the hatchery was purchased by sportsmen of Calhoun, Etowah and Talladega Counties and deeded to the state. The hatchery in 1932 yielded three quarters of a million fingerling which were planted in suitable protected public waters of the state for the use of all the people of the state.

With the additional facilities afforded by the branch hatchery at Aliceville, which until recently has been operated by the government, the department expects to plant at least one million fish in the public waters of Alabama this year.

At the special session of the 1932 state legislature, the commissioner secured the enactment of a law which authorizes qualified persons, firms and corporations, under proper license, to engage in game farming. Already several have qualified under the act and are installing equipment, and within the next few weeks will begin operation. The birds and animals of these farms will be raised specifically for restocking purposes.

HONEYDEW ON LEAVES

Montgomery, Ala., March 21.—The name honeydew is commonly attached to certain sugary substances found on the leaves of trees, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry. These substances appear to be derived from two sources. Exceedingly small insects known as aphids feed upon the leaves and secrete a sweet material called honeydew which is prized very highly for food by ants, bees and other insects.

The second source of honeydew is from the leaves direct. During the hot humid weather the leaves of certain trees become oversupplied with water. The pressure from within the plant may force this through the pores to the surface of the leaf. This water contains in solution various substances, some of which are sweetish. These substances rfmain often as stick material on the leaf after the evaporation of the water and some of them comprise a portion of what is known as honeydew.

The supply of honeydew derived either from the leaves direct or through the medius of aphids depends to a great extent upon the healthful condition of the tree. Any harmful agency, such as fire, that deprives the ground or the plants of moisture tends to lessen the amount of the latter in the foliage with the result that less honeydew is formed.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

GIRLS STUDY POULTRY

Rockford, Ala.—Fifteen Coosa County 4-H club girls have decided to study poultry and have planned and built brooder houses.

Twelve 4-H club girls who began studying poultry last year have averaged making $30 per month net on their projects for the past six months according to Miss Mignon Mallette, county home demonstration agent.

HALE DAIRY PROGRESS

Greensboro, Ala.—Progress in dairy development work in Hale County is reported by J. L. Dawson, county agent. The number of farmers selling milk and cream has increased from 200 in 1926 to 1,150 at the present time. During the past year the sales of milk and cream amounted to $225,000. This was 43 per cent of the amount farmers of the county received for their cotton crop.

"Farmers are operating on a sounder basis now than they have during the seven years I have been in this county," Mr. Lawson said. "Within the next few years the total income from livestock will far exceed the value of the cotton crop, regardless of the price of cotton," he added.

PROFIT ON EGGS

Dadeville, Ala.—Poultrymen of Tallapoosa County are clearing approximately five cents per dozen on their eggs, according to F. N. Farrington, county agent. This is made possible through proper mangement, feeding, and development of a good marketing system. Most of the eggs are sent by truck to Atlanta.

Much educational work on better methods of poultry production has been done by Mr. Farrington.

MILKSTOOL MUSINGS

The 1930 census reported that Alabama had 6,386 head of registered Jersey cattle, a gain of 39 per cent during the preceding 10-year period.

A little time might be spent very profitably in an attempt to accumulate all the available information relating to the food value of milk and its products.

Bill Nye, humorist, once had a cow he wanted to sell and he unblushingly advertised all her faults while naming the few virtues she seems to have possessed. His advertisement ran:

"Owing to my ill health, I will sell at my residence in township 19, range 18, according to the government's survey, one plush raspberry cow, age 8 years. She is of undoubted courage and gives milk frequently. To the man who does not fear death in any form, she will be a great boon. She is very much attached to her present home with a stay chain, but she will be sold to anyone who will agree to treat her right. She is one-fourth shorthorn and three-quarters hyena. I will also throw in a double barrel shot gun which goes with her. In May she usually goes away for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wobbly legs. Her name is rose. I would rather sell her to a non-resident, the farther away, the better."

ANY DAY MAY BE HOG KILLING DAY

Auburn, Ala.—It is no longer necessary to wait for a cold crisp morning to kill hogs. Any day may be hog-killing day, due to a method developed for the use of ice in curing pork by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. This method was worked out by J. C. Grimes, W. E. Sewell and G. J. Cottier, and is explained as follows:

"Obtain a molasses barrel or some similar container. Wash the barrel until it is clean and odorless and scald with boiling water. Dress the hog as soon as possible after it is slaughtered and divide the carcass into the different cuts. Rub each cut well with salt, especially around the ends of the bones, and place the meat in the barrel, skin side down. Apply chipped ice at the rate of 200 pounds of ice to each 100 pounds of meat. Use a layer of meat and a layer of ice. When the ice melts a brine will be formed in sufficient quantity to cover the meat.

"Make a curing mixture of 40 pounds of salt, 10 pounds of sugar, and 9 ounces of saltpeter for each 100 pounds of meat to be cured. At the end of 24 hours take the meat out, rub each piece thoroughly with the curing mixture, and place in the iced brine. Pour into the barrel any of the curing mixture which remains after the meat is treated. Weight the meat down with clean bricks or stones. Cover the barrel with clean boards and place in the coolest room available.

"Leave the meat in the brine for 25 days. If the live weight of the hog is more than 200 pounds leave in the brine for 30 to 35 days. A scum of mold will probably form on top of the brine but this will not necessarily injure the meat. At the end of the curing period take the meat out of the barrel and wash thoroughly in warm water."

Have you any children, Mr. Smith?
Yes—three daughters.
Do they live at home with you?

Not Allowed to Charge Farmers For Filling Out Loan Application Blank

Mr. Stapp Says He Wishes to Wind Up the Seed Loan Business Within The Next Ten Days.

Farmers who apply for loans this year from the $90,000,000 fund authorized by congress for crop production loans, should refuse to pay any fees for help in the preparation of their loan applications, it was declared by U. H. Prickett, field inspector, of the Crop Production Loan Office, stationed at Clanton.

The law as enacted by congress this year specifically prohibits the charging of any fee for the preparation of the application, Mr. Prickett explained and provides for fine or imprisonment, or both, for any person found guilty of assessing such a charge. Notarial fees, however, are still necessary, as are fees charged by the county recording official for recording the lien given as security for the loan, and for searching the records for prior liens.

Prospective borrowers need not write to Washington for application blanks and detailed information about the loans, Mr. Prickett said, but may get that material direct from him.

The application blank this year requires a statement of the amount of the loan desired, the number of acres for which seed and fertilizer are to be purchased, the amount desired for feed, and the amount desired for fuel and oil for tractors. The application also requires a statement of the amount of the loan which is to be used for making repairs or for the purchase of other supplies. The sum total of these several items must not exceed the maximum rates per acre specified in the regulations.

A legal description of the land on which the crops are to be planted is also required, together with a statement of the acreage of crops grown by the applicant in 1932, and the yields obtained. The applicant is required to file a statement of seed and feed on hand at the time of applying for a loan.

To obtain the loan, the application blank stipulates, the applicant must agree to use the money loaned only for the purchase of supplies necessary for crop production in 1933 on the land described. Prospective borrowers must also state that they have neither the means nor the credit with which to secure these production supplies, and that unless the loan is granted, they will be unable to farm in 1933.

Significant differences between the 1933 and 1932 regulations governing crop production loans are that this year the maximum permitted to any one borrower is $300, and that, to qualify for a loan, borrowers must agree to reduce their acreage of cash crops 30 per cent below their 1932 acreage, provided their farming operations are above a specified minimum. As in 1932, a first lien on the 1933 crop is required. Loans are to be repaid on or before October 31, 1933. The regulations make it unlawful for any person to dispose of or assist in disposing of any crops given as security for any crop loan, except for the account of the secretary of agriculture and provide for fine and imprisonment for violation of such requirement. The regulations require each borrower to agree to plant a garden for home use and to plant sufficient acreage to provide for necessary livestock.

Lesson for March 26

REVIEW: JESUS OUR EXAMPLE IN SERVICE.

GOLDEN TEXT—How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him. Acts 10:38.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories of Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Shows Us How.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Like Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Our Example in Service.

The method of review must always be determined by the genius of the teacher, the grade of the class, and the aptitude of the pupils. Three methods for the Senior, Young People and Adult classes are suggested, the second and third of which are adaptations of the method suggested by the Lutheran Lesson committee.

I. The Summary Method.

In the use of this method the principal facts of each lesson will be brought out with the leading teachings. Assignments should be made a week in advance.

II. The Key Note of the First Six Chapters of Mark From Which the Lessons of the Quarter Have Been Taken.

Chapter 1: Jesus as the Gospel Preacher. His preparation was in the wilderness alone with God. It was in Galilee that he called his first disciples and began to preach. While the synagogue was the best place, naturally when the leaders became hostile, the desert, the mountain, and even a fishing boat was his pulpit.

Chapter 2: Jesus as the Teacher. He gave them a new conception of the forgiveness of sins, fasting, and the Sabbath.

Chapter 3: Jesus as the Messiah. He chose twelve of his ambassadors, being somewhat analogous to the twelve tribes in the old dispensation.

Chapter 4: Jesus as the Interpreter of the Kingdom of God. Three outstanding parables reveal its characteristics.

Chapter 5: Jesus as the Great Physician. The healing of the demoniac, the woman with the issue of blood, restoring to life of the daughter of Jairus are outstanding examples.

Chapter 6: Jesus as the Greater Provider. An outstanding example of his ability to provide for the disciples is seen in the feeding of the five thousand.

III. A Method Which Embraces the Grouping of the Quarter's Lessons Under Significant Headings.

1. Some helpers of Jesus (Lessons 1 and 6). The helpers indicated are John the Baptist who is the first recorded helper, and the twelve apostles. It is strikingly significant that though Jesus possessed all power he chose to place in the hands of ordinary men the continuance of his work. He is able to use men of varied gifts and temperaments, as shown in the twelve.

2. Some works of Jesus (Lessons 2, 3 and 4). He met and overcame the Devil in the wilderness. He cast out demons. He healed the sick and he forgave sins.

3. Some teachings of Jesus (Lessons 5, 7 and 8). Because the traditions of the Jews had obscured the law, he taught the higher meaning of the law, especially as it pertained to the Sabbath. By means of parables, he took the common things of life and clothed them with vital and profound significance.

4. The power of Jesus (Lessons 9, 10 and 11). This power was exhibited over the forces of nature, demons, physical ailments, and even death itself.

5. An enemy of Jesus (Lesson 12). The Devil is the supreme enemy of Jesus. Anything that hinders the progress of the gospel may be considered as an enemy. In this light he has many enemies, among which may be mentioned alcohol and narcotics. The drinking of intoxicating liquors and smoking of cigarettes, etc., dull man's moral and spiritual natures and incapacitate him for the highest and most efficient service.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

In the first chapter of James we read that any man who desires wisdom may have it provided he will ask God for it. However, the man must ask in faith. He musn't waver. The one who wavers, so James says, is like a wave of sea driven by the wind and tossed.

A wave goes the way the wind goes. There are people like that. Every wave of sentiment or social change moves them. The remarkable statement in the first chapter of James is, "Let not that man think that he shall receive anything of the Lord." In other words, if God should give a wavering man wisdom, somebody could talk him out of it. History proves that God never used a man who wavers.

John the Baptist stuck to his conviction until he lost his head. Paul traveled a bloody road. "This one thing I do," he said. For fifty years John Wesley stuck to his theory of heartfelt religion of the witness of the spirit. Whitefield crossed the Atlantic Ocean thirteen times. He died in harness. Just a short while before he went home he preached to the crowds that clamored for his message. The world needs leadership today that will not waver. We need statesmen instead of politicians. We need prophets in the pulpits instead of time-servers. We need men to whom the cause is everything. A cause which is not worth dying for is not big enough to dominate big men.

I have a friend who is mayor of a city. He is an astute politician. I do not agree with him in his ideas of government. But you can't beat him. The reason is that he has conviction and stands for his crowd. He is dependable. A wavering man no one trusts. God won't trust him. The devil can't depend upon him. Man doesn't believe in him.

I used to have a young ministerial student in the Bob Jones college that I had to fix every few days. Every time he would go away to preach on Sunday he would run into somebody who would upset him in his loyalty. He'd come back Monday and I'd have to fix him. He'd stay put until next Sunday. I never have had much hope for that fellow. But the power of God can fix a man like that. There is no hope for him anywhere else except in God. Jesus fixed Peter. He turned this vacillating man into a rock.

Charley Bulledge of Verbena was a visitor to Clanton Monday. Mr. Gulledge is preparing to rebuild his automobile service station which was destroyed by fire about a month ago.

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

Text: Genesis 44th chapter and 34th verse, "For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me . .? All Bible readers are well acquainted with the story of Joseph, how he was sold by his brothers, and how he was carried down into Egypt, and there sold to a man who held a high place in the kingdom, and also how Joseph, after a very trying temptation and some dreams while in prison, became the chief man in the kingdom next under the king.

The God of Joseph's father, Jacob, made known to Joseph that a grievous famine was to come upon the whole land, lasting seven years and instructed Joseph to save up corn for the seven plentious years before the famine. Joseph's brothers were compelled to go down to Egypt to buy corn after their own crop had given out. Joseph did not make himself known to them at first. On their last trip Joseph told them to bring their younger brother, Benjamin, and when they were ready to return with the corn to their home, Joseph worked a trick that made it appear that Benjamin had stolen a certain cup that was found in his sack; so all had to return to Joseph's house.

Joseph pretended that he would keep Benjamin as a servant as a punishment for the theft of the cup.

Judah had become surity to his father, Jacob, for the safety of his younger brother, Benjamin, promising him that he would surely return Benjamin to his father; so when Joseph was going to keep Benjamin, Judah uttered the words of my text: "For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad not with me . . . ?"

We may imagine how Judah felt about it all, since he had promised Jacob, his father, that he would take good care of Benjamin, and return him safely to his home, and now it had begun to look like that he could not fulfill his promise. He even asked Joseph to keep him in place of Benjamin.

Now, let us take the words of the text and apply them to the great host of church men today who are fathers of boys. As a rule the men of our churches today—men who have claimed Christ for their savior a long time—never speak to their boys about the salvation of their souls. How can a Christian father go on day after day, from the time the boy is born until he reaches manhood, and never tell the boy how much he loves the Lord?

Men are very anxious about the physical well-being of theri children, and this is right. It is their duty to do so, but, my brother, a greater duty that you owe to that boy is that you urge upon him the great importance of getting right with God. I fear sometimes that some fathers hesitate to talk to their boys, all because of the kind of life that they, themselves, live in the presence of the boy.

I guess I would be just like them if I was careless about attending church and careless about the kind of language I used in the boy's presence. But there is a remedy for all of this. You could go to that boy and confess to him that you had not lived up to your duty to God and to your church, and also to him, and promise him that you are going to change all of this and begin to do your duty, and then ask him to get right with God.

A confession of that kind, made to your boy, will do more to put him to thinking than you would suppose. You may be sure that boy is watching you and perhaps is wondering if his father really has any religion. I have had quite a number of boys tell me that their father never spoke to them about their soul in all of their life. Now, to that boy's father let me ask the question in the text, how can you go up to your father on that great day and your boy, or boys, be not with you? What kind of answer could you give to your Christ if He should ask you why you didn't bring your boy with you? Could you look him in the face and say that you was not responsible for the boy, when you had not said one word to him?

After you have done all that you could to get your boy to accept Christ and he still refused to do so, then you could look Jesus in the face and say: "Lord, I did all that a father could do." Then your Lord would say. "Well done, my good and faithful servant." Fathers and mothers, how can you go up to your father and your lads be not with you?

May God help you to become interested in your children, is the prayer of Elder Blossom.

LEGAL NOTICE

State of Alabama, Chilton County; To Mr. Charles Franz, 1715 Cass Street, Nashville, Tennessee:

Whereas, Peoples Savings Bank, a corporation, as plaintiff in said cause, has obtained an attachment out of this court issued on, to-wit, 23rd day of February, 1933, against the estate of the said defendant, Charles Franz, which attachment has been levied upon the following described property:

The Northeast quarter of the Southwest quarter of the Northeast quarter of section 36, township 22, range 14, less 15 feet across the South side for a street running in an Easterly and Westerly direction and less a rectangular parcel of land in the Southeast corner of said 10-acre tract, extending 660 feet in a Northerly and Southerly direction and 165 feet in an Easterly and Westerly direction, and being the parcel of land heretofore sold by said Charles O. Franz to Mrs. Farley, said 7½ acres more or less attached being known as the Charles O. Franz home place in the Reynolds Addition, East of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, in Chilton County, as the property of said defendant, to-wit, Charles Franz; and whereas, it appears that the said Charles Franz, defendant, as aforesaid, non-resident of the State of Alabama.

Now, therefore, the said Charles Franz, wherever he may reside is hereby notified of the levy and pendency of said attachment.

Witness my hand this the 9th day of March, 1933.

MAPLE SPRINGS

As formerly announced, the service last Saturday was held at the home of Jim Mitchell. The church was fairly well represented. The pastor used as his text, Nehemiah 2:18. "Let us rise up and build." Happy to say, the people seemed very much enthused in regard to building a church to take the place of the one destroyed by fire Sunday, March 12.

Two committees were elected in conference to look after the interest of the new building. First a building committee was appointed, composed of the following: O. L. Devaughn, Rev. W. H. Wilson, E. H. Bowles. O. L. Devaughn is chairman of the above committee. The finance committee is composed of the following: Rev. M. Lockhart, J. T. Sorrell, Emmett Wilson, Jim Mitchell, Miss Ruth Dennis and Miss Lera Mae Mitchell. The pastor is chairman of the above committee.

It was unanimously agreed to go right into the business of planning for the interest of the building. We are gratified over the spirit in which the people are responding in regard to this most worth-while task. People on every side are offering timber and labor, and some have already given money. Many reliable promises have come from various sources for which the pastor cannot find words to express thanks. Especially are we thankful to Bro. E. H. Bowles for offering the use of his saw mill without cost as far as the machinery is concerned.

The pastor realizes a depression is on, but with the proper cooperation we can build a house and almost look back with wonder how we did it.

The first step will probably be to know who is willing to give timber, in order that we may get the best location for the mill. If any one wishes to aid in any way, consult one or both of the above named committees and it will surely be prayerfully acknowledged.—M. Lockhart, pastor.

THE SEVEN CHURCHES OF ASIA

(By R. L. Huffman

Paul at Corinth found Aquila and his wife, Priscilla, who were tentmakers like Paul himself. When Paul left Corinth and went to Ephesus, Aquila and Priscilla went with him. Acts 18:1-21. Paul, after he had preached to or reasoned with the Jews, left Ephesus, and also left Aquila and Priscilla at Ephesus. In Paul's absence, a man named Apollos came to Ephesus. Apolos was "eloquent and mighty in the scriptures," but he knew "only the baptism of John." Aquila and Priscilla took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly." (Acts 18:24-28).

Upon Paul's return to Ephesus, he found disciples who had been baptized "unto John's baptism." These desciples were baptized again; this time in the name of the Lord Jesus." (Acts 19:1-7). On this second visit to Ephesus Paul remained more than two years, teaching the "word of the Lord Jesus, both to Jews and to the Greeks." (Acts 19:10.)

This gives us to understand that Paul's preaching planted or started the seven churches (which were seven congregations) of Asia. They were located at Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamos, Thyatria, Sardis, Philadelphia and Iaodicea. (Rev. 1:11). Some of these cities are exsiting yet. We wonder why all are not existing.

In the second and third chapters of Revelation the Apostle John wrote by inspiration a special message to each of these congregations, instructing, commending, rebuking and showing the things needed. John says "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches." So the massage to them was not intended for them alone, but for anyone who will hear what God has to say.

The circumstances show that John and Paul were laborers together in the same field. Paul planted these churches and John wrote to them and endorsed the faithful in them as brethren and companions "in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ." (Rev. 1:9). —R. L. Huffman.

PATES CHAPEL

This community was very much saddened when the death angel visited the home of Mr. D. W. Freeman Thursday afternoon and carried him away from his loving wife and children. He lived in Pleasant Grove community, and was buried in Pleasant Grove cemetery. He was a member of the Masons. The remains were in charge of the Masons.

We did not have Sunday school on account of the bad weather, but hope to have a big crowd next Sunday.

MR. DAVEWOOD FREEMAN DIED

Mr. Davewood Freeman, following a three weeks illness, died at his home in the Pleasant Grove community near Jemison on March 16, 1933. Funeral services were held at the Pleasant Grove church, and was buried in the Pleasant Grove cemetery on March 17, 1933. Rev. Honeycutt conducted the funeral services, accompanied by the members of the Jemison Masonic Lodge No. 411, who gave the last Masonic honors to a departed brother.

Mr. Freeman was the son of George and Moriah Freeman of Bibb County. He was born 82 years ago near Centreville, Alabama. The early part of his life was spent in Antioch community of Bibb County. He later moved to Hollypond of Cullman County, where he lived for a number of years. Later he moved from Cullman County to Jemison, where he livd for the past thirty years.

Mr. Freeman was a member of the Baptist Church and of the Jemison Masonic Lodge.

In his active years he was a very successful farmer. He was a high type Christian gentleman, a splendid citizen, a good neighbor and had a wide circle of friends. His departure is deeply felt by all of those who have associated with him.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mattie Freeman, and six children; Tom Freeman of Cullman, Mrs. Lillie Maddox of Jemison, Mrs. Bailey of Cullman, Alfred Freeman and Jim Freeman of Oneonta, and Miss Eulah Freeman of Jemison. He is also survived by two brothers, George and Jasper Freeman of Bibb County.—J. P. Montgomery, Zora H. Turner, Percy Freeman.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

The Ladies Guild, scheduled for this week, Thursday afternoon, will be held at the home of Mrs. R. R. Franklin, and not at the Thorsby Institute dormintory as announced.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Belter and children of Newark, Ohio, arrived in Thorsby Friday night to spend some time with Mrs. Belter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Higgins.

Regular preaching services at the Thorsby Baptist church next Sunday, both morning and evening. Sunday school and young people will meet at the usual hour.

A unique affair during last week, Friday evening, called a "kid party" was given by the Misses Lucille Each and Mary Louise Reinhardt, students in Thorsby, to members of Thorsby Institute faculty. The guests were requested to appear dressed as children and the staid members of the faculty returned, in spirit, to childhood days for the occasion, playing musical chairs and other juvenile games, and having for refreshments small cups of cocoa and animal crackers. Stunts were also given to some of the guests. Of the four contestants, Messrs. Maddox and Sutlive, Misses Phillips and McKee, Mr. Sutlive took the prize for eating a pie off a saucer without touching it with his hands. Miss Phillips took the prize for pinning the tail on the donkey in the correct place. Mrs. Maddox was rewarded for being the best dressed little girl.

Mrs. Marion Smith is so ill as to be confined to her bed.

A matter of more than usual interest to many Thorsby people was taking Thorsby Institute girls glee club to Montgomery Sunday morning to sing for "The Big Brothers Bible Class." The sixteen members of the club and Miss Phillips, their leader, and a few other interested citizens composed the party that left Thorsby at 7:15, just before the heavy rain and electrical storm set in, that lasted practically all day. However, they arrived safely in good time to accept the splendid facilities for a clean up and get read before going on the platform. Everybody was disappointed that the storm prevented use of the radio, which usually broadcasts the program of the Bible Class. But they gave a good account of themselves as worthy representatives of Thorsby Institute and rendered three numbers of high class music in a manner which greatly pleased the more than 1,000 people in the audience, who will no doubt remember it a long time. The girls and Miss Phillips want to thank everybody who helped in any way to enable them to accept the invitation of the Bible Class.

Mrs. T. W. Robinson returned home after spending several weeks with Mr. Robinson, near Birmingham. She is expecting to remain home some time now.

Mrs. J. L. Mixson had as dinner guests Saturday Mesdames Mack Gray and R. R. Franklin.

Mrs. J. E. Each and daughters, Mrs. W. M. Each and the Misses Juanita and Lucille Each, spent Saturday in Birmingham shopping.

School will be held at Thorsby Institute next Saturday, March 25, from 8:30 a.m. until 1:10 p.m. There will be only one session.

These are anxious days for Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers. A report Tuesday afternoon from their president, Mr. C. C. Peterson, says there was apparently but little damage done to strawberries by the freezing temperature Monday night, and should Tuesday night be more favorable, there will still be prospects for a good crop.

At this writing, 4 p.m. Tuesday, the mercury stands above 50. The skies are clear and the wind, which is quite strong, has lost its biting cold of Monday; so we hope the worst is over.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kendrick and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinnon of Birmingham visited Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kendrick. Saturday.

Mrs. W. P. Lowery entertained a group of ladies with a quilting party last Friday afternoon. Refreshments were served and everyone present spent an enjoyable evening.

Miss Naemi Turnquist is spending a week in Fairfield with her sister, Mrs. Carl Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Billingsley and son, Brady, and daughter, Jane, and little Jack Jenkins spent the week end in Birmingham with friends and relatives.

Mr. W. U. Robinson of Birmingham spent the week end in Thorsby with his family.

Mr. Fred Howard, Messrs. Kenneth O'Barr, Pat Tracy, Clyde Parker spent the week end fishing on the Coosa River. They caught over 15 pounds of fish.

Mr. C. R. Foss and son, John, and Mr. A. E. Reagan spent Sunday in Montgomery.

Mary Helen Hayes, who is staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Green, while attending the public school here, is confined to her bed with measles.

Mrs. Earl Marcus had as dinner guests on Monday Mrs. J. L. Hixson, Mrs. Mack Gray and Mrs. R. R. Franklin.

Mrs. Ed Piper had as her dinner guest Tuesday Mrs. Dollie Curd of Birmingham.

The Helen Keller Literary Society presented an interesting program at the Institute auditorium Saturday night. The Thorsby Band, under the direction of Mr. J. O. Johnson, played two numbers at the opening of the program and two at the close. The Institute Boys' Quartet sang two numbers, "On the Road to Mandalay," and "Gypsy Life." The quartet is composed of Leo Spivey, Hal Broadhead, Phares Raybon and J. T. Faircloth. The Thorsby Band and the quartet were new features on the program and were very much enjoyed. An important part of the program was a debate on the question, Resolved, that at least one-half of our state and local revenue should be deprived from sources other than tangible property. The Affirmative was supported by Conway Thornburgh and Mary Bratton; the negative side by Lois Thompson and Carl Ekblad. The point for the better of the first two speakers was awarded to Conway Thornburgh; the point for the better of the second two speakers was given to Mary Bratton. The point for the debate as a whole was given to the affirmative. Juanita Each, the newly elected president presided over the meeting. J. T. Faircloth acted as chairman of the debate.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reinhardt had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reinhardt last Friday evening.

The following is the honor roll of the Thorsby Institute:

First, no grade below 85 per cent, general average of 90 per cent or above—Hal Broadhead, Carl Ekblad Ruth Foss, Jack Higgins, C. B. Jean, Phares Raybon, Linnie Bell Reinhardt, Mary Louise Reinhardt, Lois Thompson, Nell Tracy.

Mims, Milton Diefenderfer, Mary Bratton, C. B. Jean.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Marcus had as guests Saturday Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Marcus of Kennedy, Ala.

Mrs. W. H. Goodgame spent Saturday in Clanton with her daughter, Mrs. Webb Parrish, and little granddaughter, Billy Ann, who is suffering with bronchial trouble.

COMEDY TRIO HERE SOON

A stellar comedy trio, composed of Buster Keaton, Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante and Polly Moran does its share to attempt to lift the current depression blues in "The Passionate Plumber," which hearlded as M-G-M's latest laugh riot, will open at the Wadesonian Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, March 27 and 28.

The three are said to have sidesplitting adventures in a story which depicits the diverting career of a plumber, who becomes the guardian of a Parisian beauty and is involved in a series of riotous experiences in his attempt to prevent the girl from succumbing to the charms of a two-timing gigolo.

Keaton as the willing but bungling plumber gets into one absurd situation after another. Chortles galore are promised from the moment the plumber, soaked by his inexpert activities in the bathroom, appears before the distraught heroine, in nothing more than a towel—to the delirious episode in which, encouraged by Durante, he engages in a duel with an insulted Frenchman only to turn the encounter into the most madcap sort of farce.

The romantic affair between the long-nosed Durante and the belligerent Polly Moran also holds its share of laughs and the note of high-keyed merriment is carried through various scenes which reach topmost pitch in a furious domestic battle in which crockery and glassware are hurled about much in the manner of the highly amusing quarrel sequence of "Private Lives."

Irene Purchell, who scored opposite Robert Montgomery in "The Man in Possession," has a prominent part in the comedy proceedings and the cast also includes Gilbert Roland and Mona Maris. Edward Sedgwick directed.

CHS Ink Drops

(Dan Smith)

Well, at last, thanks to Mr. Little, the mystery of the far away gazes that some of our own students have (maybe a few teachers too), has been explained. They are in love. Poor things.

All the sheiks of C.C.H.S. sat up and rubbed their eyes more than once last Friday when a most beautiful girl was seen strolling down the corridor. But much to their disappointment a small boy in long breetches and big black bow tie was tagging along behind her. Some one had already beat their time, it seemed. But close examination revealed the identity of this fair damsel and her blue eyed boy. The maiden was none other than Morgan Reynolds and the little kid in short pants bouncing the ball every where he went was James Dennis. These two were going through their end of the initiation into the "C" club.

A very entertaining and educational program was given in chapel last Friday. This program was given by the members of the home economics class under the direction of Miss Griffin. The program was in charge of Tina Hyman, who was chairman of the committee. Famous pictures were told about in this program and for each picture a poem and music which were inspired by that particular painting were interpreted by a member of the class. Several piano solos were rendered and a number of poems were recited. The feature on this program was a duet by Hilda Hart and Marilyn Hardy, two talented singers of our school. They sang "Whispering Hope," which was inspired by the picture entitled "Hope."

Don't be alarmed over the despondent and worried look on the faces of the majority of our students; this is only test week.

This is a rather large world after all. There are some students in this school who did not know "Silky".

Prepare yourselves, fellow students, to meet that dashing romantic, captivating and entertaining young lady, "Miss Adventure." She will be present at this school Friday (tomorrow) night week under the auspices of the Senior III home economics class. This promises to be a play full of rollicking good fun.

CLUB BULLS ARE MOVED AROUND

C. E. Stapp announces that in order to continue a progressive Jersey breeding program and avoid inbreeding, the owners of the bulls in the club have exchanged bulls. The Lawton McDowell bull was moved to O. R. Robinson's place on Clanton, R 5, and the O. R. Robinson bull moved to Lawton McDowell's place near Cordry Old Mill. The Hunter Rascoe bull, which is owned by the club and was kept at McCain's stables in Clanton, was moved to Ralph Mims's and J. W. Mims's place. The Ralph Mims bull was moved to Chester Messer's south of Verbena. The old bull formerly owned by R. M. Foshee is being kept at McCain's Barn. Some of the other bulls will possibly be moved later to avoid breeding them back to their daughters.

Mr. Stapp states that there are some fine Jersey bulls in the county, that service fees have been reduced and that every farmers who is interested in improving his cattle should breed to the best bull available. At the same time they should not breed a daughter back to a sire. Mr. Stapp feels that when the depression is lifted that there will be a better demand for good, well bred Jerseys, and that those who continue to improve their breeding will be able to realize on their cattle.

The entire Senior III class went on a very educational and worthwhile trip Tuesday of this week. Mr. Warr, our principal, carried these students to Montgomery to witness the Alabama legislature in action. This visit to the legislature materialized from the study of government and its functions by the Senior III Democracy class under Mr. Warr.

That really was a swell play which the seniors offered in chapel yesterday. Those who were responsible for it deserved a hearty compliment. This playlet was postponed from last Friday and at the time of the writing of this column last week it was not known.

The members of Mr. Varnell's biology class went on a very entertaining yet helpful field trip last Thursday. These field trips are always worth the time they consume as they familarize the student more with mother nature. On these trips the student is able to observe nature in its own surroundings. (No not the student's surroundings, but nature's.) The theories and enlightenments that he or she gets from the text book can be made practical. The members thank Mr. Varnell for this kind consideration and hope to enjoy another field trip before school ends. After the field trip each student had to write a composition. The three best written were those of Roberta Cochrane, Helen Moore and Dan Smith. Out of these three Mr. Varnell selected Roberta's to be published.

Due to unavoidable circumstances the editor was not able to continue his story of the former graduates of this school this week. But watch next week's column for some interesting facts about our former graduates.

OUR FIELD TRIP

(By Roberta Cochrane)

Our biology class, under the supervision of Mr. Varnell, went on a very interesting as well as beneficial field trip last Thursday. The day was beautiful; the sparrows were singing and flying about; the flowers were blooming and the trees budding, showing every eidence of spring. We students left the school building very joyfully, equipped with paper cups, collecting jars and nets. We went down the road near the cemetery where we noticed many field daisies and butterflies. The field daisy is a very small flower with bue petals, growing on a stem about four inches from the ground.

Within a short distance we left the road and continued our trip across a marshey pasture where some of the streams had to be crossed on logs. After reaching a nearby creek we watched the organisms that were found there, as we had been studying fresh water biology in class. Minnows and tadpoles were plentiful, but it was rather hard to find any frog eggs; although two students succeeded. Several adult frogs tried to attract our attention by croaking and making a loud noise as they were taking their morning swim. Most of these were found aong the banks of shallow, muddy bacwater. We found other small organisms.

By pulling off the dead bark of old logs we found many soft shell snails, wood beetles, and worms that make their habitat there. The soft shell snail is not as dark in color as other snails and as is implied by its name, has a soft shell. The wood beetle is about the size of a large roach; has three body regions and is covered with a dark coat of chitin. There was fungi growing on some of the logs and we shall study it under the microscope.

On our return to the road we had to cross a small stream with boggy banks by walking a log. Helen Moore and I had the pleasure of testing the mud by slipping in. This little incident did not interfere very much and we continued our trip. All along the road yellow weeds and different species of laurel were growing. The trees were budding and we noticed most especially the maple trees with their reddish-yellow leaves. After collecting a few specimens we returned to school.

Just a few steps across the street to where you can save. —Jesse Baker.

T. J. (Tom) Cobb

One fo This Community's Best Men Passes to His Reward

On Saturday morning of last week the death angel hovered over the home of one of our most estimable families, claimed one of our best and most lovable men, Mr. T. J. (Tom) Cobb. The death of this man of God cast a gloom over the entire community and the sad intellegence came to all as a shock. For a number of years Mr. Cobb was a great sufferer, most of this time confined to his room and bed. Yet he was never known to complain, but bore his suffering with patience. Probably no man who has lived in our midst numbered his friends so widely as did Mr. Cobb. To know him was to love him.

The life he lived while here on this earth was indeed a beautiful example. A path, as it were strewn with flowers, and truly the world was made better by him having lived in it. For a number of years he has been a member of the Center Hill Missioonary Baptist Church. As in every other duty of life, he was true to his church, living an exemplary life, making his church, so far as he was responsible, attractive to those in the world.

He was the last one of a large family. He died at his home on March 18, 1933, at 1:45 a.m. On February 6, 1877, he married Miss Paralee Martin who preceded him to the grave February 14, 1929. To this union there were born seven children, five of whom survive, namely: Jim, Joe, Mrs. Ola Sammons, Berney and Vernon. There are thirty grandchildren and sixteen great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at Center Hill Monday morning at eleven o'clock by Rev. Johnnie Martin, nephew of the deceased, and Rev. Honeycutt. The services were very impressive and the floral tributes magnificent. Interment followed at Center Hill Graveyard. Grandsons were the honorary pallbearers.

The spirit of this good man is now among the angels, where he is tenderly cared for by the bodyguard of God. He who holds worlds in his hand called your loved one to himself,—He who gave His only son that this world might be saved. On the golden shores of eternity, father, relatives, neighbors and friends will be waiting for you. The time will be short when you will join him on the isle of everlasting life. Then bereared, near ones, cease to weep, be brave, for we know he is safe in the arms of Jesus, where he awaits your coming. While the fond and devoted, tender-hearted children and watchful relatives are unconsolable with grim fortitude, we ask that you remember the promises Christ made while here on earth, when He spoke of the place that would be prepared for those who would live right.

Mr. Cobb was truly a good man, a faithful father, tender and loving, and we are of the firm belief that his reward is a home at His right hand, where no storms ever come, where they know no sorrow, where trouble never enters, where all is happiness and bliss. Beautiful in death as in life, his soul departed these earthly cares and soared to the realms of the blessed. And again, we say, cease to mourn, cease to sorrow, its rest, rest.

The community with a host of friends, extend condolence.—A neighbor.

We've often wondered why the five-and-ten-cent-stores, these last few years, haven't carried a line of stocks and bonds.

If technocracy knows so much, maybe it can figure out how the fellow who can't pay his debts can sport a new car.

One distressing thing about these high taxes is that when you pay them you have so little money left to spend at the stores and so help the business man to get together the wherewithal to pay his taxes.

Anyhow we don't hear so many mammy songs about the fields of cotton as we did before the commodity went down to a nickel a pound.

They are charging that Daniel Roper, the new Secretary of Commerce, was for Hoover back in 1928. But who wasn't?

It is said that most of the munitions exported to China from the United States during the past year have been firecrackers. Isn't that a little like sending coals to New Castle.

The banks used to pay you five per cent interest and now a great many of them just pay you five per cent of your deposits.

There is one thing to be said for the incoming congress. It can't be worse than the last and has a fine chance to be a lot better.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

President Roosevelt's inaugural address has received general acclaim from the press and public regardless of politics. While general in tone, and offering no specific suggestions for legislation, it is expected naturally that such suggestions will follow in due course of time. The one thing which impressed the country most of all was the spirit of leadership exhibited, the chief executive giving the impression that he is not afraid to take hold of the steering wheel and assume the responsibility of driving the national machine on the long and arduous road out of the depression.

To the legions of Americans in both parties who believe that the future of America lies within our own borders and not in sailing the uncharted seas of international diplomacy and intrigue, there was much in President Roosevelt's address to be commended. In part the president said:

"Through this program of action we address ourselves to putting our own national house in order and making income balance outgo. Our international trade relations, though vastly important, are in point of time and necessity secondary to the establishment of a sound national economy. I favor as a practical policy the putting of first things first. I shall spare no effort to restore world trade by international economic readjustment but the emergency at home cannot wait on that accomplishment.

"The basic thought that guides these specific means of national recovery is not narrowly nationalistic. It is the insistence as a first consideration, upon the interdependence of the various elements in and parts of the United States—a recognition of the old and permanently important manifestation of the American spirit of the pioneer. It is the way to recovery. It is the immediate way. It is the strongest assurance that the recovery will endure."

Here is sound doctrine which every American can approve regardless of politics. It is fundamentally true that there can be no world recovery until there is recovery in the United States. And what the people of our own country are interested in primarily is the recovery of the United States. This can only be done, as the president points out, by doing the first things firt. This is another way of saying that we must first put our own house in order. When this is done the task of reviving world trade and the strengthening of the world financial structure will be found much easier than now seems possible. The United States furnishes the biggest market in the world. Ninety per cent of its wants are satisfied by home production. It is therefore essential that we restore our own finances and our domestic trade first.

When this is done, and it can be done, when the winds of the depression have blown themselves out, the demand for goods in the United States will stimulate not only our own industries but the industries of the entire world. For it is to be remembered that, despite the cry about our protective tariff, just about half of the goods which enter the United Sates come in duty free. That a return of prosperity here will stimulate our demand for foreign goods, especially those in the luxury and semiluxury classes, goes almost without saying.

And this restoration at home can only be brought about by national measures. It will not follow trading on war debts, and it will not be the sequence of economic conferences abroad. It will come through reconstruction at home, in Washington, in New York, in Chicago and in San Francisco. This is the point to be remembered. In promising that he will do the first things first, President Roosevelt has given us a real word of assurance.

DEBT PROPAGANDA

The unexpected bank holiday in the United States ought to go some distance toward convincing the people of Europe that the United States is not at present a land of milk and honey. People across the Atlantic have become imbued with the idea that despite the depression America is a land of lavishness and easy money. It is said that French people were "amazed" to learn from former Premier Herriot that conditions in the United States were not good and that the Americans were not "selfish" in insisting that France pay her honest debts to us. Some time ago the New York Times published an extended article written by an Englishman after a trip through the agricultural regions of our Middle West. In the story of the foreign visitor painted a true picture of the deplorable conditions in the farm sections of the United States. It is said that the facts so set out created a great deal of surprise when republished in Great Britain.

But the bank holiday is the culmination of a situation which even Europeans ought to understand. Just what influence it will have on future negotiations regarding the war debt remains to be seen. But certainly the European nations which owe us money ought now to be able to see that Uncle Sam is not bluffing when he says he needs the money.

In fact, if there is any bluffing it is on the other side. There is no question that France is able to pay the sum on which she defaulted and to continue future payments on the war debt. At the same time there is some pretty good evidence that the situation in Great Britain is not so hopeless as many would have us to believe.

In fact, Great Britain is now buying gold right and left and seems to be pretty well recovered from the effects of going off the gold standard two years ago. Her gold stock is increasing rapidly and convincingly. Moreover, as the Ohio State Journal puts it:

"Last December 15, England paid this country approximately $95,000,000 in gold as an installment on her war debt. At the end of last week she had recaptured in the American markets all but $5,000,000 of this sum, indicating a buying power of around $30,000,000 per month that had seemed dormant and virtually non-existent until she chose to display its strength.

"It will be recalled that when Britain quit the gold standard she announced sufficient gold remained in her vaults to meet all domestic requirements and form the basis for any future return to gold that might be determined. Since that time, judging by her recent exhibition of buying, this original gold stock has been enhanced immesurably.

"England has cannily kept her sterling quotations as high as economically wise recently, and has watched the yellow stream leaving our shores for London as it became cheaper for us to trade her gold for her goods and to settle our trade debts with her."

There have been rumors that Great Britain was about to start a propaganda campaign in the United States for war debt cancellation. This may now be postponed because of the banking crisis in the United States. Americans are busy thinking and planning things far more important than debt cancellation. But when the time comes, and doubtless it will, when we are again told that Great Britain cannot make another payment on her war debt, let us not forget the facts quoted above, for they are worth remembering.

Well there is one thing to be said for the income tax. They can't collect it off you if you don't enjoy an income.

Speaking of finances, nearly all the banks are liquid now. Even the banks of the Wabash are in a liquid condition every spring.

It's a lot easier to bear your financial worries when you know that everyone else has exactly the same kind of worries.

Mr. Hitler says he is going to try to get along without the Reichstag for two years. Maybe Uncle Sam would have been better off during the past two years if he could have done without congress.

The Republican National Committee now owes the sum of $212,000 so it ought to be in favor of inflating the national currency.

It is said that the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago has on file a list of the Windy City's gold hoarders, one hoarder having withdrawn $500,000 in gold. Looks to us like this bunch may be put on the list of public enemies.

The United States seems to be in the fix of the old cobbler who sorrowfully tacked this aphorism on the wall over his work-bench: "I lent my money to my friend. I lost my money and my friend."

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All— Overlooks None

Happy Days

"Happy days are here again." That's a cheerful way to start the old column off this week. And I believe we can all chime in with that little song in much greater degree of accuracy than in some time in the immediate past. Why? Here's why. People have taken new heart, new confidence, and new faith in the future. I believe you will see proved in the next few months a contention that we have held all through the dark days of the recent depression—that the times are what we make them. If people have faith in the future—if they can see something, or feel something that bespeaks security for them, then they are willing to "go ahead and saw wood"—to trade, work, and spend—and the machinery of progress is driven on and on. On the other hand, if people feel that their future has a foundation of sand—that they are treading an unsound pathway, then frantic fears arise. From a small beginning, a little talk of "hard times" increases this fear by leaps and bounds, and before we know it, a depression is upon us. On us to stay until the people can again see and feel something which may serve to lead us from "our Egypt." Our people now believe that our affairs are on the upgrade, and that very feeling is going to help wonderfully in solving the big problem. There is no way for people, themselves, to control their confidence or fears—rather, one of these two controls them. At the present a new feeling of confidence is at the helm, and our ship is coming into port safely. After all, folks, that WAS a tough old depression, but remember, now, "Happy Days are here again."

Zangara, the Martyr

When Zangara pays, with his life, for his rebellion against organized government, I believe he will have disproved, rather than proved the contentions of the group of which he is a member. Judging from his own words, he expects to be hailed as a martyr by all who oppose authority, and he may be. But this group which will hail him as such cannot fail to recognize the fact, proved by the law's speedy disposition of his case, that America and American people are not yet ready to overthrow the ideals which have served to make our nation one of the greatest in the shortest time. Zangara is a Communist—a member of a group which seeks to overthrow organized government and put the world under mob rule. He hoped to take advantage of a time when many people felt discontent with affairs, to spread his doctrine of Communism. But he has hurt his cause. Americans (who think for themselves) have taken an adverse feeling on the matter, causing a growing feeling of disgust for the principles of his doctrine.

Oh, Yeah!

In scanning the newspapers of late, I find where George Bernard Shaw, the English novelist and critic, takes another dig at us. That guy, though, has taken several of these nasty digs at us in his long life, and has proven wrong in every instance. He understands his native England and her government, but, wise as the old boy is, he never has been able to figure us out. He has always contended that our form of government was less sound than that of his own country, even as he saw proved, time and again, the soundness of the principles upon which this country was founded and has grown and outstripped his own England in power and wealth. His latest is this: "The idea of democracy is futile. Safeguards for liberty are nonsense. What America needs is a dictator." To which all true Americans retort "Oh Yeah!" We just wonder who asked Mr. Shaw for information as to how our business should be handled. It may have been mishandled a bit, but maybe we'll make a go of it. If we need it, we can always ask for advice, you know.

We'll Manage

"Doug," of the Chilton County News, seems very much afraid that there is a rift somewhere in the ranks of the good old Republican ship in Chilton County. He seems very much concerned over the matter, too. Now, you know it would just break his good old Democratic heart to know that there was a split in our party. He wouldn't have it to happen for worlds. That seems just a bit odd, though. One would think, "Doug" being a Democrat, and all that, that he would rejoice to know that such a condition existed. That would be natural. And, so, I am just a little inclined to believe that he HOPES that there is a rift rather than FEARS there is one. Maybe the old boy is "spoofing." Oh, well, split or no split, we'll manage to get everything ship-shape in time to lick the tar out of the Demmies by the time the next big election comes around. And that is not an admission of a split, either. That's a promise. Maybe that will allay some of "Doug's" fears. We'll manage, thank you.

The Last Straw

Here's a good one to wind up with. A company which makes slot machines recently received the following letter from a Japanese customer: "Highly Honorable Sir: Me receive her damn fine shipment Tokyo come one machine from your honorable firm. Shhe much well do. Cause me make 42 yen first damn day. Congratulations. Me decide maybe buy more her fine machnies from honorable firm soon yet. Be sure get one ready make up ship Tokyo as her before. Wishing you thousand years luck, many fine flowers. Farewell honorable sir to honorable family, to damn fine machine come come later." How's that?—Man in the Moon.

Commodore Perry has gotten much credit in history for taking the closed door of Japan off its hinges. Possibly he didn't realize that people could come out as well as go in through an open door.

France complains of being misunderstood in this country. But why not mail us a check for $20,000,000 and see if we misunderstand it?

The bulls and bears in Wall Street are taking an enforced vacation which ought to enable the shorn lambs to grow a little wool.

Remember the good old days when we had nothing to argue about except whether the Giants or the Yanks were the better team?

Bread has come down in price but it still isn't as good a bargain as it was in the days when mother used to bake her own.

If there is any luck in odd numbers, it is comforting to reflect that 1933 has four of them.

ROOSEVELT AND MONEY CHANGERS

On March 4th the nations thirty-second president was inducted into office. For the first time in some years, the people have given a president a good, clear working majority in both the senate and the house. Along with this majority he has assumed powers that have hertofore been granted only to presidents in war time. The people have the right, therefore, to expect real and quick action to bring the nation out of economic chaos.

It is true that the so-called Republican control under President Hoover was incomplete—that during almost his entire administration Mr. Hoover was handicapped by new world conditions growing out of post-war over-expansion and a divided congress. The complete control of the house was in the hands of the Democrats during the past two years, and the senate had only a slight apparent Republican majority which was generally ineffective because the Democrats and the insurgents held the upper hand. Generally, legislation could only be enacted by compromise.

Many who have been concerned about the dealings of the international bankers and industrialists are much pleased with the new president's rap at the "unscrupulous money changers." One well known banker once described them as "those who sell America short." Until this government has reconstructed the powerful machine which has helped to injure the nation's financial structure, there can be no lasting prosperity within our country.

The money of the unsuspecting public has been used recklessly by these individuals during the past fifteen years. Many of our present day international financiers were made through the profits they obtained during the war.

Strict supervision of all banking and especially the investment of public and private money entrusted to the banks is, of course, necessary.

President Roosevelt and his administration will receive the full support of the American measures. We must all work shoulder to shoulder to pull America out of its difficul- people so long as he proposes constructive ties and bring the nation back to normalcy.

HITLER WINS

Adolf Hitler is now firmly in the saddle in Berlin and Germany is well on the way toward a Fascist government. Just what this means, remains to be seen. Already there are some evidences that many of the things said during the campaign were for political effect and nothing more. There are no pogroms and no "heads rolling in the dust." In fact, Hitler is credited with a desire to pacify all the reasonable elements in Germany though still desiring to stamp out communism.

Hitler had control of the press, the radio and the police during the campaign and was charged with intimidating the voters of the other parties. Yet the result was not due entirely to intimidation. The other parties, with the exception of the communists, polled about their usual vote. But Hitler's party gained four million. These came not from other parties but from an outpouring of Germans who did not usually take the time and trouble to vote.

It is difficult, of course, to assign definite reasons for the result of the election. Germany has been going through one of the worst depressions in her history, with one economic crisis following another. Unemployment has been great, and the people almost without hope. Election has followed election without any one party obtaining a majority. Only the giant personality of Hindenberg has held the government together. It is possible that the people finally decided that unity, with a workable government, was better than division no matter what the agency, and that they turned to Hitler as the leader who had the best chance at the moment to bring about unity. We can have some idea of conditions, politically, in Germany by recalling our own situation during the past three of four years, when Congress was divided in its two branches and often at odds politically with the chief executive.

Although Hitler has done much talking in able that the greater authority given him can and will restrain some of his more radical followers should be the hope of all who will make him more conservative. That he have the interests of Germany and the rest of the world at heart.

UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES

Notable was the British foreign minister's statement: "Under no circumstances will this government authorize this country to be a party to the conflict." No one will catch Britain in this war.

The reason is not obscure.

One interpretation suggested in London dispatches is that the government is safeguarding itself against possible trouble with Japan over neutral rights in case the war between Japan and China should be formally declared. If war becomes official, other nations normally proclaim their neutrality. But belligerents may search neutral shipping on high seas for contraband, and thus British ships might be held up and searched by Japanese cruisers. All that need be said from an American viewpoint is that, whatever attitude may here be taken concerning an embargo on arms, the United States would be idiotic or crazy to permit itself to be drawn into the Oriental war, with Great Britain grimly resolved to hold a detached position. Sir Join Simon's statement is plain English, and its significance can be understood by our state department, whether the secretary be Mr. Stimson or Hull.

ONE WAY TO RESTORE CONFIDENCE

There is only one way to deal with national hysteria such as precipitated the temporary breakdown of the banks. It is to offset it by calm reason, official guaranties and practicable methods. What the people most of all need just now is elementary and competent instruction in the banking business. They should be told by men and officials in whom they have confidence why it is that all the banks cannot at the same time pay all their depositors. Their money is safe, if safely invested, but cannot be turned over on demand without crippling business and defeating the very purpose for which banks are created and chartered. If enough people could be persuaded of the folly, both personal and public, of rushing their money, we might see a mass movement, as has been witnessed at other times of financial panic, to take back funds to the banks for safekeeping and for beneficial public use. Root out senseless fear and restore confidence, and the thing is done.

Another trouble is that we are being asked to keep our champagne governments with our beer incomes.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

They All Know Dief

It is said that all railroad men and officials from the highest to the lowest know Dief. During the past few years they have heard a great deal about building a strawberry shed at Clanton, and the argument when run down, always found its beginning with Dief. One high railroad official in Louisville is reported to have come all the way to Clanton just to avail himself of seeing the man who was able to get the railroad to build a shed in these hard times. The main fact of the whole matter is that the strawberry shed will be built here. It is in reality now under construction. Berry growers and shippers will most heartily appreciate the perseverance of Dief in their interest. The shed will furnish much needed protection and convenience, as has been pointed out many times. It will be ready by the time strawberries begin to come in for shipment.

The Rally of 4-H Club Boys

The three hundred boys who came here last Thursday for the annual rally of the 4-H Club furnished on of the most inspirational gatherings it has been my privilege to attend in a long time. With a thorough understanding of what they were about, and with a very keen interest in doing their job well, the boys performed like trained veterans of parliamentary procedure. In fact, we have seen many gatherings of grown men that did not approach the degree of efficiency that was shown by the boys. The election of club officers was a thriller. The nominating speeches made for different candidates for president were most inspiring. Every expression indicated that the boys of the 4-H Clubs are really getting some most worthwhile training. These boys will be better men and better citizens for having been in club work. Wherefore, it is concluded that the 4-H club work is worthy of the support of every citizen.

Many Applying for Farm Loans

During the past week the office of County Agent Stapp has been one of the busiest places in town. A constant stream of farmers has been pouring in to make applications for the federal farm loans. Naturally and necessarily, many have come who could not be qualified as applicants. Extra clerks have been employed to carry on the weeding out process and the filling of application blanks. A thousand and one questions have to be answered about subjects that take place in every phase of farm operations. A hasty check-up Tuesday revealed that more than two hundred applications for loans have been completed. They run in small amounts, which will enable those receiving the loans to make a crop this year.

Fox Planning to Start Something

Daddy Fox is all cranked up to start something. He will begin his auction sales again next Saturday at one o'clock. Listen for the big bell which will call all bargain hunters to Sixth Street, and when you hear it you had better come. Mr. Fox has a large collection of household goods, farm tools and implements which he will offer for sale. "Everything I put up will be sold," said Mr. Fox. "When I get as much as two bids on any article, that means it will change hands. And I want the people to know that I will sell for them anything they bring me. If anybody has something you want sold, bring it next Saturday or any Saturday thereafter. My auction sale will be a regular Saturday afternoon event from now on."

Relief Work to Start Soon

While no official announcement to that effect is yet available, it is evident that those who are behind the plans have hopes that the work relief program with R. F. C. money will be started in the county in the next week. The necessary corps of workers have been chosen, and applications are already being taken from this who want to apply for work on the roads. The social service investigators will begin to make their investigations by the end of this week, and it is likely many will be assigned to work right soon. The Commissioners Court went to Montgomery last week to see about getting the money, and it is understood that everything was shaped up all right.

Business Conditions Look Better

Since our banks have gotten back to normal business operations, people generally have a feeling that business conditions are better. There are evidences that justify this opinion. Above all, there is more confidence, more faith, and less fear among the people. "The only thing we need to fear is fear itself," was said by President Roosevelt a few days ago. It seems to be proving true. From every part of the country there has come praise and admiration for the manner in which Mr. Roosevelt has taken hold of the national emergency and set up a better order of things. With the traditional Roosevelt spirit he has gotten into action with determination to do something to cope with the emergency. The country likes that sort of spirit. They liked it when Teddy Roosevelt did things, and they appear still to like it with Franklin Roosevelt at the helm.

THE MORAL VALUE OF WORK

A citizen of one of the western farming state, in an article descriptive of agricultural conditions, takes a cheerier view of the farmer's lot than is generally permitted in discussions of it. He does not minimize the troubles or try to see more of the bright side than is apparent to most observers, but he concedes that the farmer, distressed as he is, nevertheless has food shelter, and he adds a third point, which is plain enough but has not been much dwelt upon.

The curse, the real terror of the prostrate industrial centers, is ildeness. It may rest easy on the spirit of some, even of many of the people who are not now self-supporting, but honest, formerly independent workman who has idleness forced upon him by his inability to get anything to do has in his life one of the most morally and spiritually sickening elements of hard times. The terror of his unoccupied days strikes at his self-respect and affects his mood more injuriously than would deprivations against which he could make a fight.

As this writer from the country district says, the farmer still has his work to do. He has an occupation, his daily routine, even in the winter, and, although the profit has gone out of it, it is still there as a stimulus, as a moral support and a justification for his day. Even if it cannot be converted into the money he needs, its value in his life remains.

Farmer—How did ye come by that black eye, Jarge?

Jarge—Ole cow had a way of flicking me face with her tail, so I tied a brick onto it."

Mrs. Tommie Connel and family spent the night with her parents, and Mr. Jack Bullard and family, Mrs. Gemose Connell and family, Mr. Bullard and son, read the Bible and talked the scripture, and we all enjoyed it fine, if the weather was bad.—From a dear reader.

"Daughter," said her mother, "has that young man you are going with ever mentioned marriage?"

"Oh yes!" yawned daughter "but I told him dad was so hard up he couldn't even afford tires for the car, let alone a husband for me."

Author—I've got a good tale here about a man and two women on a desert island.

Editor — Good heavens, man, that plot's as old as the hills.

Author—Not this one—these women are his wife and his wife's mother.

Salesman—Ladies and gentlemen, I have here the famous flexible comb that will stand any kind of treatment. You can bend it double—you can hit it with a hammer—you can twist it—you can—

Interested listener—Say, mister, can you comb your hair with it?

PREACHING AT OLD EAST VIEW

I wish to announce that I will preach at old East View Baptist church next Sunday evening at 2:30, and we cordially invite everybody to meet with us. I may speak on the subject of Evangelism, and would be glad to have a large crowd.—K. U. Hull.

Jones (rolling his lawn, hot and tired)—Hullo! Your father wants to borrow something as usual, I suppose.

Neighbor's boy—Yes, please, Mr. Jones. He says could you 'blige him with the loan of a corkscrew?

Jones — A corkscrew? Certainly! You run along, Bobby—I'll bring it around myself.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Chilton County Training School

The vocational boys are working harder than ever, due to the fact that a contest is being sponsored by the teachers of vocational agriculture. The boy who has the largest number of different kinds and varities of vegetables in his garden by May 10th gets a shirt, tie, pair of socks and suspenders. The gardens must be attractively arranged and well kept. The contestants are: Robert Coker, Lindsey Draper, George Knight, Frank Dickerson, Jessie Walter Benjamin, Arthur Lee Oden, George King, Arthur Benjamin and Sam George King. The judges will be Rev. J. S. Jones, Rev. E. W. Burt, Mesdames Mattie Wilson, Leila C. Woods and Ruby McCall.

In going around to see vocational boys, I have seen signs of good practice in vocational home economics instruction. I shall have more to say about this in a later issue.

Do You Know Ben Brown?

Well, he is one of our successful local farmers who has accumulated sufficient capital (cash and property) to enable him to carry on, even in this day of depression with a fair degree of ease.

Mr. Brown attributes his success to four things, namely: His visits to the annual negro farmers conference at Tuskegee; advice given by Booker T. Washington on buying land and clearing mortgages; definite and well made plans; and the intellegent use of a lot of hard honest labor. He tells the story of how he gathered valuable information at Tuskegee and returned each year, putting it into practice to the best of his ability. He is an ardent believer in the live-at-home idea, and has on hand practically everything that makes for comfortable living on the farm. Mr. Brown is a believer in the "Farmers Creed." It is now time that some young farmers were laying the way for he is growing old and then there is a need for more good farmers to take his place.

"Farmers Creed"

I believe in a permanent agriculture, a soil that will grow richer rather than poorer from year to year.

I believe in 100 bushels of corn and in 50 bushels of wheat and a bale to the acre cotton and I shall not be satisfied with any thing else.

I believe that the only good weed is a dead weed and that a clean farm is as important as a clean conscience.

I believe in the farm boy and the farm girl, the farmer's best crop, the future's best hope.

I believe in the farm woman and will do all in my power to make her life easier and happier.

I believe in the country school that prepares for country life and church, that teaches its people to love deeply and live honorably.

I believe in a community spirit; a pride in home and neighbor and I will do my part to make the best in the state.

I believe in the farmers; I believe in farm life; I believe in the inspiration of the open country. I am proud to be a farmer and will try earnestly to be worthy of the name.

—Selected.

Handiest Job In The World

"Trying to satisfy an automobile appetite with a wheelbarrow income."

Saw a fellow planting something in the field the other day. He said it was early, early corn. Every time I mention the practice to a farmer he shamefully admits that his corn is running short, his oats were planted too late or something. Every farmer should plant some early corn no matter whether his corn is running short or not.—Benj. Anderson, Teacher of Vocational Agriculture.

LETTER OF THANKS

I desire publicly to express my thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and assistance in the sickness and death of my dear aunt, Elizabeth Riggins. From the 24th of December until the 4th of March she suffered more than it seemed she could bear, then God saw fit to take her out of her pain. I haven't words to express my thanks to neighbors and friends for their faithfulness to her. They did everything they could for her and so many helped out so faithfully to the end.

I do thank Mrs. Headley and Mrs. Janie Smith for their faithfulness to her. Mrs. Smith was with her the last 6 weeks. No kind hands could have done more for her. I also want to thank Dr. Napoleon Johnson for being so faithful to her. He did every thing he could for her, but all human help failed. I am sure the angels of God were present to escort her spirit to a land of rest, where there is no pain or worry for her.

I do miss her so much. I earnestly solicit an interest in the prayers of all God's children that I may live a life of censecration to God and our fellow-man as she lived before me, and finally meet her on the banks of sweet deliverance, where there will be no more parting. I want to thank Mr. Mell Martin for his kindness and help and the consoling words spoken by him. May heaven's richest blessings abide on each and every one of you, is my humble prayer.—Her Niece, Nora Childress.

Hello! Is this the city bridge department?

Yes, what can we do for you?

GOD CALLS THE WORLD

Jeremiah 23:3: "Call unto Me and I will answer thee and show thee great and mighty things." In Psalms 90th chapter and the 2nd verse we read that God is from everlasting to everlasting; so we see that God is as willing to show us great things today as He was in the days of prophets, and if we will call unto God, in and through the name of that worthy child, Jesus, He will show us great and mighty things. But we must come to Him with a broken heart and a contrite spirit, for He saves such as be of a contrite spirit or a broken heart.

Jesus said: "I am the truth and the life; no man can come to the Father but by Me." If sinners would listen to the tender and earnest call of Jesus in His great name—come with a broken heart and a contrite spirit—God will show them great and mighty things.

The Greeks said to Phillip, "Sir, we would see Jesus." I wonder if people really want to see Jesus in the lives of our preachers. People are looking at the preachers to see if they can see Jesus in every day walk.

I hate to hear people say they have no confidence in that preacher. It is a hard matter for a preacher to show the beauty there is in Jesus when he has lost the confidence of the sinners, and I will say that just a member of the church has mighty little influence that lives to himself, and the gain of this world's goods, that goes to church and takes a seat and gets worried if the sermon lasts 45 minutes; and as soon as they can get out raise a conversation about strawberries. They have no power for Jesus. If we will call on God, He will show us great and mighty things, and will see sinners saved.

The preachers can't get the world to believe the Gospel if the member don't show the world that the church believes it, and as long as church members will not manifest their faith in Jesus, just that long will the world stay in darkness, and God will not show us great and mighty things.

I have seen great and mighty things. When the church was calling unto God, I have seen vile sinners saved and made to rejoice when they could see the beauty there was in Christ, and if we, as Christians, show Jesus in our every-day life, we would see great and mighty things. We would see our chuches filled with people and then great and mighty things would be done.—H. F. McCary.

Dear Editor:

Please print a few lines from this place.

Health is good at present.

Sunday school is improving every Sunday, although we get rained out once in a while, but when we are not it is good, but I hope we will soon have better settled weather, and maybe we can get more of our old folks and young men to come. I will say that we are going to meet next Sunday, March 26, at 10 o'clock a.m., for Sunday school, and at 1:30 p.m. for a singing; and also to organize a singing society at this place.

We especially invite the adjoining communities to come and help us and all singers take this as a special invitation. We sure want you to come and help us out. We will leave it this way: Everyone that reads this, take it as a special invitation and come. We will be looking for you. We hope to have a large crowd and a good singing Sunday, March 26, 1933. Many thanks to the good old paper.—J. E. Minor.

VERDICT FAVORS DOCTOR STROCK

Jury Decided Case After Being Tied Up For Several Hours

Up to Wednesday morning the only case disposed of by trial in the civil division of the Circuit Court of Chilton County was that of C. E. Headley and Tessie Headley against Dr. C. S. Strock, for damages. After a somewhat lenghty trial and taking of much testimony, the case went to the jury Tuesday. Failing to agree the jury reported to the court, and judge Tate sent them back for further consideration of the case. The verdict in favor of the defendant, Dr. Strock, was reached early Tuesday night.

Several cases on the docket were disposed of by settlement and agreement of parties without going to trial. The civil docket will continue to occupy attention of the court through Thursday of this week.

Following is the list of jurymen who are employed this week in the civil division:

Hugh V. Honeycutt, Henry T. Williams, Charles N. Rasberry, Robert Alred, L. Earl Diefenderfer, Geo. C. Polk, Ellis Mims, John E. Littlejohn. J. Ed Connell, Joe T. Cox, S. Durwood Jones, Burnie O. Blow.

Ben L. Davenport, Thomas M. Powell, Mack C. Durbin, J. Virgil Harris, John A. Cofer, Zack Y. Abney, Eugene W. Walker, Clyde C. Cofer, H. Wilse Gibson, James Arthur Chandler, C. P. Jones, John Glasscock.

Geo. D. Strock, W. Tom Patterson, Julius E. Smith, Geo. W. Murray, J. M. Littleton, Walter W. Gothard, Edgar Samples, J. Emett Gentry, William B. Strock, R. A. Davis, G. N. Mims, John B. Logan.

J. Tom Nix, Horace H. Smitherman, Vernon W. Cummins, Fred Summerland, Dud W. Headley, Fulton Kincaid, John J. Pilkinton, D. Butler Lowe, Baldwin B. Scott.

L. J. PERRY DIED

The funeral of L. J. Perry, 74, who died at his home in Maplesville, was held Sunday at the Maplesville Baptist Church. Burial was in the Maplesville cemetery. Mr. Perry had been ill for five months. Brislin of Selma was in charge. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. F. D. Young and Miss Anne Perry, both of Maplesville; Mrs. J. A. Goff, of Birmingham; and Mrs. T. E. Cox, Selma, and three sons, Frank, Pettus. and T. E. Perry, all of Maplesville.

Perry Gore of Collins Chapel was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

Mrs. Ogletree Buried At Salem Tuesday

Mother of Tom Ogletree Died at Home of Her Daughter in Anniston Monday

The remains of Mrs. M. M. Ogletree were brought from Anniston Tuesday afternoon and buried in New Salem cemetery. Mrs. Ogletree, who was 84 years old, died at Anniston, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. H. Smith, Monday afternoon. She had been in lingering health for several weeks. The arrangements were in charge of an Anniston undertaker. The funeral was conducted by Rev. E. W. Butler of Thorsby.

Mrs. Ogletree was the widow of the late W. C. Ogletree, who died 38 years ago at old Strasburg just south of Thorsby. She is survived by two sons and six daughters. They are: Tom Ogletree of Anniston, Sanders Ogletree of Mitchell Dam; Mrs. H. S. Watkins of Mitchell Dam, Mrs. A. H. Smith of Anniston, Mrs. George Schumacher of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Emma Bice of Tyler, Mo., Mrs. J. P. Wingard of Birmingham, and Mrs. L. F. McDonald of Beaumont, Texas.

The deceased was the daughter of Dolby Riggins. She has one brother and one sister living—Jim Riggins of Thorsby Route 1, and Mrs. R. D. Childress of Sylacauga. A granddaughter, Mrs. L. M. Knighton, who was raised from childhood by Mrs. Ogletree, also survives; she is a daughter of Tom Ogletree.

All of the sons and daughters attended the funeral except Mrs. Schumacher of Detroit and Mrs. Bice of Missouri. A few days before her death, the old lady called all of her children to her bedside and told them that her days on earth would be only a few. Her last words to them were that she was perfectly resigned to go at the call from on high; her only regret was that she hated to leave her children.

ANNUAL MEETING OF GOLF CLUB

At the annual meeting of the Clanton Golf Club held this week, the following officers were elected for the coming year:

R. J. Sumner, re-elected president; Otto Jones, re-elected secretary and treasurer; M. Lande elected vice president; L. C. Reynolds, W. E. Huddleston and Claudie Pipes, greens committee; Grady Reynolds, Frank Callen, W. E. Huddleston, L. C. Reynolds, M. Lande, Directors.

At this meeting the club decided to reduce the entrance fee from $25 to $15. It is expected that quite a few new members will be secured on this basis. Most all of the members of the club are active, and are getting a lot of pleasure in playing the course which is now in excellent condition. The course is located just south of Clanton on the Montgomery Highway.

It was announced that the annual spring tournament will be held soon. The qualifying rounds will be played the last week in April, and the match plays will start the first week in May. It was stated the club may invite some of the smaller clubs like Prattville and Wetumpka to join them in the Spring tournament.

WORK RELIEF HAS STARTED

Field Workers Are Busy Making Investigation of Applicants for Work

A report from the Chilton County Relief Administration, by Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, director of social service, says that up to Tuesday a total of 835 applications for work relief in the county have been received. Ninety-eight of these applicants have been visited and investigated by the field workers, and have been certified for relief work. Sixty-four have been recommended to road foremen for work, and presumably are at work at the time this is written. If not already at work, they will be the latter part of this week.

Up to the first of this week the field workers spent most of their time taking applications. These workers are now engaged in the more detailed and intricate task of visiting the homes of the applicants and determining the extent or degree of their needs and preparing reports upon which they will be certified for work relief.

Miss Austin stated that applications will be received at different points in the county from time to time, until all who may be entitled to work relief have had ample opportunity to apply for same.

The office of the County Relief Administration has been moved from the courthouse to the Upchurch Building over Upchurch Drug Store. The volume of business to be transacted and the number of people to be waited upon has grown so large it was impossible to take care of the situation in the limited quarters afforded at the courthouse.

STORK STILL BUSY

The old bird does not stand back on hard times. Like the brook in the old Second Reader, the stork says: "Men may come and men may go, but I go on forever."

Forrest Littleton of near Lay Dam was in town Tuesday and reported a boy born at his home Sunday; weight 8 pounds; has been named Forrest Junior.

BYRON BEAN ON RADIO SUNDAY

We learn the very interesting fact that Byron Bean, of the Senior Class of Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tennessee, has been selected by the college to make an address over the radio at 3 p.m. next Sunday afternoon. The broadcast will come from station WTJS at Jackson, Tennessee, and may be picked up on the dial between 130 and 135. Byron Bean is the son of Prof. and Mrs. Willie T. Bean of Clanton.

MRS. JULIA LEDA MERONEY

Mrs. Julia Leda Meroney, age 79 years, died Tuesday morning at the home of her son, Q. C. Meroney, at Verbena. The body was brought to Clanton by Spigener and prepared for burial, which will be at Pleasant Grove west of Jemison, at eleven o'clock Thursday morning. The funeral will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby.

Mrs. Meroney was the widow of the late Nolen L. Meroney. She was a daughter of Isaac Davenport and Susan (Rasberry) Davenport.

Of her immediate family she is survived by three sons; Q. C. Meroney, of Verbena; D. L. Meroney, of Selma; P. H. Meroney, of New Mexico; also ten grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Gov. Miller Vetoed Prohi Repeal Bill

Prompt Action of House and Senate Overrides The Executive Veto

Governor Miller Tuesday vetoed the Mullins Bill calling a convention in Alabama on repeal of the 18th amendment to the Federal Constitution. Before the ink on the governor's message was dry goth the senate and the house had voted to pass the bill, thus overriding the governor's objections. The vote in the senate was 26 to 7; in the house 66 to 32.

The governor's message raised two principal objections to enacting the convention bill; one that in his opinion it was unconstitutional; the other that now is not the proper time to submit the measure to the people.

The governor's argumen that the bill calling the repeal convention is not constitutional gave rise to the conjecture that the dry leadership in Alabama will attack the statute in the courts in order to obtain a supreme court opinion as to its constitutionality.

Meanwhile prohibition repeal advocates were jubilant over the passage of the measure over the governor's protest. They announced immediately that a vigorous repeal campaign will be launched in Alabama. Montgomery will be chosen as headquarters for the repeal campaign. It is stated that the voters in every corner of Alabama will be informed of the issues of the repeal campaign by a large force of voluntary speakers.

SUNSHINE CLEANERS ARE UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Sunshine Cleaners, the new cleaning and pressing establishment, is now open for business, under new management. Messrs. J. M. Johnson and M. W. Easterling are the new managers, and have secured the services of Mr. Elmer Powell, an experienced man in this line of work. This week's Union-Banner carries their opening announcement. They solicit your patronage, guaranteeing satisfaction at regular prices. Find the Sunshine Cleaners' ad and read the announcement and prices.

Howard L. Foshee, of Montgomery, former superintendent of education of Chilton County, was in Clanton Wednesday attending circuit court.

COURTHOUSE IS ALL DRESSED UP IN A NEW SPRING COAT OF PAINT

Chilton County's courthouse is all dressed up in a new spring coat of paint. Workmen have just completed the job inside and out from ground to roof. On the inside a lot of minor repairs were done to the woodwork and plastering, in addition to the new painting.

This is the first major retouching the courthouse has had since it was rebuilt following the fire of 1918. It was a much needed job. The pleasing appearance since the new paint was applied has served to impress upon observers just how bad the new paint was needed.

COMMISSIONER MIMS SICK

County Commissioner, J. M. Mims, is ill at his home at Thorsby. He has been sick since Thursday of last week, suffering with high blood pressure.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

The second quarterly conference of Chilton Circuit will convene with the Pleasant Grove Church, seven miles west of Clanton, on Saturday before the first Sunday in April. Preaching by the pastor at 11 o'clock a.m. Business session will be held at 1:30 Everybody is invited, especially the officials of the churches.—J. S. Johnson, Pastor.

MISS ADVENTURE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Play Will Be Presented By Senior Three Class of High School

The populace of Clanton is in for some real good hiliarious fun Friday (tomorrow) night, when the Senior II and III home economic classes present, "Miss Adventure," at 8:00 p.m. This is a comedy farce in three acts and those who will see it are promised their money's worth of romance, mystery, and comedy. The cast is made up of all high school students and under the coaching of Miss Griffin, are prepared to entertain you in good style.

Jo Carter and several of her girl friends at a girls' boarding school send love letters to men with ficticious names of their own thinking. Jo, a regular tom-boy, escapes from the school clad in men's clothes. She seeks work on a farm which later turns out to be owned by Albert Brown, the name she sent her letter to. And to make matters worse he really gets the letter while she is there, and leans that she is a girl and not a boy. About this time, Sampson, the janitor at the girls' school comes and kidnaps Jo to take her back to college. Complications follow. More comedy and romance is added by the actions of Rebecca, an ignorant country gal, and Cyrus, equally a country boob. Jo Carter is played by Hilda Hart, Albert Brown by John Ezell, Sampson by Jesse Frank Foshee, Rebecca by Mabel Harris, and Cyrus by Joe Moore. Other members of the cast are Ova Lee McCutcheon, Tina Hyman, Jeanette Tiffin, Frances Higgins, Dorothy Sessions, Elizabeth McSwain, Pauline Plyler and Myrtle Powell.

The admission is 10 cents for grammar school pupils, 10 cents for high school pupils, and 25 cents for adults. Don't fail to see this play. Remember the date, tomorrow, Friday, March 31, at 8:00 p.m.

STUART WOODSON WON PRIZE

Stuart Woodson, of the Fifth Grade, Lay Dam School, is winner of a prize in the Weekly Reader notebook contest.

In a letter to his teacher, Miss Ethel Mize, the publishers of the Weekly Reader say: "We are happy to inform you that Thomas Stuart Woodson, of your classes, submitted one of the best notebooks we received in the note book contest conducted by the Weekly Reader number three during the past semester.

"Accordingly, we are enclosing our check for $1, the amount of the prize, which we will ask you to present to Thomas, with our sincere compliments."

When Miss Mize announced in school that this honor had been accorded the work of Stuart, and presented him the prize, he received an ovation of cheers and congratulations from the whole school.

Thomas Stuart Woodson is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodson of Lay Dam.

COUNTY P-T. A. MEETING

The county council of the P.-T. A. meeting will be called Saturday, April 8th, at 10:30 o'clock at Maplesville High School auditorium. This is an important meeting, and I hope every school in the county will be represented here. If you haven't a P.-T. A., come and get organized. We will have state speakers to help in the work. Don't forget the date, April 8th. Bring lunch for one.—Mrs. F. A. Shanks, County Chairman.

Stapp Requests Farmers To Make Loan Applications By Middle of Next Week

County Agent Stapp urges all farmers who expect to make application for government crop loans to do so by the middle of next week. Mr. Stapp calls attention to the fact that it takes some time to get an application through and get the check to the applicant, and that he is making every effort to take care of all applications as fast as possible in order to get the money to the applicants at as early date as possible. Mr. Stapp further states that in order for him to get to work at something else, he urges all farmers who expect to make application to come to his office by the middle of next week.

In making application for a crop production loan an applicant must agree to a reduction of cotton acreage, also to use seed and fertilizer recommended by the department of agriculture.

Attention is called to a new ruling relative to the person who did not farm last year. Mr. Stapp formerly stated that those who did no farm last year were not eligible for crop production loans, but his latest instructions are that he may take applications from even those who did not farm last year but have suitable land and livestock this year to work same.

Mr. Stapp points out that this money is for crop production only and not to be used for paying debts.

THE COURTHOUSE SINGING

The singing held at the courthouse last Thursday night turned out fine, although at the beginning it looked as though it would not be much. There were no books, but someone went home and got the Central Society books; then the singing was fine for about an hour and a half. T. E. Wyatt presided, and the following directors took the floor: Emmett Wilson, Jesse C. Jones, Dr. J. B. Williams, Floy Devaughn, Chester Wyatt, Marion Easterling, S. V. Miller, W. G. Culp, C. H. Robinson and Rev. M. Lockhart. One quartet was arranged by Emmett Billingsley of Thorsby; three or four octetts were sung, all of which were enjoyed.

Prof O. L. Devaughn was appointed to preside over the next singing at the courthouse, which will be held the fourth Sunday faternoon in April. Prof. Devaughn will see that the chairs, benches and piano are in readiness, and arrange for any special singing that he can procure. Some out of the county singers would be welcome.

STILL DESTROYED TWO MEN CAUGHT

Raid By Sheriff's Deputies In Dry Valley at Daybreak Wednesday a.m.

Deputies Loss Robinson, James and Lewis Gillespie, staged a raid in the Dry Valley section of northwest Chilton at daybreak Wednesday morning, in which they captured a 50-gallon copper still and three barrels of beer.

The officials were waiting for the operators to come to the place. They arrived about daylight and fired up the still preparatory to making their run. When everything was getting under full steam the officers took charge of the situation, men, still, beer and all.

The two men were brought to Clanton and lodged in jail. The officers state that the men arrested are old-time moonshine operators who have been at the business for many years in the Dry Valley community.

In addition to the two men arrested at the still, the sheriff's office reports the arrest during the past week of one man for violating the prohibition law and one for unlawfully presenting firearms.

The jail register Wednesday morning showed eight prisoners in confinement.

PROSPECTS FOR STRAWBERRIES

According to L. E. Diefenderfer, manager of the Clanton Berry Growers Association, present prospects indicate one of the largest and best strawberry harvests in the history of Chilton County.

Weather conditions have been favorable during recent months, and if no late freeze comes along to upset the progress of plants, Dief says we may expect ripe berries on the local market in the next week. He expects car load shipments to begin to move out of Chilton County by the fifteenth of April, if nothing turns up in the way of bad weather.

According to Dief, our Chilton County crop will be of extra fine quality, owing to the good care our farmers have taken with their berry fields. Plenty of fertilizer has been applied, he says, and cultivation methods have been thorough and systematic.

COOKE PLAYERS COMING HERE

The Cooke Players, a well-known and very popular vaudeville company throughout Alabama for the past twenty-six years, will appear at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton for one entire week commencing Monday, April 17th.

The company consists of twelve people, and they will present seven four-act comedies and dramas. The show is bigger and better than ever. Reduced prices are the big feature with this popular company this year.

Watch the papers between now and April 17th for full details of the presentations of Cooke Players. Prepare to see them.

THEDA WYATT HAD BIRTHDAY

Theda Wyatt celebrated her twelfth birthday Tuesday, March 28th, with a spend-the-night party in which she was joined by the following friends: Peggy Page, Nell Rockett, Lump Pitts, and Frances Foshee. The girls enjoyed the birthday dinner together. The cake holding twelve candles occupied the center of the table. Entertainment for the evening was informal, and the guests had a most delightful time together. Those who came to the party brought lovely gifts and presented them to the honoree.

Ab Retherford of Mineral Springs was a visitor at Circuit Court Monday.

NEW STATE LAW GOVERNS FISHING

Limit Set on Size and Number of Fish That May Be Caught

A "new deal" for little fish and a "rough deal" for persons who break game laws are provided in the new Alabama game and fish law approved last week by Governor Miller.

The new law went into effect immediately upon being signed by the governor but enforcement will be deferred until April 15 to give fishermen an opportunity to become familiar with the law.

The law fixes the size limit on large and small mouth bass of 11 inches, four inches longer than the former limit. This means bass smaller than this must be returned to the water immediately upon being caught. These two species are commonly called trout in this section.

Other limits fixed by the law include bream, four and one-half inches; crappie or white perch, eight inches; wall eyes and jack or pickerel, 12 inches. Fine of not less than $10 or more than $25 is provided for violations.

The new statute also sets out that fishermen may catch only 10 bass, 15 crappie, perch or bream and only 25 fish in the aggregate of all species during the day.

Game fish are defined in the law as large and small mouth bass, bream, crappie or white perch, rock bass or goggle eye, calico bass, wall eyed pike, jack salmon or pickerel.

A provision in the law which officials believe will result in improvement in fishing in Alabama is a section forbiddng the sale or offering for sale any game fish within the state. With this section in the state law violations may be prosecuted under the federal black bass law.

Under the law it is unlawful to ship or transport beyond the borders of the state more than one day's limit of black bass.

The new statute makes it unlawful to catch any game fish by any means except with hook and line, fly, troll or spinner. Fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 is fixed for violations of this section.

It is also made unlawful to use any species of game fish for bait.

The law sets out that all waters in the state are public when they touch land owned by more than one person, firm or corporation.

A section of the law which is expected to furnish considerable income for the Department of Game and Fisheries provides for a seven days' non-resident fishing license of $2. No license is required for residents of the state.

Another section of the law provides a seven days' non-resident hunting license of $5.

Madison Popwell Died Last Saturday

Last Surviving Member of Prominent Pioneer Family of Chilton County

Madison Popwell, age 90 years, died last Saturday night at the home of his son, W. L. Popwell, in Clanton. He had been sick several months. He was buried by Spigener Sunday afternoon at Pleasant Grove west of Clanton. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Pallbearers were Horace Popwell, Reuben Popwell, Clyde Popwell, George Popwell, Julius Burnett, and Frank Callen.

Madison Popwell was the last surviving member of a family of eight boys and eight girls, all of whom have been prominent in the early history of Chilton County.

His brothers were William, Alfred, John, James, Moses, Joseph, and Benjamin Popwell. His sisters were Mrs. Mary Ray, Mrs. Martha Meyers, Mrs. Catherine Meyers, Mrs. Jane Wyatt, Mrs. Sallie Elland, Mrs. Elizabeth Bowles, Mrs. Mandy Downs, and Miss Lonie Popwell.

He is survived by two sons, W. L. and Walter Popwell, of Clanton; three Irona Foshee, and Mrs. Zuella Wildaughters, Mrs. Mary Baker, Mrs. liams. One daughter, Ada, died when she was eleven years old.

J. A. Cleckler of Pates Chapel was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

Slight damage was done to the home of Mr. Grady Broadhead early last Friday morning by a fire on the roof. Prompt response of the city fire fighters put the fire out before it got any start.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

SYSTEM OF STATE PARKS PROPOSED

Birmingham, Ala.—The first Alabama conference on civic beautification will be held at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel, April 4 and 5. The conference is being sponsored by the Alabama Federation of Garden Clubs, of which Mrs. C. R. Bricken of Montgomery is president. All those interested are invited to attend.

The conference will stress the need of establishing a system of state parks. This subject will be discussed by Sam F. Brewster, extension landscape specialist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who has made a preliminary survey of park sites in the state.

ALABAMA CORK TREES

Montgomery, Ala.—That the production of commercial cork may be a future source of revenue to Alabama landowners is indicated through investigations made by the State Commission of Forestry. The principal source of the cork of commerce is the so-called Cork oak, native to the old world but which has been transplanted to America. It has been demonstrated that the cork oak will thrive in various parts of Alabama.

The bark of most trees when stripped off the stem carries with it the inner sheets of cells which give rise to the bark. In such cases the recovering of the tree with bark must wait until the stripped surface is grown over the sides. In the cork oak, however, a new layer of bark forming cells forms underneath the exposed surface, and the production of bark proceeds directly. The cells of cork are elogate in a radical direction. The cell walls are quite thin, with the result that this sort of bark is much lighter per unit of volume than most kinds.

If the trees are not stripped the original bark grows to a considerable thickness. However, the first bark yield is always of inferior quality, and the better grades of commercial cork results from successive strippings.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

It is considered a wise plan in dairy cattle management to give the cow a rest period of six or eight weeks before freshening. Some cows may be persistent milkers and may be dried off with difficulty but this rest peiod should be provided.

Dairymen when catering to a market milk trade arrange the dates of breeding in order to have cows freshen uniformly during the year. Fall freshening is considered ideal where products other than milk are sold.

An old Wisconsin adage says: "The cow fresh in the fall is twice as fresh during the year." As the cow naturally decreases in milk flow after five or six months, spring pastures tend to stimulate further production.

4-H CLUB MEETING AT FAIRVIEW

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that there will be a 4-H club meeting at Fairview schoolhouse tonight (Thursday) for the purpose of reorganizing the Fairview 4-H Club. All boys interested in the club are urged to attend.

LOCAL INSPECTOR EXPLAINS BASIS OF 1933 CROP LOANS

Three hundred dollars is the most that any farmer may borrow for crop production loans in 1933, U. H. Prickett, field inspector for the crop production loan office in this community, says in announcing details on the proposed loans. Applicants who are in arrears on as many as two previous loans made by the Secretary of Agriculture may not borrow more than $100.

Loans for crop production in counties where fertilizer is not commonly used will be based on the approximate cost of the supplies needed, but can not exceed $3 per acre for general field crops and $12 an acre for truck crops, including potatoes and sweet potatoes. Loans for buying fertilizer will be made only in counties where a representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture certifies that fertilizer is necessary. In these counties loans for supplies, including fertilizers shall not be more than $6 per acre for general field crops, $10 an acre for tobacco, and $20 an acre for truck crops, including potatoes and sweet potatoes. Not more than $1 an acre for these amounts is to be used for repairs and miscellaneous expenses other than seed, fertilizer, feed for workstock and fuel and oil for tractors.

Additional sums (within the limit for each farmer) may be borrowed for fighting insect pests and plant diseases. These are to be not more than $2 per acre for spraying and dusting materials to protect cotton and tobacco, $4 an acre for spraying and dusting truck crops, and $25 an acre for fertilizer and spraying and dusting materials for bearing fruit trees and vineyards.

In irrigated sections, funds may be borrowed up to $3 per acre to pay for water charges such as operation and maintenance, payment of electric power for pumping, or for fuel and oil for pumping. For sugar beets growers may borrow not more than $12 an acre for production expenses including the employment of hand labor for thinning. For other crops the limit is $25 an acre for hops and $12 an acre for rice, except that for rice lands farmed by tenants in which the owner furnishes irrigation water, the limit shall be $7 an acre.

Loans will be made for summer fallowing up to $2.50 an acre for an average not in excess of that planted in 1933, provided a first lien is given on all crops growing or to be planted, grown and harvested in 1933 sufficient to cover the advance. Loans may be granted for rates lower than these limits. Applicants must state for what purpose they intend to use the funds.

Farmers intending to apply for the loans need not write to Washington or regional offices, but may secure the application forms from him, Mr. Prickett says. Loans will be made only to farmers who can not secure credit elsewhere, and who can not farm unless they can secure the loan.

To have a loan application approved this year, a farmer must agree to reduce his acreage 30 per cent under that grown in 1932. The 30 per cent withheld from cultivation may be sown to soil-building crops. A first lien on the 1933 crop is required. Loans are due October 31, 1933.

The regulations make it unlawful for any reason to dispose of or assist in disposing of any crops given as security for any crop loan, except for the account of the Secretary of Agriculture and provide for fine and imprisonment for violation of such regulation. The regulations require that each borrower agree to plant a garden for his home use and to plant sufficient acreage to provide necessary livestock feed.

SAVES AUSTRIAN WINTER PEA SEED

Carrollton, Ala.—W. T. Lipsey, a prominent farmer of this community, has been very successful in saving Austrian winter pea seed. His success last season is of interest now when Austrian peas are nearing maturity on thousands of Alabama acres.

On June 1 he raked the pea vines into windrows with an ordinary hay rake. The vines broke off readily at the ground. He hauled the vines to the barn and stored them until August. After removing every other concave from an oat thrasher the winter peas were thrashed. He harvested 1,550 pounds from 4½ acres.

If farmers become successful in saving Austrian winter pea seed one of the principal costs in soil building with winter legumes will be materally reduced, according to F. A. Rew, county agricultural agent.

PRODUCTION FIGURES

The production of food and feed crops per capita in the United States in 1930, in 1931 and in 1932 was less than in any year since 1894.

The 1932 production of cotton per capita in the United States was the lowest since 1877 except for the small crops from 1921 to 1923.

The 1932 world production of wheat per capita was 18 per cent less than in 1928.

Judge Reynolds, C. E. Stapp and Frank Callen spent last Friday in Selma, attending a meeting in the interest of the R. F. C. relief program for Chilton County.

BUTCHERING SHADE TREES IS CONDEMNED

Auburn, Ala.—Butchering of shade trees under the guise of pruning is a practice condemned in strong terms by Sam F. Brewster, extension landscape specialist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"When pruning their trees many people top them and usually when this operation is finished there is nothing left but the trunk with the stubs of a few large limbs," he said. "Such a tree resembles a gigantic hatrack, and this method of pruning should not be used as it destroys the limb structure of the trees, thereby detracting from its natural appearance. It also leaves a large number of scars that will never heal but will in time become infected with disease and shorten the life of the tree.

"If a tree is in such a shape that it needs topping it should be removed and a younger and better tree set in its place," he added.

Removal of dead limbs and wood which rub against other is generally all the pruning that a shade tree needs, he continued. After this is done, he advocates filling in around the roots of the tree if erosion has exposed the root system and then the use of a good fertilizer to add plant food.

To fertilize a tree he suggests boring either with a crowbar or a post-hole digger underneath the spread of the tree and filling these holes with bone meal, cottonseed meal, or any good complete fertilizer. The holes should be from 6 inches to 1½ feet in depth and from one foot to 1½ feet apart if made with a crowbar and further apart if made with a post-hole digger.

Mr. and Mrs. John Page spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter at Martin Dam.

Out of the fewer than 200,000 farmers in the State of Arkansas, it is stated that 46,835 have borrowed some $4,000,000 for production purposes. It thus appears that about a quarter of the Arkansas farmers had to borrow from Uncle Sam to keep going.—Golden Age.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Education of the wrong kind may become a curse instead of a blessing. You cannot send a man to the penitentiary for forgery until after you teach him to write.

Jesus was the greatest teacher the world ever saw. There are three absolutely important things in teaching. First, a great teacher must know his subject. In our educational institutions we insist upon every teacher sticking to his major. Second, a great teacher must know his pupil. Third, a great teacher must live what he teaches. Jesus knew His subject. He came to tell men about God. He said that He and God were One. Jesus knew His pupil. He knew what was in man. He should have known because He made man. Jesus lived what He taught. No person in the history of the world ever so completely lived up to His own standards. After two thousand years He is still the one flawless character in human history.

So whether we believe in the deity of Jesus or not, we must recognize that He was a great teacher. Why don't men listen to Him? I attend Rotary Clubs and Kiwanis Clubs and all sorts of groups of both men and women. I often hear men presented to a group as a great authority. Mr. So-and-So tells us what to do in order to have good times in business. Another man suggests another remedy for our distresses. There are a thousand voices mingled together trying to tell us how to solve our problems. The voice of Jesus, clear and distinct, sounds down the ages: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." In other words, He says, "If you'll put God first, everything else will take care of itself." We have tried every other theory in government. Don't you think it is about time that we tried out the theory of Jesus Christ?

The Society will meet next Sunday afternoon at Chestnut Creek, Cooper. All singers are cordially invited.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nauseless calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Our Sunday school is still improving. We got four new members Sunday. We sure had a good lesson. We had prayer meeting at Mt. Springs Sunday night. We had a very good meeting, and a large crowd attended.

There will be prayer meeting at Cane Creek next Sunday night; so everybody go and take a part.

We have changed our meeting days back to the third Saturday night and Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. We are going to hold the ladies aid Sunday morning at ten o'clock before preaching.

We still have Sunday school at 2 o'clock in the afternoon; so everybody come back with a well studied lesson. Bring someone with you. Go to Sunday school.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnson of Pensacola spent the past week end with relatives and friends in Clanton.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Just a few lines to let those who might be interested know that the work toward rebuilding the church, which was destroyed by fire, is in full sway. At this writing we have about eleven thousand feet of lumber cut. The mill is located near the church. Most all of the timber, which has been donated by many, is cut and more than half of it hauled to the mill.

Many responded with labor at the mill, which we appreciate very much. Doubtless many more would like to assist in work that could not assist otherwise. We will doubtless have work to do for quite a while. Anyone wishing to help in any way might get in touch with the committee or anyone affiliated with the church.

We especially wish to thank Commissioner Duke for the good work done with the road machine in leveling off the ground for the purpose of rebuilding. The building will occupy the exact spot where the old building stood.—Rev. M. Lockhart, Pastor.

Lesson for April 2

JESUS MINISTERING TO JEWS AND GENTILES
(World Friendship Lesson)

LESSON TEXT—Mark 7:1-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd. John 10:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Little Neighbors.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Foreign Woman Meeting Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Attitude to Other Races.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Ministry of Jesus to All Races.

I. Jesus Dealing With the Pharisees and Scribes (vv. 1-23).

The Pharisees and scribes zealously sought to preserve Judaism from the encroachments of heathenism. In this effort they built up a wall of traditions which in turn obscured the very law of God. As they gathered together unto Christ, he taught them:

1. The emptiness of formal worship (vv. 1-7). The tendency of the human heart is to depart from the life and rest in the form which was calculated to express the life. Christ declared that worship which centered in forms was as empty and meaningless as lip service while the heart is away from God. This kind of service he calls "hypocrisy," and it is common today.

2. It made the Word of God of none effect (vv. 8-13). A case in point was the consecration of earthly goods to escape the responsibilities of caring for one's parents. This made it possible for a man to be living in luxury while his parents were in the poorhouse.

3. The real source of defilement (vv. 14-23). Sin is moral and spiritual. A man is defiled by that which springs out of his soul and not that which enters his mouth. The deliberate choice of the will is the source of defilement (v. 20).

II. Jesus Healing the Daughter of the Syrophenician Woman (vv. 24-30).

In sharp contrast with the apostasy of Israel and their rejection of the Savior, we see in the Syrophenician woman the foregleam of the offer of the Savior to the Gentiles.

1. The mother's awful distress. Her daughter was grievously vexed with the devil. The daughter was the one afflicted, but the mother carried the burden. Doubtless, this Gentile woman had heard of the fame of Jesus, his power to heal, and many times longed for him to come that way that her daughter might be healed. She now came straightway to him.

2. Her fervent appeal for help (vv. 25, 26). She humbly fell at Jesus' feet and besought him to cast the devil out.

3. Her faith rewarded (vv. 27-30).

a. Jesus' apparent refusal (v. 27). According to Matthew he answered her not a word. The reason for his silence was that she appealed to him on the wrong basis, addressing him as the Son of David (Matt. 15:22). An Israelite only had a right to seek his blessing as the Son of David. He was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. Jesus said, "Let the children first be filled; for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it unto the dogs."

b. The woman's quick response (v. 28). As soon as she perceived the real difficulty she addressed him as Lord and cried for help (Matt. 15:25-27). Only an Israelite could approach him as the Son of David, but all could come to him and own him as Lord. She willingly took her place as a Gentile, showing her willingness to receive but the crumbs from the children's table.

c. The glorious issue of her faith (vv. 29, 30). Jesus said, "Go thy way, the devil is gone out of thy daughter."

III. Jesus Healing a Deaf-mute (vv. 31-37).

1. The place (v. 31). This is the region where he had healed the Gadarene demoniac and where the people had requested his withdrawal from this country (Mark 5:20), because of the loss of their swine.

2. The method (vv. 33, 34).

a. "He took him aside from the multitude" v. 33). He did this to avoid publicity.

b. "Put his fingers in his ears, and he spit, and touched his tongue" (v. 33). This was a sign language designed to objectify to the man what Jesus was going to do for him.

c. "He looked up to heaven" (v. 34), to show to the man that his help was from God.

d. A command issued (v. 34). The cure was immediate and complete (v. 35).

3. The effect (vv. 36, 37). Though he charged them to "tell no man," so much the more they a great deal published it.

Larger Comprehension

If the message is to come to men with most effect, there is need for larger comprehension on the part of those who proclaim it, as well as of those who lay plans for its release.—John R. Mott.

The Master Light

In our world of the inner life we gratefully acknowledge Christ as the Master light of all our seeing, in whose radiant presence our problems are solved and our faith made plain.

Mesdames J. E. Gowan, W. M. Polk, Jones and Miss Bettie Mullins visited friends in Verbena Friday evening.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEETS

The devotional group of the Epworth League of the Methodist church met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Q. Wade to plan the program for the League Sunday evening at 6:45.

The following group members attended: "Dutch" Nivens, president; Roberta Cochran, Mary Edith Jones, Elizabeth McSwain, Cecil Wagner, Mary Lou Tiffin, Carl Jones and Cecil Jones.

The hour was pleasantly spent after which the following program was adopted for League Sunday evening:

"Recipe for Happiness."
Leader, Mary Edith Jones.
Song, "Love Lifted Me."
Scripture, Matt. 5:1-12, Cecil Jones.
Prayer.
Song, "We'll Never Grow Old."
Who are the Peace Makers, Mary Lou Tiffin.
Song, "Oh Happy Day."
Three minute discussions:
1. What is Happiness, Dick Arnold.
2. When Am I Happy, Lester Carter.
3. What Makes Me So Happy, Carl Jones.
4. What Can I Do To Make Others Happy, Elizabeth McSwain.
5. Does Pleasure Mean Happiness? Cecil Wagner.

PATES CHAPEL

First I want to say that our Sunday school was just splendid Sunday. We invite everyone to come back.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and little daughter, Zelma, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox and children.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pate and infant daughter, Doris, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Foshee and little son.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cleckler and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater and little son.

Misses Lucille and Lorene Cleckler, Carrie Bolton, Martha Hayes and Maude Wallis and Messers. Ervin Pate, and Lee Hayes were Sunday dinner guests of Miss Mildred Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Hayes and children were the Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes and children.

Mrs. Clem Pate and Mrs. Odis Price were the Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Foshee.

Miss Jewel Whatley spent the week end with her sister, Mr. B. O. Blow.

Miss Rubye Maddox spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Maddox and children were the Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Maddox and children and Miss Maude Wallis spent Thursday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox.

Miss Maude Wallis spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion.

Messrs. Briggs Hodgens. Dayton Chapman, Wilson Clements were Sunday evening guests of Miss Gail Gletty.

Rubye Maddox spent Monday of last week with Mrs. Mae Hayes.

Mrs. Tommie Maddox and sister and daughter spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Wess Gletty and daughters, Gail and Irene.

Our W. M. S. was just fine Saturday. We have decided just to have one meeting a month on account of strawberries coming on pretty soon. It is every second Saturday afternoon at 1:30.

VERBENA CLUB TO MEET

The Verbena 4-H Club will meet Saturday night, April 1st, at 7:30 o'clock. All members and prospective members are urged to attend.—Herman DuBose, Secretary.

Mr. Billie Walker was here Saturday to attend W. W. (Daddy) Fox's auction sale.

Miss Sarah Colley spent the week end in Troy with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Colley.

(Dan Smith)

An interesting account of the trip to the state's capitol by the Senior III class, accompanied by Prof. Warr and Mr. Varnell, was given in chapel Friday by several members of the class.

Beginning today and continuing through Saturday the Alabama Education Association meets in Montgomery. The purpose of this organization is to promote interest among the teachers in their school work. Here teachers from all over the entire state meet and exchange ideas, and learned men and women in the educational fields lecture and give suggestions for teaching which are worth while and valuable to both the students and the teacher. No teacher who has any interest whatsoever in his or her school will want to miss this meeting. It is one of the steps in modern education. We, the students, hope that our teachers will display that amount of school and student interest that we give them credit for, and attend the A. E. A.

Well, folks, tomorrow night is the night when "Miss Adventure" will make her appearance at the high school auditorium, and she has in store for you an hour or so of comedy, mystery and romance. Under the capable coaching of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, the cast will provide you with entertainment and acting that you will never forget. The cast runs from Jo Carter, the daring tomboy, played by Hilda Hart, to Rebecca, the romantic, indeed and ignorant country gal, acted by Mabel Harris. Then from Albert Brown, John Ezell, the wealthy, handsome and bachelor farmer to Cyrus, the country boob, played by Joe Moore, who is in love with Rebecca and Samson, the janitor, at the girls boarding school, played by Jesse Frank Foshee, and who solves the mystery of the kidnapping. So bring out your dimes and quarters, and prepare yourself to have a real good time tomorrow night at 8:00 o'clock.

It is time for our who's who to be established. Our month tests are over and the students can spare a few moments from their King Henry the Fifth, algebra and geometry to turn their thoughts to those who would merit their votes.

Things sure have livened up here at the school lately. At first thought it was because the beer bill had passed the national congress, but later I found out that there are only about seven or eight weeks until school is out, and everyone is trying to read those six essays, six poems, three or four novels and so on that should have, I believe, been read long ago. Oh well, I had better quit before I tread on someone's pet corn, maybe stumble on my own.

This is a time of motion and action backed by clean, clear thinking. A rest now would mean failure. With final examinations casting their shadows before us we must not fear them but greet them with a smile. A great writer said that a degree of confidence in himself helped him greatly to overcome obstacles, but remember, there is such a thing as too much confidence.

A smile doesn't cost a cent but its value and effect cannot be measured in money.

Is the money we pay for taxes in this county wasted?

How much of our taxes help in educating the school children of this county?

What part goes to maintain the county government? Is this a paying investment?

Watch this column in the future for some facts and discussions on these questions and others of that nature.

Was Kate Smith here at C. C. H. S. any time last week? Maybe it was the Boswell or Pickens sisters. Personally I believe some more of the hidden talent here is showing up. We will hear more of this later, maybe in chapel.

The speaker at chapel period Monday was Rev. R. L. Huffman. Mr. Huffman claims to have trisected a given angle, a geometrical problem which has stumped mathematicians for thousands of years. Mr. Huffman gave a brief talk on his solution of the problem. Tuesday he discussed his trisection at the geometry class which was very interesting not only to geometry students but those people who appreciate the efforts of men as well.

The Junior II English class has been studying nature in connection with their English courses and as the result many good poems on nature were written by the members of the class. The honor of the best poem goes to Paralee Henson. Due to lack of space the poem will not be published.

The members of the Senior III class have selected their rings which they will wear as a rememberance of their years spent in high school. According to reports the rings are due here in three weeks.

The Junior II science class hands in the following note: "We all want to congratulate a student of the Jr. II class, Miss Paralee Henson for making the first 100 on monthly examinations in science. Mr. Varnell is the teacher of this subject." Mr. Varnell stated to the class that this 100 was the first within his teaching experience in this subject.

The Junior III English class should be duly complimented on their publishing of the "Chilton Jigsaw." Under the direction of Miss Sarah Colley these ambitious students have spent hours of labor and the result was the splendid paper now on the bulletin board.

The Junior III's elected their who's who last week, and they are: Smartest boy, Joe Hall Johnson; smartest girl, Mary Courtney Jones; most handsome boy, Morris Popwell; prettiest girl, Mary Courtney Jones; best all-round, Bill Armstrong; best girl athlete, Louise Mims; best boy athlete, Jack Gillespie; friendliest boy, Hayes Marcus; friendliest girl, Eloise Rasberry; most popular boy, Morris Popwell; most popular girl, Eloise Rasberry; neatest boy, Morgan Reynolds; neatest girl, Ruth Gowan; wittiest person, Morris Popwell; most dependable, Mae Vinson; cutest, Lurla Mae Littlejohn; biggest grumbler, Jack Gillespie; most original, Curtiss Duke; most loyal, Mae Vinson.

Mr. J. Bice Dies

J. Bice, age 83 years, one of Thorsby's oldest and one time active citizens, died at the home of his son, Grover Bice, last Thursday at 4:30 p.m. Mr. Bice was postmaster here for 12 years, was mayor for quite a while, and while mayor here had water works for the town installed, and had the park built. He married first Sally Bussie, who later died, leaving 5 children, 3 now living. He then married Emma Ogletree and they had 7 children, all now living. The 3 first are Clarence of Pomona, Florida, Stronghton of Montgomery, and Grover of Thorsby. Of the latter set, Chester, Adam, Ellen, James and Werness of Missouri, Lona Bell of Tennessee and J. Bice, Jr., of Kentucky.

He was a Mason 40 odd years, and he had filled every office in this lodge; was worshipful master for a while. He was a member of New Salem Baptist church, where he was buried Saturday morning. He was county treasurer of this county years ago, and was very active in both politics and religion. Mr. Bice was very active in church and Sunday school work. He served as superintendent of Sunday school in several churches in Chilton County. He was buried with Masonic honors at New Salem Saturday morning. Spigener was in charge. Rev. Jones of Thorsby Baptist church had charge of services and was assisted by Rev. Each.

Next Saturday afternoon at three o'clock there will be a music recital by Miss Phillips's pupils in the Thorsby Institute auditorium, to which everyone is invited.

Miss Vivian Roebuck is visiting friends in Thorsby for several days.

April 8 the last Saturday session of Thorsby Institute will be held. The school will have made up seven days of school so that it will close May 23 instead of June 1 as originally expected.

Rev. Joseph Each will give the Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 21. The commencement speaker will be announced later.

Everyone will be glad to know that Miss Elizabeth Robinson of Birmingham, a former librarian and Bible teacher at Thorsby Institute, is gaining fast after the very serious operation she had a few weeks ago.

The public is requested not to use Thorsby Instiute's grounds for games from twelve to one o'clock and from three to four-thirty o'clock, except on Saturday. The public may use the baseball diamond and tennis courts at other times if it does not interfere with school work, if it furnishes its own equipment, and if the school does not want the use of them. Decent language and orderly conduct will be expected or this privilege may be withdrawn.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Harmon of Elmore visited Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davenport entertained at a chicken dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Dolphus Gentry and son, Charles, and Mrs. Elizabeth Daniels.

Miss Hattie Davenport of Chattanooga, Tennessee spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Davenport.

Mrs. C. M. Gray returned to her home in Prattville Sunday after a two weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Franklin had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Peggy Mims, Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Franklin, Mrs. C. M. Gray, Miss Vivian Roebuck, Mr. Marcelle Wilder and Mr. Herman Robinson.

Mr. N. Laurell of Birmingham was a week end visitor at his home during the past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Maddox and children of Birmingham spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Bean in New Salem community.

Mrs. Arthur Villadsen and children of Tuscaloosa called on Mrs. T. W. Robinson for a short while Saturday.

Mr. Fred Guse and Mr. Harry Drum of Mantiwoc, Wisconsin, who have been spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Howard, left Monday morning for a visit in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reinhardt were surprised by a few Thorsby young people Friday night. They were the following: Misses Vivian Roebuck, Dorothy Franklin, Christine Bosworth. Ella Howard and Lennie Bell Reinhardt and Messrs. Marcelle Wilder, George Nix, Brady Billingsley, Herman Robinson and L. C. Lowery. The refreshments were sandwiches, potato chips and cookies.

Mrs. Andy Wood of Montevallo spent Saturday in Thorsby with her brother, Mr. W. H. Raybon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Mr. Roy Raybon, Mr. R. L. Primm, Mrs. M. J. Primm attended the funeral of Mr. Madison Popwell Sunday afternoon at Pleasant Grove church, west of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raybon and children have moved to Thorsby for the present. Mr. Raybon is working in Montgomery and when he gets permanently located he will move his family there.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Thomson of Lay Dam were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams Sunday.

Mrs. Virgie Pate entertained a number of friends with a quilting party Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice wish to express their appreciation to their friends for the help and beautiful floral offering during the sickness and death of their father, J. Bice.

L. & N. CUT GOES INTO EFFECT

"Throughout the system of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, reduction of passenger fares goes into effect April 1st," states president Whiteford R. Cole. "In coaches, the new rate will be 2 cents a mile. In sleeping and parlor cars, it will be 3 cents a mile, with no surcharge.

"It is a well know fact that for several years the railroads have experienced a continuous decline in passenger revenue," Mr. Cole continued. "We have encountered one form of competition after another. We have realized that changing conditions call for changes in our operations. Various methods for solving the problem have been presented, but we have agreed upon the reduction of fares as the most practical solution.

We believe the public values the advantages of travel by rail. People like the cleanliness, safety and comfort of our trains. They appreciate the savings of time and trouble. Now we are making these benefits available at a rate which removes the economy of competitive methods of transportation from consideration.

Beginning with April 1st, countless men who have been using their own automobiles for short trips will prefer the greater economy and ease of the train trip. For long trips, there will be no question as to the desidability of the train, from the standpoints of comfort and convenience as well as cost.

The L. & N. Railroad is authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to make this experiment in reduced fares for a period of six months. At the end of this time the justification of the reduced rates must be judged by the results, but it is our hope and expectation that the 2-cent rate will bring back lost passenger traffic to such a degree that its continuance will be justified."

REAUBY CHASTEEN ROBBED

On Wednesday night of last week the burglars called again at my little store and carried away quite a bunch of my stuff. I needed it mighty bad, but I suppose they needed it worse than I do. I have to manage in every way I can to make a living. It looks hard, and it's bad for some skunk to come along and take it while you are asleep at night.

They broke two locks. Although I could have caught this bird if I could have only got some help from the law, but you can't go out and take them off handed. If you do they will get you in trouble. But I guess I will have to help them skunks out. They were not hungry only for candy. They only mixed it up—candy, cigars, socks, sock supporters, cigarettes, papers, tobacco, rubber shoes, soles, shoe laces. I don't know just how much the loss was. I will thank the editor for this space.—Sincerely, Reauby Chasteen.

The young bride was asked what she thought of married life.

"Oh, there's not so much difference," she replied. "I used to wait up half the night for George to go, now I wait up half the night for him to come home."

First Lawyer—I've just taken the case of that woman who says she shot her husband because she loved him.

Second Lawyer — I suppose your plea will be that spring is the time for tender shoots.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Chilton County Training School

The N. F. A. met last Tuesday afternoon for the first time since the close of school. The club was reorganized, new officers being elected. They are as follows: Booker T. Anderson, president; Carl Brown, secretary; Clinton Calloway, treasurer; and Charles Calloway, reporter. The club was reorganized for the summer due to the fact that some of the officers lived in town and could not attend regularly. The new president is having a call meeting on Thursday.

Terracing

After a careful check-up on land terraced during the drive put on for the last three months, it was found that a total of 110 acres of land had been terraced for the following persons: Mrs. L. A. Draper, Messrs. Archie Hall, George Williams, Robert Williams, Mose Brown, Felton Pierson, Ralph Oden, Ben Love, Ben Looney, A. T. Holifield, Bud Barbour, Marion Smith, and W. L. Allen. I shall make frequent visits to see that these terraces are well kept.

Do You Know A. T. Holifeld

Well, when it comes to yields in abundance, he leads the community. What do you think of these figures? Sixteen bales of cotton, 150 bushels of corn, 125 bushels of sweet potatoes, 50 gallons of cane syrup, 80 gallons of sorghum syrup, 30 bushels of peas, 90 bales of hay, 1,200 pounds of meat; and six gallons of milk each day. He had one of the best fall and winter gardens in the community. It seems that our biggest problem is that of management. Let us steady ourselves and see if we can't do a better job of this thing called "farm management."

Home Economics Girls at Work

The painting of kitchens, building of pantries, remodeling of old furniture, planting of flowers, and many other things which help to beautify the home, show that the home economics girls are actually putting into practice the good learned in the home economics department. These girls also have a wonderful opportunity to show their ability to take common foods and make out of them wholesome and appetizing dishes. The fact that the depression has limited our food supply makes it imperative that some one come on the scene and alleviate some of this high pressure.

Culture and Agriculture

It has long been a favorite theory of mine that agriculture could be made one of the most cultural in the whole range of studies, and an agriculture the center of a very high type of culture. For, has not agriculture intimate relations with chemistry and physics, with botany and zoology, with transportation and commerce, with banking and the development of society, and with politics? Has it not indeed its aesthetic aspects, and its possible relations with the fine arts; And might it not be possible to so educate the farmer that he should be conscious of these relationships, that his daily task should relate itself in his mind on the one hand to the great world of the physical and vital forces and on the other hand to the evolution of society and the trend of history and the making of a better world for children to be born in and men and women to live in.—Selected.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., March 28.—Dr. H. B. Weiser, noted colloid chemist of Rice Institute, Houston, Texas, will deliver the annual lecture of the Sigma Xi Scientific Club, University of Alabama, on March 30. The lecture will be given at 8 p.m., in Graves Hall auditorium. The subject of the lecture is to be "Colloidal Phenomena in the Foundation of Gallstones." Lantern slides will be used to illustrate. The interested public is invited. There will be a banquet in honor of Dr. Weiser in the Alabama Union at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Weiser is chairman of the division of colloid chemistry of the American Chemical Society and is author of numerous articles on colloid chemistry. He is also associate editor of the Journal of Physical Chemistry.

A new and novel event on "A" day to be celebrated April 5 at the Capstone, will be the greased pole event. A large entry is expected to vie at shining up the greased pole. A prize will be given the one reaching the top.

Some of the track stars are expected to shine in the greased pig race. Twelve of the grunters will be released. The cornering of any one of the dozen will be worthy of a prize.

A pie eating contest is another novelty which should be worth seeing. Several athletes have already gone in training for this contest and some keen competition should ensue.

The faculty men's wives will contribute to the program, matching skill in a rolling-pin throwing contest. The event is expected to draw a fine entry list.

Other events will include a fraternity relay race. Competitive drill in the manual of arms, a sorority fashion show, a tumbling exhibition, a baseball game with Georgia, a flour fight between the engineering and the commerce schools, a parade of comics and clouning by Joe Demyvanovich and assistants.

The "A" Day program will be brought to a close in the evening with a dance. At this time Miss "A" Day will be announced.

"Ears" Whitworth, president of the "A" Club, confidently expects this year's program to be bigger and better than ever, and is bending all of his efforts towards this end.

The University of Alabama Y. M. C. A. is presenting a series of lectures at the campus in which modern trends will be discussed by leading professors of the institution. The theme will be "Responsibility of Economic, Educational, Industrial, and Religious Forces in Building our Civilidation of Tomorrow."

The first speakers will be H. D. Bonham, associate professor of economics, who will discuss the economic class of reconstruction on March 30. The program will be given at 7:30 p.m. in the Union auditorium. Prof. Bonham is co-author of "The American Economic System."

Six lectures will be delivered by Dr. William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education at the fifth annual state education conference to be held this summer at University of Alabama. The conference will take place during the week of June 19.

Dr. W. J. Cooper

On Monday, June 19, at 11 a.m. Dr. Cooper is to speak on "Our Age: Some Implications for Education." A conference on secondary education follows at 4 p.m., the subject to be "District Organization." At 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 20, he will address the conference on "A Modern Educational Scheme—Elementary Education." The Curriculum will be the subject of the conference on secondary education set for 4 p.m.

Dr. Cooper will continue his lecture begun Tuesday on a modern educational scheme by speaking at 10 a.m. Wednesday on "Secondary Education." Extra curriculum will be discussed at the secondary education conference set for 4 p.m. On Wednesday, June 21, he will speak at 8 p.m. on "Retrenchment Versus Economy in Educational Expenditures." "The Relations of Education to Business" will be his topic at 10 a.m. Thursday, June 22. At 4 p.m. a conference on secondary education is to be held. The subject will be "Guidance." Dr. Cooper will bring his series of talks to a close Friday morning, June 23, at 10 o'clock, speaking on "An Educational Philosophy." The final conference on secondary education will be held at 4 p.m., the subject being "Correlation with Higher Institutions."

No fees will be charged educators attending this conference. Dr. Cooper is appearing at the University without making a charge for his services. Special round trip tickets will be sold on all railroads for those coming to the University especially for the conference. Last year hundreds heard Dr. Charles H. Judd, dean of the School of Education, University of Chicago.

Tax NOTICE

TOWN OF CLANTON, ALA.

March 31st is positively the last day in which to pay city taxes. After that date all property will be turned over for sale.

All delinquent taxpayers take notice and be governed accordingly.

REFUGE NEWS

Everybody seems to be enjoying this beautiful weather. It has helped our church wonderfully, for we had a good crowd Saturday and the house was almost full Sunday. We were especially proud of our visitors and extend to them a hearty welcome and ask them to visit us again.

Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, used as his subject Sunday "As he thinketh in his own heart so is he." He explained it in such a way that I am sure that each and everyone enjoyed the services.

Mr. R. N. Connell and wife had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. Tommie Connell and family.

Misses Lavolia Mims, Cleedie Easterling, Dorothy Mae Mims, Turnie Bell Minor; Messrs. Jodie Minor, Harry Easterling, Vastine Powell were dinner guests of Miss Clara Mae Mims Sunday.

Rev. M. Lockhart and family were dinner guests of J. S. Easterling and family Sunday.

Mrs. Monnie Mims has gone back to Birmingham to receive medical treament for her eyes.

Our community received a glad surprise Sunday night when the father and step-mother of our pastor, Mr. Sam Lockhart and wife, Mrs. Maggie Lockhart, surrendered their lives to Christ and joined the church. Those that were present, I am sure, will never forget that quiet hour, for God, in His mercy, was surely with us. May the Lord help those two people to hold out faithful for God can work when no man can hinder, is the prayer of Refuge community.

Everybody come back to Sunday School next Sunday and bring someone with you.

BAKER 4-H CLUB

The Baker 4-H Club met last Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, at its regular meeting time. We had a good crowd but hope to have more present next meeting night, which will be Wednesday night, March 29, at 7:30 o'clock.

All the farmers and all who wish to come have a special invitation to come and be with us at every meeting. Because we need all the help and encouragement that we can get.

After our meeting next Wednesday night we will meet every two weeks on Wednesday nights.

Our oficers are: Curtis Duke, president; Lake Jones, vice president; Willis Baker, secretery-treasurer; Zane Lowery, song leader.

We like a few officers yet, but will get them as soon as all of our members get in.—Earl Lowery, Reporter.

"Pop, will I look like you when I grow up?"

"Everyone seems to think so, son."

"Well, I won't have to grow up for a long time, will I, pop?"

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Miss Willie Mae Childress of Mars Hill was the guest of Miss Willie C. Clements Sunday.

Mrs. Ocie Willis and little daughter of Thorsby are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wells and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Franklin and family had as their guest this week end Mr. Albert Foshee of near Clanton.

Miss Gwendolyn Clements is visiting Miss Lizzie Waldrop and Mr. John Waldrop of Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley have as their guests Mrs. E. E. Bellenger and children, Betty, Francis and Carolyn, of Locust Fork.

Mr. Ershell Spivey had as his guest Sunday Messrs. Guy Hatcher and Erskine Martin, of Union Grove.

Miss Lucille and Mr. Robert Davenport spent the week end with Miss Brouzelle Gibson and Briggs Gibson, of Macedonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Clements had as their guests Saturday night Rev. J. C. Miller, Leon Macon and Dolphus Barnett, of Birmingham.

Mrs. Miller and daughter, Miss Elizabeth, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Spivey and family Saturday night.

Dolphus Barnett, a ministerial student of Howard College, delivered an inspirational address on "Others." Leon Macon, a senior of Howard College, preached a sermon on "Missions." After having these sermons the church decided to dedicate a portion of land for carrying on the Lord's work for the coming year. There were nine acres dedicated Sunday night. We are hoping to have several more acres dedicated next Sunday.

Group 1 of the Senior B. Y. P. U. won in the daily Bible readers contest for this quarter by 1. All members of the Senior and Junior B. Y. P. U. are urged to be present Sunday night, as we want to elect officers for the coming quarter. We are going to try to reach the "standard of excellence" this quarter.

POPLAR SPRINGS

This beautiful spring weather is causing people to begin to stir and start for their year's work.

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days and a large crowd attended church—both services. Our Sunday school is doing fine now, so let's try to keep it growing. There are many near by who do not attend regularly, and we invite you to come and help us out, for we need you.

The singing was fine both Sunday morning and Sunday evening. Mr. Emmett Wilson and W. M. Devaughn were the directors Sunday morning. Prof. W. M. Devaughn, Lee J. Grant and Dolphus Harris were the directors at the evening services. We were gladt to have Mr. Grant with us and invite him back. We welcome all visitors back and ask you to bring your book and help us in our singing.

We are sorry to know that little Margaret Patterson is suffering with a broken arm. We hope she will soon be all right.

We are very glad to hear that Miss Pearl Patterson is improving. She took her bed about a week ago with pneumonia.

Miss Lera Mae Mitchell spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Kathleen Parrish.

Miss Lemerle Kelley spent Sunday and Sunday night with Misses Gladys and Gertie Wilson.

Don't forget Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. every Sunday and Sunday night.

McCAREY SCHOOLHOUSE NEWS

Mr. Alf Headley was visiting at Mr. Arthur Carter's Sunday.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

The United Singing Society will meet next Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church in Thorsby. All singers and lovers of music are invited to be with us there; and especially all who are interested in this society as we are going to have to pick up more interest in it, or disband; so we are appealing to you to come out and show your colors and stand for your own society.—A. H. Glasscock.

SPIRITUAL BLESSINGS ARE IN CHRIST

Christ said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." Jno. 14:6. This means then, that in the light of one's responsibility, if a man is out of Christ he is out of the way, out of the truth and without neccessary spiritual life to be saved.

Paul said, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ." Eph. 1:3. This shows that the inspired apostle recognized the same truth that "all spirited blessings" are in Christ. Again we hear him say, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." II Cor. 5:17. "For in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily and ye are complete in him which is the head of all principality and power." Col. 2:9-10. Paul continues the same idea by saying that God "hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all." Eph. 1:22-23.

These and many other scriptures show the necessity of getting "into Christ." There are certain things that God requires of a man as a preparation to enter into Christ. Man's mind and heart must be prepared and come to the right attitude before he can enter "into Christ." Man must first believe. For without faith it is impossible to please God. So faith is one requisite and except we repent we all shall perish. (See Heb. 11:6; Luke 13:3-5; Acts 17:30-31.)

No one can be ready to enter "into Christ" till he has believed, repented, and confessed Christ. This puts him in an attitude whereby he may enter into Christ by further obedience. The next step that brings such that have made these necessary preparations "into Christ," will be discussed next week. But we do not want to forget the importance of the preparation.

To enter into Christ means something. But there is a neccessary preparation of heart and mind before any one can enter, and not to enter means to be without Christ, without promise of life eternal, to be in sin and disobedience to God. It means to reject the counsel of God, and to build up something independent of God, which means eternal ruin. If we go to heaven we must go God's way. Man's way stops this side of heaven. Sincerely, R. L. Huffman.

Maybe our people wouldn't have had to resort to scrip if they had paid more attention to Scripture.

It is said that the speakeasies in New York are reopened and are willing to exchange liquid assets for scrip.

In the good old days the town banker was greeted with much awe. Now he is apt to be greeted with "haw, haw."

The broadcast of the inaugural parade made one fact abundantly clear: The Army Remount Service has greatly improved the quality of calvary and artillery horses.

The Nicaraguan government has given every former insurgent a farm of his own. Is that any way, asks the Iowa farmer, to cure a rebel?

The 20,000,000 motorists of the country who pay 55.4 per cent of the taxes and who are killing some 30,000 annually, seem to qualify along both lines that there is nothing sure but death and taxes.

The new administration's economy program is said to include the elimination of some of the bureaus of the Department of Agriculture. Why not eliminate all of them and give the farmer a chance to see what he could do without expert advice?

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

There is no gainsaying the fact that the new administration has moved swiftly and decisively since taking office at Washington. Congress has obeyed willingly and has given President Roosevelt powers never before known in America during peace times. There is more than one reason for this. In the first place the old adage that a "new broom sweeps clean" holds good in politics as well as in other walks of life. President Hoover was handicapped by a Congress which was generally against him because the political beliefs of its members did not coincide with those of the President's party. But when the new administration came in, bringing with it a majority in both branches of Congress and a so-called "new deal" the psychology changed over night. Congress and the nation is always willing to give a new administration a chance. Whatever troubles and political divisions there are to be in the majority party, will come later on in the administration.

Another reason for the swift and decisive action on the part of Congress was the national banking crisis. It was evident that something had to be done and done quickly. A thrill of patriotic fervor, comparable to a war spirit, swept over the nation. American people may do a lot of complaining in times of depression, but they love their country and always rally to the colors when it is in danger, no matter whether the danger is from within or without. A third reason of course is that President Roosevelt had the ability to capitalize the situation and to take a bold course and one calling for decisive action. He captured the imagination of the country, partly of course because he presented a workable program.

Passage of the emergency banking legislation was of course a foregone conclusion. The need was acute and congress responded. But the enactment of the so-called economy and budget balancing program of the president was more remarkable. The legislation called for making the president an economy dictator, and this was done on the theory that the nation was facing a situation as serious as a military threat by a foreign foe. For months, certain well-financed lobbies in Washington had been preventing the enactment of real economy legislation and they felt, when the new administration started, that they could do it again. But they reckoned without the ability of President Roosevelt to take hold of a situation, and without the response that the whole country would make to his demand for action for economy and sound national finance. As the debate in congress proceeded the forces behind the president grew stronger rather than weaker, and in the end the lobbyists themselves were forced to yield gracefully and to say that they were so doing because they had absolute confidence in the fairness of the president to do the right thing in the administration of the law.

Just how the rest of President Roosevelt's program will fare in congress remains to be seen. Just now the administration "has the ball" and is able to make a touchdown almost at will. Nothing succeeds like success, and with his proven ability to size up a situation and dramatize it when necessary President Roosevelt ought to go a long ways with congress before real disagreements develop.

Many New Yorkers who have watched President Roosevelt's political career from the beginning say that he is blessed with that rare gift called "political luck." He always has won his political battles, they say, no matter what the apparent odds aginst him. If that is true, his "political luck" seems to be holding and Americans generally regardless of party will hope that it continues to hold so long as his policies remain sound and constructive. The statement that he has political luck is no disagreement of his ability. Luck without ability would not go far. It will be remembered that the late President Coolidge was credited both by his political friends and opponents with possessing the same kind of luck, but this did not deny his calm, constructive judgment and sound mentality. President Roosevelt is now the head of the nation. His achievements will be the nation's achievements, and his luck will be the nation's luck. May it continue as long as the president and the nation continue to deserve it.

THE WHEAT PROBLEM

It was announced in the news dispatches the other day that President Roosevelt, in his efforts for farm relief would seek a world agreement for curtailing the production of wheat. It is stated that the plan, broadly speaking, is to set fixed quotas of wheat for the great wheat producing countries, the United States, Canada, Argentina, Russia and Balkan countries. The quota so far as Russia is concerned would be merely an academic issue for the present, as wheat production has fallen off in that country and the soviet government has little or none for export.

There can be no criticizing this move on the part of the president. It is undoubtedly true that we have a world-wide overproduction of wheat. Like a great many of our other disturbing conditions, this dates back to the World War, when the wheat growing nations, stimulated by big crop propaganda, and big prices, greatly increased the output of wheat. Since the close of the war the world has been unable to get back to the old basis of wheat production.

The statement from Washington adds that the United States itself will take the initiative and reduce its production of wheat if the farm relief legislation, asked by the president, is passed by Congress. This is undoubtedly a step in the right direction and an important one, so far as the wheat farmers of America are concerned. The tariff on wheat is generally ineffective in the United States because our farmers raise enough wheat for domestic requirements and considerably more for export, so that the selling price is determined in the world market. But if the farmers could, by some sound method, be induced to regulate their wheat so that production in the United States would be on the basis of domestic consumption there would be an entirely different story to tell. The protective tariff designed for wheat would immediately become effective and prices would go up so that the average farmer would make more than he did when he was raising a larger crop.

In the case of wheat, as with other American products, we ought to get back to the question of holding the domestic market first in our estimation. After all, the people of the United States consume about ninety per cent of what is produced in this country and consideration of the home market should come first. This does not mean that we should neglect the foreign trade opportunities which may come to us. It only signifies that we ought not gamble with or jeopardize a great home market in the expectation that we might bet something farther away, something which might indeed not materialize at all.

THEY THINK THEY NEED US

Former Premier Herriot, of France, the other day frankly warned his country that it is to her "essential interest" to pay the overdue installment on the French debt to the United States. Changed conditions in Europe, he added, made this belated action all the more necessary. It is said that the French statesmen, who have been resisting this payment, are contemplating an about-face on the proposition.

The reason for the change is not that France has suddenly discovered that she owes the money. It is due to another discovery, and that is that she may need Uncle Sam again in the not far distant future.

The accession of Adolf Hitler to power in Germany has caused a more than vague unrest in France, who now fears that real trouble may break for her across the Rhine, or along the Polish corridor. Therefore Mr. Herriot wants an ageement between the United States, Great Britain and France as the "best guarantee of peace and freedom." M. Herriot, added that "it is the duty of all those who believe in the right and liberty of France, England and young free America * * * to stick together."

Of course, Uncle Sam will be glad to get the money if France decides to pay it. He will not take it however, with an understanding that it obligates him to stand with France in any European program which may lead to war. As Uncle Sam understands it, France owes him money for goods already delivered. He once went to her rescue at a time when she needed him vitally. The need was admitted at the time. Later when the victory was won and France was asked to pay what she owed us, she discovered that our services in the war were not so important after all and she convinced herself that she would probably have won it anyhow. But now that the clouds are gathering again she is coming to the conclusion that Uncle Sam may have been fairly useful back in 1917 after all.

The truth is, of course, that European nations do not regard their debt to the United States as a business obligation but as a political instrument, just as tariffs are regarded as political instruments over here.

Uncle Sam needs the $19,000,000 which France owes and which is past due. But he will want it delivered, if it is delivered with the strict understanding that it is for goods already delivered, and is not to be regarded as a premium for insurance to be liquidated in the future.

This goes not only for France but for any other nation which may by one means or another seek to get Uncle Sam interested to the point of taking part in the European Punch and Judy Show.

My New Heading

Yes, sir, we sail forth this week under a brand new heading for the old "col-yum." And right now I'm going to forestall a lot of kidding I might have to listen to about it. Nope! That isn't my picture, and I haven't a case of swell-head, and the old bean isn't cracked, either, as a first glance at the new heading might indicate. Just a little change to brighten up the surroundings. How do you like it.?

The First Real Test

The first real test of Mr. Roosevelt's ability to hold his own against public disfavor and opinion is due in the near future, when the order, ending all government pensions, becomes operative on July 1. As is generally understood, this order calls for the stopping of all government pensions, from the Spanish-American War and later, except by special direction and advice of the administration. This action is sure to arouse much resentment among ex-service men and their sympathizers, and subsequent cooling of the ardor of many Roosevelt supporters. The merit of this sweeping action does not enter into the matter. The question is: Will it cause a reversal of public opinion and feeling great enough to hamper the administration in the execution of its measures to bring back a feeling of security among the people of the nation, which is so necessary in our climb back to "normalacy?" If the president can manage to carry this major measure through, giving the national treasury a breathing spell in its big job of carrying the enormous load of expenditures, without creating too much disfavor, then he will have passed his first big test and proved himself big enough and popular enough to swing the big stick without danger of having it rebound, endangering his whole program. In a nut-shell, if he can pull this and "get away with it," he is good; if not, then it's just too bad.

Who Will Prosper?

I am sure you have heard the slogan: "To bring back prosperity, repeal the 18th amendment." I have never been able to understand how repeal of the 18th amendment could bring back prosperity. We had prosperous times long after the amendment went into effect, hence the amendment could not have been the cause of the depression. If the passage of the amendment was not the cause of the depression, then how can its repeal cure the depression? To cure a disease, the cause must be removed—this rule will work in every case. If a certain one of your teeth aches, you may hove every other tooth in your head yanked out but your ache will remain until the aching tooth comes out. And there is something else to consider, too. Since there is just so much material wealth in this country, that which brings prosperity to one person or group of persons must necessarily cause a loss to some other person or persons. Even if open liquor traffic would bring back prosperity, let's reason a bit and consider who would profit and who would lose. Big brewers and distillers would profit, but what about the families of the consumers of their products? Would they gain? Thousands of men might be put to work in breweries and distilleries, but how many men, women and children would be forced to go without sufficient food, clothes and shoes as a result? The government might levy and collect a tax from each gallon of beer, wine and whiskey made and sold, but that tax would have to be paid by those individuals least able to afford such payment. Isn't that true? If there is anyone who can give a reasonable explanation of how repeal of our prohibition laws can ever bring about prosperity and a healthy growth to the business of the country, I will be glad to listen to it. Shall we "rob Peter to pay Paul?" That is just what it all boils down to.

A New Solution

Let's scan the newspapers, for a change. Here is a good one, from the Cleveland Plain Dealer. That paper suggests that what this country needs most right now is more self-starters and less cranks. Not such a bad idea, at that. Another paper takes note of the old time idea that horseshoes brought good luck, and adds that if the country will use more horseshoes, (on the feet of horses and mules), and use less rubber tires, we will see better times pretty soon.

Bitters and Sweets

Did you ever hear that "where there is a sweet there is a bitter?" I suppose that is about true, as proved by another news item I have noticed. A man was caught in the Los Angeles earthquake a few days ago, and just as soon as he could get a chance, he boarded a smoke-wagon and left for Nashville, where they never have earthquakes. The only bad part about it was that he arrived in Nashville just in time to be caught in the tornado that swept through that neck of the woods. Might as well stay put wherever you are—if old lady hard luck is camping on your trail, she'll find you sometime, any way.

Take A Tip, Governor

Without trying to pose as an advisor to governor, we might pass a hint to him to follow the precedent set recently by the governor of Arizona. The legislature of that state had met and enacted a big pack of new laws. Not long after, it was found that about nine-tenths of the laws they had passed were unconstitutionnal, and the other tenth didn't amount to so much, anyway. Someone mentioned that the governor call them back into special session and have them go all over the matter again, to which he replied: "No, I think we'll let bad enough alone. As it stands now, those laws can't go on the statute books as laws, so they can't hurt anything. Chances are that if I call them back, they'll only make things worse, and then fix them so they might do harm." That is a pretty good way for Governor Miller to look at the matter, maybe. The law-makers have, so far, succeeded in making big noises about nothing; and their work (if one can call it work) has amounted to just about the same—nothing. So, maybe it would be wise to keep them at home, where they can do the least harm.

CHURCHILL'S ADVICE

A statement which did not attract as much attention in the United States as is deserved was one delivered a few days ago by Winston Churchill, the noted English statesman, to the effect that Great Britain should keep herself free from entanglements of Continental Europe. Mr. Churchill, speaking during the debate on the aviation budget estimates, said that Great Britain ought to keep out of the entangling committments on the continent, and that, in order to do so, she must have an aviation force strong enough to enforce her neutrality.

The statement, coming from this noted Britisher, might be surprising to those who have not kept in touch with the drift of affairs in Great Britain. There has been for some a steady growing sentiment in Great Britain that John Bull ought to keep his nose out of Continental European affairs so far as possible, and attend strictly to his business of promoting a return to normalacy inside the British Empire. This policy, if adopted, would of course be a departure from time honored British procedure. For centuries, ever since the Hundred Years War in fact, John Bull has always had a finger in the European diplomatic pie. Holding the balance of power in Europe has always been an ideal of British statesmanship. Of course, there is no assurance that John Bull will abandon this time-honored policy, but there is undoubtedly a drift of sentiment toward the policy of Great Britain's remaining out of continental European squabbles. The sentiment will undoubtedly be accentuated by the present hectic state of European affairs.

The statement of Mr. Churchill however, if delivered by a Western senator of our own country as a bit of advice for Uncle Sam to follow, would be hailed by the internationalist clackers on our Eastern seaboard as another evidence of American backwardness and provincialism. For internationalist wants Uncle Sam to have a nose in affairs all over the world, especially where there is a good chance of his getting into trouble.

Now Great Britain is separated from the continent of Europe by a narrow strip of water, known as the British Channel. European affairs interest her vitally. But if she has arrived at the point where statesmen of the standing of Mr. Churchill believe that she is better off in not involving herself in European entanglements, how all the more advisable is it that Uncle Sam maintain a familar course.

We are separated from Europe by three thousand miles of goodly ocean. Our traditions, and our living standards are vastly different from those of most European countries. Certainly we have no business nosing ourself into Europe's troubles through the internationalist methods of entangling commitments. What is good advice for Great Britain is a thousand times better for Uncle Sam under the same conditions and circumstances.

DOUBLE TAXES DOUBLY DANGEROUS

Disastrous effects of double taxation—due to invasion of the federal field by the states, and, per contra, of the state field by the federal government — have Congress sweating. Reports so far from the congressional committee on double taxation indicate that several geese that once laid golden eggs are now in poor health.

The gasoline tax is an example of a field once assumed to be reserved to the states but which the federal government invaded last year. The result of a federal tax piled on top of a state tax has been to discourage the use of gasoline. The effect has been most marked in the states which have the heaviest gasoline taxes. The state revenue from this source has thus been cut down and the federal treasury has not obtained the returns expected.

On the other side, the attempts of various states to imitate the federal tax on cigarettes have damaged the national revenues without yielding the anticipated returns to the states. Here the case is even more aggrevated. The federal tax on cigarettes is six cents on the package of twenty. When, as it is in Arkansas, the state tax is five cents a package, there is a total of eleven cents tax on a pack of pills. This drives Arkansas folks to corncobs or to rolling their own.

This is bound to be so. With every tax there is a point at which increase in the rate means diminishing returns. As the rate goes higher above that point the returns grow less and less because use is discouraged. When double taxation comes in, this point of diminishing returns is in double danger of being reached.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The 1929 millionaire who proudly announced that he started business on a shoestring has now ended that way.

In 1917 Americans faced a foreign foe and won. If they are defeated now it will not be by a foreign foe but by their lack of confidence in themselves.

It is said that Babe Ruth refused a salary offer of $50,000, which reminds us again that a lot of folks back in 1929 refused to sell U. S. Steel at 250.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has barred his door to job hunters so he will have time to work. That is no way to be a popular cabinet official.

In the general excitement over the banking situation the general public has lost sight of the fact that Babe Ruth is still a holdout.

Unknown Wonders

In moseying around from place to place, and listening to lots of people talk, one would gather that there are in this country a multitude of master minds and unknown wonders who could take over the reins of this government and within a week's time turn it over from a land of depression to one of honey ponds and flap-jack trees. What a mystery that none of these wizards are ever sent to the high places, where their giant brains and masterful ideas might do the most good. Not so long ago I listened to one of this stripe. He held the floor for well over an hour. He told "how it ought to be done," all the way from a sure-fire solution of the farm problem up to how to handle the international war debt business, with stop-overs at Muscle Shoals and how that should be handled, how the war veterans' problem should be handled, and gave several good ideas on how to manage the banks and their tangled affair; in short, he wove a complete recovery schedule, bearing down on the questions where money was concerned. When he had finished his discourse, he rose, bought a gallon of meal, two pounds of lard, a little slab of bacon, and a big plug of chewin'-and-spittin', had the whole business charged, and started off for home, whistling "I've come from Alabammy with my banjo on my knee." Whatta man.—Man in the Moon.

Cup on Display at Calloway's

The engraved silver cup won last year by the 4-H Club of Concord is now being displayed at Calloway Drug Store in Clanton. The cup was given and awarded by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton. Concord was judged the winner of the trophy this year because of the outstanding program of activity carried on in that community by the club boys. If Concord wins it again next year, it will become the permanent possession of the Club. Some of the other clubs declare they will take the honor away from Concord in 1933. Looks like it will be a lively race. It will accomplish the purpose of stimulating the club boys to greater activity and more efficient work. That is what the Kiwanis Club hoped it would do.

It is Cheap to Ride the Trains

You will be surprised to know how cheap it is to ride the trains these days. Mr. J. C. Eaton, one of the Old Reliable's passenger agents, dropped in Monday and showed us some figures that were surprising. Look at these, for instance. The old fare to Birmingham has been $2.03. Now you can ride a train to the Magic City for $1.13. The old fare to Montgomery has been $1.50. Now you can ride a train to the Capital City for only 84 cents. That is what I call bargains in transportation. The same ratio of reductions in fares applies to any place you might wish to go to. The general scale of passenger fares has been reduced from 3.6 cents a mile to 2 cents a mile.

Another Railroad Man Here

Mr. Farrell, of the freight department of the L. & N., was a visitor to Clanton Monday. He was calling on business men in the interest of the freight delivery system of the railroad, which you have already read about in previous issues of The Union-Banner. Incidentally, Mr. Farrell is one of the men who was instrumental in securing the consent of the railroad to build our strawberry shed. He was delighted to see the work under way, and hopes it will prove a means of better convenience for shippers of strawberries.

Not So Bad As It Seems

With the first reading of regulations of the new state fish law several sportsmen had an idea the regulations as to size of game fish to be caught would be somewhat rigid. However, when the rule is applied to a fish, it will be seen that it is not so bad. A trout or bass 11 inches long is as small as one would want to eat, and is certainly as small as one might expect any fun from catching. Crappie 8 inches long is as small as ought to be eaten, and as for the fun of catching, I have never found much sport in catching them, large or small. It is hoped the sportsmen in our waters will abide by the law as to size of fish to be taken from our streams. It would be one of the best methods of preserving our stock of fish. Also the limit on the number to be caught in one day should be carefully observed.

It Will Not Surprise Pete Much

Down in Baldwin County they have formed number one of Pete Jarman for Governor Club. It is said that Pete did not know anything about the formation of the club, and that he would be surprised to hear about it. I do not think Pete will be surprised much. There are those who have already suspicioned Pete's hat would be in the ring next time for chief executive of our state. I will say it is my opinion he will be a very formidable if not successful contender for the high honor. Personally, I would not object to seeing him governor. In fact, I would like it all right.

Tom McKee Makes Generous Offer

While in Clanton Monday Tom McKee requested us to say that he has fishing boats to rent at Gravel Beach on Cargyle Creek. Mr. McKee also stated that he would not make any charges for the use of his boats to those who are not able to pay for them. He did not say just what method he will use to determine who is able to pay and who is not able to pay. While here Mr. McKee went to a hardware store to buy a hoe. He was careful to get a light hoe with a little handle. "That one is light enough for you," said the clerk as he handed Mr. McKee the fourth one to inspect. "Yes, that is a nice one," he admitted, and added the further explanation that the reason he was so anxious to get a light hoe he was getting it for Mrs. McKee to use, and not for himself.

MUST HAVE AN ADEQUATE NAVY

There will be general satisfaction with the action of the house appropriations committee in its rejection of economies that would lessen our naval preparedness. Under the bill, just reported out by this committee, which will come up for final passage the latter part of this week, no reduction is made in the present strength of the Marine Corps, and provision is included to build or commence the construction of every ship for which authority exists, except one transport and one experimental submarine. Although no new construction is authorized, it is understood that the naval affairs committee will present a building program to the special session of the new congress which, if enacted, will bring the navy up to London treaty strength.

The wisdom of the decision was revealed by the recent war game in the Pacific, which proved conclusively that the navy has certain definite needs that must be met unless the fleet is to be seriously weakened. These needs relate not so much to new construction as to replacements that are necessary to maintain the fleet on a basis of emergency. One session of naval opinion has gone so far as to say that unless these replacements are made, it must decline responsibility for what might happen in the event of war.

To be more specific, the maneuvers showed that our destroyer squadrons, that are virtually all over-age will be at a disadvantage matched with the modern destroyers of other naval powers. While the submarine situation is not so acute as that of the destroyers, the need of new submarines of longer range, higher speed and stronger and more effective armament, became apparent. The need also of additional cruisers was acutely felt. With the ships available, the defending fleet found itself unable to form a midocean scouting line.

These observations must not be lightly brushed aside. No greater misfortune could befall us than to trust to a navy for our protection that has proved itself inadequate for its task. Particularly is this the case at a time when international unrest in so many parts of the world constitutes so grave a threat to world peace.—Manchester Union.

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

Let us study together the subject of prayer, as found in the words of our Lord in Matt. 21st chapter and 22nd verse. "And all things whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive."

There is not a Christian, living or dead, male or female, old or young, that did not use the medium of prayer, to obtain that eternal salvation that comes through the Lord Jesus Christ. The fact that one is a Christian is all that is needed to prove the effectivenes of prayer. When one comes to that place in his experience that he can see his lost condition, he becomes so frightened at the thought of being lost that he goes to God in real earnest.

Was it not a great miracle in your life when you was changed from a vile sinner, lost and ruined by sin, to a Christian saved by grace, and all of it accomplished through the medium of prayer? It is therefore evident that you would never have been a child of God if you had not prayed. Our belief in prayer is destroyed lots of times by a failure to receive the things that we ask for. There are several reasons for such failures; one reason is that we don't believe, or our desire for the thing asked for is not strong enough. Another reason is that we pray sometimes, just because we are called upon, such as public prayer, offered in the regular church services.

We just merely say a prayer without any thought of receiving the things we ask for. Then again, we may ask amiss,—that is, for things that in our short-sightedness we think we need, when God knows that it would not be best for all who may be affected by a literal answer.

Once a good Christian mother said to me: "Brother pastor, I have been praying for my girl for about fifteen years and she seems to be less inclined toward a Christian life now than ever. What do you suppose is the reason?" And then she added, "I think sometimes that the fault is in me. Perhaps I am not as earnest as I should be. What do you think about it?" Then I told her that she had failed to take in consideration the one outstanding fact that there was the will of her daughter to consider. I told her that, however, anxious a mother may be, and, however, ready a loving God may be to save one's child, salvation would not come against the child's will.

Then I asked her if she had tried talking to the girl and she said, no. I said, "You should talk to her and pray with her and let her know how anxious you are about her soul." She promised to do so, and when I saw her the next time she was as happy as a mother could be over her daughter's salvation.

Mother, don't get the idea that the fault is with you when your children are not saved in answer to your prayer. God will not override the will of your boy. Jesus will not thrust himself upon anyone. He knocks for admission, but that boy or girl of yours must open the door and invite Him in. You may assist them in speaking to Him by showing them their lost condition and praying with them.

All that I have said above has been confined to us and ours. Now, let's broaden out a little. How many Christians do you suppose are praying for our country at large? Who among all of God's children in our country are praying for our president and the leaders, on whose shoulders fall the great task of leading us out of awful distressed condition. Are we just leaving it up to them? Are we willing to sit by and expect things to right themselves? I would be glad if we could call an assembly of all the devout men and women of our churches in Chilton County and spend a day in singing and praying, fasting the while, and let the burden of our prayers be for a return of the people to God, and for a lifting of the clouds of want and distress from our land.

I would be willing to spend three days and nights without food or drink, praying unto God until He came to our rescue. Who will join me? Our Lord was in such agony in the garden that He sweated, as it were, "great drops of blood." Our agony has not been great enough so as to cause us to sweat at all. If you want conditions to be better—if you want the specter of starvation and distress to be banished from our people, we must first, get right with God ourselves and then agonize with Him, asking Him to lift from us this great affliction and cause His bright smile of approval to come upon us once more.

Beloved, let's not look so much to politics to right our wrongs. Let's not depend upon our officers to get us out, but turn to the great God of all the earth, for surely we have displeased Him with out slack carefree way of living. And when we pray, believing, then our God will hear us and bless us. May God lead us to our knees in fervent believing prayer for our country.—Elder Blossom.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

To the W. M., Wardens and Brethren of Marbury Lodge No. 534 A. F. & A. M.

We, the committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late Brother Tom J. Henderson, beg leave to submit the following report:

Brother Henderson lived to a ripe old age, 75 years, going beyond the allotted time, three score and ten, departed this life March 3, 1933, and was buried on his 51st wedding anniversary.

This brother has been called upon to lay down the working tools of life, that he might appear before the Supreme Grand Master of the Universe, and present his work for final inspection.

No longer is heard the sound of chisel, or mallet, but only the dying echo of the footsteps he makes in joining the innumerable host, who are moving to that temple, not made with hands, eternal, in the "Glory World." In his behalf we drop the sympathetic tear. We fondly cherish his memories; and the working tool which he has dropped from his nerveless grasp we take up, that we may carry to completion the glorious work which the Grand Architect of the universe had laid out on the tressel board of life.

Therefore, be it resolved, that, though we miss his genial presence, his sunny smiles, and wise council, we can in humble submission, bow to the will of God, who makes and gives at His pleasure.

Be it further resolved, that, we extend our heartfelt sympathy to all the bereaved and point them to the "Star of Hope," the resurrected Lord, who gave the beautiful promise: "I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am, you may be also."

Be it further resolved, that, a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the county papers for publication, one sent to the family of the deceased brother and one spread upon the minutes of our lodge.—Respectfully submitted, R. L. Duffey, Chairman.

RIFLES UPHELD AS SAFE HUNTING ARM

Washington, D. C.—Agitation that is having its annual fling in several of the larger hunting states to banish the rifles, which could force all hunters to use shot gun, has found strenuous opposition from C. B. Lister, secretary-treasurer of the National Rifle Association, representing upwards of 300,000 shooters of the country.

The solution of the problem of reducing hunting accidents, Mr. Lister holds, does not lie in outlawing the rifle or any weapon commonly used in hunting; it lies solely in legislation which "will keep out of the game fields those thousands of city sportsmen who are totally unfamiliar with the elementary principles of the safe-handling of firearms."

Laws that would force the unskilled once-a-year hunters "to use the deadly shotgun buckshot combination would serve only to greatly increase the probability of their doing damage to themselves and to others," the rifle association official maintains, basing his opinion on many years of intimate assocaton with all types of firearms.

Mr. Lister also stresses the fact that the chances of being hit by a rifle bullet at hunting ranges are immensely less than the probability of being struck and wounded by the scattering buckshot from a shotgun.

To further support his stand against any move that would bar the rifle from the game fields, Mr. Lister points out that the official accident figures for one year in Pennsylvania, which is one of the most extensive hunting states in the country, show that out of a total of 439 mishaps, 72 of them fatal and 367 non-fatal, 20 per cent were caused by rifles, 77 per cent by shotguns and three per cent by drowning. Twenty-five of the 72 fatalities were caused by rifles and 44 by shotguns, and 30 of the death wounds were self-inflicted.

GAME AND FISHERIES

Montgomery, Ala.—Traps set out in the Alabama National Forest by Warden W. A. Spiller of Moulton, have snared a number of prowling bobcats. On a recent patrol on the banks of the Sipsey river, just south of the big game refuge, he came upon two snarling cats held fast by the steel traps.

Frequently bob-cats or wild cats are seen in various parts of the state. Judge W. C. Batson of Lafayette, recently presented the Department of Game and Fisheries a mounted bobcat which had put up a terrific fight before being subdued in its cave retreat where hunters had cornered it.

In his biological survey of Alabama Arthur H. Howell relates that wild cats are to be found in moderate numbers througout the sparsely populated sections of the state. In the mountains they live about the gulches and rocky bluffs, while in the lowlands they seek the shelter of the swamps and brushy thickets.

On the outer beach bordering Perdido Bay numerous tracks have been seen in the palmette schrub and the animals are trapped every winter in this vicinity. Bob-cats have been reported from many localities, including Sand Mountain, Talladega Mountains, Mount Weogulfka, Piedmont, Ardell, Natural Bridge, Autaugaville, Haneyville, Seale, Oakchia, Myrtlewood, Jackson, Carlton, Abbeville, Dothan and Mobile.

These cats destroy many young pigs and some lambs, kids and poultry. Hunters secure the animals both by chasing with hounds and by trapping.

STATE'S MORTALITY LOW IN 1932

Mortality in Alabama for 1932, as in the rest of the United States, was unusually low, many causes showing the lowest rates ever recorded. The most striking instance was typhoid fever, with a rate of only 4.9 per 100,000 of population.

Other low rates were for measles with a rate of 0.2 per 100,000, malaria with a rate of 6.4, pellagra, with a rate of 13.0 and all forms of tuberculosis with a rate of 77.2.

These figures are contained in a report of Dr. W. T. Fales, director of the bureau of vital statistics of the State Health Department, and are provisional, as final analysis of 1932 vital statistics data will not be available for severl months.

Diseases of the heart contributed the largest group of fatalities for the year, Dr. Fales states, provisional figures attributing 3,198 deaths to this cause, or a rate of 117.9 per 100.00 of population. A decrease of 500 in fatalities from pneumonia was a large contributing factor in the exceedingly low mortality for the year.

Fatalities from external causes showed an unexpected increase due to the tornadoes that swept various sections of Alabama in March, last year.

Deaths from accidental burns, firearms, mine explosions and automobile accidents, however, showed a decrease which in the case of the latter two, Dr. Fales says, "can probably be attributed largely to results of the present economic depression."

He adds that "there was a slight increase in deaths from suicide, while homicides remained at the same disgracefully high total of 576, or a rate of 21.2 per 100,000 population." There were four legal executions.

Stork Beats Undertaker

Births occurring in Alabama during the month of January this year totalled 4,383, or more than double the number of deaths with a total of 2,139, according to report by Dr. W. T. Fales, director of the bureau of vital statistics of the State Health Department.

Of the deaths recorded for the month, 94 resulted from accidents. Automobile accidents took 23 lives, home accidents 43, industrial accidents 9, and accidents of a public nature other than motor vehicle accidents 12. The most common cause of fatal home accidents were burns, scalds and explosions.

POWER BILLS GET A FAVORABLE VOTE

After a lengthy hearing Tuesday morning, the senate committee on municipal organization voted to report the Carmichael municipal power bills to the senate Thursday without recommendations. The vote was four to one, though this did not represent the sentiment of the committee towards the bills as it was announced that certain ahmendments would be offered on the floor of the senate.

Representatives of electrical power companies appeared before the committee and explained that if the Carmichael bills were passed, approximately $135,000,000 worth of utility property in Alabama would be virtually destroyed due to the fact that the bills do not require a city, town or county to condemn an existing plant and pay for it what a jury finds is its worth. They can build competing lines. It was explained to the committee that under the terms of the bills one city or town could go into another city or town and condemn existing plants or could parallel their lines.

The committee was told that in the event all of the electrical utilities of Alabama are put out of business by the bill, that the state, counties and cities would lose over $3,000,000 annually in taxes as the municipal plants would not be taxed. It developed during the hearing that municipal electric plants in Alabama charge a higher rate than the Alabama Power Company.

Representative Carmichael, of Colbert, author of the bills, and Senator Walker, their sponsor in the senate, told the committee the bills were in line with the wishes of President Roosevelt. They declared they had knowledge that President Roosevelt would favor the Norris bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals and that the Norris bill would become a low.

Senators Teasley and Mullins spoke against the bills as amounting to confiscation of property as did the representatives of a number of utility companies.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. J. R. McAfee wish to express their sincere appreciation to the people of this and adjoining communities for the many useful gifts and kindness shown them after their loss of their home by fire.—Mrs. J. R. McAfee and family.

Rev. John P. Chadwick, chaplain of the Battleship Maine when she was blown up in Havana harbor, in an address at the Capuchin Church of John the Baptist in New York City, is reported to have said: "Notwithstanding all the overflow bounty with which God has blessed the world in the last three years, what a mess they have made of the world; what darkness are we in; what uncertainty presses upon us. Who can say now whether we have reached the center of the storm, and that it is passing by. Who feels the earth on which we stand, firm and secure. Who sees the star of promise telling us of the coming of a better day."—Golden Age.

OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN TO VISIT CLANTON APRIL 12TH

TARZAN, THE APE MAN

"Tarzan, the Ape Man," based on the hair-raising story of jungle adventure by Edgar Rice Burroughs, will be the attraction at the Wadesonian Theatre for Friday and Saturday, March 31st and April 1st.

Johnny Weismuller, world's champion swimmer and considered to have one of the finest physiques of any man living, plays the title role of the strange white man who lives in the jungle like apes. Prominent roles are also played by Neil Hamilton, Maureen O'Sullivan, C. Aubrey Smith, Doris Lloyd, Forrester Harvey and Ivory Williams. The picture was directed by W. S. Van Dyke who achieved such sensational results with "Trader Horn."

The story, laid for the most part in the beast-infested Lake Alberta region of Africa, concerns the attempt of a handful of English adventurers to find the mysterious "Elephant's Burial Ground," where they hope to secure a fortune in ivory. The daughter of the leader of the safari is abducted by Tarzan, the Ape Man, who lifts her bodily from the ground and then carries her away beyond reach of human hands by swinging through the tops of trees at dizzying heights. Their continually exciting and oftimes thrilling adventures with wild beasts, pygmies and other jungle terrors make this picture which is said to contain even more hair-raising episodes than the celebrated "Trader Horn."

Among these are numbered the attack upon the safari night camp by starved lions; a fight between Tarzan and a bull ape; the rescue of an elephant trapped in a pit; the charge of elephants through a pygmy village and the escape of the safari from death in a man-eating gorilla pit.

"And what," asked the chief of the Cannibal Islands, in his kindest tones, "was your business before you were captured by my men?"

"I was a newspaper man," answered the captive.

"An editor?"

"No, merely a sub-editor."

"Cheer up, young man! Promotion awaits you. After dinner you shall be editor-in-chief."

BOY SCOUTS FIND TREASURE ISLAND

Location for Camp to be Held Week of July 2 to 9 This Summer

Boy Scouts of Clanton District will be host to Scouts of Selma, Ashland, and all Sea Scouts of the Council when from July 2 to 9 these groups will camp on an island already nicknamed "Treasure Island," located two and a half miles up the Coosa River from Lay Dam, in Paint Creek.

This island contains 60 acres of rolling land, and even a natural swimming area has been discovered. To spend a week in this camp, with all the advantages and opportunities it will afford will be the answer to the dream of every Boy Scout for outing, adventure and romance.

Last week John J. Sigwald, local Scout executive, and who will serve as camp director, inspected the site with local district Scout chairman, Sam R. Powers. Mr. Sigwald was delighted in every way with the layout, and especially the cooperation of the Alabama Power Company in making this site possible for Scout campers.

In the past scouts have attended Camp Spring Villa, near Opelika. In a recent meeting of the scouters of the Central Alabama Area Council a need for a closer site was discussed. The "Treasure Island" site thus comes as the satisfactory solution of the problem. Local camping chairman, John Hollis, issued camp application cards, and young scout, Alred, was the first to register. Others will follow immediately. The camp can accommodate only 60 boys.

Tents will be used by all campers. Besides regular instruction in Scoutcraft, the Scouts will have boating, canoeing, and fishing. Instructions in swimming and life-saving will be a daily feature. An exhibition will be given for parents and the public in general at Lay Dam swimming pool on July 4 and 6. At all other times the Scouts campers will be by themselves and their leaders.

Chilton County welcomes this opportunity to be host to 60 young Americans, and we feel that their stay will be most pleasant and profitable. Additional information will be given our readers as the time for the camp grows nearer.

Both Chairman Sam R. Powers and Scoutmaster, E. W. Lakeman (who will serve as assistant camp director to Mr. Sigwald) will attend a special troop camp training school at the Anniston Scout camp April 13 to 16, it is contemplated.

Concerning the plans for camping this year, Mr. Sigwald has sent out the following letter, which refers to both the camp at Spring Villa and "Treasure Island".

This year we offer two camps and two camp sites. Both camps will last a week and each cost but $5 (cheaper than last year). Each has its advantages. Of course you will want the scout member of your family to attend the site nearest you. The June 8-15 camp is at our old site Camp Spring Villa, seven miles out of Opelika, and our second camp is located in Chilton County near Clanton, July 2 to 9. If registrations permit a second session will be held June 15 to 22 at Spring Villa.

We have over 500 scouts and each camp can accommodate only 60 campers, a total of 120.

Let's fill out the attached registration card and rush it in to the council office with the $1.00 reservation fee to assure this application being accepted and not be one of the 380 that may be disappointed. In each case the fist sixty received must be accepted. Make your check payable to "1933 scout camp".

KIWANIS CLUB TO HAVE VISITORS

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton will have two distinguished visitors at the meeting tonight, in the person of Paul Irvine, of Auburn, Lieutenant Governor of the Alabama Kiwanis District, and Mr. Franklin Kean, representative of Kiwanis International.

The program of the meeting will be directed toward the subject of membership, at which time the Club will set in motion a plan for increasing the membership of Kiwanis in Clanton.

A quota of new members has been assigned to the Clanton Club by the Alabama District, and a determined effort will be made to reach that assignment during the month of April.

The membership committee of the Clanton Club is composed of M. Lande, chairman, with Mell Martin and Billy Smith. This committee will have charge of the membership drive.

Mrs. J. P. Nix and children of Ensley spent last Thursday night as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bean.

CLINIC FORMED BY LOCAL DOCTORS

Gragg, Marcus and Lawrence Will Work Together at Hospital

Beginning April 10th, at Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton, the Chilton County clinic will be conducted under direction of doctors V. J. Gragg, T. J. Marcus and C. O. Lawrence. The clinic will be held each day for one hour from 8:30 to 9:30 in the mornings, except Sundays. A complete medical and surgical service will thus be provided to patients who wish to avail themselves of the advantages offered.

These three doctors, and other doctors of the county as well, will work together in the clinic, for examinations and treatments of all cases that come to their attention. When a patient comes in the doctors associated in the clinic will make the necessary examination together. If it proves to be a surgical case, it will be given over to the attention of a surgeon. If a medical case, it will get the attention of a physician.

Anyone may come for examination or treatment on any day, except Sunday, from 8:30 to 9:30 in the morning. The clinical service begins on April 10th. The Central Alabama Hospital will serve as a central clearing house for all cases that come through the clinic.

The formation of the Chilton County clinic, and the cooperation of the doctors therein will afford to the people of this section of Alabama a better medical and surgical service than they have ever had here before.

Peggy Page, the talented young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Page, won second place in the piano contest held in Montgomery Saturday, April first, for the junior music club of the fourth district.

The following points were used as a basis for the decision of the judges: Tone quality, expression, keyboard technique, general musicianship, pedaling. memorization, rhythm.

Peggy is a pupil of Mrs. Barney Roberts.

TOM COKER DIED

Tom Coker, age 75 years, died at his home, Verbena Route 2, last Friday. Burial was at Samaria Saturday. The deceased was a native of Coosa County, a son of Dr. Tom Coker.

STORM DOES SLIGHT DAMAGE TO HOMES NEAR CLANTON

Last Friday afternoon a slight windstorm swept through near Clanton about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The home of Will Wyatt, just across the creek east of Clanton, suffered the worst damage. Nothing but the floor of the front porch was left, and the tin roof on the east side of the main house was all torn off . A wagon shelter just to the south of the dwelling was completely demolished. Part of the roof of the barn was blown away.

A porch or two on some small shacks near South Clanton were blown down. No people or animals were injured.

Examiner's Report on County Treasury

Commendation Given Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway For Manner in Which She Has Conducted Affairs of Office

Reynolds Denounces Report

For the past month Mr. G. W. Wilson, certified public accountant, of Birmingham, and former State Examiner of Public Accounts, has been engaged in making an examination of the books and records of the office of Mrs. Gertrude P. Calloway, County Treasurer of Chilton County.

Mr. Wilson was authorized and designated to make this examination by Judge Reynolds, acting under authority of Section 308 of Chapter 17 of the Political Code of Alabama, 1923 which says:

"The Judge of Probate must each year, without giving any notice or information thereof to the county treasurer, appoint one expert accountant, of known integrity, to examine the books and vouchers of the county treasurer and report the condition of the same; and the person so appointed shall proceed without delay to make such examination and report, and to that end he is invested with all the powers and authority conferred by law upon the examiner of public accounts. He shall receive such compensation as may be allowed by the curt of county commissioners or board of revenue."

Completing his examination under the above quoted authority, Mr. Wilson made his report under date of March 28th. From this report we copy the following statements relative to his findings in the examination:

"Pursuant to instructions received from the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate, I have made an audit of the accounts, records and vouchers of the Hon. (Mrs.) Gertrude Calloway, County Treasurer. The period of the examination covering from July 1, 1929 to December 31, 1932, both dates inclusive.

"The Treasurer of Chilton County has kept the records, books and accounts in order as required by law. The registration of warrants was followed as set out in the Code of Alabama and, the payment was in accordance with requirements. Out of a total Disbursements of $857,320.94 only three warrants were found to contain errors, which in the judgment of the examiner is an enviable record. Payments from the Gasoline Fund and Road Fund were in accordance with the Code. All funds were properly balanced and a statement from the bank coincided with the balances shown by the books of the County Treasurer. Correct entries had been made in all accounts except one warrant from the State which had been credited to the wrong fund. This was changed to its proper place before the audit began, and at the time of the examination had been charged and credited in the proper manner."

Citing an opinion of the Attorney General of Alabama relative to the responsibility of the county treasurer in the payment of claims against the county, the examiner says:

"In view of the foregoing opinion by the Attorney General of the State, the County Treasurer of Chilton County is responsible only for the receiving, safe keeping and disbursement of county funds on proper warrant signed by the President of the Court of County Commissioners. For this reason warrants totaling $1,845, set out in Exhibit "U", are charged back to the President of the Court of County Commissioners. Authority for this is explained in Exhibit "U"."

Exhibit "U" referred to charges back to Judge L. H. Reynolds, as signer of the warrants therefor, the following items: Clerk hire $1,800; G. C. Waker, envelopes $6; Carter Electric Co., fan for Probate office $39; total $1,845.

Continuing his comments upon the affairs of the County Treasurer, Mr. Wilson says:

"There were certain features in the audit of the treasurer's books which are not commented upon in this report due to the lack of authority of the examiner to determine the exact standing of certain claims. These claims were in pssession of the Court of County Commissioners and were not available to the examiner on an audit of the County Treasurer's records. The warrants covering the above mentioned claims were in proper order and properly signed.

"The examiner noted during the audit that several warrants had been erased or changed upon the face, comparing these warrants with the claims a definite amount was found. It is recommended that from now on that the Treasurer of the County accept for registeration or payment no warrants which are in any way defaced. There should be purchased for the use of the Treasurer's office a suitable safe for the keeping of books and warrants. The present one is inadequate and unsafe.

"About the only criticism that could be offered as the result of the examination is the failure of the Treasurer to set aside at the bank separate funds for each account to correspond with the book accounts. Otherwise the office s managed in a competent, suitable manner, and the County Treasurer is to be complimented upon her records during the past years.

"However, the audit disclosed the need of an immediate examination of the Court of County Commissioners. The records and accounts are so closely related and interwoven that an audit, of necessity, must be based upon an actual examination of the records of the Commissioners Court. The Commissioners Court has a duty and right to know the exact condition of the financial affairs of the county at all times. No intelligent and accurate audit can be made by refference solely to papers, records and accounts in the hands of the County Treasurer."

Under date of March 30, 1933, Judge Reynolds addressed an inquiry to Mr. J. H. Hard, Jr., State Comptroller, asking:

"A private auditor has been employed to make an examination of the books of certain county officials in Chilton County, and this auditor having completed the particular contract is now asking for a contract to be made to examine the other officers of the county.

"Please inform me whether or not your department would recognize this contemplated examination to the extent that it would not reaudit the work done by the private auditor."

Under date of March 30, 1933, Mr. Hard replied to the inquiry of Judge Reynolds as follows:

"Replying to your inquiry of the 30th as to whether or not an examination by a private auditor would be accepted by me in lieu of an official examination by this department, I wish to advise that there is no authority therefor and a private examination cannot be accepted."

Judge Reynolds authorized the following statement in commenting upon the report of Mr. Wilson.

"The main gist of Wilson's report was a bid for another job of examinging county officials of Chilton County. From reading his report I get the impression that he thought if he would criticize me and my office, the Commissioners would employ him on another job of examination in other departments. This is indicated by the concluding remarks of his report in which he said the audit disclosed the need of an immediate examination of the Court of County Commissioners, and that no intelligent and accurate audit can be made by reference solely to the papers, records and accounts of the County Treasurer.

"I have never objected and do not now object to having my office examined. But Mr. Wilson had no authority to examine my office. He practically says his report amounts to nothing, but that he should have the job of examining other offices.

"I have never dealt with any public man who proved as wholly unreliable as Mr. Wilson. He came to me not less than half a dozen times and wrote me not less than half a dozen letters seeking the job of examining the office of the County Treasurer. He gave me every assurance that he was a certified public acountant, and that his work would be acceptable to the State Examiner of Public Accounts, and that the next official State Examination would recognize his work and take up where he left off.

"He was called into the presence of the county attorney where he stated that he had authority from the Chief Examiner to say to me that his work would be acceptable to the state and would not have to be gone over again by another examiner. He came before the Commissioners Court and made these same representations.

"It was my information that Mr. Wilson was here Monday of this week to ask the Commissioners for another job of examining other offices of the county. I have been informed that some of his friends here told him I had a letter from Mr. J. H. Hard, Jr., State Comptroller, saying that the

PROMINENT COOSA MAN DIED

Joseph Emory Guy, age 80 years, died Saturday, April first, at his home in Coosa County, nine miles west of Rockford. For 57 years Mr. Guy had lived at the place where he died. He was born in Clay County, and had lived in Coosa County for 71 years.

Burial was at Providence, in Coosa County, Sunday, with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes. Five sons and one brother, G. T. Guy, acted as pallbearers.

Mr. Guy is survived by two brothers, G. T. Guy, of Verbena, and B. C. Guy, of Equality; three sisters, Mrs. Nancy Grant, of Alabama City, Mrs. Callie Kennerwoff, of Newport News, Va., and Mrs. Mattie Pierce, of Titus; seven sons, W. E., L. D., J. M., and R. A. Guy, of Montgomery, H. C. Guy, of Birmingham, M. A. Guy of Ashford, Texas, and B. C. Guy of Titus; two daughters, Mrs. Hattie D. Alred, of Clanton, and Mrs. Alphia Pierce, of Titus; thirty-two grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Atchison and children and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hayes of Randolph were the guests of Mrs. M. Z. Atchison Sunday.

A STATEMENT ON MUSCLE SHOALS

A Frank Statement of The Position of The Alabama Power Co.

Birmingham, Ala., April 4.—A frank statement of Alabama Power Company's position with reference to Muscle Shoals and emphasizing the continued decrease in its average domestic rate were the highlights of the report of the directors, to the stockholders of the company, released today.

Calling attention to many inquiries received from the company's preferred stock and bond holders as to whether the federal government would engage at Muscle Shoals in the business of transmitting and distributing electricity in competition with the power companies, the report states: "The entire territory within the transmission distance of Muscle Shoals is now being adequately and economically served by the power companies," and "it is not believed that a competitive situation of this kind will be set up."

Continuing, the reports calls attention to the report of Colonel M. C. Tyler, corps of engineers, U. S. Army, that government operation at Muscle Shoals would incur a deficit and states that "the company is desirous of cooperating in the settlement of the vexatious Muscle Shoals problems in such a way as may be of benefit to all. It contends however that a settlement contemplating government competition with a business already established and adequately serving would be unfair and ruinous not only to the company but also to thousands of people owning its securities."

It points out that the company paid the government a total of $6,639,88.05 for the use of Muscle Shoals properties up to December 31, 1932, and in 1928 offered to guarantee the government a minimum of $9,740,000 for a 5 year contract for Wilson Dam power.

Alabama's average domestic electric rate continued its downward course in 1932, the report shows, decreasing from 5.56 cents in 1929 to 4.79 cents per kilowatt hour in 1932; 14 per cent below the national average. In the same period the average use of electricity in Alabama homes increased from 571 to 798 kilowatt hours per annum.

Local, state and federal taxes paid by the power company in 1932 are given as $1,981,661.45, equivalent to more than $20 of taxes alone for each customer served at the close of the year. Additional taxes sought to be imposed by bills introduced in the 1932 legislature, but which failed of passage, would have seriously impaired the ability of the company to pay its preferred stock dividends, it is stated.

Thirteen new industrial plants were established during the year in 11 communities served by the power company's system to manufacture 11 different products, the report states. The new plants will have a capital investment estimated at $1,280,000, will employ 600 workers, and have payrolls of approximately $425,000 annually.

The fact that electric service is now generally available to practically all of the villages and rural community centers within the area of 48,000 square miles served by the company and the acquisition of full voting rights by the preferred stockholders by amendment to the company's charter, are among items of interest in the report.

GARNER SENT UP 22 YEARS IN PEN

Convicted For Second Degree Murder In Killing W. A. Franklin

A verdict of guilty of second degree murder, with sentence set at 22 years, was returned late Tuesday afternoon in Chilton County Circuit Court in the murder trial of Ernest Garner for the killing of William A. Franklin on July 2, 1932.

Beginning the trial at 1:30 p.m., Monday, all evidence was taken and all argument completed by about 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, when the case was given to the jury; after about two hours deliberation, the verdict was returned.

The jury was composed of George W. Bates, Willard G. Davis, Burl L. McCary, Wiley W. Parnell, Leonard H. Lowery, Edgar Huett, W. Frank Reynolds, Leon C. Keen, Payton C. Jones, B. Leo Taylor, E. Fred Merchant and James M. Langston, foreman.

Garner contended that he was not responsible for Franklin's death, in that he only gave him a slight push. But the state placed on the stand Aubrey Gore and Tillian Niamon, said to have been eye witnesses to the killing, who stated that Garner twisted Franklin's head and neck, and that Franklin slumped down, dead, when his neck was twisted. Further evidence of Dr. N. S. Johnson, who examined Franklin, and of E. J. Brand, undertaker, of Clanton, proved that Franklin's neck had been broken.

Particulars of the case are as follows according to information given us: Garner's first wife was a sister of Mrs. Franklin. When she died, about four years ago, leaving an infant, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin took the child and kept it, with Garner's consent. During the early part of 1932 Garner married again, and wanted to take the child back to his home. On July 2nd he went to Franklin's home and demanded the child, but Franklin disapproved of his taking it. During the conversation in Franklin's yard, reports showed that Garner struck Franklin in the chest, then grasped his (Franklin's) head in his hands and gave it a quick twist. Franklin slumped down, and never regained consciousness.

This case has aroused quite a bit of interest in this county, as Mr. Franklin was a widely known man.

This is the second trial of the case, the first ending in a mistrial in a previous term of court, when Mrs. Franklin, wife of the slain man, fainted during the trial.

REV. TILLMAN JACKSON DEASAN

Rev. Tillman Jackson Deason, age 71 years, died at his home in Shiloh community Sunday night. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 11 a.m., conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Masonic rites were held at the grave with Spigener in charge.

He is survived by seven sons: B. M. and W. S. Deason, of Billingsley, R. W. Deason, of Tuscaloosa; J. P. Deason, of Phoenix City; E. J. Deason, of Clanton; W. W. Deason, of Prattville; five daughters; Mrs. E. Wyatt, Mrs. Alice Dobbs, Mrs. T. A. Powell, Mrs. S. T. Pierce of Cullman, Mrs. J. C. Popwell, and two brothers, I. W. Deason of Clanton, J. D. Deason of Maplesville, a half-brother of Colorado, 28 grandchildren, 8 great-grandchildren.

The deceased was the son of B. H. and Louise Deason. He was born May 4, 1862; was married twice; first to Emma Scott, to which union were born eight children; second to Jennie Billingsley, and they also had eight children. There are now living six of each family of children.

He united with the Baptist church at the age of 14 years. He was ordained to the ministry in 1896, and served as pastor of different churches for 34 years. For a period of eight years he was Moderator of the Chilton County Baptist Association.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETING HELD

The annual outing and pheasant barbecue for Chilton County Medical Society was given by Dr. and Mrs. Gragg Tuesday at their camp on Lake Mitchell. Doctors, with wives and friends, composed a party of about fifty people who thoroughly enjoyed the affair.

A meeting of the Medical Society was held, at which some business was transacted. Dr. Dubose, of Selma, was the principal speaker. His humorous address furnished a very delightful bit of entertainment for the party.

Mrs. J. S. Wright, Mrs. Tom Cost, and Miss Inez Wright spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bean.

Ralph Jones of Birmingham visited his mother here Sunday.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

BIG AREA SUITED TO GROWING TREES

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama has more than 22,000,000 acres which is either already in forests or is suitable only for growing timber, according to Lyle Brown, extension forester of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Speaking in round numbers, he said that out of Alabama's 22,000,000 acres 17,500,000 is in farms, part of which is in forests. This leaves 15,500,000 acres which is in forests or is waste land suitable only for growing timber, or is being used for towns, roads, or similar purposes.

Adding to this approximately 1,000,000 acres of farm land of the variety which won't sprout peas," and which is idle, 2,290,000 acres of woods pastures, 4,195,000 acres of farm woods not in pasture, it is evident that Alabama has close to 22,000,000 acres of land needing either reforestation or forest protection and management.

Experiments on forestry being conducted here at Auburn have come in for considerable attention recently, due to the national interest in this subject, as they demonstrate what can be expected of plantings of slash, loblolly, short leaf, and long leaf pine.

Planted six feet apart each way in 1927 on land of the "pine barren" type, which is of no use except for tree growing, the trees are now from 10 and 15 feet high. Some of the slash pines are near 20 feet in height. The washes on the land have been checked and alerady a fine coating of pine straw is being laid down under the trees. This straw is rotting and adding humus to the soil.

CO-OP CARS CARRY POULTRY TO EAST

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama farmers in 23 counties have shipped 24 carloads of poultry to eastern markets this spring. The cars carried 367,870 pounds and brought farmers participating $33,019. Shipments were made cooperatively through the county farm bureaus and the Farmer's Marketing and Exchange Association. Producers were paid cash at the car doors.

In addition to the carload shipments a large tonnage of poultry has been sent out of the state by trucks to Miami, New Orleans, Atlanta and many other points. It is reported that these markets have maintained a relatively close differential with the New York market, and with more flexible transportation are proving to be good markets for Alabama poultry and eggs.

Below is the name of the counties and the tonnage shipped from each:

Franklin, 83,800; Colbert, 31,651; Marion, 28,232; Lamar, 28,124; Pickens, 21,567; Chilton, 20,938; Lauderdale, 20,439; Lawrence, 17,176; Fayette, 15,321; Winston, 15,226; Clay, 14,153; Choctaw, 13,653; Clarke, 12,178; Randolph, 19,888; Talladega, 8,333; Butler, 5,409; Elmore, 5,221; Shelby, 4,074; Wilcox, 3,865; Sumpter, 3,470; Macon, 2,192; Autauga, 1,244; Walker, 716.

J. D. Moore and G. W. Ray, extension marketing specialists, have assisted in the operation of the poultry cars which they say will continue to run wherever and whenever there is a demand for carload shipments.

Goofus—If you stood in my shoes what would you do?

Rufus—I'd give them a shine to start with.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

This is a good week in which to either repair the old fly sprayer or order a new one.

Flies are coming next month and mosquitoes may arrive later. This is an ideal time to begin cleaning up all places where flies might breed.

Buttermilk is a splendid tonic for that tired, run-down, spring feeling. It is not a panacea for all ailments but it is a wonderful food tonic, and appetizer.

Today is a good time to hold the first council of war against flies. Make plans for the use of either home made or commercial fly traps, fly poisons, fly sprays, and fly repellants.

BRIEF FARM ITEMS

Growth of horns on calves may be prevented by the use of caustic potash when the horns are in the button stage.

Texas seeded ribbon cane or goose neck is a good variety of surghum for silage. It gives good yields and is nearly equal in feeding value to corn.

"Keep you seed dollar at home," is a slogan J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is using in urging Alabama farmers to save seed of Austrian winter peas. He suggests leaving an acre for seed purposes.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q.—Do you advise pruning out winter-killed branches of trees and shrubs after the other leaves have come out?

A.—Yes, this is a good time to prune out the dead and winter-killed wood. Be sure to cut each back to where it started from the larger limbs. Never leave any bad stubs.

Q.—Will you please give simple directions for starting off baby chicks when freshly hatched by hens or incubators.

A.—First, let them have a little coarse sand to pick at about for about half an hour. Then remove it and give them hardboiled eggs, crumbled up fine and mixed with dry bread or toast crumbs. Mash the hard boiled egg with a fork. After two or three days, you can give them flaked oatmeal or pin-head oatmeal. Then buy a good starting mash that is ready mixed, and put that in a trough or hopper and let them have it at all times. This usually contains some dry buttermilk powder and also some cod-liver oil, which keeps them strong and prevents diseases. Yellow cornmeal mixed with sand is very good for baby chicks as a part of their ration. To make a mash of your own at home, use ten parts of yellow cornmeal, two parts of green alfalfa meal, one part of milk powder, and add a little sprinkling of salt and of bone meal. If the chicks have plenty of sunshine, the cod-liver oil is not necessary but the latter is helpful when they are raised indoors. Always mix sand with the dry mash before feeding.

THE FARMER'S LAMENT

Last year I lost more money
Than I ever made in two.
Old Dobbin had a sunstroke,
My pigs all had the flu.
My uncles, aunts and cousins,
Who made their home in town,
All came to visit me
When the factories shut down.
My corn is little nubbins.
My wheat all turned to chaff,
And in the month of August
Old Brindle lost her calf.
I had a bumper crop of oats,
Sold them for eleven cents,
And they lacked a dime a bushel,
Of paying their expense.
So I cannot pay the other fellow,
And the fellows I have trusted
Are not a-paying me. and so
I guess we all are busted.
—John G. Oliver, in Howard Courant.

Nell—I stopped in at the bargain sale this afternoon.

Belle—Did you see anything that looked cheap?

Nell—Yes, several men waiting around for their wives.

GAME AND FISHERIES

The Sylacauga Better Game Association has launched a campaign to exterminate the game hog.

One of the real live-wire conservation organizations of the state, each member of the association has designated himself a deputy game warden, sworn to report any violation of the game laws.

"They will go after those selling game in a big way," said C. M. Wilhite, secretary and treasurer, "with the idea of eliminating illegal hunting, trapping and fishing."

The association, which now has 30 members, also is conducting a membership campaign among the surrounding towns and rural sections.

Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the state department of game and fisheries, twice during March broadcast conservation messages as a guest speaker on the monthly radio program of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs.

His first address was delivered over WBRC at Birmingham and later he spoke over WSFA at Montgomery. Tracing the growth of conservation, he described the protective, constructive and educational phases of the department's work.

J. W. Whitehead, employed on the L. D. Rouse game preserve in Pike County, is entitled to some kind of honor. Within a period of 20 days, he killed 27 hawks and two owls. One of his targets was a large sharp-shinned hawk which clutched a quail in its claws as it attempted to rise from the sedge grass. The covey from which this bob-white was taken originally contained 17 birds and this hawk and others of the ring-tailed band got all but three of them, Mr. Whitehead said.

Experiments by the extension service at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in cooperation with the state veterinary department, has developed a standard formula for a balanced dog ration.

The formula calls for 25 pounds of yellow corn meal, 20 pounds of shorts or middlings, 10 pounds of bran, 10 pounds of meat scraps (55 per cent protein), 10 pounds of fish meal (55 per cent protein), 10 pounds of dried milk, either skim or buttermilk, two pounds of alfalfa meal, two pounds of bone meal and one pound of salt. It is necessary to cook the corn meal, middlings and bran.

CROP LOAN APPLICATION FORMS STILL AVAILABLE

Mr. U. H. Prickett, of the Crop Production Loan Office emphasizes that farmers who still wish to apply for loans may get application blanks from him, as well as help on making the application. The law forbids any charge being made for help in the preparation of the loan applications, but such fees as that of a notary, for recording, etc., are allowed.

A loan may not be approved for the amount applied for, and if it is reduced, the proper reduction will be made on the forms filled out at the time the application is made. In the event that the loan is not approved, the note and mortgage will be returned to the applicant, the application and voucher being retained by the C. P. L. office.

The loans this year are not only limited to $300, but the regulations require that borrowers reduce the acreage of their cash crops 30 per cent under that grown in 1932, except growers who farm very limited acreages. The regulations provide a fine of up to $1,000 and imprisonment up to six months for material false representations made to get a loan.

As in the past, the borrower must give a first lien on his crop. Loans bear interest at 5½ per cent and are due on or before October 31, 1933. No loan in excess of $100 will be made to any applicant who is in arrears on as many as two previous loans made by the secretary of agriculture.

The regulations make it unlawful for any person to dispose of or assist in disposing of any crops given as security for any crop loan, except for the account of the secretary of agriculture and provide for fine and imprisonment for violation of the regulation. Each borrower must agree to plant a garden for his home use and to plant sufficient acreage to furnish feed for his livestock.

ALABAMA STATE PARKS

Montgomery, Ala., April 4. — Alabama has more state parks than any other southeastern state, according to Col. Page S. Bunker, state forester, who is also director of the state's park system. In fact, the seven parks within this system equal the total of those of all of the other Atlantic seaboard states from Chesapeake Bay to the Mississippi River.

The establishment of a state park system was first authorized by the Legislature of 1927. However, no funds have ever been appropriated for this purpose, and the state commission of forestry in whose hands the promotion and direction of the system was placed has had to proceed upon very slender financial resources.

The first step taken was a complete survey of the state which revealed more than a hundred sites suitable for state park purposes. This presented a wide range of choice for the selection of those most desirable. The first park established was the Talladega state park in the southwestern part of Talladega County. This was in 1930.

Six additional areas have been added from time to time. Each of these possesses its own individual characteristics and serves definite objectives aimed at by the public parks. One of the latest acquisitions comprises the summit of Cheaha Mountain, the highest elevation in Alabama. This park is located in the southwestern part of Cleburne County.

The state commission of forestry has issued an illustrated pamphlet giving a fairly complete account of the state's park system. Any citizen interested in the subject of state parks in Alabama may obtain a copy of this publication by writing to the state forester.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Observations

In going around I notice quite a difference in the growth of peas and vetch in the various fields. I pleaded with the folks last fall, trying to get them to do three things, namely, to use super-prosphate or basis slag, innoculate thoroughly, and keep stock off until they were well established. Those persons who failed to take my suggestions may readily see why their crop was a failure.

So often, when a new idea is introduced, we as farmers are too reluctant in giving the idea a thorough trial. If we do decide to try the new method, when we finish with it, it is only half new because so many old aspirants are inserted. Those farmers who tried winter legumes last winter and are not satisfied with the results might ask themselves this question, did I give it a fair trial? And they will be willing to give it a new and fair trial next fall. It is imperative that we build up our soil, because there is little land left to be cleared. Unless we do this we shall be called robbers of the soil.

Soil Robbers

Of all our resources, that of soil fertility is the most important. If one thing above another should be protected and developed, it is the soil—the very breast of mother earth, from which we must draw our nourishment, or perish. No man should have the right to skin his land, butcher it up and sell the hide, hoof, bone and tallow too.

Such a man is not a farmer, but in every truth, a robber of the soil and should be brought into strict account.

Worthy of Commendation

I'd like to commend Otho McKinney, A. T. Holifield, Robert Spence, George Hall, Tom Bailey and Jasper Brazil for their accomplishments with winted legumes this year. I hope those farmers who failed, somewhat, will go and take a good look at some of these fields Don't be discouraged but try, try, again.

We are going to have some vetch turning demonstrations soon and will be sure to notify everybody.

I was over at Otho McKinney's one day in the winter, and it was suggested that he cut all trees and bushes in his pasture. He spent no time getting ready, but went to work. Today he has one of the best prospects for a real pasture that I have seen in this community. I must say that Otho McKinney is one of the best young farmers in the community. He too, is one of those farmers who makes definite plans and dispenses with a lot of hard labor. Hats off to Otho.

Speaking of Terracing

On checking up, I found one man right in my front door who had failed to plow up his terraces after I spent a part of two days laying them off. What do you think of that? In calling distance of the school where the light is shining yet, he fails to open his eyes and take notice. Can you beat that?

National Negro Health Week

This week, beginning April 2, is known as Negro Health Week all over the United States. The week's activities have the support of the United States Department of Health. Everywhere extensive preparations have been made for the observance of Negro Health Week by negro schools and churches. What better way could we commemorate the birth, life and work of the founder of Tuskegee Institute than trying to improve the physical condition of our people? Each of us is reminded this week of the importance of health and the need of an annual physical and dental examination.

In accordance with the celebration of Negro Health Week, the Parent-Teachers Association has planned a health program to be carried out at the next meeting, Friday, April 7, at 3 p.m., at the home of Adelle Austin. You are cordially invited.—Benj. Anderson, principal and teacher of vocational agriculture.

DAT BLOOMIN PREACHER

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

We will use for our text today the words of that great apostle to the Gentiles, Saul of Tarus, afterward called Paul. We find the text in his letter to the Romans 1st chapter and the 16th verse, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation, to everyone that believeth: to the jew first, and also the Greek."

First, the gospel properly defined is "something received as infallibly true." And from a Bible point of view it is "good news;" So, when one accepts the gospel as true facts—facts indisputable. then, and not until then does it become good news to him. When one does not heed the gospel or act on the word preached to them, the gospel, which is a manifestation of the power of God, fails to produce in the life of that one the thing intended, which is the salvation of the soul, and so, fails to be "good news" to that particular soul. It matters not with what earnestness the preacher may deliver the message or how prayerful the church may be when the gospel is preached to the lost, if they will not hear and believe, the gospel actually becomes a repelling force or power which drives the hearers away from, instead of drawing them to God. This is true from the fact that the heart is made harder each time a sinner rejects the gospel. In discussing this point with an old man, he said that there was a time when he felt inclined to hear and believe the gospel — that was when he was young, but now, he said, I no longer am affected by the preaching of the gospel, and so it is with everyone.

Second: Power is "the faculty of doing or performing something." God manifests His power in different ways and at different times in the history of the world. His power may be shown at one stage of the world in one way and in another stage in an entirely different way.

Take, for instance, the performing of miracles, as in our Lord's day. God's power was then manifested in miracles for a specific purpose. That purpose was in order to make the people believe. The old Jewish worship consisted in sacrifices and offerings and observance of certain laws, and when Jesus came and saught to change all this, the people rejected Him. So it was necessary for Him to demonstrate His power, and by healing the sick and making the lame to walk, and the raising of the dead, He caused some to break away from the old order of things and adopt the new.

And with all the demonstrations of His power so few believed in Him that we find Him lamenting over Jerusalem and saying, "Oh, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered they children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not. This one reference is sufficient to prove my assertion, that with all of the miracles performed by Him, He failed to win them over from the old to the new way.

I am fully aware of the fact that God's power to perform miracles is just as great today as it was in the days of miracles, but I maintain that He manifests that power in the gospel now instead of performing miracles. Indeed, what greater miracles could be performed than that which is performed through the gospel, which is the power of God in the changing of a sinner—the child of the devil—to a Christian, the child of God.

My belief is that miracles are not performed today to cause men to believe, because we have the "gospel, which is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." We need not expect miracles to be performed now since we have the gospel through which God manifests His power.

Third: Salvation cames by hearing and hearing by the word of God. Salvation is not of and for the Jews only, but for the Gentiles also. Paul, who was a Jew, was not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, nor was he ashamed of the eternal salvation that comes by believing the gospel.

Salvation, in its true essence, is preservation from destruction. So, he that hears and accepts the gospel of Christ is preserved—"kept by the power of God." My friend, if you are wating for some great miracle to take place before you believe, I must tell you that you will wait in vain for "the gospel is the power of God unto every one that believeth." May the spirit of our God lead you to believe the gospel, is the prayer of Elder Blossom.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Our Sunday school is still progressing, since the weather is suitable for everybody to come. We got some new members last Sunday and still expecting more. There sure was a large crowd at Sunday school last Sunday evening. We sure thank the Pinedale people for coming and taking part in our school. Everybody come back next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Come with a well studied lesson, ready to answer the questions.

There will be prayer meeting at Mt. Springs Sunday night. Everybody come and bring someone with you. We will like to hear everybody testify.

Central Singing Society

The Central Singing Society met at Cooper last Sunday afternoon. A fairly good singing was had. Prof. W. M. Devaughn was appointed by the committee to preside, in the absence of both the chairman and vice chairman.

The society will meet at Walnut Creek next Sunday afternoon. The public and singers have an invitation to attend. Singing will begin at 2 o'clock. Bring your books.

A MODERN JIG-SAW TRAGEDY

The golden sun was slowly setting
O'er the hilltops far away,
Filling all the land with beauty
At the close of a winter day.
But within one humble dwelling
With its fireside warm and bright,
Came this oft repeated murmur:
This jig-saw must be done tonight.

O'er a table bent two figures,
Man and wife with visage pale;
He with thoughtful brow so worried,
She with form so thin and frail.
Both were thinking, planning, scheming,
To make small pieces fit in right,
Ever saying in soft whispers:
This jig-saw must be done tonight.

On the street the children rambled,
Shoes and clothes all worn and tore,
And the house was in disorder,
Everything strewn round the floor.
But a jig-saw bright and showy
Was on the table in plain sight,
While the couple ever murmured:
This jig-saw must be done tonignt.

Off to bed alone, unaided,
The children finally wend their way,
Grimy hands and dirty faces
And their clothes in sad array.
And the old clock on the mantle
Ticks the time with all its might,
While this couple murmured faintly:
This jig-saw must be done tonight.

Twelve o'clock, the moon looks calmly
Down upon this sleeping pair;
Clothing scattered everywhere.
Yet with heads dropped on the table,
'Neath the light still burning bright,
In their sleep we hear them mutter:
This jig-saw must be done tonight.

WALNUT CREEK

Just a word to you folks to have you know what we are doing.

It having been some time since you had news of us, we might announce that Rev. J. W. Hightower is our pastor for the year, and we wish to add further, that he is a very able preacher, and an excellent man. Our regular preaching days are the 2nd and 3rd Sundays. Come out to hear him.

The Sunday school at this place is doing fine. If you don't attend Sunday school elsewhere, do come and attend with us.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is very much alive. We have on a contest between the "trues" and the "lones", which will terminate with a fish fry to the winning side, being given by the losing side. Come join the winning side and enjoy the good programs, and the fellowship of our good people.

Watch for announcements next week.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

God promises to supply our needs, not our wants. God couldn't give some people all they want. If He gave them the world they would ask for the moon. And then they would ask for Mars. And they would keep asking God until God wouldn't have anything left to give.

The little word "my" changes everything. Somebody's mother is dead. But my mother is dead. Somebody's baby is sick. But my baby is sick. What a difference the little word 'my' makes.

One of the saddest pictures in all the Bible is in the Old Testament. A man was riding upon an ass. God wanted somebody to speak to that man and He couldn't find a prophet, a steward, or an elder. God was hard pressed. So He asked this ass if he wouldn't speak for Him and the poor dumb brute said, "If you can use a dumb animal like I am, I will be very happy." This is the day of Baalam's ass. I speak reverently. God is up against it today. He is having a hard time finding people to talk for Him. I know a man who, measured by the standards of modern colleges, would be considered an ass but God is using him. God is glad to have educated men and scholars and influential people in His service, but God will take anybody He can get.

The churches have influence. There is no evil in America which could stand up against the organized churches. Yes, they have influence, but they lack power. Power and influence are not the same thing at all. The humblest Christian in America has more influence than Paul had. Paul didn't have enough influence to stay out of jail but he had enough power after he got in jail to pray the doors off their hinges and he had enough power to shake the foundation of the Roman Empire.

Jesus had no worldly influence. He had a heavenly influence. He could have turned one beckoning finger toward the sky, and angels would have torn down the gates of heaven to come to His rescue, but He had no worldly influence. He didn't have enough influence to stay off the cross. But He had enough power after He had died to put his heel on the neck of death and He has enough power to save the world.

The drunk was noisily trying to unlock the door to his flat late one night, when a window opened upstairs and an angry voice yelled, "Have you got your keys?"

"Sure, I got lotsha keys, but, shay, would you jushashoon throw me down a couple of keyholes?"

Mrs. Stewart—What are your sons acquiring at college, Mrs. Sanders?

Mrs. Sanders—Robert has acquired sinus trouble and athlete's foot at Yale, and all that Rjchard has acquired so far at Boston Tech is a severe case of Technocracy.

THE AMERICAN VILLAGE

One phase of the rural trend of population which has been almost overlooked is considered in a monograph on rural social trends just published by former President Hoover's Committee on Social Trends. That phase is the steady growth of the rural villages.

Not all the pupulation drift out of the cities has been to the farms. America has a larger sector of citizens who cannot be classed as city dwellers, not yet as farmers. They are those who live in small towns, the tradesmen, the professional workers, the common laborers. During the years from 1920 to 1930 when the strictly farming population was rapidly losing ground, the rural village population steadily gained. In 1920 there were approximately 20,000,000 Americans living in the villages. In 1930 this number had risen to 23,600,000. Meanwhile, the farms had lost only 1,300,000. So more than half the gain in village population came from elsewhere than the surrounding farms.

Since 1930 the upward trend of farm population has more than made up the losses during the 1920's. But the migration has all been to the farms. The villages have continued to grow. And today more than one-quarter of the nation's population lives either on the farms or in cities, but in the villiages a point which cannot be ignored in any social planning nor even in any economic program for the future. The American villiages and village life are major factors in any national problem.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Just how far the present Congress and especially the senate, which is not bound by iron clad rules as is the house, intends to go in conferring dictatorial powers on the president, will probably be disclosed in the not-distant future. Such powers were given to Mr. Roosevelt in the matter of budget balancing and reorganization of the government, because it was generally realized by Republicans and Democrats that a crisis had arisen and the job could be only done by the chief executive. President Hoover had sought the right to reorganize the government but was blocked by a Democratic congress.

But now we are told there is to be another request for a grant of authority to the president by congress, and especially by the senate. It was announced the other day by the state department that congressional authority would be sought by the president before he started out on the more or less long and winding road of negotiating trade treaties. The reason for this was said to be that European nations do not like the idea of making negotiations with the executive arm of our government when they know that the agreement is apt to be upset because the senate fails to ratify it. In this respect it was pointed out that after president Wilson had gone to France and taken part in the negotiation of the Treaty of Versailles and of the League of Nations, the senate refused to ratify the document and afterward negotiated a separate treaty with the defeated powers. The European powers, it is said felt that they had "bought a pig in a poke," because the senate refused to ratify what President Wilson had agreed to.

It is true that European politicians were very critical of this action of the senate for many years afterward, and that they do not yet like our method of negotiating international agreements, through the president with the advice and consent of the senate as provided for by the constitution. But it must be remembered that at the time of the Versailles negotiations, the powers of Europe had ample notice that the senate, as representatives of the American people, was not in accord with Mr. Wilson's ideas of putting our country into the League of Nations. So they really had no cause for complaint. The fact is that the European nations conduct their treaties through representatives accredited to the government in power and the people are never consulted about the merits or defects of the treaties. Europe is unable therefore to understand our constitutional provision for the ratification by the senate, an independent arm of the government, responsible, not to the president, or the secretary of the senate, but to the American people.

The argument that the president is always handicapped in treaty making because the senate is apt to upset the pact will not hold water. There is never any misapprehension, when the negotiation of an international pact is in progress, as to how the American senate stands on the project. The senators of all political parties at such critical times do not hesitate to express their opinion either at the white house or on the floor of the senate. If the president takes the wishes of the senate, as representatives of the people of the various states, into consideration—and there is no reason to believe that Mr. Roosevelt would not do so—then there need be no hesitation or embarrassment about foreign negotiations as traditionally conducted.

The senate has always been jealous of its treaty control power and there is no reason to believe that it will now surrender any constitutional rights. There will be no crisis like the banking situation to be dealt with when these international negotiations time for discussion and consultation with congress. At any rate, this ultra-modern tenare taken up, and there will be plenty of dency of clothing the chief executive with dictatorial powers will receive a real test when the proposal outlined above comes up in the senate, if it ever does come up.

A POSSIBLE BOOMERANG

According to a recent Associated Press dispatch, the greatest nations of the world, with the United States in the forefront, are moving "toward concerted action to put teeth into the pact of Paris by agreeing to deny the implements of war to nations violating the solemn pledge against the use of force in settling international disputes." Continuing, the dispatch said:

"This broad and significant plan with its direct bearing upon the peace of the world, was disclosed as the Roosevelt administration determined to get the present session of congress to grant the president authority to forbid the shipments of arms or munitions to any nation on the globe.

"At the same time it was learned that Great Britain, France and other influential members of the family of nations have sounded out the American government on its attitude toward using governmental control of the shipment of arms as a means of enforcing the pact of Paris."

It is to be assumed that congress will act slowly in any program which might indeed turn out to be a step toward war instead of in the interest of peace. There is no disposition to question the belief that the present administration would attempt to use such an embargo wisely and in what it thought to be the best interest of international peace. The difficulty is that the embargo weapon is very apt to turn out to be a boomerang.

Take the present trouble in the Orient, for example. There has been a demand in this country that an arms embargo be declared against Japan. While a great many Americans may sympathize with the Chinese in their present difficulties, this sympathy does not go so far with most of us to favor war against Japan as an aid to China.

Yet that is just what might happen in case of an embargo declared against Japanese arms by the United States and European powers. In case of trouble the United States is a velnerable nation so far as Japanese attack is concerned. And if Japan were to attack us in the present condition of our navy and naval defense there is no assurance that America would win the victory, at least not without a struggle. Just what European nations would do in such a case is problematical. They might give us their moral support and best wishes, although this is not entirely assured in the case of some of them. If we wanted active support it is more than possible that we would be asked for certain p -cessions on our part, and one of the first questions asked Uncle Sam would undoubtedly be "what about cancellation of the war debt."

But there is still another respect in which the embargo idea will bear careful study. All proposed agreements of the kind are based on the theory that we would declare an embargo against an "aggressor nation." Now who would have the say as to how the World War started and, to go even further back, historians are not agreed as yet as to who started the Mexican war and who was to blame for it.

Would it be up to Uncle Sam to let the League of Nations determine the matter of aggression? If so wouldn't that be entering the league by the back door? And if Uncle Sam reserved the right to decide for himself on the question, imagine what an outcry there would be from our internationalists if he should happen to decide the matter of aggression in a way in accordance with the decision of the powers of Europe. Certainly the matters of arms embargoes will bear careful study.

A Kansas senator complained that gunmen have been seen about his home, but after he has been in Washington long enough he will realize that they may have been only law-abiding bootleggers.

A friend of ours says that his wife used to be worth her weight in gold but that now she has gone off the gold standard.

Anyhow if the new farm bill is enacted into law and fails to help the farmers it ought to do a lot of good to the jobless deserving Democrats.

Labor leaders are said to have some objection to the jobless relief bill. Evidently they do not approve of the musty old slogan that a dollar a day and a plate of beans were good enough for the working man.

Tammany, it is said, will back the farm relief bill. This will doubtless be good news to the agriculturists in the Bronx.

Uncle Sam is expecting additional debt payment in June which again proves the old saying that hope springs eternal in the human breast.

When an erring banker goes before a judge for sentence he will know just how his customers used to feel when they went to him for a loan.

How easy it would be to settle those great questions if all the dumb were on one side.

A good many inmates of penal institutions also would like to go on a five-day week.

We don't know what John Bull's motive was in that arms embargo proclamation against Japan and China, but we are still convinced that the best thing for Uncle Sam to do is to watch his step.

The Latest Recipe

Well, beloved, here we are again, all ready to spiel off another of these weekly "collyums," and just to get everyone in a good humor, and all set to enjoy the whole thing, I'm going to give you the latest recipe for making home-brew, for which we must give credit to the editor of The Yellow Jacket. Here it is: Chase a wild bull frog three miles, then gather up the hops; add ten pounds of tan bark to give it a body; a half-pound of shellac to make it smoke, a bar of soap to make it foam; four door knobs to hold you down while you drink it; set on a hot stove 36 hours to be sure it boils; add the guts of two pole-cats, so it will run you wild; strain through an I. W. W. sock so it will work; add one grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick; one can of Red Devil lye to make it stick; one box of shoe polish to make it slick; then pour a little in the kitchen sink, and if it takes off the enamel, it's ready to bottle and drink.

Pitts and the Sales Tax

Once again an effort to place a sales tax on the shoulders of Alabama's already overtaxed people has been quashed in the legislature. But those who sponsored the sales tax have not given up the fight; plans are now under way to try to bring in the sales tax again as some kind of a rider on other revenue blils which will be tendered to the law-makers soon. Chilton County's representative, Percy M. Pitts, should be commended for his efforts in helping to defeat the sales tax bill. I am sure there is not one person in Chilton County who wishes to see the sales tax put on our shoulders; then, if you are a taxpayer, it is to your own interest that you see Mr. Pitts, commend his action in regard to this sales tax issue in the past, and urge him to continue the fight along the same line. If this vicious attempt at a new tax can be beaten a few more times, maybe it will stay whipped.

Farmers Can't Shut Down

When hard times come a-knocking at the door, the first signs we see of it, laborers get their wages cut; then prices begin falling (prices on raw products falling first), then industrial plants begin laying off labor, and finally factories begin closing. And right there lies the difference in agriculture and industry. If the worst comes to the worst, the factories can close—stop making goods until they can again make them at a profit. But what about the farmer? He can't close! He must keep on farming, profit or no profit. True, he can diversify. He can cut down on his cotton acreage and raise something else—something to eat. He may take up truck farming. But we have only to look at the immediate past to see what happens. A year ago or so, farmers in this section cut down on cotton, and raised Irish potatoes, strawberries, sweet potatoes, syrup, peanuts, and other like crops, only to see the prices of these products hit the bottom, just like cotton. If the farmer cannot get a reasonable price for ANYTHING, how is he to keep going? On the other hand, how can he stop? He must pay his taxes and buy clothes, and the tax collector and merchant will not accept peanuts and potatoes for taxes and togs. And yet, somehow, some way, the farmer must keep on going. He can't close. No wonder they call it a farm problem. And—what a problem!

Rattling the Sabres

Across the big pond, they're just itching to fight again. The rumbles of war reach us daily. One would think that with such a war as that which closed a little over 14 years ago still lingering in their memory, they would dread war, but that does not seem to be the case. Japan is spoiling for a scrap, and has been for some time. But Uncle Sammy has taken a pretty wise view of the whole matter. In effect, he says: "You guys quarrel and scrap all you want to over there; it isn't the best for you, and we have tried our best to help you iron out your troubles, but if nothing else will satisfy, then scrap it out. But be sure you stick to your own back yards, and keep off our grass."

Jack is Leading

Just noticed a little article on the sports page of one of the papers a few days ago, in regard to Jack Hayes. As you very probably know, Jack is now with the Chicago White Sox, and is this year expected to do a good job of second-basing for that club. Ever since he has been in the big league, Jack has been considered one of the best infielders in the game, but because of his comparatively poor hitting percentage, he has been kept on the bench much of the time. But this year, according to the clipping, in training season games on the west coast, Jack is lead-off man in the line-up of the White Sox, and is leading the club in hitting, even outhitting Simmons (the great) and Fonseca, manager of the team. And a recent summary of the big league clubs by one of the smart sport critics rates the White Sox as having a much improved infield this year, naming Hayes as one of the big improvements. We'll keep on watching and pulling for him. He's bound to make good.

A Busy President

Where would you imagine a president would go to eat his lunch? To the White House? That would seem to be the logical place for him to go, but such is not the case. He has it right in his office, and keeps right on at his work while he eats—does Mr. Roosevelt. Now, that's a busy man for you. Wonder if he takes it along with him every morning, like I used to do when I was going to school? I know one thing—he doesn't enjoy his eats like I do. You can't mix business with pleasure.

Out On Yellowleaf

I went out to Mr. Thompson's place on Yellowleaf Creek Sunday afternoon, just because I had heard so much about what a wonderful outfit he had out there. I went expecting to see something exceptional, and was not disappointed. I have not the space to tell all about it this week, but I intend to get all the information I can on the outfit by next week, and tell you all about it. Just for a sample, though, imagine running any kind of electric appliance you can think of, without the first penny of cost (maintenance). That's a sample. More about it next week.—Man in the Moon.

NOT TO BE FORGOTTEN

A great deal is being said about relief for the unemployed in this country, and everyone of course wants to help this unfortunate class of our citizens and to put those who are jobless back to remunerative work as soon as possible. This is our first duty. There are, it is said, about twelve million unemployed people in the United States. That is a terribly large number and in itself mute evidence of the necessity for relieving the situation as fast as possible.

But there are some facts which ought not be lost sight of. There are thirty-eight million people in the country who are still employed. They must not be forgotten, either. And one reason they must not be forgotten is that it is on them that we must count the support of any program to relieve the unemployment situation. The large army of the jobless must have immediate help, and is getting such help. The aid, however, and this must not be forgotten, must come from those fortunate ones who are still employed. Even the federal government cannot get money out of the air. It must raise it by taxing those who are still working.

In framing any program for the relief of the unemployment situation, and to put the idle back to work, we must see to it that the legislation is sound and practical. If it is not sound and practical; if money is wasted and the burden of taxes increased, there will be a further slump in business and more increases in the number of unemployed. Depression feeds on itself. The greater the burdens which private enterprise and the individual have to bear, the greater stagnation, and the more relief which is necessary. On the other hand as budgets are balanced, tax burdens iessened, confidence regained there is a quickening of the business pulse which will mean reemployment for the idle and less necessity for relief of the unemployed.

The best way back to normalacy in business and employment is through sane retrenchment and not through impractical schemes which, instead of relieving the situation, only add to the troubles of those who are still carrying on and doing their best to help in the present unpleasant situation.

"THEY HIRED THE MONEY"

A news dispatch from Wilmington, Deleware, not long ago, stated that visitors to that city were attracted by the large blue and white signboards at every entrance to the city, proclaiming the memorable reply of the late President Coolidge to a question about the European war debts. It will be remembered that Mr. Coolidge said: "They hired the money, didn't they?" And nobody has been able to think up any satisfactory and convincing answer save the simle word "yes."

The signs at Wilmington contain in large letters these simple words of the late President and nothing more. It is said that Paul C. Hessler, a prominent business man of Wilmington, had the signs erected. In commenting on his enterprise, Mr. Hessler is quoted as saying:

"I erected the signs not only as a memorial to the late Calvin Coolidge, of whom I was a great admirer and with whom I agreed, but because I deplore the nonchalance with which the American citizen looks upon national issues. I hoped in some small way to do my part to make the American people think.

"I think this statement was one of the greatest of a great American and I think it should settle the debt question. I feel that when America is in worse financial condition than its debtor countries, as I have personally observed, those countries should be made to pay their debts to a penny. Why, when these countries can build war vessels for millions of dollars, can they not pay their honest debts to America?

Mr. Hessler's statement certainly bears repeating and his aim is a worthy one. Certain it is that the American people do not pay too much attention to the study of foreign affairs. Ninety-eight per cent of them are soundly nationalistic to the core, but unfortunately, a great deal of the stuff they read about foreign affairs is propaganda cooked up for them by internationalists in our own country who are interested primarily in Europe.

The debt question is a good example. How many times we have been told that cancellation would be a good thing for the United States, and that failure to cancel will end in our economic ruin. Yet anyone who will take the trouble to sutdy such propaganda will be immedately struck by its nonsense.

Fortunately there seems to be no disposition at present on the part of the new administration at Washington to change the policy of the Hoover administration which was strictly against cancellation. Internationalists in our own country and abroad who thought that a change of administration might bring cancellation seem doomed to disappointment. Any proposal for such cancellation would be marked by a real protest from every part of the country.

LET EUROPE SETTLE IT

Nearly every measure which will prevent an outbreak of hostilities between major powers is preferable to allowing matters to drift so that conflict becomes inevitable. The use of arms embargoes, however, is hardly a preventive, and at best only a temporary palliative. Often they involve nations that might not otherwise become entangled and their usage in the past, even in the recent past, does not recommend their effectiveness in stopping international disputes.

The alarming spread recently of rumors of danger in the historical sore spots of Europe have frightened civilians as well as diplomats. On several frontiers problems have arisen that for the first time since the close of the World War require immediate settlement. The alternative seems to be armed encounter. They are not the type of spectre that is laid to rest by mere threats of the arms embargo stripe. They demand fundamental treatment of the kind that insofar as is possible will permanently eradicate them.

The problems are essentially of European nature involving the ramifications brought about by the rapidly rising Fascist middle Europe. The questions at issue, therefore, should be settled by Europe. American opinions doubtless will be sought, but should be carefully given as, in the main, history does not show that it will be taken in the spirit offered and it might prove ill-advised in the end for the United States. If Europe is aligning itself in two hostile camps, as it has so frequently done in the past, there is no reason for the United States to decide yet which camp it will favor, and antagonize other nations of Europe by the embargo pact. The issues are not clear enough to justify such a course.

Clinic at Clanton Hospital

The announcement by Doctors Gragg, Marcus and Lawrence, of their association in a clinic at Central Alabama Hospital is interesting and important. By this method of cooperation and association of their medical skill, these gentlemen will be able to render a very valuable service to the people of central Alabama. They make a team of very able practitioners and surgeons. Their work will be on a par with that of the best clinics in the larger cities, and Clanton should be proud to have such an advantage here at home.

Treasure Island for the Scouts

My emotions have been stirred, and I have dreamed dreams of great romance and adventure for our Boy Scout friends who will camp for a week this summer on Treasure Island in Paint Creek above Lay Dam. It makes me wish I were young again so I might take part in the wonders of this place with them. The camp will be fully and properly supervised. If you have a boy of Scout age, you could do him no better service than to enlist him for the camp on Treasure Island. I have seen the place, and I know what it will mean to a boy to spend a week there in camp.

The Annual Pheasant Barbecue

I had the pleasure again on Tuesday of this week of attending the annual pheasant barbecue which Dr. Gragg has for the doctors of the county at his camp on Lake Mitchell. It was attended by a total of fifty people composed of the doctors, dentists and druggists of the county and their wives. We also had an undertaker with us, in case anything should happen. But nothing happened more than exerybody had a mighty fine time. In addition to a pheasant, a chicken, and a gallon of camp stew, Dr. Hayes ate a three-pound Buffalo, and thought it was a speckled trout.

Poppy Sale May 27th

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold its annual poppy sale here May 27th, according to announcement of Mrs. Kin Vinson, local poppy sale chairman. Between now and that date Mrs. Vinson will furnish the public full information about the event, through publicity in the newspapers.

Lots of People at Court

The Spring Term of Circuit Court has brought many visitors to Clanton this week. The Garner trial Monday and Tuesday was the big attraction. It took right of way over everything else. After disposal of that case, the Court Wednesday morning took up other cases on the docket. The term will consume all of this week, it is thought now.

BUILD UP THE NAVY

Assurance given by Secretary Swanson that he will recommend building up the navy to the limits of the London treaty is welcomed heartily. It is unfortunate that this policy has not previously been invoked. Other nations that signed the London treaty have taken larger advantage of the ratios allowed them. Both the British and the Japanese have been much more active than ourselves in this respect.

It is very important that the United States shall make full use of the ratio allotted it before the convention expires in 1936. In all probability some nations—Japan, for instance—will fight hard for a new deal on ratios. The actual size of navies at that time is likely to play a large part in determining their numerical strength for the next few years.

There is no surer way in which the United States can help to maintain the naval status quo fixed by the London treaty than to build up its fleet to the full limits established by that pact. In serving notice that this is to be the policy of the Navy Department under his direction, Secretary Swanson deserves warm praise.

If it is true that congress costs the country $125,000 a day when it is in session, we know a way it could help balance the budget.

The American automobile tourist trade to Canada has declined $70,000,000 since 1929. This is doubtless due partly to the depression and partly to a loss of confidence in Canadian beer.

One thing we refuse to get excited about is the potential difference between 3.2 per cent beed and 3.05 per cent beer.

The process of balancing the national budget is now on its way. As soon as the most of the family budgets of the country are balanced we will be back on the road to prosperity.

BURNING OF FAMILY OF FIVE CHARGED TO TRIO

Farmer and His Two Sons Are Accused of Arson in Death of Family

Florence, Ala., April 4.—A farmer and his two sons Tuesday were charged with burning the humble cabin in which Bayless Pomoroy, his wife and three children perished last Sunday.

Owen Young, 50, and his two sons, Burt, 30, and Ray, 23, were arrested and held on charges of first degree arson by Lauderdale County officers who said they had been told "bad feelings" had existed between Pomoroy and the Youngs.

The investigators said they would compare the handwriting of a note found in Pomoroy's mail box with that of the three men in custody. The note scribbled on cheap tablet paper, said:

"D—you, we finally got you. It took a long time, but we got you with the goods."

The trio was brought to the county jail here pending the arrival of operatives of the state fire marshal's office at Montgomery, who were enroute here to join the investigation.

The bodies of Pomoroy, his wife, two daughters, 16 and 13, and a younger son were found in the ashes of their home in the Gravelly Springs community, 18 miles west of here, last Sunday morning.

The metal roofing which had been warped and twisted by the intense heat was all that was left of the home and the bodies were burned almost to a crisp. They were placed in the same coffin and buried Sunday afternoon.

TO GET INTO CHRIST

As stated and shown last week, "All spiritual blessings are in Christ." Eph. 1:3. But there are certain qualifications one must possess in order to enter "into Christ." The doubtful indifferent, impenitent, self-righteous and these determined to follow what "they think is right," regardless of what Christ and His opostles teach enter "into Christ."

To enter into Christ one must be taught of God. Jno. 6:44-45. But those who fill their minds and hearts altogether with notions, opinions, and proud thoughts of their own hearts, cannot receive with meekness the engrafted word of God which is able to save their souls. Jas. 1:21. Christ said, "Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." Matt. 18:3.

After believeing, repenting of sins, and confessing Christ, one is commanded to be baptized for the remission of sins. Acts 2:38-39. It takes the blood of Christ to wash away sins. Rev. 1:5; Eph. 1:7; Matt. 26:28. And to say that we are saved from our past sins before we reach the blood of Christ is just silk talk. But where is the blood of Christ, which was shed for the remission of sins? Well do we know that this blood was shed in the death of Christ. The Apostle Paul says that "Know ye not so many of us as were bapized into His death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even we also should walk in newness of life." Rom. 6:3-4. The Apostle Peter said "even baptism doth also now save us." I Pet. 3:21. Do we mean to say that the saving power is in the water? No, by no means. The saving power is with God and Christ, and in the blood of Christ.

If we could see the power in water to save us it would take "trust-in-God" out of our hearts. God takes the very things that man can see nothing in, and uses them to test man's faith in God. When one is baptized he is doing something not founded on man's wisdom, neither on man's righteousness nor man's judgment. But he is doing something commanded of God —A God-given test for humility, for faith in Christ, for trust in God, and a test for faith in blood of Christ as a power to save. As many as have been "baptized into Christ, have put on Christ." Gal. 3:27.

Those who earnestly believe in Christ and honestly repent of their sins, and from a sincere faith confess Christ, and obey Him in baptism have God's word that God has forgiven their past sins. If they continue faithfully in the teaching of the New Testament, they have both God and Christ." II Jno. 9:10.

A Word From Our President

To the B. Y. P. U.'s, B. Y. P. U. Members, the District and Associational Officers of Unity B. Y. P. U. Association:

As I look out over our Association I see the great number of things which should be done. The great many boys and girls who are following the ways of the world, making themselves believe that they are having a glorious time. To use the modern term, "getting a kick out of life." They are looking for a thrill, but are failing to find it. They have never witnessed the thrill of service.

As I think of the great opportunity for service there is in our Association I am reminded of two great thoughts of our Lord. First and foremost, as I review our situation, I recall these words which appear in John 4:35, where he said, "I say unto you, lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, for they are white already to harvest." Truly our Associational fields are white to the harvest.

As recorded in the Minutes of the Unity Baptist Asociation for 1932, we have 26 Baptist Churches, and 32 B. Y. P. U. Yet we have a total of five churches who have no B. Y. P. U. What an opportunity for some live-wire, wide-awake B. Y. P. U. to do some extension and misionary work. Every church in our Association should have at least one B. Y. P. U. Where possible the entire general organization. This minute shows that in 1931 there was a total enrollment of 568 B. Y. P. U. members. In 1932 there was an increase of 93, making a total of 661 enrolled in B. Y. P. U. work. This is a very small increase over the previous year, as compared with the total number of church members. In 1932 the total number of church members was 4214, showing an increase of 117 church members. Every one of these new additions should be enrolled in B. Y. P. U. work if the unions are going to reach their aim, "Training in Church Membership." I believe that we should at least have 50 per cent of these various church members in some department of B. Y. P. U. work, which you can readily see would give us a total enrollment of 2007 B. Y. P. U. members. You give this, that and the other as reason why they are not. I say unto you "Lift up your eyes and look on the fields; for they are white already to the harvest." B. Y. P. U.'s, put your vice presidents and membership committees to work. Tell them to go out and bring them in. We have a place for everyone of these church members from the oldest to the youngest. For those above 30 years of age we have the Baptist Adult Union. For those below we have the Senior, Intermediate and Junior Unions. Surely every one of these should find a place in this great work of ours.

Notice To My Friends And Customers

I am pleased to inform you that I am now working at the Robinson Machine Shop and Garage, in Clanton, and extend you an invitation to bring your automobile to me for repairs.

The Robinson Shop is well equipped to render high class standard service, and I especially solicit my former customers to bring me your work. I will greatly appreciate it, and you can depend on getting the highest quality of workmanship.

CLANTON :—: ALABAMA

The next great need of our respective B. Y. P. U.'s which I should like to mention is that of reports and records. Jesus told his disciples in the fifth chapter of Matthew that "Neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house." In this same chapter He says to us when He says to His disciples, "Let your lights shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Our reports are our lights. If we do not make our reports then we are putting "our lights under a bushel." Yet how can we make a report without record? A good recording secretary will give this task his most careful attention. Yet, in the last issue of our Associational Bulletin, by the State Department of Education and Training in Montgomery, we had 6 B. Y. P. U.'s reporting out of 32. Where are and what are our recording sercertaries doing?

The recording secretary of each B. Y. P. U. in the Asociation should make three quarterly reports, send one to your Associational president, one to your district president and one to the Department of Training and Education. There are plenty of report blanks in the back of your B. Y. P. U. Quarterlies. Please let every B. Y. P. U. see that this is done before the end of each quarter. There are other things that I could mention to further convince you that our fields are white to the harvest, but space will not permit.

The second great saying of our Lord which comes to my mind with regard to our associational harvest, which is so white, are these words which are found in Matthew 9:37, where He said again to His disciples, "The harvest, truly is plentious, but the laborers are few." This the associational officers realize as probably few others of the Association do.

Since I have been president of your Association we have had many district and Associational meetings. The Association is divided into two districts. There are thirteen churches in each district. I do not recall having been in a district meeting where there were more than eight churches represented. Neither do I recall an Associational meeting where there were more than ten churches represented.

No. We are not discouraged. We realize the meaning of the words of the Master when He said, "The harvest truly is plentious but the laborers are few." On the other hand, we believe that the young people of our Association are receiving and accepting the challenge which comes to us from II Timothy 2:15. "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word truth."

Won't you young people of our Association get busy and study to show yourself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed. Then won't you divide the word of truth by sending us your reports, by attending the district and Asosociational meetings, by going out unto the harvest and bringing our boys and girls, young men and women into the service of the Master from which comes no disappointments and sorrow, no heartaches and pains.

Our next Associational meeting will be held with Evergreen church on Sunday, April 9, at 2:15 p.m. A splendid program has been arranged. We are looking forward to a great meeting. Our new year's work will begin at this time, new officers installed and a general business meeting to make plans for a great trip to the annual meeting of Alabama B. Y. P. U. Convention this summer and an Associational Training School to follow that later on in the summer. Great things are in store for you, but remember that you get out of a thing what you put into it. Try an experiment of it for one year and then if you are not more than repaid for your efforts see me.

As the old B. Y. P. U. year closes and the new one comes in I wish to thank you all for your splendid help and assure you that it shall serve as an inspiration for me to carry on in a greater way throughout the year of 1933-34.

Lets all get busy and make our Association lights so shine that others may see our good works and profit by the works we do. In order for us to do this, each individual B. Y. P. U. must be a separate shining light. Get in touch with your Associational officers and find out what our plans are for 1933-34. Without the help of each B. Y. P. U. the Assciational organization is helpless.

Just any time you need any help of any kind, let me hear from you. I assure you that we shall always be at your service.

Yours for better B. Y. P. U.'s,
CARL E. GROUBY,
President Unity B. Y. P. U. Assn.

Thorsby Band Chicken Dinner

Last Saturday there was a demonstration in Thorsby, wherein our Thorsby citizens had an opportunity to show their interest in and appreciation of a group of musicians that from time to time grace our public gatherings with instrumental music. Thorsby Concert Band for months have held regular meetings for practice, under the direction of that veteran band leader, J. O. Johnson, who has kept the wind instrument spirit alive among our young people.

The particular occasion to which we refer was a chicken dinner, given by friends for the benefit of the band, which was liberally patronized, while the band discoursed many numbers of stirring music, which made one feel as if dining at some famous hotel or restaurant. That the band were liberal was evident by the number and versatility of the pieces, well played, for the entertainment of the diners. The Thorsby band desires to express thanks, not only to those who attended the dinner, but to everyone who contributed in any way to making it a success.

Below you will find a list of the band members and also a list of the numbers played:

Nels Peterson, Chas. Howard, Edward Howard, R. R. Franklin, Kendall Franklin, Chas. Cleckler, Cecil Cleckler, George Nix, Guy Higgins, Ralph Pate, Clyde Meade, Edith Johnson, J. O. Johnson, director. The following numbers were played: March Albion; Galop, Elida; Peculiarity, ragtime; Soldier Boys; Gown Boosters, march; Berry's U. S. Republic Band, march; Muoltonian; Greeting to Bainzar, march; S. I. B. A. March.

Fruit growers of Thorsby had something of a scare Tuesday morning when they got up and saw evidences of frost in many places, just at the time when they were congratulating themselves. There is a big crop of strawberries due within a short time, but so far as we could learn little damage was done. Not only is there prospects of a big crop, but we are told that the berries coming to market from Louisiana are bringing good prices.

It has been reported in Thorsby that strawberries were retailing in Birmingham at 15c a quart, which we presume to be an error, because few, if any strawberries have yet come to market in quart containers. Florida and Louisiana use only pint cups for their early berries.

The following is the program of the piano recital held at Thorsby Institute, April 1: The White Bunny and Drifting by Marjorie Bentley; Sweet and Low, Lucille Cockerelle; The Mill, Jane Billingsley and Mary Louise Reinhardt; Gavotte and Spanish Dance, Helen Lowery; Puck, Mary Louise Reinhardt.

Act II—From Rondo in G, Rage over Lost Penny, Huromesque and Revel of Wood Nymphs, Mae Pearl Sorrell; La Grace, Conradine Pate and Kathryn Lenoir; Album Leaf, Celia Gerald; Inmpromptu in C minor, Lois Thompson; Tarantelle, Conradine Pate; In Autumn, Kathryn Lenoir; Butterfly, (2 pianos), Lois Thompson; Country Gardens, Jane Billingsley. The recital was under the direction of Miss Helen Phillips, director of music at Thorsby Institute.

In last week's issue of The Union-Banner from what was said in the article concerning the activities of Mr. J. Bice when mayor of Thorsby, it was made to appear that Mr. Bice was the man responsible for creating the attractive park south of the railroad station. We are pleased and intend at all time to "give honor to whom honor belongs". In this case the whole thing was promoted and completed by another estimable and public spirited citizen of Thorsby, Mr. P. K. Villadsen. All who knew him will concede that it was like him to do a thing like that.

The Thorsby Socialist Local, at its meeting a week ago, agreed to invite all who are interested in the political situation to freely attend the meetings of the Local, whether members or not, and whether or not they are in sympathy with the ideals and policies of the Socialists. At the meeting of the Local next Saturday there is to be a discussion of the very interesting question of taxation. The tax proposals of Senator Long and of Professor Barns will be presented. If you are interested in those proposals, call at the work shop of Mr. Harry Thompson for a copy of them, and then attend the meeting of the Local at the town hall next Saturday at 2 p.m., and listen to or take part in the discussion, which is to be opened by Mr. O. H. Mastin. All are invited.

The annual first of April picnic is one of the established institutions of Thorsby Institute. The picnic is being held today, Tuesday, April 4. The faculty, the students and some of their parents and quite a number of the alumni are gathered on the pleasant and beautiful picnic ground kindly furnished from year to year by J. B. Parrish, about a mile south of Thorsby. Of course there were plenty of eats and drinks, base ball and other games, and at last reports, everyone seemed to be having a great time.

The Loyal Helpers Sunday School Class, Rev. E. W. Butler, teacher, had an evening picnic in Lover's Lane last Thursday. The most of those in attendance were transported through the kindness, and in the truck of Mr. Clyde Meade. All enjoyed the outing very much.

Regular preaching service at the Baptist church next Sunday, both in the morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones and daughter, Evelyn, and Mrs. E. F. Hall spent Thursday and Friday with Mrs. W. H. Edwards at Titus, Ala. They also enjoyed fishing.

Miss Mary Ella Gerald and her room-mate, Miss Earline Lide, were week end visitors at the home of Mrs. Hattie Gerald. They are both teachers at Andalusia.

We will take up Suits, Coats and Dresses at Thorsby for cleaning and pressing on Tuesday of each week; will deliver back on Wednesday. Orders may be left at Wyatt Drug Store. — Sunshine Cleaners, Clanton, Ala.

Arnold Soberg was a week end visitor at his home.

Mrs. E. W. Butler left Monday evening for a week's visit in Montgomery with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Butler and family.

Regular preaching services at the Congregational church Sunday morning. There will be no service in the evening, only Christian Endeavor.

Mr. N. Laurell of Birmingham spent the week end in Thorsby with his wife.

Mrs. Nels Peterson and Norman made a motor trip to Selma with friends last Friday.

Mr. Nels Peterson is back at work again after a sudden illness last week.

The Congregational Ladies Aid will be at the home of Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Eveleyn Christ moved to Auburn Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Billingsley have rented Mrs. Christ's home and have moved there.

Mrs. Lewis Robinson and son, Clyde, of Birmingham spent the week end in Thorsby with Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Robinson.

Miss Esther Johnson of Birmingham visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, during the week end.

Miss Dorothy Franklin had Miss Helen Lowery as her guest for Sunday dinner.

Mr. William Turner of Liberty Hill community and Miss Gracie Smith were married last Thursday evening at 6:00 o'clock. The young couple will make their home in Liberty Hill community.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reinhardt spent the week end in Wilsonville visiting friends and relatives.

Miss Rosabelle McEwen from Wilsonville is spending the week with Linnie Bell Reinhardt.

Miss Roberta Marcus of Clanton and Miss Weston Littlefield of Cane Creek community were the guests of Miss Elwyn Robinson Saturday night.

Mr. Conrad Mims of Chunchula, Alabama, spent the week end in Thorsby with friends and relatives.

Rev. Samuelson of Silver Hill spent the week end with C. R. Foss and family.

Miss Naemi Turnquist returned to Selma Friday after a month's vacation with relatives in Thorsby.

Mr. Robert Hornbuckle of Huntsville spent the week end at the home of Mr and Mrs. L. M. Jackson.

Mr. Hugh R. Primm made a business trip to Calera Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith and Misses Lillian Dunman and Ruth Higgins visited Mrs. Roberta Childress Sunday.

James Griffin of the Enterprise community spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Smith.

Misses Wilma and Verlon Goodgame entertained at their home Friday night the following: Pauline Poole, Lloyd Howard, Paul Davis, Charles Cleckler, Jimmy Nelson, Myradine Martin, Luke Calloway, Letha Martin, John Wise, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Davenport.

Miss Rachael Peterson of Birmingham is spending a month in Thorsby.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway and Miss Florene Robinson spent Saturday in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson of Birmingham and Miss Louise Fitzpatrick spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Villadsen of Tuscaloosa were the week end visitors at the home of Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Thommason of Lay Dam spent Sunday in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Howard and family of Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. James and daughter, Nellie, and son, Franklin, of Montgomery were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Daniels Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade and Helen Louise spent Sunday in Jemison visiting Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peterson.

Mrs. Roy Raybon of Birmingham and Mrs. Kenneth O'barr of Thorsby called last Tuesday afternoon to see Mrs. Leon Taylor.

Mrs. Lena Love is making a few days visit in Birmingham this week with friends and relatives.

Miss Lillian McKee and Miss Helen Phillips spent last Friday night in Birmingham.

Mrs. Grover Bice, Mrs. Lee Pate and their mother, Mrs. H. L. Walker, spent Sunday in Elmore with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Miller, accompanied by Mrs. V. E. Wyatt spent last Thursday in Birmingham.

Mrs. W. H. Goodgame returned to her home Sunday after a two weeks stay in Clanton with Mr. and Mrs. Webb Parrish. She reports that little Billy Ann has recovered from pneumonia.

Miss Lola Martin was the dinner guest of Miss Edna Childress Sunday.

Miss Henrietta Bean of Collins Chapel community spent the week end with Miss Edna Childress.

Mrs. Earl Marcus and Miss Edna Childress spent Saturday in Birmingham shopping.

Misses Gussie and Marzelle Cassel of Clanton and Mae Parker spent a while with Mrs. Leon Taylor Saturday.

Mrs. Euell Johnson and son, Robert, spent the week end in Birmingham visiting relatives.

On account of the complete destruction, by fire, of the house of Mr. Fate Downing, the neighbors are sponsoring a miscellaneous shower for the family at the home of Mrs. Jim Higgins, (boys' dormitory) from two until 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, April 7th. Any piece of discarded furniture, even though it needs repair, clothing for lady, size 16; man, size, 38; girl, size, 15 years; boy, 14 years; girl, 11 years; girl, 8 years. Clothing that can be made over, or any article that could be used in the household will be most gratefully accepted.

REFUGE NEWS

Health of this community is very good at present. Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are still improving. We are glad to have some of our visitors with us. We always want to give them a hearty welcome.

Miss Dorothy Mae Mims had as her dinner guests Sunday Misses Clara Mae Mims, Lavola Mims, Cleedie Easterling, Turnabelle Miner, Essie Easterling, Rheba Easterling, Etta Gentry, Messrs. Troy Baker, Clark Powell, Calvin Minor. All reported as having a nice time.

Miss Ruby Easterling and Miss Daisy Jones were the dinner guests of Miss Cleedie Easterling Wednesday of last week.

Hurrah for the quilting parties—two for the past week—one at the home of Joda Connell, Friday, March 31st, in honor of Carl Baker. Those attending and enjoying the day were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Harly Baker, Mrs. Harmon Logan, Mrs. E. L. Mims, Mrs. Etta Baker, Mrs. Claudie Easterling, Mrs. Daston Mims, Mrs. Luvena Minor, Mrs. Laura Easterling, Misses Clara Mae Mims, Loralia Mims Dorothy Mae Mims, Cleedie Easterling, Turnabelle Minor, Pernola Baker, Annie Mae Mims.

The other was at the home of Mr. E. L. Mims in honor of their son, Clarence Mims on Saturday, April 1. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Powell and family, Mrs. Laura Powell, Mrs. S. V. Miller and daughter, Lila Mae, Mrs. Cary Easterling, Mrs. Emily Rhodes, Mrs. Rosie Powell, Mrs. Ceno Connell, Mrs. Mollie Baker, Mrs. Laura Easterling, Mrs. Doris Easterling, Misses Lucille Headley, Clara Mae Mims, Lavolia Mims, Dorothy Mae Mims, Cleedie Easterling. At the noon hour there was a bountiful dinner spread at both the places, and everybody seemed to forget the depression and enjoyed the days.

Let's everybody see of we can't forget the depression and fill those empty seats at the church next Sunday. Come and bring someone with you and let's reach the goal of 100 present at Sunday school.

Leonard Parrish and Miss Inez Parrish of Birmingham visited relatives in Clanton last Sunday.

COUNTY WIDE EXHIBIT IS PLANNED FOR 4-H CLUB

Plans are being made for the boys in 4-H Clubs to exhibit and show to the public some of the products of their projects this fall.

The exhibit will be in one of the vacant buildings in Clanton and will probably be on display for about one week. Some time during this week the annual calf show will be in Clanton. So I would advise the boys to start now in preparing for the exhibit this fall and keep your record book up to date, as they will be placed by each individual exhibit to show what you have done during the year.

The following is a number of topics for discussion in 4-H Club meetings for the month of April. These topics were suggested by the 4-H Club specialist, Mr. T. A. Sims, and some were added to them by your county president.

The subjects should be assigned to the members a month ahead of the time for discussion, in order that they may get all available information. The information can be had on any of these subjects by writting the county agent. Tell him the subject you have been assigned and ask him to give you what he has on that subject.

Topics For April

1. Brooding baby chicks.

Teachers Declare War On Alabama Politicians

Promise To Control 150,000 Votes In Favor of Candidates Who Are Known to Be Friends of The Schools

Long impoverished and now desperate Alabama teachers, professors and superintendents Saturday removed their gloves, rolled their sleeves and with raised fists stepped into the political arena with a resounding challenge for enemies of the public schools to "come on and fight."

They served notice in unmistakable terms by action of the Assembly of Delegates, the official spokesmen for the Alabama Education Association, that the next Governor of Alabama, every member of the Legislature, if it was in their power, would be men who placed first the welfare and education of the children of the state.

By unanimous vote they adopted a resolution sponsored by the Montgomery delegation insisting that the schools should be operated next year only for such lengths of time as teachers can be paid "a living wage commensurate with the high calling of the profession and on a parity with other public servants," for the 1933-34 school term.

They authorized all members of the Boards of Education be called to meet in Montgomery this summer to consider "uniform policies of procedure.....pending the time when financial help will be provided."

Unanimously they wrote into their code of ethics that a teacher who refused to teach without pay was not a disloyal teacher, saying: "No teacher shall be considered disloyal who declines to continue to teach when all prospects of receiving recompense for services is gone."

They adopted the four-point program as already urged by the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, pledging themselves to economy, and urging a limited income tax, a "reasonable and adequate" sales tax and legislation to compel all departments of government to bear proportionately with education prorations under the Fletcher budget act.

"Subscription schools" whereby schools are continued upon a subscription basis were condemned as being undemocratic and "certain to result in work not creditable to teachers or pupils and inevitably bring about the disintegration of the public schools".

The legislative authorities of the state were charged with having "in effect repudiated" the state's debts to the schools and the teachers "the constituted authorities having declined or failed in the absence of ability to pay cash, to issue negotiable warrants or certificates in payment of its indebtedness to the teachers, and having failed to provide revenue to pay contracts now running....."

In the same resolution the educators reaffirmed their faith in the public, appealed to the people to help them, and urged the legislature in the remaining days of the special session "to enact some measure or measures that will enable the state to pay its honest debts." And that legal safeguards be placed about such funds "that under no condition may be used for other purposes."

It was upon this resolution that that militant keynote of the Assembly was sounded by Dean Zebulon Judd, of Auburn, and earlier by Dr. A. F. Harman, Superintendent of Education.

Dr. Harman, stating he was reversing the position of a lifetime declared "the time has come to plead guilty to the charge of being in politics" and to go out and fight for the schools and the welfare of the children.

"We say boldly to the people of the United States and to the people of the State of Alabama that we are going to know where the next governor and every member of the legislature in 1935 stands in the cause of education," he said.

"So far as it is within our power we are going to solidify and consolidate teachers and every member of the profession, their husbands, their wives, their sweethearts and their friends, and we're going into politics up to our necks."

Dr. Harman estimated the educational forces could command 150,000 votes.

He declared that "we have never yet sacrificed the privileges and right of citizenship."

Dr. Harman urged that the executive committee be given unbridled latitude in carrying out the program of the Association to put into effect recommendations of Secretary Frank Grove. Secretary Grove had urged creation of a committee on public relations and that the association take a more definite stand on the public questions affecting the schools.

Dean Judd, discussing the "repudiation" resolutions declared that the school folk had stood in the background too long "saying 'if you please'" and that the time had come to serve notice on the enemies of education that the school forces stood unsheathed and ready for battle.

"Insofar as I know," he said, "the two measures that would have given us some relief in this emergency have been lost—the income tax and the sales tax. The Legislature has refused to validate your warrants and you'll go home nursing some pieces of paper, and you know how much they are worth."

The association, he said, had been "sicking on" the Parent-Teachers Association with a program for their relief while the educators had remained in the background.

"Here we are in an annual business session," he said. "Shall we adjourn and go home and not say as a body what we have been saying as individuals and urging others to say for us, or shall we say it's unbecoming for a teacher to say anything?.....

"Is it beneath your dignity to ask the Legislature in this emergency to give us the two revenue measures to rescue the schools from a desperate situation? Why say that the school system is on the verge of a breakdown when everybody knows it has been broken down?"

W. W. Benson, superintendent of schools at Decatur, raised the question at this point on what tax limits the association would favor.

Dr. Judd agreed that such a tax should be "adequate and reasonable."

"I would agree to almost anything for relief in this emergency," Dr. Judd said. "We may have to ride in on the tail of beer. I've never been an advocate of beer but I'd be willing to drink a glass if we could get the sales tax."

Applause and laughter greeted this statement, "riding in on the tail of beer," was construed to mean that it might be necessary, in the last hours of the legislature. to attach the sales tax bill as a rider to the beer bill now pending in the house. Upon adoption of Dr. Judd's motion to urge an adequate and reasonable income tax; President J. A. Keller, announced factiously: "That's in and the beer rider goes with it."

President Keller said later that he was merely carrying on the fun.

A substitute motion by Dr. E. L. Morphet, of the University of Alabama, endorsing the four-point program of the Parent-Teachers Association, was adopted and nullified the action taken upon the motion of Dr. Judd.

The "repudiation" resolution which the members voted should be presented to all members of the legislature and in person before the house ways and means committee and the senate finance and taxation committee by a representative of the association is as follows:

"Whereas, education is the first and most important business of a state and affects directly and intimately the vital interest and welfare of every citizen of the state, and

"Whereas, economies already effected or proposed would not and could not provide adequate funds thereof nor meet obligations already made; and

Whereas, it has been shown by several authorized and authenticated investigations and reports that the state of Alabama has a floating indebtedness of $20,000,000, approximately fifteen million of which is owed to the teachers and public schools of the state; and

"Whereas, under the present revenue acts and rulings of the attorney general, it is estimated that the public, elementary and secondary schools will receive from the state this year not more than 40 per cent of the appropriations for last year, and that the teachers college and the three major institutions of learning will receive not more than 30 per cent of their last year's appropriations; and

Whereas, this year, the schools of 23 counties were closed before Christmas of 1932 for lack of funds, and a total of 50 counties have closed their schools on or before this the first day of April, many of them completing school terms or less than five months, these counties including more than 80 per cent of the state's school children and teachers; and

"Whereas, the situation for the next school year, without some essential change, will be no better and, if certain of the state's indebtedness is given priority claim, will be unquestionably worse; and

"Whereas the teachers of the state have gone unpaid, in the majority of the counties, for periods of one to two years; and

"Whereas, facing these conditions, our legislature is now near the close of its third session in this quadrennium with nothing whatever done to meet the state's obligations to its unpaid teachers, and with no provisions for the operation of the schools for next year; and

"Whereas, the state has in effect repudiated its obligations to the schools and the teachers, the constituted authorities having declined or failed in the absence of ability to pay cash, to issue negotiable warrants or certificates in payment of its indebtedness to its teachers, and having failed to provide revenue to pay contracts now running, now therefore,

"Be it resolved by the Alabama Education Association, constituted principally of public school teachers of the state of Alabama, in business session assembled, that we hereby give renewed expression of faith in the people of our state and appeal to them for support in the education of their children and, facing the complete disruption and breakdown of the public school system, we urge the legislature in the remaining days of this its second special session, to enact some measure or measures that will enable the state to pay its honest debts and operate the schools; and

"Be it further resolved, that we ask the legislature at its present session not only to provide adequate funds for this necessary function of government, but also to place about these funds legal safeguards such that under no conditions may be used for other purposes, thus forever preventing recurrence of the present collapse of education."

The teachers "loyalty" resolution condemning the practice of using the teacher's services without pay was acceptable to the Montgomery delegation although the original resolution had been altered by the resolutions committee in some details.

The original resolution was a formal request upon the city and county boards of education not to attempt to operate the schools unless adequate finances and "a decent living wage" on a "parity" with salaries paid other public servants, was assured.

The revised resolution set forth that "to continue operation of the schools on this indefinite basis would further tend to encourage this discrimination and prolong the time when an adjustment would be made and sufficient funds provided to insure recognition of the needs of schools on a parity with other necessary state functions;

"That we deeply appreciate the efforts of Boards of Education to finance schools on a sound, businesslike, equitable basis;

"That whereas, we believe that for boards to offer or for teachers to accept any contract guaranteeing less than a living wage would be degrading to the teaching profession and out of harmony with the needs and spirit of the time; therefore

"Be it resolved, that we pledge cooperation with the Boards of Education, as guardians of the public welfare, in their efforts to operate the schools for the session of 1933-34 for such time as they can offer teachers a living wage, commensurate with the high calling of the profession and on a parity with other public servants."

The preamble of the resolution also pointed out that the teachers have accepted substantial reductions in salaries and in many cases have been deprived of these reduced salaries in spite of this sacrifice and that "no other service of either the state or the local units has suffered such discrimination."

The practice of calling upon the teachers to teach without pay was one of the principal topics of discussion during the entire convention. The topic received notice in the address of Mrs. James Fitts Hill, president of the Montgomery Parent-Teachers Association, and a leader in the Montgomery delegation's fight for pay for their work in negotiations with the Montgomery Board of Education last January.

Before the general session Friday night she declared:

"For a long time teachers have considered themselves servants of the public—servants who should give and give an give. But I say to you that you should not forget that a servant is worthy of his hire.

"Have we, as parents, appreciated your great loyalty, your generosity in teaching on and on for nothing or a pittance? To me you have been martyrs to the great cause that you serve—education. But I doubt the wisdom of your doing so. Many of us as parents are not proud of the fact that we have accepted so much from the hands of our teachers, but of course if you will teach for nothing, most of the public will let you do so, as many of you know from experience.

"You must stand up for yourselves and your profession if you would help us help you. When public funds for public schools are exhausted public schools should close rather than be continued on the generosity of its teachers.

"Teachers' demands are usually fair, reasonable and just. They should stand behind these demands and see that they are carried out. In a few cases in Alabama where teachers have taken their stand for fair and just treatment parents have recognized the justice of their claims and have stood behind them. Not only have they endorsed the teachers' claims but have accepted the responsibility of finding some solution to the problem."

The resolution adopted Saturday authorizing a call for a statewide meeting of boards of education, contemplates closing of all schools at once if such a measure is necessary next year. By motion of Dr. H. W. James, of Montevallo, it was agreed to invite officials and trustees of the colleges to attend and participate in the meeting.

Among other resolutions adopted was one authorizing the holding of district meetings this year and a resolution of thanks to Montgomery school folk and others for their assistance in making the convention a success.

Members of the resolutions committee were B. B. Baker, chairman; T. G. Atkinson, P. A. McDaniel, Albert Collins, A. C. Anderson, J. J. Doster, M. K. Killingsworth and B. L. Blach.

Clarence J. Going, principal of Phillips High School, Birmingham, and C. B. Smith, superintendent of schools in Tallassee, were introduced Saturday morning to the assembly of delegates as the two new members of the executive committee. Other newly elected officers who were announced Thursday night following a unanimous choice are; John E. Bryant, city superintendent of Bessemer schools, president; Miss Fannie Mae Norton, supervisor of Tuscaloosa County, first vice president; W. M. Jackson, principal of Selma High School, second vice president; B. B. Baker, superintendent of Fairfield schools, third vice president; Frank Grove, secretary-treasurer.

Adjournment was taken shortly after noon. The next meeting place will be selected by the executive committee.

Newly-elected officers were announced Saturday morning by a number of the A. E. A. departmental groups. Among those were the Department of Teachers of Speech, who will have the following officers for the ensuing year: Miss Ellen H. Gould, Alabama College, president; first vice president, Miss Mildred Hood, Judson College; second vice president, Miss Evelyn Walker, Phillips High School, Birmingham; third vice president, Miss Inez Elliot, Birmingham; secretary-treasurer, George A. Neely, Anniston.

The Department of Elementary School Principals will have for its new president, Miss Mary Henderson, principal of Bellinger High School, Montgomery, and for its secretary-treasurer, W. T. Snoody, principal of Acipco School, Birmingham.

The Department of Secondary Education announced the following new officers, Houston Cole, principal of Northport High School, president; Patterson Hicks, Florala, vice president; W. L. Spencer, state department of education, secretary-treasurer (reelected.)

Miss M. Elizabeth Moffat, librarian of Murphy High School, Mobile, was elected president of the department of school libraries, at a business session following the open forum on school library activities held at Baldwin Junior High School Friday afternoon. Miss Willie Welch, State supervisor of public school libraries, was chosen secretary. In spite of the rainstorm at the hour scheduled for the meeting, approximately 25 school librarians were present and entered into a lively discussion pertaining to the problem in individual school libraries.

Well, no one is worse off after the two days holiday we have just enjoyed. But here we are back again and ready to settle down to the old routine.

Hats off to our teachers. They attended the P.-T. A.

Do you wish people to believe good of you? Don't speak.

The Senior Three class met one day last week and elected their Who's Who for the year. Here it is: Best all around boy, Louie Alford; best all around girl, Pearl Vinson; most dependable boy, Ralph Culver; most dependable girl, Hilda Hart; most popular boy, Clarence Easterling; most popular girl, Clyde Jones; most handsome boy, Dewey Williams; prettiest girl, Dorothy Sessions; most loyal, Grady Carter; biggest grumbler, Mabel Harris; neatest boy, Clarence Fiquette, neatest girl, Mary Robinson; cutest girl, Elizabeth McSwain; cutest boy, Durwood Robinson; wittiest, Margaret Jones; most original, Morris Pyron; biggest booster, Margaret Jones; most dignified, Serena Mitchell. The most intellectual is to be chosen by the faculty and he will also be the valedictorian for the graduating class.

Has Technocracy gone out with the recent depression?

This week I want to tell my readers something of a former graduate of C. C. H. S. who has indeed achieved great heights, especially in the field of public education. The alumns who will be the subject of discussion this week is Mr. Ewell Robinson. Mr. Robinson graduated from this school in the year 1921 with a commendable record. After his graduation here he entered the Jacksonville State Normal in the fall of the same year. He finished his course in Chambers County in 1923. Mr. Robinson left Chambers County in 1926 and became the city superintendent of schools in Lineville, serving in this capacity until 1928. In 1928 he was elected by popular vote on a Democratic ticket in a Republican County, the superintendent of Education. While he was serving in this office as the county superintendent of education of Clay County, he was the youngest county superintendent of education in Alabama and the second youngest in the United States. In 1930 he received his B. S. degree from Auburn, and now lacks only about one-half the required work for a masters degree. At the present time he is serving as principal of both grammar and high schools in Chidersburg. During the interview Mr. Robinson was asked what he intended to do in the future. He replied that he wished to mount to the top rung of the ladder of public education.

"One man's meat is another man's poison." The rain last Friday night, though it helped the farmer and those who had gardens, allowed only a small number of people to attend the home economics class play at the high school. This splendid play was given over Tuesday in the afternoon and in the evening also. A matinee is something unusual down here but it seemed a wise move of Miss Griffin's.

How many of you timid boys are girl shy? Do you want to cure that uncomfortable feeling you have when you are around the weaker sex? Watch for further announcements on how you can cure this. This goes for you girls, too.

We are proud to list Misses Beverly Hester and Roberta Curry among our former graduates. Both have accomplished much in the field of music. Miss Curry has sung on the stage in New York and elsewhere for the past several years. Miss Hester has studied extensively in music in Cincinnati and elsewhere and now she is the teacher of music at Judson College. Miss Hester graduated from here in 1916 and Miss Curry was a graduate of 1918. Both were A students and showed a promising interest in music while they were in high school.

We were glad to have a graduate and a former student back with us last Monday. Miss Mary Frank Smith, once a student here and Miss Esther Lee Dennis, graduate last year, were visitors around the school Monday.

PASSION PLAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH IN CLANTON SOON

The Passion Play and an illustrated Bible lecture on the Holy Land will be presented at the Clanton Baptist church Tuesday, April 11, at 7:30 p.m., by Dr. E. E. Morrison.

This is a great and spectacular photoplay which grips the interest from the first to the last moment. It satisfies and leaves much to carry away. Seeing the Passion Play is as though you traveled to Oberammergau to witness the original production. It portrays Christ and his disciples, Pilot, King Herod, and all ancient characters, with 500 Roman Soldiers and civilians.

Beautiful photography rules everywhere in the production. All of the Bibical and historical incidents are richly done with considerable nicety of feeling. It is a masterpiece bigger in conception and theme than any other Bibical or educational protoplay ever produced.

Hundreds of pepole spend thousands of dollars going over to Oberammergau, Bavaria, to see the Passion Play in a language they do not understand. You can see this glorious spectacle and greatest tutor of religion and ancient history that the world has ever known, just as if you traveled to Bavaria to witness the original production.

There will be no admission charge, but a free will offering will be taken for the lecturer. Remember the date, Tuesday, April 11, 7:30 p.m., at Clanton Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dunlap are moving to Selma this week.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., April 4.—The annual "A" day celebration was held Wednesday, April 5. A holiday was enjoyed by the student body in order that they might attend all events. The principal feature of the day's activities was the Alabama-Georgia baseball game in the afternoon.

Jan Garber and his 14-piece orchestra have been engaged for the Easter dances, April 20, 21, and 22.

Fitting tribute was paid the memory of the late George I. Adams, head of geology, at the annual business meeting of the Alpha Lambda Delta scholastic sorority. Dr. Adams was instrumental in the founding of the organization.

Dr. W. C. Blasingame of the extension division announced that the Alabama State high school debating league tournament will be held here April 25-29. Small town teams will debate April 25 and 26; city teams April 27 and 28; and the winners in these two divisions will meet for the state championship April 29. Members of the winning team get free year scholarships to the university.

Alabama is the only state in the union which has not met the educational problem, president Denny of the University said in an address at the annual University of Alabama dinner at Montgomery Thursday. He expressed the belief, however, that the intelligence and patriotism of the people of Alabama would furnish a solution to the difficulty.

Virginia Harrigan of Fullerton has won the spring horse show of the Women's Athletic Association.

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

Everybody seems to be getting along fine. We have had some nice rains and it seems that farmers are in good heart, and are making preparations for a bumping big crop. Oats are good.

Our Sunday school is coming on mighty nice. We had a good prayer service Sunday night. After the prayers and testimonies were over, Rev. Robert Bean made a very pointed and interesting talk, after which Bro. J. D. Collins suggested that we spend a few minutes in singing. It was directed by Bro. Wyatt and Bro. Jones, which was enjoyed very much. Next Sunday night Mrs. Tom Wyatt will conduct prayer services. Everybody is invited to come and worship with us. Let us glorify God at Friendship church.—H. F. McCary.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Health in this community is improving.

Our B. Y. P. U. is progressing just fine.

Miss Marie Devaughn had as her guest Saturday night, Miss Alma Blalock.

Miss Evelyn Downs was the Sunday afternoon guest of Miss Lera May Mitchell.

Mrs. Eunice Stroud of Deatsville is spending a few days with Mrs. W. F. Glenn.

Mr. W. F. Glenn had as his guest Thursday night his brother, Jasper Glenn, of Cooper.

The singing at Miss Lera May Mitchell's was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Mr. Audie Brown had as his Saturday night guest Mr. Oliver Glenn.

B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school will be at the home of Mr. John Wilson next Sunday and Sunday night.

Arthur Tippett of Concord community found a hen's nest the other day with 47 eggs in it. Mr. Tippett said that all the eggs were fresh.

"THE OLD RELIABLE" REDUCES FARES TO

IN COACHES

ANYTIME—ANYWHERE ON THE L. & N. R. R.

April 1st, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad inaugurates system-wide passenger fare reductions as follows: between all points located on its lines 2¢ a mile,—in clean, roomy coaches providing every travel comfort, complete toilet and smoking facilities, and with available dining car service.

The fare for transportation in sleeping and parlor cars will be at the rate of 3¢ per mile without surcharge.

For example, where the fare has been $5.00, under the new rate in coaches it becomes $2.78. In parlor and sleeping cars where the fare has been $10.00 the fare will be $8.34, with a further saving due to the elimination of the surcharge.

CHEAPER AND SAFER THAN MOTORING

These fares make traveling on Louisville & Nashville Railroad trains a most economical, safe and satisfactory means of transportation. Statistics show that even with the smallest automobiles the cost per mile averages between 5¢ and 6¢ and with larger cars from 8¢ to 10¢.

Avoid roadside delays, tire troubles, detours, hurried meals and the fatigue which comes from the strain of driving.

Board an L. & N. train, relax in comfort—travel economically, with safety and speed—and arrive at your destination fit and ready for work or play.

L. & N. DINING CAR SERVICE WORLD-FAMOUS

You cannot eat a better meal, better cooked or better served in any hotel or restaurant than you can enjoy in large, clean, comfortable L. & N. diners,—and food prices are reasonable.

Whether you travel for business or pleasure save time, save money, save energy by using trains of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

These rates are established for an experimental period of six months from April 1st. Their continuance beyond that time will be dependent upon the extent to which they are availed of by the traveling public.

Ask any passenger representative or ticket agent of this railroad for particulars and reservations.

Lesson for April 9

JESUS REQUIRES CONFESSION AND LOYALTY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 8:27-38.

GOLDEN TEXT—And when he had called the people unto him with his disciples also, he said unto them, Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. Mark 8:34.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being True to Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Passing a Hard Test.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty to Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Jesus Expects of His Followers.

The time had now come for Jesus to take account of his ministry. Having been rejected by the rulers he went into retirement with his disciples. The primary object in his teaching at this time was to prepare the disciples for the tragic hour of the cross which he knew was so near. His teaching centered in the great cardinal doctrines of the Christian faith. He instructed them, touching his atoning death, resurrection, and glorious coming again. He knew that in the measure that they intelligently apprehended these things they would be able to pass through the ordeal before them.

I. Peter's Confession of Christ (vv. 27-30).

This confession was provoked by two questions of Jesus.

1. "Whom do men say that I am" (vv. 27, 28)? This question referred to the opinions of the people regarding Jesus. Some believed him to be John the Baptist; some Elijah, and some, one of the prophets. They all recognized him to be a teacher or prophet with more than human authority and power.

2. "Whom say ye that I am" (vv. 29, 30)? Jesus persistently claimed to be the God-man, the very Son of God, incarnate. He wanted the disciples to know him personally as the Son of God.

II. Jesus' Teaching Concerning the Cross (vv. 31-33).

He charged the disciples not to make public his Messiahship as that would precipitate a crisis.

1. What he taught (v. 31).

a. "The Son of man must suffer many things." He suffered weariness, hunger, ridicule, contempt and even misunderstanding and lack of appreciation on the part of his friends and disciples.

b. "Be rejected of the elders, chief priests, and scribes." These were the nation's official representatives, who should have known and received Christ and recommended his reception on the part of the nation.

c. "Be killed." Jesus now states with definiteness that he must die on the cross. The disciples had not yet come to know that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross.

d. "Rise again." Though this was utterly incomprehensible to the disciples, he showed them that this would be the glorious issue of his death.

2. How the disciples received his teaching (v. 32). So unwelcome was his teaching, touching the cross, that Peter, the spokesman of the disciples, rebuked him.

3. Jesus rebukes Peter (v. 33). He told Peter plainly that his attitude was due to his being under the influence of the devil.

III. Jesus Going to Jerusalem to Die (Mark 10:32-34).

He went to Jerusalem with the consciousness of the awful tragedy before him, the treachery of Judas, the fiery persecutions of the priests and scribes, the unjust judgment, the delivery to Pontius Pilate, the mocking and scourging, the crown of thorns, the cross between malefactors, the nails and the spear—all were spread before him. He had not only come to minister but to give his life a ransom for many. The joyous outlook of the victory which was to be accomplished through the shedding of his blood led him forward (Heb. 12:2).

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (Mark 8:34).

The law of the Christian life is suffering. To follow Christ means to turn one's back upon the world and share his sufferings.

1. There must be denial of self (v. 34). There is a vast difference between self-denial and denial of self. All people practice self-denial, but only Christians deny self.

2. The cross must be taken up (v. 34). This means that suffering and shame will lie in the pathway of the one who is loyal to God (II Tim. 3:12).

3. Christ must be followed (v. 34). The blessed issue of following Christ is a life of freedom here and now, and eternal life hereafter.

Study Brings Light

I have never in my life begun to study one single part of divine truth without gaining some light about it, when I have been able really to give myself to prayer and meditation over it.—George Muller.

COMMUNITY IMPROVERS HOLD WEEKLY MEETING

Community Improver's Club Work

The Community Improvers met with Miss Aileen Crim Monday afternoon, March 27. From 1:30 to 2:00 the club members were delightfully entertained with games and contests. Misses Aileen Crim and Nora Evelyn Roberts had charge of the program.

After the social hour the club work was taken up. Samples of the work being done by the members were shown. These consisted of different kinds of quilts, applique work, renovating worn garments, making household linens, both plain and fancy, sewing and making different things suitable for gifts, such as toothbush and paste holder, lingerie and luncheon set. Following the club work, 11 new members were initiated, which afforded the club much fun.

The new members were Bertha Martin, Margaret Matthews, Elva Barefield, Iva Campbell, Margaret Busby, Johnnly Ruth Collum, Nora Evelyn Roberts, Lorene Shirley, Myrtle Lou Crim, Virginia Haynes and Helen Zuiderhock. New officers were elected as follows: Evelyn Martin, president; Lois Busby, vice president; Francis Killingsworth, recording secretary; Vera Busby, Corresponding secretary for Shelby County; and Helen Zuiderhock, corresponding secretary for Chilton County.

After the election of officers, delicious refreshments were served to the following guests and members: Era and Vera Busby, Ila and Lila Ellison, Francis and Mildred Killingsworth, Lexie Splawn, Virginia Haynes, Lillian, Lois and Ethel Busby, Nora Evelyn Roberts, Bertha and Evelyn Martin, Elva Barefield, Margaret Busby, Iva Campbell, Johnnie Ruth Collum, Lorene Shirley, Helen and Mary Zuiderhock, Billie and Gene Ware, Red Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil, Mrs. Sarah Crim and Aileen Crim. The next meeting will be a joint meeting with group No. 2 at the home of Miss Vivian Conway, Monday afternoon, April 3. All members are urged to be present and bring someone with you.

Minooka News

The many friends of Mr. Clarence Barnett will regret to hear he is having chills. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Members of the Minooka baseball team met and cleaned up the diamond. They are getting ready for some close games with other teams.

Miss Marie Anderson has returned to Birmingham after spending a few days with her mother.

Misses Aileen Crim and Nora Evelyn Roberts spent Sunday afternoon at Mr. Rogan Barnett's.

Mr. Ira Johnson of Calera and Miss Helen Zuiderhock attended the show at Montevallo Thursday night.

Lloyd Barnett has returned home after a short visit with his brother at Union Grove.

There will be prayer meeting at Shiloh church next Thursday night. Everybody is cordially invited.

Mary Doris and Betty Zuiderhock spent Saturday afternoon with Mildred West.

R. L. Merrell and sons, Robert and Clayburn, J. E. Zuiderhock and son, John, visited Mr. Merrell's farm in Shelby County Sunday.

Ottis Zuiderhock spent Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Lawler in Calera.

Quite a number of our people attended the singing at Shiloh Sunday afternoon.

Examiner Reported

state would not recognize his (Wilson's) work under any circumstances, and that Mr. Wilson hurriedly left town and did not come before the Commissioners Court.

"It was my duty under the law to appoint an examiner to examine the office of the County Treasurer. It was the duty of the Commissioners Court to fix the amount of compensation he should get. They fixed his pay at $750. Mr. Wilson has been paid $350. The balance of $400 is being held up until it can be legally determined if the work shall be paid for by the county. It is now clear from the above correspondence with Mr. Hard that the county will not receive any benefit from Mr. Wilson's work of examination, because it will not be recognized by the state."

BERRY PROSPECTS GOOD

Clanton Berry Growers are expecting to do some business this spring, according to a statement in which Mr. Jasper Dennis gave out the information that local growers have already purchased crates sufficient to take care of fifty car loads of fruit.

Mr. Dennis stated that prospects for the berry crop continue to be encouraging. Weather conditions of the past week have not done any damage to the plants, in tre opinion of Mr. Dennis.

PITTS SAYS BILL WILL BE PASSED

People Will Elect Superintendent. Lawrence To Be Candidate

In a statement made Monday, Representative Percy Pitts said the local bill providing for the election of a Superintendent of Education of Chilton County by a vote of the people would be made a law before the end of the present special session of the legislature.

After passage in the senate last week, the bill received unanimous approval of the House committee on education, and is on the calendar for final passage by the house this week. Mr. Pitts declared there is no question but that the bill will become a law before adjournment this week.

Under provisions of the bill the Probate Judge of Chilton County shall immediately call a special election for the election of a County Superintendent of Education, who shall assume office on July 1, 1933. The officer so elected shall hold the office until a successor is elected in the general election of 1934. Thereafter the County Superintendent shall be elected every four years.

Declaring that he would be a candidate for election to the office of County Superintendent under the new bill when it becomes a law, Buford Lawrence, present superintendent, authorized the following statement:

"My hat is in the ring in a good natured way. I expect to be a candidate for election by the people of the county. I shall run on my own merits and not on the demrits of anyone else."

CENT AND HALF A QUART SET FOR PICKING STRAWBERRIES

Mr. J. M. Smith of Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, and Mr. J. N. Dennis of Clanton Berry Growers Asscoiation, announce that both their organizations have agreed on paying one and one-half cents per quart for picking strawberries this season, which amounts to 36 cents a crate. Anyone wishing to apply for picking jobs should apply either to Mr. Dennis or Mr. Smith, or to any officials of the Welfare Department.

BUSINESS VOLUME SETS HIGH MARK

Some Lines Show Double That That Of A Year Ago, Report Says

New York, April 7.—Volume of business in some lines has expanded to new high levels for the year, the weekly review of Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., said today.

Retail sales this week have been stimulated by Easter demand and merchants in leading centers "report encouraging consumer response to their increased newspaper advertising" lineage of which in some instances is running nearly double that of a year ago, the survey stated.

"As retail trade has shown a steady increase since the passing of the banking holiday the force of the Easter buying period is expected to mark a definite upturn which will gain momentum with the advancing spring season. As a whole, retail sales during the week made the best showing since September."

Plans for expansion are now being completed "on every side" the review declared "as faith in the essential soundness of the country's financial structure is stronger than at any time in its history."

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The county singing convention of the Harp and Harmony music books will meet at Highland church, three miles southwest of Clanton on the first Sunday in May and the Saturday afternoon before. All are invited.—Z. J. Jones, chariman.

PROF. L. E. LITTLE IS ELECTED PRINCIPAL OF GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Election of Prof. Luther E. Little as principal of Clanton Grammar School for next year has been announced this week by the trustees of the school.

In educational circles of Chilton County Mr. Little enjoys a high standard and is well known. He is a native Chilton County man, and has been teaching in this vicinity for several years. During the past year he has been a member of the faculty of Chilton County High School.

DEMABEL ATTENDED PERMANENT WAVING DEMONSTRATION

Keeping up with the latest and best methods in permanent waving, and also other helpful information and style suggestions, DeMabel attended a very interesting demonstration given by Eugene representatives at the Jefferson Davis Hotel in Montgomery.

The very latest and newest vogue of curling hair at the ends in soft ringlets was the main topic. Also discussion on why it pays to get a good wave.

DeMabel says, "Do not think that all permanent waves are alike? They are not. Don't think any permanent wave will do. It will not. It is well worth your while to select and demand a good method. Then you will be satisfied and everyone else will admire your hair and you can feel proud to tell where you got it and what kind of a wave you have."

BERRY SHIPPING IS STARTED HERE

Car Loads Will Be Moving From Four Points In Week

Strawberries in Chilton County are already going on the market. First appearances were made in Clanton last Saturday. On Monday they began to come in by crates, several being shipped to nearby city markets. Reports say several express shipments have been made from Clanton, Thorsby, Maplesville, and Jemison.

L. E. Diefenderfer, manager of the Clanton Association stated Tuesday that he expects to ship the first car from here the latter part of this week.

It is expected that the first car would be loaded at Thorsby Wednesday, and that loadings will be in full swing by the last of this week.

Maplesville and Jemison will be ready for shipments by the end of this week. The crop at Maplesville is reported to be a few days in advance of other points.

Estimates of the crop in Chilton County run from 250 to 300 car loads. This, of course, is contingent upon weather conditions during the fruiting season. So far everything has been very favorable to berry production.

If everything continues favorable, there will be the biggest production of berries in the history of Chilton County. This is the first year shipments have been made in car load lots from Maplesville.

There is soon to be a big demand for pickers. Most of the larger producers in the territory are making preparations to put on a full force of pickers next Monday, and the work will continue daily until the crop is harvested.

MISS HILDA HART GETS HONORABLE MENTION

Miss Hilda Hart represented the Chilton County High School in the musical contest at the annual play day of Alabama College at Montevallo last week.

The many friends and well-wishers of this popular young lady will be pleased to know that she was accorded honorable mention by the judges in the contest.

Miss Hart is a pupil of Miss Mary Ellis.

COUNTY COUNCIL OF P.-T. A. MET AT MAPLESVILLE

On last Saturday the county council of the Parent-Teachers Association of the county held a regular session in the auditorium of the Maplesville High School. Several organizations were represented, and a most inspirational and worthwhile day was enjoyed by all present. Mrs. Shanks, president, presided.

Among the interesting out-of-the-county speakers were Miss Mary England, Mrs. James Fitts Hill and Miss Norma Smith of Montgomery. Lunch was served by the Maplesville ladies.

WOMEN ARE SEWING

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, director of social service of the R. F. C. relief program in Chilton County reports that fifteen women are now at work in the sewing room in Clanton, engaged in making Red Cross material into garments. These clothes will be distributed by the Red Cross to needy families in the county.

EASTER SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS, SUNDAY, APRIL 16

The annual Easter singing will be held at Poplar Springs all day next Sunday, April 16th. The public is cordially invited to come, bring your dinner and spend the day with us, serving the Lord with sacred song.—W. F. Gilliland, G. B. Jones, W. M. Devaughn, Committee.

"GIRL SHY" AT CO. HIGH SCHOOL

Undergraduate Play Will Be Presented Friday Night, April 21

Folks, when it rains it pours, Roosevelt was elected president, the national congress repeals the prohibition law and the senior class brings to Clanton that new and different play, "Girl Shy." This play is a three-act farce comedy of life in a modern college with an old fashioned dean. Added to this splendid play is several vaudeville acts and stunts.

A dialogue between two black faced comedians, popular songs and music and several humorous readings by talented readers are to be offered to those who come to the Chilton County High school next Friday night, April 21, at 8:00 p.m.

The admission for this wonderful program will be only 15 and 25 cents. Let's see a full house like the good old days next Friday night. Back your home town institutions. Never in the history of the school has such a program been offered to the public. Don't fail to spend the funniest hours of your life, so attend the regular undergraduate play, "Girl Shy," next Friday night.

COOKE PLAYERS ALL NEXT WEEK

Popular Vaudeville Troupe To Be At the Wadesonian Theatre

The people of Clanton and surrounding territory will be greeted every night next week by the famous vaudeville troupe, the Cooke Players, who will perform at the Wadesonian Theatre.

During the war, every government recognized that good clean, wholesome amusement was as essential, as food and clothing. Troop trains were side tracked at times to let the trains bearing the actors have the right of way, as amusement was needed to keep up the morale of the soldiers as well as of the people at home. Carrying and spreading a spirit of optimism wherever they go this excellent company are doing their helpful part.

The Cooke Players have a reputation of making people smile even at times when it hurts one's face a little. So, if you are fundamentally blue, give the players a trial and see if they do not make you forget your troubles for a little while at least. Both Mr. Cooke and Mr. Wade extend a cordial invitation to their friends in Clanton and Chilton County to attend these performances every night next week. Read all about it in a big adv., elsewhere in this paper.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST NEWS

Revival services will be held at the S. D. A. Church in Clanton, beginning Friday night, April 21 and running through Sunday night, April 30. The public is cordially urged to attend and hear Bible subjects made plain by Evangelist C. T. Buhalts of Selma, Ala. Bible subjects which will be expounded upon are: "The Only Sure Foundation," "The Second Coming of Christ," "World Conditions In Bible Prophecy," "Who Will Be the Next World Ruler?" "The Millenium," "The Judgment," "Where Are the Dead?" "Punishment of the Wicked," "The Christian Sabbath," and "Finally Impenitent."

A question box will be used, and anyone desiring special light on Bible subjects are urged to make use of it. Questions will be answered at each following service. Services will start promptly each night at 7:30.

FORESTATION IS TO BE ORGANIZED

Many Idle Men Will Be Put To Work Under This Plan

Plans for enrolling and mobilizing Alabama's quota of men to work in the national administration's emergency forestation employment program are being prepared by the Alabama Relief Administration. The state's quota is estimated at approximately 5,000, to be increased as the program is extended, according to information coming from the relief administration.

Applications for employment should be made to Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Adminstration, First National Bank Building, Montgomery, or to local relief agencies designated for that purpose. Authority to accept applications have not been received by relief agenciss in Birmingham so far, but is expected in the next few days.

The Alabama enlistments, it is understood, will be employed in the state on lands owned by the government, the state or other lands acquired for that purpose.

Hundreds of men called at the Red Cross and other relief agencies in Birmingham Monday and Tuesday mornings, but having received no authority to accept them, the applicants had to be turned away.

Page S. Bunker, state forester, attended a conference in Washington April 6 and 7 relative to the forestation program, and on his return said doubt was expressed at the conference as to whether the program would be extended to include privately owned lands. The belief was expressed, however, he said, that it might take in projects the states would undertake if funds were available. It was suggested, he said, that the states might create state parks and forests out of tax-forfeited lands.

While in Washington Col Bunker filed with the chief forester of the United States a list of proposed state reforestation projects, with essential details and data.

Alabama, it is said, owns approximately 300,000 acres of land, including those of the university, state parks, school funds and remnants of the Muscle Shoals grant made by the federal government years ago.

OLD FOLKS DAY AT FRIENDSHIP FIFTH SUNDAY IN THIS MONTH

Mr. J. Dudley Collins of Friandship community asks The Union-Banner to announce that the annual old folks and ministers meeting will be held at Friendship church again this year, on the fifth Sunday in April, 30th. Every body is invited to attend and take a part in the services, but the older people and ministers are especially urged to attend. A program will be arranged and published some time in the near future.

COUNTY SINGERS TO BE AT JEMISON

County Convention Will Be Held There on Third Sunday In May

Mr. W. G. Culp, chairman of the Chilton County Singing Convention, announces that the spring session of that body will meet at the Jemison High School building all day on Sunday, May 21st. Arrangements are being made for one of the best singings of the season; some quartets and several prominent directors from Jefferson County are among those expected.

An invitation has been extended the singers of Chilton County to attend the Jefferson County Convention to be held at the Grotto Auditorium at Five Points the fifth Sunday in April. It is expected that there will be some fine singing at this convention, and the singers of this section are asked to make note of the announcement and attend if they can.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN THE SOLDIER LEGISLATION

In reply to numerous inquiries about the new legislation relative to compensation of ex-soldiers, Capt. R. D. Woodson, commander of Chilton County Post of the American Legion says:

"Up to this time we have not received the interpretation of the new laws from the Veterans Administration. We are informed that the Veterans Administration is at work on digest of the new laws and the information will come through in a few days.

"As quickly as we have received this information from the Veterans Administration, we expect to have a special meeting of Chilton County Post, to which all ex-service men will be invited. The purpose of this meeting will be to fully acquaint all ex-service men as to how the new laws will be interpreted and applied to effect those who have been drawing compensation. Announcement of the time of the meeting will be made in due time."

HOWARD COLLEGE OFFERS A COURSE IN EXCHANGE FOR GOOD MIDDLING COTTON

Birmingham, Ala., April 11.—Young men and young women over the state who desire to enter college this fall and who will be handicapped because of a shortage of funds are being offered an opportunity by Howard College, located in Birmingham, Alabama, to pay their tuition and fees with good middling cotton, according to a statement from President T. V. Neal, of the college.

High school seniors who will be graduated this spring and who want to enter Howard and pay their tuition and fees with cotton are urged by Dr. Neal to set aside a patch for cotton and plant and tend it themselves this spring. The Howard executive urges that where possible high school seniors, together with others who have already been graduated from high school and who desire to enter Howard this fall, organize Howard Cotton Clubs and grow the staple to pay their expenses this fall.

Howard will accept good middling cotton and better from students at 10 cents a pound.

High school principals over the state are urged to take up the Howard Cotton Club plan with their seniors and encourage them to begin making plans immediately to enter Howard in the fall. Fathers and mothers are also urged by the Howard administration to cooperate in encouraging their sons and daughters to begin work to pay their own way through with the staple from the farms.

Howard College is offering this plan to young men and women of Alabama in view of the present financial and economic stress which threatens to retard the leadership of the coming generation unless measures are taken to encourage higher learning unless the institutions for the state are willing to meet the present situation.

It is in a measure of cooperation with parents, teachers and educators as well as all civic minded citizens over the state that Howard College is opening its doors to students in return for cotton says president Neal.

Prospective students, parents, teachers and any other interested citizen desiring information concerning the Howard Cotton Club plan are urged to write to the secretary of the Howard Cotton Club Plan, Howard College. Students planning to take advantage of the plan are urged to communicate with the secretary also.

W. W. FOX

Walnut Creek News

It was a bad day Sunday, and it was our preaching day. Our preacher was so anxious to preach to us until he came out Sunday night and preached. He delivered a wonderful sermon. His subject for next Sunday will be: "Has Man Robbed God?" He is good; come out to hear him.

Our Sunday school is on the boom. We are growing all the time. Come and join us, and grow with us.

Is our Christian Endeavor growing? Sure. Come join us and we will assure you that you will be spiritually uplifted at every meeting. We meet at 7:00 o'clock every Sunday night.

The community gave a surprise pounding for our preacher Tuesday night of last week, which netted him $6.85 worth of groceries. The pounding terminated into a social meeting at the parsonage for both old and young. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves immensely.

Practice and plans for an awfully good Easter program here have been going on for several weeks. This program will be put on Sunday night. Don't miss it for it really is good.

Mrs. A. L. Duncan of Prattville is spending this week with her mother, Mrs. G. L. Phillips.

Mrs. Dorenda Dupree is seriously ill at her home, 228 Herron Street, Montgomery.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

The garden contestants are still at work, but unfavorable weather conditions may continue to keep them moving slowly. It has been definitely decided that the contest will end May 30th. This will give those persons with low places for gardens, a better chance.

That's What It Is

I saw a man the other day about to dehorn his cow. I didn't ask him why he was doing so, but jumped right in to assist him. The cow had unusual long, sharp horns, therefore, I decided that she must have been bad about goring other stock. As soon as the first one was amputated the man picked it up and exclaimed: "That's what it is." I asked him what, and he said it was "hollow horn" and that was why he was taking them off. Now listen, folks, there is no such disease or ailment as "hollow horn." Every normal cow that has horns has hollows in them.

In most cases a cow has been sick for some time and probably is recovering before we detect it. Then she gets well, in spite of the fact that her horns and tail have been cut off, and you tell me that you cured the poor thing. Don't take away her best defense against flies, mosquitoes, and other insects by cutting off her tail. See the veterinarian.

He Is A Pioneer

I had, as usual, a long chat with A. G. Gordon, chairman of the board of trustees, the other day on the development of our school and community. He is one of the pioneer farmers and school workers of the community. For years and years he has taken an active part in the promotion of the academic and vocational standards of our community and school. He has given his life for the training of the boys and girls in his community, and so far he is none the least a farmer. He said to me: "I will work as long as I am able to move and have my being."

Other men who have worked untiringly, for the development of the school are as follows: George W. Williams, another pioneer, Ben Brown and Ben Love. The outlook for the future is still bright because we have such men as W. A. Dickerson, Ralph Oden, Joshua McDaniel, Mose Brown, A. B. Craig, Richard Turpin and others who are serving on the board of directors.

P.-T. A. Meets

The P.-T. A met at the home of Adelle Austin last Friday. An interesting health program was carried out. A brief report of the P.-T. A. meeting at Montgomery was given by Mrs. Leila C. Woods. A large number of members and visitors were present. Among the visitors present were Mesdames Josie Knight, Mattie Wilson and L. C. Wood. The quilting project which has been under way for some time is now nearing completion. Announcement of the next meeting will be made later.—Benj. Anderson, principal and teacher of vocational agriculture.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mr. C. P. Jones, formerly of Birmingham, was surprised Sunday, April 9th, when he celebrated his 48th birthday at his new home, west of Clanton.

His guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dolphus Jones and family; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jones and family; Miss Bodia Jones, Miss Laura Jones, Mrs. E. E. Easterling and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Chancellor, all of Clanton.

Many useful gifts were received. Dinner was served at a late hour and all enjoyed the day.

MAPLE SPRINGS

The work on the church at this place is in full progress. There are about 20 hands at work on the building now. Most all of the framing is put up. Before this goes to press the building will be ready for the roof.

The pastor has never seen better cooperation any where. Even the ladies have been engaged in stacking lumber. This certainly proved a "mind to work."

All of the lumber has been cut and the weatherboarding is being kilndried. We will have it dressed probably today (Tuesday). We are grateful for any and all contributions that have been received. Many have promised to make contributions when they are needed. We will be able to use the same immediately.

Preaching services will be held at the home of J. R. Mitchell Saturday. There will probably be preaching somewhere in the community on Saturday night by the pastor.

The ladies have a quilt which they have been selling chances on, that will be disposed of during service Saturday. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the new building. Only one number will be drawn. If the one who holds the corresponding number is not present the quilt will be held for same.

There will be no service Sunday, is the suggestion of the church, since it is only a short distance to Poplar Springs, where the Easter singing will be held.—Pastor.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. DOCIA CAMP

The people of this community and many of Clanton and Birmingham were very much saddened last Wednesday, April 5th, by the death of Mrs. Docia Camp, of Birmingham. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Devaughn.

Weep not, dear friends and loved ones, for we believe our loss is heaven's gain.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, Mr. Camp; one son, Mr. Leon Huckabee; one daughter, Mrs. Dovie Murrell; one granddaughter, little Patsy Ruth Murrell; all of Birmingham; Three brothers and three sisters; Mr. O. L. Devaughn, Mr. H. M. Devaughn and Mr. E. H. Devaughn, all of Clanton. Mrs. G. S. Mims, Mrs. J. R. Mitchell of Clanton, and Mrs. H. L. Gentry of Columbus, Georgia.

She was sick only a few days but all was done for her that loving friends and doctors could do. She was 49 years old and had been a faithful member of the Baptist church since early childhood.

She was in a hospital in Birmingham at the time of her death. The funeral was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. R. Mitchell, with Martin from Clanton in charge. Rev. S. J. Ezell from Clanton conducted the funeral. Burial was in the Maple Springs cemertery. Written by a niece, Lera Mae Mitchell.

MAPLE SPRINGS

The people are still busy getting ready to build our church back.

Those who helped last week are as following: Elbert Bowles, Ocie Devaughn, Oliver Glenn, Jim Mitchell, Alonza Davis, Marvin Kelley, Will Davis Newt Mims, Emmitt Wilson and others.

Miss Lera Mae Mitchell was the Friday afternoon guest of Miss Evelyn Downs.

Mr. Oliver Glenn was the Friday night guest of Mr. Audia Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Devaughn are the proud parents of a fine baby boy. Both mother and child are doing fine.

Miss Lillie Mae Davis has been visiting her cousins, Misses Jessie and Pearl Davis.

Mr. Arnold Glenn had as his all day guest Sunday Mr. Cecil Wilson.

The singing at Mr. Shirley Davis's Saturday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Mr. Oliver Glenn was the Saturday night guest of Mr. Tom Mims.

Mayor J. Lee Smith and Mr. W. J. Headley of Pinedale left last week for Hot Springs, Ark., where they will take the hot bath treatments. A letter from Mr. Headley says they arrived safely and will finish their course about April 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan of Charlotte, N. C., visited his grandmother, Mrs. G. L. Phillips, last Sunday.

HOW TO BE SAVED

Jesus said (Jno. 6:44-45) that all should be taught. No man can come to Christ unless he is taught of God. But to be taught by the words of the apostles of Christ is the same as to be taught of God, for Christ said that whosoever would hear His apostles would hear Him and His Father. The New Testament is the teaching of the apostles of Christ and shows us plainly how to be saved in coming to Christ. There are certain steps to take in order to be saved. These steps are not steps devised by man's wisdom, for the way of man is not in himself. It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps. (Jere. 10:23). But the word of the Lord is a lamp and light to show man the way to Christ.

The word of the Lord plainly teaches that without faith it is impossible to please God. (Heb. 11:6). And except man repents he shall perish, (Lk. 13:3-5); (Acts 17:30-31). Except man confesses Christ, Christ will deny him before God. (Matt. 10:32-33). Except man be born of water and of the spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven. (Jno. 3:3-5). But when anyone faithfully, earnestly and honestly takes all the steps of believing, repenting, confessing Christ and is buried by baptism into Christ (Rom. 6:3-6; Gal. 3:27) for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38) he is saved from his past sins. This is admitted by all preachers, or teachers of the New Testament.

In my travels and visits to seven states, I do not remember of having met any one who taught that a person who had faithfully taken all these steps was not a saved person; i.e., saved from his past sins. All admit that in taking these steps faithfully is pardoned of his sins. But the saved belong to Christ. They are His. (Eph. 1:22-23; Col. 1:18; Heb. 3:6). One must be in Christ. (Jno. 14:6). But we are baptized into Him. (Gal. 3:27). Baptism is the final step to take to get into Christ, into His death where His blood was shed for the remission of sins.

But of course such as have been baptized into Christ must abide in Christ. He that abides not in Christ is cast forth as a branch to be burned. (Jno. 15:1-6).

Those who are in Christ constitute the church which was bought with His shed blood. The same things that make a saved man make the man a member of the Lord's church. The Lord's saved are the Lord's church, the household of God, the family of God, the kingdom of heaven. Christ is the head over all things to this body, His church. Those who are in Christ are heirs, joint heirs with Christ, fellow citizens of the same kingdom, fellow soldiers, have parternership, fellowship, and the same God, Christ, spirit, and same word of God; the same promises, privileges and salvation. Let us set our affections on our heavenly home and hope to bask ourselves in the sunshine of God's eternal love.—R. L. Huffman.

The student who is to have the honor of being the most intellectual of his or her class has not been named. This item of the who's who is decided by the teachers.

Here is what we all have been waiting for since the "good old days." Next Friday, April 21, at 8 p.m., the Senior II class will present the annual undergraduate play. The name of this play is "Shy Girl." The name itself signifies that the play will be one full of laughter and fun. It is the story of two boys, one who is girl shy and one who is not, at a modern college. Everything is modern except the old dean and the negro wash woman. The girl, whom the father of the girl shy boy wants his son to marry come to the graduating exercises with the dad. Here serious and humorous complications follow when the girl shy boy hires a real vamp to pose as his fiancee while the home town girl is at the college. Watch for more announcements later and for your entertainment, music and songs and a black faced comedy will be presented before the play and between the acts all for only 15 and 25 cents. Come on; show that real school spirit and come.

It has been a long time since the auditorium has been packed. Next Friday night is our chance to show Clanton how to back their school.

Come on you graduating Seniors. Do you want to have a rollicking good time when the Juniors entertain you? Good! Be at the school house next Friday night as one big class and set an example of school spirit for your subordinates to look up to.

Last Wednesday Mr. Varnell, science instructor, took his chemistry class on a very interesting and instructive trip to the cotton mill. The entire class was shown over the cotton mill and its operation was explained.

A class for tap dancers and other branches of this graceful art would not be a bad investment in some respects.

The Senior III class is very busy now selecting rings, caps and gowns, class historian, class poet, etc., for commencement exercises. This is a big moment in their lives. Some are leaving high school and stepping in the wide world with its ups and downs, while others are jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

Here are the Junior II's who's who: best all around, Juanita Miller; most dependable, Paralee Henson; most popular Jane Pitts; most beautiful girl, Geraldine Deloach; best looking boy, Julius Martin; neatest, Edith Parrish; cutest Frances Foshee; most loyal, Margie Nell Jones; best athlete, Horace Vinson; Wittiest, Mildred Easterling; most original, Mary Ruth Goodman.

To Joe Vonderveer and Earl Ellis come a load of thanks and appreciation.

Weird and mysterious happenings took place at the high school last Thursday night. On that night, memorable to two students, the "C" Club completed the initiation of two new members. These two boys were James Dennis and Morgan Reynolds. James got his letter playing basketball this year and Morgan earned his while serving in the office as manager.

Are our class elections such as for who's who and clas sofficers corrupted the same as public elections are? This would be a good training for some future politicians of the same color as several of our high state officials. Let us hope that our elections are not of this nature. The future of America rests on the shoulders of the youth of today and the habits he or she learns in high school will remain with him throughout his life.

Why walk a block to buy your candy when you can get just as good, if not better here at the school and at the same time display your school spirit.

Five thousand words. Just think it over, FIVE THOUSAND.

Are redheads, tempers and wildcats consistent?

People come and people go.
Where my paper went I do not know.

The school seemed rather masculine last Friday. Almost all the members of the fairer sex went to Montevallo to the state wide field day at Alabama College. Miss Griffin carried her home economics girls and her physical education girls to attend this meet. This was very instructive to them in a number of ways. Miss Griffin wishes to thank those who so kindly provided transportation to Montevallo.

I wonder how many of us realize the importance that no minute should be wasted now. Too few I fear. Final examinations are only a few weeks off and along with them come several plays and other attractions. We must be prepared for our examinations yet we musn't become sour.

We certainly are proud to have Miss Hilda Hart in our midst as a student at C. C. H. S. Hilda entered a music contest at Montevallo at the state play day and emerged with the honors of third place. Congratulations Hilda. This contest was state-wide, and third in the state is nothing to scoff at.

Here come these Seniors with some more of their originality. Instead of the usual routine at their class night, which will take place some time in the near future, they have something new for us in the form of a playlet. The name of this entertainment is "Seniors at the Bar." This promises to be really good.

MY EXPERIENCE WITH WHISKEY AS ADVICE TO OTHERS

I am a man of twenty-five years of age. I have drunk whiskey every since I was twelve years of age. I did as I pleased, had money to spend any time I wanted it. I set a fast pace from the time I was twelve years of age, until I was eighteen, then I decided to see the world.

Well, I saw as much as any man around here, and still drink whiskey. I returned home at Clanton at the age of twenty-two—still drinking whiskey. I stayed home six months before I married. Well, I still drank whiskey. I got in lots of trouble. My wife paid me out of it all. She told me she was going to quit me if I didn't stop drinking; still I kept drinking. Then we separated.

Then, I went to her and lied—told her I would stop drinking if she would live with me. But I did not stop. We separated several times. Each time I would tell her the same story, and she would try again. But the last drunk I pitched, she left me, and now at the age of 25, I have been taught by final lesson. She will not believe I have quit drinking. She says she is done with me for good. She has lost all her confidence in me.

So, boys and men, of everywhere, let my experience be a lesson to all of you. Don't let whiskey come in between you and your loved ones. It will wreck your life. You may think you will get by, but it will get you some day. So, when you touch the bottle, think twice before you touch it to your lips. It will wreck your life, home and family. So, just think, think before you drink.—Darvin S. Giles.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Miss Emma Jene Cobb, of Jemison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb, is in the hospital, recovering from an operation of last week.

Mr. Hollis Franks is improving steadily. He underwent a serious operation for appendicitis some weeks ago.

Rev. D. S. Martin, of Equality, father of J. Mell Martin, is in the hospital for medical treatment.

Mr. E. B. Mills, merchant, of Billingsley, is in a serious condition following an operation for appendicitis.

James Deramus, 14-year-old son of J. B. Deramus, of Haynes, was brought to the hospital Monday morning with lockjaw. His condition was much improved Tuesday night.

James Cleckler, son of William Cleckler, was brought to the hospital Tuesday suffering from inpjuries received when struck by an automobile. The accident happened on the highway in South Clanton. Injuries were not serious and the boy was discharged after receiving treatment.

Mrs. Tom Collins went home Sunday.

Mrs. G. W. Cooper went home Sunday.

STAR FALLS FROM TRAPEZE 80 FEET ABOVE CIRCUS RING

Death-Defying Leap One Of Thrills in New Marion Davies Film

The most breath-taking and spectacular circus fall ever filmed is one of the thrilling climaxes in Marion Davies' new starring vehicle, "Polly of the Circus," to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre, Friday and Saturday, April 14th and 15th.

A complete circus tent was erected at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios for the production, with the stands of seats, rings in the center and at the very top a dizzy perch for the aerial acrobats. Miss Davies, as a member of the death-defying troupe, was required to swing through the air at a height of 80 feet from the ground to connect with another trapeze on the other side of the tent.

Special camera stands and microphone equipment were constructed on a large boom that followed Miss Davies as she swung through space. Part of the action required that she miss the trapeze when a loud yell in the audience distracts her attention. By special placing of the cameras above, below and with the boom parallel with the star, a closeup is shown of her actual missing the bar and then the horrifying hurtling through the air to what looks like almost certain death.

According to Director Alfred Santell, the results obtained in this scene are the most realistic of any "falling" scene ever attempted at the M-G-M studios.

Appearing in the strong supporting cast are Clark Gable, C. Aubrey Smith and Raymond Hatton.

MISSION STUDY LIBRARY BEING ACCUMULATED

The Woman's Missionary Union of the Chilton County Association in a previous meeting voted to establish a mission study library. This is to be a circulating library for the purpose of furnishing free books to those who would like to put on a mission study course. I am writing to ask all who will to either contribute their old books on hand or to donate the price of a book, which is usually about forty or fifty cents.

You might bring or send them to me at the quarterly meeting at Pleasant Grove No. 2 on April 20th. As your mission study chairman I hope to have the cooperation of everyone who is interested in establishing a well balanced list of books. Assuring you of my appreciation, I am, yours truly,—Eula Foshee, Thorsby, Ala. Route 1.

Walter L. Culp has moved back to Clanton from Bessemer and plans to open a radio, gun and key shop as soon as he can find a suitable location.

ENTERPRISE 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Enterprise 4-H club held its regular meeting last Saturday night at the home of Bob Boyd. The officers are as follows:

Leonard Eiland, president; Frank Hill, vice president; Quinton Boockholdt, secretary and treasurer; Cecil Yeargan, club reporter; Mr. D. B. Adams, leader. Other members of the club are: Tom Lett, Clovis Rushing, Bob Boyd and Harry Boyd.

At this meeting the projects of the members were discussed. Each member has one acre of cotton for his project.

Two meetings each month will be held. One business and one social meeting. The business meeting will be held the first Saturday night in each month. Everybody is invited to these meetings.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Health is very good in our community at present.

Our Sunday School is still progressing. There was a large crowd attended Sunday school. Everybody had a good lesson. We got one new member. We sure do thank the people for being with us and helping us out in our Sunday school and prayer meeting.

We sure had a good prayer meeting Sunday night. The next prayer meeting will be the next fourth Sunday night. Mr. Ray Thompson is going to conduct the service.

Next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching days; also we wish to hold the Ladies Aid at ten o'clock on Sunday morning; so, everybody come and bring someone with you.

Remember our Sunday school in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Come with a well-studied lesson, bring someone with you, and be on time.

"—my skin became clear"

—wouldn't you like to be able to say this, too? Then pause a moment and reason . . . skin affections usually result because of lowered resistance from below the skin surface. Then help the blood that purifies the skin, by increasing its red-cells and restoring the vital oxygen-carrying hemoglobin in these cells so that more vitality comes to the tissues. This will increase the ability of the blood to devour infectious pimple germs.

That is just what S.S.S. does—proved by tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of thankfulness.

"Shall I use a good soap?"—certainly—"and cosmetics?"—naturally, but first observe Nature's law and lay the sound foundation from underneath the skin.

S.S.S., in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient. Try a course of S.S.S. and note the constant improvement.

All Ah know is Whut de Bible say Bout Hit.

Subject: "Final Consummation

"And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal." Matt 25:46. When the Alabama Power Company started work on the Coosa River on their first project their engineers had already completed the plans for the whole plant. These plans and specifications were complete in every detail, and after a long arduous task, the dam and powerhouse were completed, and the machinery placed. All things were now ready for a start to produce current to light houses and drive the wheels of industry.

The Panama Canal was one of the greatest of all the undertakings of men. Hundreds and hundreds of men, and almost countless numbers of machines worked for years, but finally the job was complete and the great steamships started their regular passage through it.

All great undertakings are carefully planned beforehand, and every detail worked out so that there would not be a great expenditure of time and money and then run up against something that couldn't be overcome and the whole thing come to naught.

One of the hardest things for the human mind to grasp is the fact that there will be an end to this world. The fact that it has stood for thousands of years tends to cause men to believe it will continue to stand indefinitely. I think some time that this attitude is the real reason that some will not hear the gospel and get right with God.

The picture drawn by our Lord in the 25th chapter of Matthew of the judgment could have been drawn by no one but Him. He was perfectly familiar with the plan. He knew every detail of the whole from its first conception to the last act, which would complete the plan of our redemption. Notwithstanding the fact that some believe differently, it is one of the details of this great plan that we shall use the time here to get right with God.

Just suppose the Alabama Power Company had erected their great dam and impounded the water before cutting the timber that would be covered, could they have cut the timber? No, they cut the timber first, thereby carrying out the plan in every detail.

Some contend that after we have lived out our time here, making no preparation whatsoever, we will have time in the millenium to get right with God. In studying the plan from its conception to its consummation, I cannot but feel that to place repentence out beyond this life into the millenium is a misplacing of detail or changing the plan.

In Matthew 4:17 Jesus said: "Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." On the day of pentecost after Peter had preached that great sermon he was asked the question, What shall we do? Peter said unto them, "Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Christ, for the remission of sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit."

Another changing of the plan is found in the belief of some, that all will be saved, but the fact that the text says, "And these shall go away into the everlasting punishment—," is all that is necessary to prove the error. This is universalism, which argues that as in Adam, all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive again; or that Adam's trangression brought death and destruction upon all men then through the obedience of Christ to the death of the cross everybody was placed back into favor with God and so saved. But Christ, looking down through the ages, saw saved and unsaved men stand before Him in the judgment. If not, why was some placed on His left?

Now, let us look at the last part of our text, which says, "But the righteous into life eternal." This word "eternal" means without end—everlasting, back to my first illustration. The end in view in the expenditure of such a vast sum of money by the Alabama Power Company was to prefect a plan whereby they could supply electricity to their patrons indefinitely. God's great plan of redemption for lost men was laid and executed to supply happiness and contentment indefinitely. Blessed are those persons who have believed the gospel and are safe in Jesus Christ.

Let us not become weary, let us hold on to our profession, and when His great plan of redemption is finally completed we will come into our own—that eternal life which the world of sinful men refuse to accept. Sinners, now is the time to accept. Don't believe the things that are taught by some, but read the Bible for yourself. Then you will have the plan of redemption first hand. Will you read it today and act? God's blessing be upon you.—Elder Blossom.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

That the United States Senate will confer no dictatorship on President Roosevelt, at least so far as international affairs are concerned, was evidenced the other day by the outburst of feeling which greeted the newspaper reports that the administration would now insist that the much discussed and much argued World Court resolution be reported out of committee and passed. So great was the commotion that the sponsors of the resolution postponed action in the committee for a week, and serious doubt was expressed by several senators as to whether or not the Senate would have a chance to vote on the resolution during this session of Congress.

The principal objection to spending the time of the senate with the World Court just now is that there are so many more important matters which should be considered. With 12 million Americans jobless, and a great many of the nation's banks in the hands of conservators, with rail and farm problems yet to be solved, a great many statesmen in both parties are of the opinion that the question of whether or not Uncle Sam enters the League Court can well be left for the future to decide. The League of Nations has lost a great deal of prestige during the past few months, culminating with the withdrawal of Japan, which even the French, who control the League, admit was "unfortunate," and the League Court has lost prestige along with the parent body.

Perhaps the most significant thing about the newly developed opposition to the World Court movement is the fact that a great deal of this opposition comes from Democrats and Independents who supported Mr. Roosevelt very effectively during the 1932 campaign. Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, dean of Republican progressives, who aided Mr. Roosevelt, was outspoken in his opposition to considreation at this time. Senator James Ham. Lewis, the cultured Democratic senator from Illinois, declared, "This is no time to call up League Court protocols. Events of the world give warning to the United States that it should make no alliances or compacts to give other nations a voice of authority in directing affairs of the United States."

Senator Dill, liberal Democrat, declared of consideration of the World Court resolution: "It can only lead to confusion and delay economic recovery. It is my conviction that if the question was submitted to a popular vote 75 per cent of the American people would vote against it." According to one newspaper, several of the newly seated Democratic senators are against ratification of the League Court resolution. Among those specifically named were McCarren of Nevada, Bone of Washington, Russell of Georgia, Dieterich of Illinois and Lonergan of Connecticut.

Washington political observers attached significance to an editorial which appeared on the front page of the Washington Herald, William Randolph Hearst's morning paper, the day following the announcement that the World Court resolution was about to be taken up and considered. The Hearst newspapers were among the most active and consistent supporters of Roosevelt and Garner in the 1932 campaign. Under the caption "This Is No Time for League Court Folly," the Herald said:

"Senate Democrats will jeopardize the success of the Roosevelt program for the restoration of prosperity if they attempt to jam through the ratification at the present special session of the League Court protocols.

These protocols do not provide any relief for our twelve million unemployed fellow citizens. These protocols will not reopen any of our closed banks or release to depositors any of their hard-earned savings which are tied up in these banks. These protocols will not purge our banking system, nationalize our transportation system, reduce our unemployment, rehabilitate the American farmer or relieve the American taxpayer.

"To attempt the ratification of the League Court protocols in this national emergency would plunge the senate into a prolonged debate and divert the minds of the American people from their own pressing problems to the political quarrels of Europe and Asia.

"To force the United States into the League of Nations by the trap-door of its Court at the very time when Japan is leaving the League through the front door, would be an act of national folly that could and should cost the Democratic party the control of the House in 1934 and control of the Senate and presidency in 1936.

"It would seem that the idol of gold has feet of clay."

A SUGGESTION TO THE RED CROSS

A friend and supporter of the Red Cross in Chilton County suggests that it would be in order to issue a word of friendly warning to the local administrators of relief measures that they exercise every possible degree of caution to guarantee that relief is extended to those who really need it—and to those alone.

We are, of course, not in position to say that there has been any miscarriage of the purposes of the Red Cross in administration of its relief measures. We have no facts upon which to surmise such. We mention the matter not for the purpose of criticism, but because it is certainly the purpose of the Red Cross to help the needy, and them alone.

Those who give of their means to support the Red Cross are watching to see how the business is carried on. The Red Cross purpose is to do its work in a manner that will make those who support it feel that they are supporting a worthwhile institution.

The Red Cross surely can not be run exactly to please every person who supports it. Nobody would expect that. But there is a means of determining who is entitled to and worthy of help and who is not. There can be no excuse for laxity or inefficiency on such a vital point.

We feel that local administrators of Red Cross relief measures will welcome the suggestion of their friends and friends of the Red Cross in such important matters as this. And further, we would suggest to those who may know of anything that should be brought to the attention of he Red Cross officials, that they take it in confidence to the proper authorities.

NEED OF CO-OPERATION —

Mr. Julian, Democratic committeeman from Ohio, says Governor Roosevelt "has need of much cooperation," which is true. Mr. Julian also believes "the same type of assistance accorded to President Wilson during the World War must precede the emergence of America from depression."

If there is to be repetition of that "type of assistance," Heaven save Uncle Sam.

President Wilson received very complete cooperation, shipping 3,000,000 Americans to Europe and ten thousand million American dollars, spending a billion on airships that wouldn't fly, a billion on floating ships that never went to sea and other billions on "cost plus contracts" under which "the more you charged Uncle Sam for raw materials the more you made."

The country is now staggering to pay for and live down the "type of assistance" that President Wilson used so lavishly. The kind Lord forbid another dose of it.—Washington, (D. C.) Times.

MORE LIGHT ON SECURITIES

If the plan to safeguard the sale of securities to the public in the future can accomlish one thing it will be worth enacting—and that one thing is protection of the public against the flotation of foreign bonds of doubtful value in the United States. Certainly the dumping of what turned out to be "blue sky" foreign securities in the United States was one of the fruitful causes of the hard times which now assail us. A look at the quotations of foreign issues now will be ample proof of this statement. Of course domestic securities have shrunk, too, but the man who bought them at least has the satisfaction of knowing that his money remained in the United States.

According to dispatches from New York, a part of Wall Street is inclined to be cool toward securities legislation, and one of the principal causes for coolness is said to be the effect it will have on the sale of foreign securities in this country in the future. It is said it is not likely that American investment houses can underwrite and guarantee every statement made by foreign governments and foreign interests about their securities issues.

All of which is right to the point, and reputable securities salesmen in the future will certainly not want to sell to the trusting public anything which they cannot guarantee as a sound and safe investment.

Purveyors of foreign securities in the United States have certainly reaped a harvest in the United States since the war. But for the investors themselves it has been a harvest of thistles.

Another fact worth mentioning is that it is the same international financiers who sold foreign securities in the United States who are now demanding that foreign governments be relieved of what they owe Uncle Sam by cancellation and the amount be transferred to the shoulders of the American taxpayer. There is nothing unselfish in this argument. They know that relieving the foreign governments of the debt owed Uncle Sam will make it easier to collect on the private debts over there and so hasten the day when it may again be possible to float foreign securities at a huge profit for the international bankers handling the deal.

But the American people have longer memories than they are credited with and it is likely that a new generation of investors will have to mature before there is another orgy of speculation here in foreign securities. And certainly any legislation calculated to put the sale of securities on a higher plane will have its effects on the foreign security racket.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All— Overlooks None

"It's A Poor Rule—"

During the last few days quite a few people were surprised to find that they could not get the cash for their certificates for attendance at court, although they were due and payable. One man from another county, after trying to get his certificates cashed, had this to say: "I read somewhere not long ago that Chilton County was one of the few counties in Alabama which could pay its accounts as they came due; now I find they can't even pay a measley little witness certificate. Why?" Several people have inquired about this matter in like manner. And here's the answer. On September 30, 1930, the Commissioners Court voted to transfer $7,000 from the Fine and Forfeiture Fund to the General Fund, which practically broke the Fine and Forfeiture Fund. Due to this action, the sheriff's department had to make itself self-sustaining, which it did until recently, when money became scarce and more and more people took to working out fines instead of paying them. And due to some quirk in one of the crazy laws of this sovereign state, the state only pays the county about one-fifth of the fine in cases of this kind, so it can be easily seen why there is no money in the Fine and Forfeiture Fund, from which court costs are paid. And, furthemore, due to another one of these crazy laws, it has been found that the Commissioners Court is not allowed to transfer the $7,000 back from the General Fund to the Fine and Forfeiture Fund. There's something rotten somewhere. "It's a poor rule that won't work both ways."

Sam Collins Will Wed

I met Sam Collins on the street a few days ago, and he had a big smile all over his face. Sam is generally a right serious kind of a guy, so I inquired as to why he was so unusually merry. Here's his answer: "You can tell 'em old Sam is going to marry." I was just a bit surprised at old Sam going all haywire like that, but I guess it must be the truth, because he called me over a few days later and wanted to know why I didn't mention it last week. He is serious enough about it. So don't be surprised if you hear that Sam is married. I don't know who the better half will be—he wouldn't tell me—but we'll know pretty soon. Well, here's wishing for Sam a pleasant and smooth voyage on the sea of matrimony.

Puttin' On the Dog

Clanton is getting to be more like New York every day. Now we even have a chauffeur driven motor in the city. You haven't seen it? Then I will describe it. So far as the running gear is concerned, it looks about like any other car of its particular make. The body is painted a number of different colors; the shape and fine appointments of the body are what make it so different. The top covers only the rear seat, which is cut off from the driver's compartment with a glass partition. The driver's seat is not covered, but an emergency curtain is attached, so that in case of rain he can cover himself. The owner told me he was considering having a speaking tube installed. Now, don't go looking for something grand when you look for this car. The owner is Chester Wingard, the car is an old Model T with an old coupe top set on top of a touring body, and the coupe windshield serves as the glass partition I mentioned above. The owner expects to make his speaking tube from an old telephone transmitter, a piece of garden hose, and the big end of a fertilizer horn. Some class to that outfit.

Jess and Buck

If you happen to come around and want anything that Buck Gore has, you can always get it—rest assured of that. You may find Buck's door closed, but that makes no difference. He keeps about half his stock on the sidewalk, anyway, so look it all over and see if you find what you want. If so, just call Jess Baker (his store is next door) and he'll fill your needs from Buck's stock. That's a curious arrangement, whereby one merchant moves his stock to the outside of his store and then goes fishing or to take a nap or something, and the next-door merchant takes care of his business while he is gone. But it is a fact. I caught Jess Baker at it, even going so far as carrying a package all the way across the street to weigh it. What would you call it when one merchant sells another's goods for him, and uses another merchant's scales to weigh it. Is that brotherly love? Or maybe that's what is known as cooperation.

Patriots—or Just Soldiers

According to "Doug," in his "Round Town" column in the Chilton County News, there are two classes of war veterans—patriots and ex-soldiers. You know our new president has cut off all pensions of war veterans, except as may be especially granted; this new rule to take effect in the near future. And "Doug" comes by to urge all ex-soldiers who may have their pensions lopped off to stop their griping and ACT LIKE PATRIOTS. In other words, if you went over the pond and faced the bullets and bayonets and have been drawing a little pension in recognition of that heroic act, and if you now have that pittance cut off, you are asked to take it on the chin without a murmur. "The king can do no wrong." If you take your medicine and say nothing, you will be acting LIKE A PATRIOT; but if you don't like the idea, then you're just another ex-soldier. LIKE A PATRIOT! Indeed! If a man isn't a patriot who left his job, donned the khaki and tin hat, shouldered a Springfield, stood in mud to his knees in the trenches, ate hard-tack and canned horse meat, crept from one shell hole to another as he sought to advance across "No Man's Land," sometimes in the dead of night, who placed himself as a human target, and suffered many other hardships and dangers—if that man is not a patriot, then I would like to have someone drive by and tell me what a patriot is. I believe such fellows are patriots—have proved themselves such already, even if they do murmur a bit at having their pensions cut off. They did their duty by this country, and they have every right to expect like treatment in return.—Man in the Moon.

A CHANGE OF VIEW —

Politics is the profession of quick changes in methods and conduct. Sometimes the change is so sudden and inconsistent that it would be amusing if conditions were not so serious.

During the four years of President Hoover's administration there was consistent baiting of the administration from the opposition. The Democratic National Committee conducted a campaign of poison gas against the chief executive that was unique but complete and effective. This was regarded by the opposition to the administration as smart politics. Whether it was smart or not, it was at least effective, although of course nobody will ever know how much of President Hoover's defeat for re-election was due to the efforts of his Democratic opponents and how much to the depression.

But now the shoe is on the other foot, so to speak. The Democrats are in the saddle and there is a Democratic president in the White House. The Democratic leaders in the House and Senate who enjoyed so much firing their verbal stink bombs at President Hoover have now become the doughty champions of defending the sanctity of the White House. There must be no partisanship, they say. Conditions are too serious for that. The administration program must be swallowed without batting an eye. The old days of accepting things without doting an "i" or crossing a "t" have come back to us again—for the first time since the Wilson administration when the war crisis was the basis of non-political bi-partisan support.

There is of course much in what the Democratic leaders have to say to the effect that times are too serious for mere partisanship on fundamental issues. The remarkable thing however, is the way in which they have reversed their views on this subject since the fourth of March. What they regarded as good support before that date has now become anathema.

Of course politics is a game indulged in by the statesmen of both political parties. Mr. Hoover got support from constructive Democrats during his efforts to halt the depression just is President Roosevelt has been getting constructive support from Republican sources.

The duty of Republican leadership is now plain. It is to support constructive measures of the administration and to fight to defeat unsound measures, offering sane and reasonable substitutes for these. Standing by the president in time of economic stress is laudable and proper but cannot go to the length of shutting one's eyes to measures which do not deserve support, if any of these should happen to be offered.

In the meantime there is something almost laughable in the way that certain Democratic leaders have suddenly discovered, since the fourth of March, that it is unpatriotic and reprehensible to criticize any expressed action or thought of the president.

THE EMBARGO PROPOSAL —

There is increasing doubt among American statesmen as to the advisability of giving blanket authority to the administration to declare an arms embargo against any nation which might be termed the aggressor in hostilities breaking out in any part of the world. While Congress has been asked by the administration for general authority to declare an embargo, there is little question that the present inspiration for the requested authority grows out of the trouble in the Orient between Japan and China. Nothing might be better calculated to bring real trouble between Japan and the United States than the application of such an embargo whether or not Uncle Sam was acting in conjunction with European nations.

The reason for this is that if Japan chose to fight—and such an embargo could be regarded as an act of war—the United States with the Philippines and its other interests in the Pacific would be "holding the bag." We would have the most to lose in such conflict and would therefore be expected by European nations to bear the brunt of the fighting. And if our embargo aganst Japan were followed by the Japanese sezure of American ships, or the Philippines, by way of reprisal —what would there be to do about it except fight? Then we would find just how much the nations of Europe would be really willing to do for us—and the answer would probably be "nothing."

There is no disposition on the part of those opposed to granting the president such authority to maintain or believe that Mr. Roosevelt would not use the power in a way which he regarded as wisely and conservatively. But things, especially in these days of distress, have a way of getting out of hand, even when we proceed with the very best of intentions. In speaking of the "embargo authority proposal," Mr. Tinkham of Massachusetts said in the House the other day:

"There is even more than this to the proposal. It takes away from Congress the power to impose an embargo. It gives the president the power to decide which nation is an aggressor nation. It makes the president a judge of foreign disputes. This means that the president can declare war. In effect, Congress abdicates its power to declare war, the greatest of its powers for the protection of the welfare of the American people. Parliamentary government becomes a mere form. We have in reality a dictator.

"The American people will not tolerate a dictator or fatuous policies like those adopted before the last European war—policies said to be policies of peace whereas they lead inevitably to war."

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

Let Us Hope It Comes True

Friend Dief is highly optimistic over prospects for the strawberry crop in Chilton Chilton County this year. Let us hope that a cog doesn't slip and upset his dope. He figures something like this: A minimum of 250 cars to be shipped from Chilton County; that is 75,000 crates; 40 cents a crate will return to the pickers $30,000; 50 cents profit per crate will net the growers $37,500; a total of $67,500 that may be considered clear profit turned into the family budget of hundreds of families. That ought to help out the situation wonderfully. And too, Dief insists that he has made figures that will represent the minimum according to present indications. He would not be surprised to see it pan out better than he has guessed.

Dief Knows His Berries

When Dief makes an estimate on the strawberry business, it is more than an idle guess. He knows something about the berry business. He has a right to know. If you think he don't, just write to any one of the high muckety mucks of the L. & N. Railroad, and they can witness it. And by the way, the strawberry shed is an established fact. It is ready for business. I passed that way Tuesday, and under the shed was piles and piles of berry crates, and nobobdy alarmed because it looked like rain.

Maplesville Ready For Shipping

Maplesville is making her bow to the strawberry markets this year for the first time on a considerable scale. Quite an extensive acreage in that section is bearing this year. I understand they will ship perhaps thirty cars this season. Thorsby, of course, is the old stand-by in this area. That section is one of the pioneer strawberry districts of Alabama. Thorsby will likely ship more than half the entire strawberry production of Chilton County.

Some Picking To Be Done

Somebody has got some picking to be done before our 300 car loads of berries are out of the way. If a person picked five crates a day it would take him 18,000 days to pick 300 car loads. Working 300 days a year, it would take him the sweet little lifetime of 60 years to pick the crop. If a thousand people were engaged in picking, it would take them 18 days to do up the job. The Clanton Association has agreed on a price of one and a half cents a quart for the pickers.

LAYING DOWN PRINCIPLES

Roger Babson, the highest authority on finance in America, has stated the following principles that should guide us in practical affairs:

1. The Spirit of Jesus is the spirit of honesty, courage, and service.
2. This is the spirit that should be applied in that world of affairs that we call business.
3. This is to be done so that any money gained should add to the wealth of the country, which could never be by gambling stock manipulation, or by unfair or dishonest methods.
4. The spirit of Jesus will demand that our dealings with our fellow men will make for their comfort and happiness.
5. The productivity of man depends more upon the spiritual life than upon physical or mental strength.
6. This spirit alone will solve the perplexing problems. Only more religion in the hearts of employers and employees will close the chasm between capital and labor. Both parties need to go the "second mile" as Jesus taught. Matt. 5:41.

SWANSON'S NAVY PROGRAM

Plans of the Secretary of Navy Swanson to gain the treaty ratio for the United States Navy, either by building up to the treaty of London limits or by inducing other nations to reduce their strength, is apt to be generally approved. The plans involve no inconsistency at any time in the past. The naval holiday was a guarantee of this nation's good faith in seeking general disarmament, but the slowness of other nations to follow suit constitutes a new fact in the situation.

This new fact seems to require a change in policy. If it is true, as naval experts assert, that the navy will be 135 vessels short by 1936 of the strength permitted by the London Treaty some method of equalization becomes highly desirable. Which method is to be adopted, as Secretary Swanson remarks, is a problem for the State Department.

Such action on our part, of course, constitutes no threat to any other nation and cannot be construed as a preparation of war. It is a simple defensive measure. The United States Navy is the first line of defense of the United States, a nation with one of the longest coast lines in the world, and a necessity for keeping open sea lines of communcation between its coasts. A navy adequate to the defense of that coast line and of our commerce, in proper proportion to the other fleets of the world, is necessary in a world which cannot yet rely upon treaties to maintain the peace.

Whether parity with the London ratios can be reached by the reduction method is a question to which positive answer cannot be given, but it seems improbable that efforts in this direction will be successful. It would be the sensible and logical method, particularly in view of the dislocation of the world's economic system which makes naval expenditure burdensome upon everyone. The world, however, does not run on logical lines.

Costly as the navy is, it is relatively cheap insurance, and this country cannot afford to let its insurance lapse. — Los Angeles Times.

ANOTHER BANKING BILL BY STEAGALL COMING MONDAY

Washington, April 7. — A banking reform bill based on the principle of the Glass banking measure and carrying a 100 per cent deposit guarantee plan will be introduced by Chairman Steagall of the house banking committee Monday.

The measure's principle was understood by the Alabama Democrat to have the approval of the administration.

In announcing the proposal after a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House, Steagall told newspaper men that Senator Glass (Democrat, Virginia) would introduce the measure in the senate.

Steagall called newspaper men to his office to make the announcement. He said the guarantee deposit plan was "in no sense a government guarantee deposit proposal."

A $2,000,000,000 corporation will be created to handle the guarantee deposit system, he said. It will have an initial capital of $500,000,000 with the right to sell obligations of $1,500,000, he said.

Although the government would contribute to the formation of the corporation, he said, it would not be [illegible] government corporation and [illegible] government guarantee of deposits.

"The bill will have regulatory provisions; will separate affiliates in about two years from banks and will separate investment banking from commercial banks," he said. "It will require a higher minimum capital of national banks increasing it from $25,000 to $50,000. It will provide for dismissal of bank officials who for any cause are found unfit to serve.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

PACKER OFFERS PRIZES TO ENCOURAGE 4-H BOYS

Chicago, Ill., April 11.—4-H Club members in this county enrolled in livestock projects will have the opportunity to compete for the grand prizes offered in the National Meat Animal Livestock Project Contest, according to an announcement by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work of Chicago, which is conducting it in cooperation with the state extension agents.

This popular contest sponsored for the fourth year by Mr. Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the National Committee and Chicago meat packer, has beeen of great value in interesting boys in club work and encouraging them to complete their projects in livestock, say club leaders. It has also been the means of helping many a worthy boy broaden his experience through winning educational trips and scholarships.

The county winner will receive a gold-filled medal of honor. The winning makes the club member elgible to enter the contest for state championship, for which a fine watch valued at $50 is awarded. The state champion's record is entered automatically for competition in one of the four extension divisions of the country in which the winner receives a prize trip to the Twelfth National Club Congress to be held in connection with the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, December 1-9.

Agricultural college scholarships will be awarded to three of the sectional winners. They are $300, $200 and $100 cash scholarships. The winners will be guests of honor at a grand entertainment given 4-H delegates and leaders during the Club Congress by Mr. Wilson.

SKIMMILK RATION LEADER IN TESTS

A cheap and efficient poultry ration can be built around skimmilk or buttermilk. This fact has been established by an experiment conducted here by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

A simple ration of yellow corn meal, mineral and skimmilk, plus grain and green feed, has given excellent results. The test has run three years during which five experiments have been conducted; and each time the milk ration has been the best of those tried.

Six lots of forty hens each have been used in each experiment. Yellow corn meal, grain, green feed and mineral have been the same in each lot. Skimmilk was compared with (1) meat scraps, (2) oat groats and meat scraps, (3) oats and fish meal, (4) oats and cottonseed meal, and (5) a commercial egg mash.

The skimmilk ration was the consistent leader in egg production, in returns per bird above cost of feed and in hatchability.

In these experiments the yellow corn meal, mineral (7 pounds bone meal and 1 pound salt), and milk was fed in self-feeders and available all the time. Grain was fed daily, late each afternoon. Green feed was supplied by feeding and by grazing.

LOVE OF COMFORT UNDOING OF MOTHS

Although moths are attracted to soiled woolen garments, they can, if necessary, make themselves quite comfortable in clean woolens, declares Miss Dorothy Dean, extension clothing specialist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

And many of the popular homemade remedies, such as allspice, black pepper, lavender, cayonne pepper, and borax do not keep them out. Miss Dean names two chemicals which may be obtained at most drug stores, the ingredient that makes moth balls effective, and paradichlorobenzene crystals. To kill moths about one pound of either of these chemicals is required for each 10 cubic feet of space.

Moths are comfort-loving animals and dislike sunshine and fresh air. They prefer dark places, says the clothing specialist. They dislike being disturbed and consider grease spots a delicacy. These habits are the undoing of the moths, for knowledge of them furnishes the housewife with the means of control.

Here is Miss Dean's recommendation for moth control: "For garments used only occasionally, air often in the sunshine, brush frequently, and keep clean. For garments that are to be stored for the summer season, clean thoroughly before storing carefully. To make doubly sure with these, enclose a repellent in each package."

LETOHATCHIE HUNTING CLUB REPORTS SEASON'S HUNTINGS

Montgomery, Ala., April 10.—The Letohatchie Hunting Club, one of the few sportsmen's organizations in the State that keeps a record of its hunts, reports one of its best seasons afield during the hunting year just closed and game plentiful for next year.

From November 20, 1932 through February 20, 1933, the open season on quail, the ten members of the club participated in 82 bird hunts on the 16,000 acre Letohatchie hunting preserve and bagged to total of 739 birds, an average of nine birds per hunt.

The club permitted 33 guest days and including the days visitors hunted there was one bird killed to every 21.5 acres. The season limit set for each member was 120 and only S. L. Yerkes and Harold McDermott reached the limit. A total of 454 coveys were spotted during the season.

The total number of game killed by the club members for the 1932-33 hunting season included 739 quail, 6 doves, 17 rabbits, 2 ducks, and 7 squirrels. The club has kept an accurate record of its hunts since the season of 1927-28.

Among the members are: W. W. Crawford, Jr., C. B. Ireland, Allan Johnson, Crawford Johnson, Jr., H. U. Simms, Theodore Swann, O. G. Thurlow and C. B. Weiss, most of them prominent businesas and professional men of Birmingham.

"Patroling of the property, reduction of vermin, replanting of birds to a limited extent, resulted in more birds on the property than we have ever seen; not only more coveys, but larger coveys," says Mr. Yerkes. "When the coveys were shot down to five or six, no further shooting was done, so that there is plenty of seed left for this year, and with anything like a decent hatching season, we should have plenty of birds next year."

Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the State Game and Fisheries Department commended the sportsmanship of the Letohatchie club members and recommends the club's system of record keeping to other hunting clubs of the State.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS
(By W. H. Eaton, Auburn)

This is a good time to have neat, attractive letter heads and bill heads printed.

Let's put the milk pitcher back on the table.

This is the spring cleaning season and it is never too late to begin. If cleaned properly, ditch banks, hedge rows and fence corners will add much to the attractiveness of the farm.

Is the farm entrance just another road? It may be made inviting and attractive by painting the gate—displaying the farm name—an attractive roadside bulletin board or a border of shrubs, flowers; or a Bermuda lawn might work wonders.

Warm weather will be on in a few weeks and with it hosts of germs and bacteria. Today is a splendid time to check over the refrigeration, sterilization and hot water systems, to be sure they are adequate for the summer's demand.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., April 11.—Sidney Whitt, Philidelphia, Pa., a senior in the College of Engineering, University of Alabama, has been awarded a Tau Beta Pi fellowship for next year. Whitt is one the six students in the entire United States selected for this honor.

The six scholarships are awarded by Tau Beta Pi, national scolastic engineering fraternity, to its own members. The stipend is $6.50 and is good for one year.

Whitt has selected Massachusetts School of Technology as the institution in which he will pursue graduate work. He is a mechanical engineer and will do graduate work on the production and distribution of energy.

Phi Delta Kappa, national professional fraternity for men in educaiton, will hold its spring initiation Saturday, April 15 at 6:30 p.m. in Alabama Union. At that time several new members will be taken into the order.

At the initiation dinner Dr. Edward Gregory, professor of sociology, will be toastmaster. Dr. Gladstone Yeuell head of the department of secondary education, will be principal speaker. C. E. Williams, assistant to the summer school director, will speak on the history of P. D. K. Prof. Wade H. Coleman will conduct the ritual; and Warren Maust and Mr. Vivian Payne will conduct the test on the constitution.

The Blackfriar Key Club will hold its final tapping of the season following the Tuesday evening performance of Barry's "Holiday," a regular Blackfriar production. Election to the Key club is the highest honor in dramatics on the campus. Officers are Melvin Israel, Tuscaloosa, president; Bert Weisel, Tuscaloosa, vice-president; Louise Smith, Bessemer, secretary-treasurer.

University of Alabama students will go to the polls Tuesday to select officers for the student association and various publications for the coming year. For the first time in years no run-off will be necessary as not more than two candidates are running for each position.

Walter Merrill of Anniston and Thomas Starlin of Columbus, Ga. are oppossing each other for the presidency of the student association. Reg Wallen of Earle, Ark., is unopposed for the vice presidency; and Moody Redd, Florence, has no opposition for secretary-treasurer.

Gould Beech of Montgomery is the lone candidate for editor of the Crimson-White, student weekly; Pinckney Pruitt of Tuscaloosa and Baxter Rittenberry, Homewood, will fight it out for the business-managership of the Crimson-White. Kenneth Roberts of Piedmont, Ala., will be approved for editor of the year book, the Corolla; and Marc Clements, Rover, Ark., is out for business managership of the Corolla. Lou Bereez of Boston and John Cain of Montgomery are seeking the presidency of the Cotillion Club.

The combined religious organizations of the University of Alabama are planning a united Easter Service for 8 a.m., Easter morning, in Denny Stadium. The program will include selections by the University band and glee club; and a sermon by some prominent speaker.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT IS THIRTY-SECOND PRESIDENT

The Man in the Moon of The Union-Banner and Doug of the Chilton County News have shoved out upon the innocent and unsuspecting public a very caustic question: The thing that makes it caustic is that both these famous columnists leave the problem unsolved—that is, unsolved so far as the satisfaction of the readers of the two papers are concerned. And every body and his brother read the papers and incidentally the Moon and Doug columns.

A friend of The Union-Banner volunteers to straighten out the aforesaid columnists on this intricate matter. The letter to The Union-Banner follows:

"In a recent issue of The Chilton County News, Doug appeals to The Man in the Moon for an expression concerning the said Doug's insistency that Franklin D. Roosevelt is our thirty-first president. Doug resorts to enumerating the list of presidents and reaches his conclusion. He claims to have been asked to "satisfy some folks" about whether our present executive is the thirty-first or the thirty-second president. But satisfaction is only satisfaction when it is served on the right premises. A recommendation is in order that this critic try again his job of enumerating the presidents. By a little effort a correct count may be made and the list be presented correctly in chronological order.

"A mneumonic, supplied by a friend, looks like nonsense on its face, but the acroistic makes the counting easier. It is passed on for what it might be worth to Doug and the Moon man and the public in general. From this you will certainly see that Franklin D. Roosevelt is the thirty-second president:

Another observer offers this suggestion to Doug and the Moon man: "Ask them who was the twenty-second and the twenty-fourth presidents? Ask them to name the presidents from Garfield to McKinley, and how many years each one served. One of these should be counted twice; wonder if they know which one? Doubt it, don't you."

UNION GROVE CHURCH

The pastor, Rev. J. Robert Bean, filled his appointment at Union Grove last Sunday night. Services were rained out Saturday night and Sunday morning. There was a splendid congregation present for services Sunday night.

The B. Y. P. U. has taken on new life recently. A fine program was rendered Sunday evening. New officers elected were: Alexander Vanderburg, Jr., president; Miss Winnie Kate Robinson, secretary; Miss Pearl Chandler, captain group No. 1; Miss Thomasine Dorminey, captain group No. 2. At the conclusion of the program Sunday evening a duet was rendered by Misses Edna Robinson and Jessie Dorminey, which was well received by the audience.

At the close of the preaching service four young men of the community sung a quartet, which was highly appreciated by the pastor and the audience. The young men are invited to come back any time they can, and sing.

County Commissioner, Joseph E. Cobb, of Jemison, was in Clanton Monday.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

The farm indebtedness of the United States is estimated at $12,000,000,000 by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

All agricultural credit machinery of the federal government has been consolidated into the Farm Credit Administration" with Henry Morgenthau Jr., as governor. It is estimated that the merger will save $2,000,000 annually.

Fifty-eight per cent of the federal money labeled as spent for agriculture is for highways.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

SIN AGAINST THE HOLY GHOST

One time Jesus found a man with a crippled hand. He healed the man. The ecclesiastical hierarchy said, in substance, "It is all right to heal a cripple, but the time is inopportune. Jesus should not have done this on Sunday." Later, Jesus cast a devil out of a dumb man. It could not be denied that He had done some good, but the same ecclesiastical crowd said, "His spirit was not right. He did this work in the name of Beelzebub, the prince of devils." That sounds like current literature. If a man in Christian work gets out of the rut and does a job a little different from the ecclesiastical way of doing it, he meets the same spirit that jesus met. The critics can't answer the good deeds and they have to say, "It wasn't the right time," or "the man didn't have the right spirit."

By the way, that reminds me. I have met people all over the world who thought they had sinned against the Holy Ghost. These people have read in their Bibles that there is no forgiveness for this blasphemy either in this age or in the age that is to come. I have known people to be terrified because they thought that they had sinned against the Holy Ghost. I am sure I have never known anyone guilty of this blasphemy. The sin against the Holy Ghost was the sin of the Pharisees when they attributed the work of Jesus to the devil.

You can't always tell what people mean by what they say. My friend, George Stuart, told me this story: "A little country boy, attending a country school, caught a bumble-bee. He put the bumble-bee in a little tin box and put the box in his hip pocket. He went to the schoolroom. The lid got off the box and the bumble-bee went to work. The boy couldn't sit still. "Keep still, Johnnie," said the teacher. "All right," replied Johnnie, I will." But he didn't. "Johnnie, didn't I tell you to keep still?" the teacher asked again. "Yes, you did, teacher, but there's something going on back here you don't know nothing about." If our enemies would only tell us why they don't like us instead of having something secret—something that we "don't know nothing about!"

I tell my boys and girls in the Bob Jones College to beware of unreasonable people. I know something about people. Good people are always reasonable. They may not always have intelligence. They may not be brilliant, but they are reasonable. Any man who holds an unreasonable attitude towards men or issues is fundamentally crooked. I am never afraid to trust reasonable people. I never trust unreasonable people.

Minister—Don't you ever attend a place of worship?

Youth—Yes, sir, I'm on my way to her house now.

PELLAGRA

(This is a paper read by Dr. C. O. Lawrence at a meeting of the R. F. C. committee on gardens last Saturday.)

Pellagra has been prevalent in Alabama for a long time and is not showing any evidence of decreasing in extent. Particularly of interest, therefore, is a recent publication of the United States Public Health Service dealing with this disease. This states in part:

"Pellagra is strictly a dietary disease and is caused by an inadequate supply of an essential food element which belongs to the class of accessory food principles known as vitamins. Pellagra results from a diet which does not permit a sufficient supply of antipellagric vitamins or vitamin G.

"The various foods and foodstuffs have been found to differ widely in the quantity of the antipellagric vitamin which they supply, and this makes variety in diet of the utmost importance in the treatment and prevention of pellagra. Some foods, such as fresh lean meats, liver, milk, canned salmon and commercial wheat germ, have been found to be so rich in this vitamin that the addition of a reasonable quantity of any one of them will effectively supplement an otherwise pellagra - producing diet; other foods, including eggs, canned haddock, dried peas, soy beans, dried milk, and tomatoes, have been found to possess considerable protective value, but must be consumed in relatively large, and often excessive, quantities when depended upon as the only or principal source of vitamin G; while still others, including corn products, wheat flour, rye flour, oatmeal, salt pork, lard and the commercial lard substitutes, butter, carrots, rutabaga turnips, mature onions, sweet potatoes, molasses, and white rice are such poor sources of this vitamin that they cannot be depended upon, regardless of the quantities or combinations consumed."

While we probably do not yet know all that there is to know about pellagra, we do know enough about the cause and prevention of it to practically wipe it out, and to make Alabama again free from this unnecessary disease. As it is brought on and kept up by improper food habits, it is well for my hearers to learn briefly the different characters of food and the parts they serve in the human economy.

There are three general classes of foods, the proteins, fats and carbohydrates.

The proteins are the most important. They are the builders and repairers of the body tissues. They consist of lean meat, poultry, fish, game, eggs, milk, and cheese, all known as the animal proteins, and of beans, peas, and germ or heart of grains, which are contained in whole grain flour and meal, but to a very small extent in white flour and bolted meal. While the animal proteins are the most valuable, they are unfortunately also the most expensive. Of the vegetable proteins, that found in the starchy potato ranks specially high in value.

The eating of protein foods in adequate quantity affords protection against pellagra. It has been found in public institutions that when the error is made of leaving out meats, milk, and other proteins, or of supplying them in insufficient quantities, symptoms of pellagra begin to develop amongst the inmates. These symptoms clear up when animal proteins are supplied.

Fats constitute the second main class of our foods. They consist of butter, suet, lard, olive and other vegetable oils, particularly cotton seed oil, which enters largely into the composition of compound lards under various commercial names. Egg yolk is rich in fats of equal value with butter, both of which are superior to the vegetable fats, which do not contain vitamins as do the animal fats.

Fats afford energy and form a valuable part of the diet, but do not protect against pellagra.

Carbohydrates, consisting of starches and sugar in all forms, constitute the third main class of foods.

Starch is a prominent constitutent of wheat, corn, and other cereals. White bleached flour and bolted corn meal have the germ of the grain, the principal part of the proteins, carefully removed, while the whole grain flour and meal retain the proteins. Whole grain bread is, therefore, of positive value as a part of the protection against pellagra and other deficiency diseases.

Starches and sugar yield energy and are valuable foods as far as they go, but must not be relied upon without an adequate amount of proteins and fats.

While the animal proteins, fats and starches with sugar, constitute the foundation of our diet, these alone as described do not constitute a well-balanced and adequate diet.

Meat in sufficient amount is essential in such a diet, but should not be used in excess, as is too often done in many families where they seem to think that most expensive foods are necessarily the best in every particular. Eating too much meat, especially after reaching middle life, may be as great a mistake as eating too little. An excess of meat throws upon the kidneys the extra burden of getting rid of the end products of it. It also has the reputation of hastening the hardening of the arteries of persons in advanced life, with high blood pressure and other results.

In the same way the excessive use of fats, starches, and sugar tend to produce stoutness. This was discussed in a recent talk on the cause and prevention of diabetes.

I do not want to burden you with a detailed description of other essentials in food, the vitamins and various mineral substances, further than to say that they are essential and must be provided for in planning the family and indivudual diet.

There are substances found in minute quantities in various foods, known as vitamins. Each kind of vitamin fills its own place in maintaining the health of the invividual. They are distinguished from one another by naming them vitamin A, B, etc., but it is not at all necessary for you to know just where each vitamin is found and just what duty each has to perform. It is important though to know the foods that are rich in vitamins as well as in the other essential elements.

The food which pellagra victims have attempted to live upon is also usually lacking in the necessary vitamins as well as other essentials of a balanced diet. In the rural sections, especially where the custom prevails of raising one crop, such as tobacco or cotton, tenant farmers and laborers are apt to neglect their gardens, fail to keep a cow, or even poultry, which may to a great extent maintain themselves and furnish excellent food in the shape of eggs and meat, valuable in keeping off pellagra. Instead of lean meat, eggs, and milk, they go to the store and buy fat bacon, molasses and bolted corn meal, often made from western spoiled grain. These are good foods as far as they go, but they do not go far enough.

An important part of the diet comes out of the vegetable garden, which every farm and town occupant should have. Even in the cities, there is room in many back lots for a garden, certainly so in the suburbs. Leafy vegetables, cabbage, lettuce, spinach, turnip and other greens contain vitamins and mineral substances essential for well-being, and should always be included in the daily menu. Of course, the potato will fill its place in supplying the starchy food. The tomato, however, I would class as the queen of garden vegetables. They should be planted at various times so as to have them during the summer. If green ones are stored in the basement before frost, they will continue to ripen to the end of the year. These are, however, not as valuable as those ripening on the vine in the sunlight.

I am saving milk, the best of all, for the last. Milk has no rival as food from infancy to old age. One quart a day with green vegetables will supply most of the vitamins and minerals needed for an individual. With these you may in addition eat just about what you want, but you should have a sufficient amount of lean meat, avoiding starches and sugar in excess.

Fruits, of which the apple is surpassed by none, should have a place. Again I will say let milk and leafy vegetables occupy the center of the table, around which cluster the other foods.

RESOLUTIONS SUBMITTED IN THE DEATH OF T. J. DEASON

In the passing of Rev. T. J. Dason from this life to the fuller and better above, we, the pastors of the Chilton-Unity Baptist Association bow in humble submission to "Him who doeth all things well." We wish to offer the following resolutions:

First—That we recognize his worth to the cause of Christ in the two associations in which he served long and faithfully:

Second—That we shall miss his council and fellowship in our various meetings:

Third—That we extend to the family our deepest sympathy in this, their great loss and sorrow and urge them to look to the God of all comfort for help.—J. W. Jones, Sec'y.

Mrs. J. H. Trotter of Martin Dam spent the week end here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Small and family of Gadsden were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Mullins.

Reuben Foss of Thorsby was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

JESUS TRANSFIGURED

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth. John 1:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus God's Son.
JUNIOR TOPIC—With Jesus on a Mountain Top.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Glory of Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of the Transfiguration.

In II Peter 1:16-18 is given an inspired interpretation of the transfiguration by one who was present and knew all that transpired. When Christ announced his death which was to take place on the cross, the disciples were greatly perplexed as to how victory could issue from death. Peter, James, and John accompanied Jesus into the mountain. They went there to pray (Luke 9:28).

In order to revive their drooping spirits and restore their confidence he was transfigured before them. Two men were sent from the realms above to talk with Jesus about his approaching death at Jerusalem (Luke 9:31)—the very thing about which the disciples had refused to talk (Mark 8:31-33). The transfiguration is, therefore, a foregleam of the coming Kingdom. It gives the outline of the order and method of the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom.

I. Jesus the King Glorified on the Mountain (vv. 2, 3).

He took the disciples "by themselves" and was "transfigured before them." This shows that the purpose of the transfiguration terminated upon the disciples and not upon Christ. Christ's rebuke to Peter for his unwillingness to hear concerning his death seemed for a time to estrange the disciples from him. His shining raiment was typical of that glory which shall be manifest when Christ comes back to earth. His appearance on the mountain typifies his visible appearance on the Mount of Olives (Zech. 14:4, 9).

II. Peter, James, and John Represent Israel in the Flesh in Connection With the Kingdom (v. 2).

Christ is peculiarly the King of Israel. According to Ezekiel 37:21-27, the Israelites are to be the central people in Messiah's Kingdom.

III. Moses and Elijah Appeared in Glory With Jesus (vv. 4-13).

These men in the glorified state are typical of the state of the saints in glory. Moses who was once denied an entrance into Palestine now appears in glory. He represented the redeemed of the Lord who shall pass through death into the Kingdom. Elijah represents the redeemed who shall pass into the Kingdom through translation. Some shall be living upon the earth when the Lord comes, who without dying shall be changed and thus pass into the Kingdom (I Cor. 15:50, 53; I Thess. 4:14-18).

1. Peter's proposal (vv. 5, 6). So definitely was the method of the Kingdom unfolded before Peter that he proposed to erect tabernacles, one for Christ, one for Moses, and one for Elijah. It is true that the unveiling of the majestic person of Christ somewhat disconcerted Peter, yet he grasped its central meaning and proposed to celebrate the advent of his Kingdom which had been prefigured in this tangible way.

2. The divine voice out of the cloud (vv. 7, 8). God declared Jesus to be his beloved Son in whom he was well pleased. The way to know what is pleasing to God is to study Jesus.

3. Christ's charge (vv. 9-13). He charged them that they should tell no man concerning the things which they had seen until he had risen from the dead.

IV. The Purpose of the Establishment of the Kingdom Demonstrated (vv. 14-29).

When they descended from the Mount of Transfiguration they witnessed a great multitude in a state of perplexity. The immediate cause of this state was the grievous condition of a young man possessed with a demon (v. 18), whose father had appealed to the disciples to cast out the demon, but they were unable to do so. When they brought him unto Jesus, the foul spirit was rebuked and came forth. This young man's state is representative of the nations who are grievously oppressed by the devil. Just as this young man was grievously oppressed, causing him to cast himself into the fire and into the waters, so the nations even today in their great perplexity are doing the things which will result in their own destruction. The devil will be peculiarly active in the oppression of men and nations in the last days.

Confess Christ

There cannot be a secret Christian. Grace is like ointment hid in the hand; it betrayeth itself. If you truly feel the sweetness of the cross of Christ, you will be constrained to confess Christ before men.—Robert McCheyne.

God's Revelation

Unless we muse much on God's revelation of his word, no fires of zeal for his glory will glow in our souls.—D. O. Shelton in The Bible Today.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Smith and little son, of Autaugaville, visited relatives here last week.

Miss Rubye Wright spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus, of Thorsby.

Messrs. Bill Davenport, Allen Waldrop and I. A. Waldrop attended court in Clanton Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clower, Jr., and little son spent the week end in Birmingham with relatives.

Messrs. Jasper Smitherman, Enoch Davenport, and Vasteen Davenport were Clanton visitors last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bellenger and Children returned to their home last Friday. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley. All went on to Cleveland Saturday to see their mother, Mrs. Ida Bellenger. All the children met for a family reunion.

Mrs. John Clower returned to her home Saturday, after an extended visit to relatives in Birmingham. She was accompanied home by her son, Mr. Lawrence Clower, of Birmingham.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Zuber, April 10, a baby. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Vasteen Davenport have moved to Pates Chapel community.

W. M. U. TO MEET AT PLEASANT GROVE SOON

The springtime meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Chilton County Baptist Association will be held at Pleasant Grove church, No. 2, Thursday, April 20th, beginning at 10:00 a.m.

"Launch Out in Enlistment," is the theme for the day. The devotion for the morning session will be, "Fishers of Men." Mark 1:1-20. The business session will be followed with five-minute talks from associational officers on "Enlistment" in relation to her phase of work.

Rev. Fred B. Pearson of Montevallo will deliver the inspirational address at the 11:00 hour. Box lunch will be served from 12 to 1 o'clock, with each society furnishing lunch.

The afternoon session will open with a devotional led by Mrs. A. D. Martin, subject, "Nevertheless at Thy Word." Luke 5:5-8. A special feature of the afternoon session will be a playlet, "The Woman Who Didn't Have Time," rendered by the women of the Pleasant Grove society. We hope to have every missionary society represented at this meeting with a large attendance.—Mrs. J. W. Jones, superintendent; Mrs. W. H. Raybon, secretary-treasurer.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

We have changed our meeting day back to the third Saturday night and Sunday. I will preach an Easter sermon here Sunday from the subject of a "Risen Christ." Let's all come to church filled with the spirit of Easter joy.—Pastor.

99 WETS AND A DRY WILL CAST MICHIGAN'S VOTE ON REPEAL

Lansing, Mich., April 7.—Michigan's constitutional convention — 99 wet delegates and a lone dry—assembled here Monday to make Michigan the first state to ratify the proposed amendment repealing national prohibitoin.

The result is predetermined, for the delegates were pledged before last Monday's election to vote in the convention in accordance with their avowed stands on the 18th amendment.

One hundred candidates pledged to retention of prohibition and 100 pledged to repeal were up for election. Only one dry delegate survived the avalanche of anti-prohibition votes.

ROOSEVELT CALLS A NEW CONFERENCE ON RAIL AID

Washington, April 7. — President Roosevelt has called in authorities on the railroad question for a conference Monday night to draft a relief measure.

The president has several other proposals not specifically related to railroads to take up with the leaders and he is known to be most interested now in finding ways and means of providing jobs to offset the recognized deflationary proposals already put into effect.

Mr. Roosevelt does not think the partially inflationary proposals such as the direct relief to states and the reforestation program have equalized the deflationary steps resulting from the closing of banks and the drastic economy program.

There is going to be no turning on of the printing presses to make money but the president thinks something more has got to be done to give more work.

He has in mind a huge public works construction program and other propositions.

He is also considering ways and means of paying out desposits in closed banks.

As for the thirty-four hour week bill passed Thursday by the senate, he is reserving judgment pending a study now in process by Secretaries Perkins and Roper.

The thirty-hour week proposal will receive considerable attention over the week end. When a conclusion has been reached the president expects Miss Perkins or Mr. Roper to present the administration viewpoint to the house early next week.

SINGING AT MONTEVALLO

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that there will be a singing at the Baptist church at Montevallo next Sunday afternoon, April 16, beginnig at 1:30 o'clock.

There will also be an all day singing at the Calera Jr. High School auditorium, Calera, Ala., the fourth Sunday in April, 23. More definite announcements will be made next week concerning the program.

SUNBEAMS TO MEET

The Sunbeams will have their meeting at the Baptist church on Friday afternoon, April 14th, at 3:30 o'clock. After the meeting there will be an Easter egg hunt in the Wilson Grove. The eggs will be furnished. Each child is asked to bring five cents to be put in the treasury. All children are invited and welcomed to come.—Mrs. Willie Bean, Leader.

PETITION TO CLEAR THE STORM DEBRIS FROM OAKMULGEE CREEK

Route 1, Lawley, Ala., April 11, 1933.

Whereas the cyclone of March 21, 1932, swept this swamp of virgin timber quite a mile wide for a distance of near five miles, coming out of Perry County up the creek swamp, some two or three miles into Chilton County, filling the creek channel with the huge masses of timber that stood along its banks,

And whereas, the creek channel is filling to overflow the entire swamp,

And whereas, this sobbing, decaying mass of timer is imperiling the health of the thickly-settled area along the foothills of the valley and surrounding country,

And whereas, our county roads crossing the swamp at Doubling Bridge in Perry County, and the Moore Bridge in Chilton County, are being ruined by the overflows,

We, the undersigned citizens of Chilton and Perry Counties, inclusive, who live along the Oakmulgee Creek Valley, petition the authorities of these counties and the State Board of Health to aid us in clearing this creek channel as we are unable to do it alone. We will cooperate in every possible way to get this done. —E. H. Littlejohn, Sr., Daisy R. Littlejohn, W. A. Moore, Eulah Moore, M. C. Moore, Velleda Moore, Felix Wallace, J. J. DuBose, M. D.

MINERAL SPRINGS

On account of the weather we did not have Sunday school Sunday. A nice program was rendered at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night and everyone enjoyed it.

Miss Louise Giles spent Saturday afternoon with Miss Olys Littlefield.

Miss Myrtle Ashcraft spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Mildred Dobbs.

Mr. Fred Blankenship spent Saturday night with Mr. Rasmond Sammons.

Mr. and Mrs. Thesus Ashcraft and little daughter, Joyce, spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ashcraft and family.

The following spent Saturday night with Miss Olys Littlefield: Misses Christine Davis, Lovey and Versie Hilyer and Elwyn Robinson.

Miss Rubye Davis spent Saturday night with Miss Merle Rutherford.

Miss Bernice Robinson spent Saturday night with Miss Gladys Dobbs.

Miss Myrtle Ashcraft and Mrs. G. T. Hubbard spent Monday afternoon with Miss Dalene Durbin.

Rev. R. L. Huffman of Clanton preached here Saturday night. A large crowd attended and the sermon was enjoyed by all.

The following spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ashcraft and family Monday afternoon: Mr. and Mrs. Thesus Ashcraft, Mrs. Henry Dobbs, Mrs. Charlie Burnett, Mrs. Annie Gilmore, and Mrs. Alice Rutherford.

Miss Irma Durbin is on the sick list this week. Her friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porch of Atlanta, Ga., spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives at Mitchell Dam.

ANNOUNCE NEW LOW GOODYEAR TIRE PRICES

New low levels have been reached in tire prices according to L. E. Diefenderfer, local dealer for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

"In addition to sharply reducing prices, Goodyear wil produce but two lines of tires—the well-known All-Weather Tread and the Pathfinder, discontinuing third and fourth line brands," Mr. Diefenderfer stated.

"Prices on All-Weather tires are now at the level paid for Pathfinders a year ago, while Pathfinders may now be bought at prices comparable to those paid for the Goodyear Speedway line at that time," he contniued. "All-Weather prices are 43 per cent under 1929 rates, while Pathfinders cost 48 per cent less than in 1929, not including government tax."

This means that Goodyear tires, with full center traction, built with the famous Supertwist Cord, which by its outstanding superiority over ordinary cord used in tire construction, imparts greater mileage and longer life, can now be purchased at a real saving.

"The plan of price reductions and discontinuance of two lines represents in principle what is believed to be the best judgment of most of the leading factors in the tire industry. The motorist always prefers quality and the decline in prices will give it to him at a figure he can afford to pay."

SOLDIERS HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

A detachment of the tank corps of the army, stationed at Anniston, stopped off in Clanton Tuesday afternoon and spent the night here. They pitched their tents on the high school campus. They were on their return from a visit in South Alabama.

COOKE PLAYERS ATTRACT CROWD

Showing All This Week At Wadesonian Theatre Clanton

Large crowds have been enjoying the splendid plays of the Cooke Players at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton this week.

Each and every member of the company is an artist in their line, and the plays presented are clean, moral, classy, coupled with comedy which makes the audience roar with laughter. Jokes are new and interesting.

As they wend their way through the country, they bring joy, gladness and happiness to the hearts of many who feel the need of a mental stimulant, a good laugh, or a chance to pack up your troubles in the old kit bag—and smile. In so doing this company of actors feel they are doing a duty to mankind, especially during this re-adjustment period when the need of optimism, a bold front, and an acceptance of the better times to come must be our attitude.

Harry J. Pamplin, manager, states that he is well pleased with the welcome Clanton people have tendered the players, and that a real treat is in store for those who witness the remaining performances, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Although playing to big houses at the Wadesonian Theatre, the Cooke Players have reserved the real treat of the week in their last four plays. The company is the best, and most elaborate secured by Mr. Cooke in several years. The plays are all new interesting and so well acted they bear the stamp of real big time production.

Their bargain matinee Saturday, "Lovers and Loafers," is the biggest and best laugh, producing two hours of solid fun, ever attempted by any company.

EAT EASTER DINNER IN CLANTON

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton and his wife, Mrs. Carrie Middleton, of Montgomrey, came up to Clanton last Saturday night and took dinner Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wiley Littlejohn, in Clanton. Also Arthur Littlejohn, accompanied by Miss Virginia Keen, both of Birmingham, came down and had Easter dinner with them.

Our idea of an ideal couple is a husband who snores and a wife who is hard of hearing.

"GIRL SHY" AT CO. HIGH SCHOOL

Undergraduate Play Will Be Presented Friday Night, April 21

Whoopee! Here is what we have been waiting for a long time. A play full of vim, vigor, pep and humor, spiced by romance and suspense, tomorrow night, Friday, the Senior II class of the Chilton County High School will present for Clanton's immense enjoyment the three-act play of snappy college life, "Girl Shy."

And listen, folks, between acts there will be several vaudeville entertainments which are shows within themselves. A black-faced dialogue, "Two Coons In A Wreck," popular piano solos, popular songs, accordion music by that master of accordion players, Lloyd Howard, of Thorsby, and readings are to be offered to those who come to the high school Friday night, April 21st.

But the biggest surprise of all is the admission, only 15 and 25 cents.

Anthony Arsdale, John Ezell, the father of Tom Arsdale, the girl shy boy, played by Joe Moore, is coming to visit his son and brings Sylvia, the home town girl, Pauline Plyler, with him. Tom doesn't want to marry this girl so Oke Stimson, Tom's pal and the one who is not girl shy, Dan Smith, gets Tom to pretend that he is engaged to another girl, Babs Sanford, a college flirt. Maralyn Hardy is chosen to be the girl. It turns out that Babs is trying to snag Tom anyway. Tom's father objects and you should see what happens.

Humor is supplied by Aunt Caroline, who tries to be young, Roberta Cochran, and Dean Marlowe, her admirer, Grady Reynolds. And then the negro wash lady, Helen Moore, will burst your sides with laughter. If she doesn't, Alfred Tennyson Murgatoyd, the college poet and pest will.

In other words, to miss this play is to spoil the rest of your life. So don't miss seeing "Girl Shy."

SUAN POWERS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Suan Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Powers, of Lay Dam, celebrated her third birthday on last Thursday afternoon, April 13. A large group of her little friends joined in the celebration which was delightfully arranged and carried out at the Powers home.

The birthday cake of yellow, pink and green colors, with yellow tappers, formed the center of the table decorations. Ice cream and cake were served to the guests.

On the beatiful lawn an Easter egg hunt was arranged for the little folks. This proved to be a most delightful part of the entertainment. Other games were arranged and carried out. Little baskets of Easter eggs were given as favors to all the guests.

Those who composed the party in honor of Suan were Bess and Helen Hayes, Jimmy and Billy Murphy, George Jr., and Joyce Bates, Eddie and Joy Lakeman, Pat Wyatt, Julia Nell Parrish, Richard Reynolds, Grace Ezell, Billy Woodson, Doris Hudson, Toots Wilkerson, J. E. Roy Wood, Ruth and Betsy Jones, Dickie Hudson.

REV. D. S. MARTIN DIED SATURDAY

Body Carried to Old Home At Equality and Buried Sunday

The Rev. D. S. Martin, age 82 years, died at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton last Saturday afternoon, following a short illness. He had come here form his home at Equality to receive treatment at the hospital, and was in the hospital about a week.

Funeral services were at his old home church, Bethesda, near Equality, Sunday afternoon, in the presence of many hundreds of people who had come from four counties to pay their last respects to the deceased.

The Rev. L. T. Reeves, assisted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, of Clanton, Rev. James H. Ivey, of Wetumpka, and Rev. C. B. Martin, of Lincoln, officiated at the funeral. Burial was in charge of J. Mell Martin & Sons, of Clanton. Owing to the extremely large gathering of people, the body was viewed in the grove adjoining the cemetery. An hour was required for the procession to pass the casket.

Mr. Martin was born, reared and resided all his life in the same community where he was buried. His wife preceded him to the grave ten years ago. He is survived by six sons, N. R., John, Paul, and Silas Martin, of Wetumpka; Rev. Judson Martin, of Jackson, Ala., and J. Mell Martin of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. Geneva Hornsby, Auburn; Mrs. Maude Thompson, Wetumpka, Mrs. Lovie Branyan, Uniontown; two brothers, B. B. Martin, of Auburn, and Smith Martin of Selma, Ala.

Mr. Martin joined the Bethesda Baptist Church in 1864. Two years later he was ordained a deacon, and in 1881 was ordained a minister of the Missionary Baptist denomination. He served as pastor of many churches in this section of the state. For 35 years he was clerk of the old Central Baptist Association. For the past fifteen years he has been Moderator of the Central Association, which office he held at the time of his death. It has been said of him that he performed more wedding ceremonies, baptized more converts and buried more people than any rural minister in the state.

While he never lived here, Rev. Martin had many warm friends in Clanton and Chilton County. He has been a regular visitor in this county and particularly to Clanton for the past twenty years. Often he came here to spend a while with his sons, John D. Martin, who lived here some years, and J. Mell Martin, who lives here now. Upon the occasion of these visits Rev. Martin availed himself many times of the opportunity to mingle with out people at public gatherings, particularly those of his denominational work. He has attended several sessions of the Chilton and Unity Baptist Asociations.

In recent years it has been the privilege of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton to have Rev. Martin as their guest many times when he was visiting here. Through his visits to the Club the heartstrings of many of our men became attached to this noble and good man. He has furnished us with inspiration and encouragement on different occasions, just as his fine Christian life and character, his good counsel, and his sound judgment have been a blessing to the thousands of people whose lives he has touched.

Chairman Sam R. Powers of the Clanton District Boy Scouts attended the camp training course held at Camp Zinn near Anniston with John J. Sigwald, Scout Executive, last week end.

ANNUAL EASTER SINGING IS HELD

First Gathering At Poplar Springs Was Held 28 Years Ago

On Sunday, April 16, 1933, the annual Easter singing was held at Poplar Springs. The first session of this singing was held here twenty-eight years ago. Most of the ones who were here to help organize the singing have already gone from this world, which only goes to prove that what we do in this life will live on. There were lots of good directors and a good class most of the day. The singing was a success throughout the day.

Singing was called to order by W. M. Devaughn, who sang one song. Prayer was led by S. J. M. Webb. W. M. Devaughn was elected chairman for the day. The chairman appointed W. H. Wilson, S. J. M. Webb and William Jones as committee and Mattie Lou Crew as secretary. The chairman sang another song while the committee arranged a program. First on program was R. T. Grant, one of the oldest singers in the county. Other directors were A. H. Glasscock, Emmett Wilson, J. E. Devaughn, O. L. Devaughn, J. B. Hammonds, W. G. Culp, Archie Devaughn. Rev. Hand dismissed for the lunch hour.

Singing was begun again at 1:30 by the chairman. Directors for the afternoon were Lee J. Grant, A. O. Boswell, Ralph Grant, T. E. Wyatt, L. T. Grant, Jesse Jones, Akins Collins, F. I. Popwell, W. L. Sanders, Olin Williams, Dr. J. B. Williams, Edward Jones and S. J. M. Webb. Rev. Hand dismissed with prayer.

Those performing at the piano were Mrs. Lene Mae Hancock, Miss Violet Hammonds, Lee J. Grant, A. O. Boswell, Ralph Grant and others.

We were entertained by the quartet from Jemison and special numbers arranged by W. M. Devaughn.

During the day the following announcements were made: The Chilton County Singing Convention will be held at Jemison the third Sunday in May. The Coosa Convention at the courthouse in Rockford the second Sunday in May. The Elmore Convention at Wetumpka the second Sunday in July. The Liberty all day singing in Autauga County the third Sunday in July.—Secretary.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST NEWS

Revival services will be held at the S. D. A. Church in Clanton, beginning Friday night, April 21 and running through Sunday night, April 30. The public is cordially urged to attend and hear Bible subjects made plain by Evangelist C. T. Buhalts of Selma, Ala. Bible subjects which will be expounded upon are: "The Only Sure Foundation," "The Second Coming of Christ," "World Conditions In Bible Prophecy," "Who Will Be the Next World Ruler?" "The Millenium," "The Judgment," "Where Are the Dead?" "Punishment of the Wicked," "The Christian Sabbath," and "Finally Impenitent."

A question box will be used, and anyone desiring special light on Bible subjects are urged to make use of it. Questions will be answered at each following service. Services will start promptly each night at 7:30.

BEARCAT GAS WINNER IN DRIVING CONTEST

In the drivers contest conducted by Polk Brothers Motor Company with the Chevrolet Coach during the past two weeks, the winning drive was made by Curtis Hurtt, using Bearcat Gasoline.

All kinds and grades of gasoline were used in the contest, from the highest test on down to the so-called "blues," "greens," etc., with Bearcat taking first prize, with a record of 32.6 miles per gallon.

"Bearcat," an independent gasoline, is sold in the Clanton territory, by Brownie's Place, on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway just south of the bridge, and by Green's Place, on the Maplesville Highway, in West Clanton.

FROM W. J. HEADLEY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in your paper for a few words to my friends and relatives around home. I am out here at Hot Springs, Ark. again taking the hot-water baths. I am feeling fine and enjoying myself much better than I did last year. Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Smith are out here with me, and I have a much better chance to enjoy myself looking over the country. The weather has been bad for the past week, but this morning it is fair and beautiful.—Your same old friend, Wm. J. Headley.

LOCAL CONCERN INVITES FARMERS

Free Picture Show, Coffee and Sandwiches For Visitors Next Saturday

The Clanton Tractor and Implement Co., local dealers in International Harvester and McCormick-Deering farm implements, announce that they are preparing a great occasion next Saturday for the entertainment and edification of their farmer friends.

In conjunction with the agricultural extension department of International Harvester Co., the local concern will put on a number of educational features of interest and value to the farmers of this county. There will be moving pictures showing the processes of using improved farm machinery, as well as educational lectures on kindred subjects.

At noontime refreshments of hot coffee and sandwiches will be served to all who attend.

During the day special demonstrations of all kinds of farm machinery and implements will be given. All activities of the day will be at the store of Clanton Tractor and Implement Co., at the former location of J. A. Maddox.

All farmers and their families are invited to come and enjoy the entertainment.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Johnson of Pensacola were visitors to Clanton the first of this week.

MRS. DORENDA DUPREE BURIED LAST TUESDAY AT PROVIDENCE

Apr 20, 1933

Mrs. Dorenda Dupree, age 76 years, died at her home in Montgomery early Monday morning. The body was prepared for burial by Diffly's and brought to Providence, Beat 16, for interment at eleven o'clock Tuesday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. J. Parrish and Rev. W. W. Robinson. Pallbearers were G. C. Armstrong, T. M. Taylor, T. E. Wyatt, W. R. Bean, L. E. Simpson, T. H. Griffin, and W. H. Dupree.

The deceased was the widow of John Dupree who died many years ago. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Bradberry and Mrs. Sallie Bates, of Montgomery; three brothers, R. F., J. M., and T. G. Wyatt, of Clanton; two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Robinson and Mrs. J. J. Maddox, of Clanton.

Mrs. Dupree was the oldest daughter of General Francis Marion Wyatt and Jane (Popwell) Wyatt.

SPECIAL ELECTION

For the Election of A County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Ala.

Under and by virtue of the provisions contained in Section Two of an Act of the Legislature of Alabama, approved April 11, 1933;

"To provide for the election of a County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, to fix his term of office, to prescribe his salary, and the manner of payment, to define his qualifications, powers, and duties, and to provide for the election of his successor in office," which said Section Two reads as follows:

"That immediately after the passage of this Act, a special election shall be called by the Probate Judge of Chilton County, and held in Chilton County, Alabama, the expenses thereof to be paid out of the general funds of said county, for the purpose of electing a county superintendent of education for said county, by the qualified electors thereof, who shall assume the duties of his office July 1, 1933, and shall hold office until his successor is elected and qualified, at the general election to be held on the second Tuesday in November, 1934, at which time his successor in office shall be elected, and thereafter the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County shall be elected quadrennial, and hold office for a term of four years, unless removed for good cause, nominations for this office shall be made in the primary elections as provided for the other county offices."

I, L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby call a special election for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent of Education for Chilton County, Alabama, said election to be held at the several voting places as they now exist in said county, on the 20 day of June, 1933.

Dated this, the 19 day of April, 1933.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate, Chilton County, Ala.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS TALK ABOUT THORSBY

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton were entertained at their regular meeting last Thursday night at the Exchange Hotel by two Thorsby residents, who were guests of the club.

Mr. Charley Peterson, one of the pioneer citizens of Thorsby, spoke to the club on the settling of Thorsby, its growth and how the people there began growing strawberries. Mr. Peterson's talk proved very interesting to the club, as he brought out many facts concerning Thorsby that were unknown to members of the club. Lloyd Howard, manager of the Wayside Gardens of Thorsby, and a florist of note, rendered several selections on the accordion. Mr. Howard was also invited to go with the Kiwanis to Fairfield in May, when an inter-club meeting will be held.

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton will also meet with other clubs in this district on May 18th, at Mitchell Dam when a real good time is promised Kiwanians and their guests.

CURTIS HURTT IS WINNER OF PRIZE

Drove Chevrolet Car 32.6 Miles On A Gallon of Gasoline

In the drivers contest conducted by Polk Brothers Motor Company during the past two weeks, Curtis Hurtt, of Clanton, won first prize with a record of 32.6 miles per gallon.

Roy L. Downs was second with a record of 32.4 miles per gallon. Hurtt made the winning drive on Thursday, April 13, after Downs had held first place since Wednesday, April 12.

Sixty test drivers tried their skill in the contest, using a 1933 Model Chevrolet Master Six Coach. All the drivers drove over the same course, selecting their own gasoline and speed. Of course, 61 per cent made records of more than 25 miles per gallon; 57 per cent made more than 27 miles; 33 1-3 per cent made more than 30 miles.

Procedure in the contest was as follows: A quart container was fastened on one of the doors of the car and connected to the carburetor by a rubber tube. After all gas had been burned from the carburetor and pump a measured quart of gasoline was poured into the container. Starting at Polk Brothers show room, the course ran to Dief's corner, thence south on the highway to the home of H. F. Downs, approximately four miles south of Clanton, thence north again as far as the driver could get. Hurtt drove all the way back to Polk Brothers place, and on to the bridge on the old highway south of Clanton, a distance of 8.15 miles on his quart of gasoline.

The contest was sponsored by Polk Brothers, local Chevrolet dealers. Chevrolet dealers all over the United States put on a like contest to prove Chevrolet's economy in fuel consumption, and to show advantages of Chevrolet's free wheeling.

The contest has attracted much attention around Clanton, and brought forth much favorable comment from drivers regarding the car. First prize was a tire; second prize was a tube.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with the deepest and most profound appreciation that I hereby express the thanks of our family to all friends and neighbors, both in Clanton and elsewhere, for the many manifestations of kindness, assistance, and sympathy during the illness, death and burial of our father, Rev. D. S. Martin.—Sincerely, J. Mell Martin, Clanton, Ala.

Visitor — What do you mix your colors with?

Artist (irritated)—With brains, sir.

Visitor—Oh, you paint miniatures.

ELECTION CALLED FOR JUNE 20TH

People Will Choose County Superintendent of Education

Acting under authority of the new local bill passed by the special session of the legislature last week, Judge Reynolds has called an election to be held in Chilton County on June 20th, in which the voters of Chilton County will elect a superintendent of education. Official notice of the call of the election by the Probate Judge appears in another place in this paper.

For many years past there has been a great deal of agitation for the adoption of a law giving the people of Chilton County this privilege. A bill to this effect has been introduced in almost every session of the legislature since 1919.

Such a bill was introduced through the house of representatives by Mr. Pitts a few years ago, but it was killed in the Senate by Senator Duncan. In the special session just closed the bill which is now a law was introduced and passed through the senate by Mr. Duncan, and was supported in the house by Mr. Pitts. It is now a law, and its provisions will be put into effect as quickly as possible.

Judge Reynolds stated that he has made the call and published the same as quickly as possible in order that there might be as much time as possible for the people and prospective candidates to become familiar with the situation.

Under the law the official elected as Superintendent in the special election of June 20 will take office the first of July this year and hold it until his successor is elected and qualified in the general election of 1934. Thereafter the Superintendent will be elected every four years under the same procedure as relates to the election of other county officers.

Up to this time there has been only one avowed candidate for Superintend in the special election. Mr. Buford Lawrence, present Superintendent, has declared that he will be a candidate. Other names have been mentioned as probable candidates, but no definite expression has come from them, so far as we have learned.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The county singing convention of the Harp and Harmony music books will meet at Highland church, three miles southwest of Clanton on the first Sunday in May and the Saturday before. All are invited.—Z. J. Jones, chairman.

SINGING HERE ON NEXT SUNDAY PM

Program At Courthouse Will Begin at 1:30 O'clock In Afternoon

There will be a union singing at the courthouse next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. All the societies of the county will cooperate, and visiting singers have a cordial invitation to attend. Both books will be used. Prof. O. L. Devaughn of the Central Society will have charge. Everybody make a special effort to get there by 1:30 ready to begin singing, as there will likely be a long list of directors. Quartets are invited.

With the Easter singing last Sunday at Poplar Springs, the season for all day singings began. There will be an all day singing somewhere not far off almost every Sunday between now and the Fourth of July. There will not be a singing anywhere in the county as we know of on the fifth Sunday in this month, but the Jefferson County convention will meet in the Grotto auditorium at Five Points, and quite a few of our singers anticipate attending. Walnut Creek will have their annual singing the second Sunday in May, and Providence will have theirs the fourth Sunday. Refuge may change theirs from the third Sunday in May on account of the county convention at Jemison on that day; however, announcements of that will be made later. Collins Chapel will have their big day again the third Sunday in June.

The societies will not be able to carry on much for the next two months, but rather they will give way to all big events in the county.

Doctor—Pat, you did a very bad job on my walk—it's all covered with dirt and gravel.

Pat—Yes, doctor, and a lot of your jobs are covered with dirt and gravel, too.

FACE THE FUTURE UNAFRAID

Within the next twenty years, from three to four of the business earthquakes we call depressions will come and destroy a great part of all the savings that have been built up.

Common Sense Says "Yes"

If the present depression caught you with a pocket full of worthless investments, what is the common sense thing to do now? Place your future savings in the one sure, safe, unfailing place—LIFE INSURANCE.

From every five to seven years, the dollars we have saved are put to risk. How great the risk is evidenced by the plight of thousands of men today who have found the savings of a lifetime swept away by forces beyond their control.

LIFE INSURANCE IS STILL THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD

Vetch Turning Delayed

The rainy weather during the latter part of last week caused the vetch turning demonstrations to be delayed another week. A. G. Gordon, Rodda Varner, Jasper Brazil, Otho McKinney, A. T. Holifield, Lee Clerkley, Robert Spence, Tom Bailey and George Hall are scheduled to do their turning this week. The first demonstration will be given at the home of Otho McKinney Tuesday afternoon.

It Is Not Luck

It is the concensus of opinion that Archie Hall is the champion cotton raiser of the community. One man said to me the other day that "Ole Arch is just lucky. He lucks out over us every year." "Now remember," I said to him, "Success does not depend upon luck, but pluck." So, then, if Archie Hall is leading each year, it must be pluck. The secret of it all is based on the following: Thorough preparation of seed bed, seed selection, securing adequate stands, and efficient cultivation. Drop around to see Archie Hall, and maybe you will learn something.

Busiest Week

Last week was the busiest of all other weeks for the shop work. There were farmers coming every day during the entire week. The following persons came in for work: Felton Pierson, Robert Williams, A. T. Holifield, G. Grant Holifield, Taft Spence, Julian Wilson, Lee Clerkley, Otho McKinney, Alvin Bryant, Jude Wilson, Hubbard Wilson, Rogers Bryant, Wilson Bryant and others. Such tools and implements as colters, dogirons, scrapes, scooters, turners, pressing irons, hand saws, chairs, tanks, scooter stocks, etc., were brought in for repair.

We feel that it is through this medium that our shop serves the community. Our school owes to every boy and girl the training that will enable them to do their daily work with skill and satisfaction. When they are thus equipped they will be able to meet the chances of life with confidence in their own abilities to do work for the community in which they live. To be able to do one's work with skill and satisfaction makes work interesting and stimulating.

He Is Unknown

He lives and dies a life of service for the other fellow. He lives in your community and mine. He dwells from the foot hills of the Appalachians to the rugged crest of the Rockies. This unknown man does not amount to much. He is seldom published in the papers. He is almost noiseless. Few public speeches are made and few flags are hearled for him. He lives a life of mediocracy. Monuments are erected, but not for him. He is too insignificant. He just feeds and clothes the world. He is the farmer.—Benj. Anderson, teach- of vocational agriculture.

UNION GROVE

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are progressing nicely. We didn't have so many Sunday and Sunday night on account of the bad weather. B. Y. P. U. is growing every week. We are planning to go to Friendship right away and put on a program. We want everybody to be present next Sunday and Sunday night. The lesson in B. Y. P. U. will be: "What Shall We Read."—Edna Robinson, Secretary.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SERVICE

The young people's quarterly conference meeting of Chilton County Association will be held at Liberty Hill next Sunday afternoon, April 23, at 2 o'clock. I want to urge all W. M. U. members to be present as same as the young people.

Program topic:

Missionary books.

Opening song, prayer.

Devotional, Mrs. Eula Foshee.

Business, election of officers for the year, announcements.

Introduction, Ruth Dennis.

Missionary story, Lucille Taylor.

"The Best Missionary Book I've Ever Read," by Marie Jackson.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

Bible Subject Discussed by Rev. J. Robert Bean, Clanton, Ala.

ETERNITY

Psalms 90:2, "Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou are God."

When I acknowledge to you that I can't comprehend the deep meaning of the word "eternity," you will wonder just why I selected it for a subject. The reason for doing so is because so many people are asking me about it.

We have been associated with earthly things and noted their perishableness, including man as well as time, and beheld them as they sprang up and flourished and then perished, that we are not capable of forming in our minds a clear conception of just what eternity means.

The text takes us backward as well as forward in our search for a beginning and ending of God. The human mind is a wonderful thing within itself, but with all the training that we are capable of receiving, we can only perfect the mind so far in our exploration of the past, for the mind can travel only so far and then it comes up against a barrier, beyond which it fails to go. Let us journey backwards with our minds for just a little while. We may travel back to the time of our Lord's birth, and by the aid of the Bible, walk and talk with Him and his followers and learn lots of things that are helpful to us.

But that is just a step; so we wander back to the days of the prophets and live with them a while, but that is just one step farther. Leaving there we may travel back to the days of Moses and leave Egypt with him and the children of Israel, and we hear God talking to Moses on the mountain, where the law was given. Leaving them in our search for the beginning of God, we go back to the time when God called Abraham, and rest there until we become somewhat familiar with Abraham's world, but God is there also, directing Abraham's feet in the paths that he should go.

Next, we may travel back to the time of the great flood and by the aid of the Bible, learn of the awful vengeance of an outraged God upon a sinful world. We may stop there long enough to hear the cries of a doomed people and shudder at the thought of souls being dammed for their sins. Then with the same mind behold Noah and all of his riding triumphantly on the very bosom of what, to the world of sinful men, was an awful destruction.

But we are compelled to search on. Then, with one more flight of the mind, we reach the beginning of our time, and as we open our Bible, the very first words that greet our eyes are, "In the beginning God." We may walk through the garden with Adam and his wife and familiarize ourselves with the shrubbery and the flowers, and talk with the keepers of that beautiful garden. And just before we leave to go on with our search, we hear God say, "Adam where art thou."

Next, we may allow our minds to drift back on and on, but without any aid from the Bible or from any other source, and as we journey backward, we may behold the hand of God at every turn, and maybe hear Him say, "Let us make man." And finally our minds refuse to go farther, but by a very great effort, we can understand that we have not reached the beginning of God. "From everlasting to everlasting, thou art God."

Let us begin where we are today and go forward into the future and look for the end. Our fathers and our mothers used to sing:

When we've been there ten thousand years,
Bright shining as the sun,
We've no less days to sing God's praise
Than when we first begun.

It has always seemed to me that the writer of the words above expressed more in those four lines than could be expressed in a whole volume on this subject.

We may follow the sacred writers something like 96 years after our Lord's birth and near 63 years after His ascension and hear Him speaking to John on the Isle of Patmos in Revelation 22:13. "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last."

Nothing more can we get from the Bible concerning the everlasting existence of our God. I am satisfied with the thought expressed in our text that "form everlasting to everlasting, thou art God. I am not so much interested in whether God is from everlasting, but I am virtually concerned about His continued existence, for my hope is built around the thought of eternal happiness with Him and the holy angels, and the souls of just men made perfect by and through their belief in His son, Jesus Christ. So why bother about eternal existence of God, since we have the promise of His son, that He, Jesus, gives to us everlasting life. Let us all strive to enter into that life with Him.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Health is very good in this community at present.

During this rainy weather the people are busy at the church. There has been plenty to work almost all the week. Everybody has a mind to work. The people can't express their thanks to those who helped on the church.

Mr. Audie Brown and Mr. Sam Davis spent a few hours Thursday night with Messrs. Ottis, Oliver and Arnold Glenn.

Mrs. Lillie Wilson was visiting Mrs. O. L. Devaughn last Wednesday.

Miss Annie Pearl Downs of Verbena is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. R. J. Downs, this week.

Mrs. Eura and Eunice Sandlin were the Wednesday afternoon guests of Mrs. R. J. Downs and daughters.

Mr. Oliver Glenn had as his Friday night guest Mr. Audie Brown.

Mr. Ottis Glenn was visiting in Cooper Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Lamare Blalock was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Blalock, last week.

Mrs. Elbert Yates is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Yates, of Cooper, this week.

Preaching services were rained out Saturday and on the account of the Easter singing at Poplar Springs, there were no services Sunday.

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. have not yet been announced. If our church can be completed this week, Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. will be held there.

Let's every mother and father that can, come and bring your children to Sunday school, and those who can not possibly come, send your children if you want them to be a worker for God.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

FISHIN' IS OFTEN EXCUSE FOR SITTIN' AND THINKIN' IN SOUTH

(By James H. Street)

Moss Point, Miss., April 13.—Catfish sizzle over charcoal fires, timid little perch shun the light of the moon, bullfrogs croak a twilight lullaby and fireflies dance over jasmine vines, for it's fishing time down South.

Come April, and Dixie's fancy naturally turns to thoughts of weeping willow shadows, grubworms and goggle-eyed bream and the absolute contentment of just fishing.

Pole fishing in this languid land of bayous and banjoes is the gentle art of being lazy with a purpose. Fish are plentiful—democratic catfish that will bite anything from a mess of white meat to crawfish tail—snooty little perch that demand a glowing catawba worm—wily old bass that striks like a thunderbolt—vicious gar and jacks that high-hat even moccasins and rule like tyrants.

Plagrounds For Trout

The South concedes nothing to anybody when it comes to fishing. The Virginia valleys are a paradise for bream. The lonesome pine country and the Carolina and Tennessee mountains are playgrounds for trout. Men will walk for hours and laugh at hardships just for the sheer joy of casting a dry fly. That's the acme of fishing—hulrling a fly at a fish. Good fishermen down South cast where the fish is, and don't wait for the fish to come and get it.

The Carolina and Georgia low country is a haven for lazy fishermen. The streams that cut the land like a network of canals are alive with perch. There is salt water fishing along all coasts.

Where Fishing Is Excuse

That's the kind of fishing where men have shiny reels and colored rods. Down here fishing is an excuse to sit and think. There are lots of fish, but the fun comes in cutting a cane from a musty break, loading the line with a buckshot and a bottle stopper, leaning back in the elbow of a cypress stump and letting the fish do the work and the worryin'.

If they bite, it's not much effort to pull 'em in. If they don't bite, well it's a lot of fun blowing smoke rings at dragon flies and watching humming birds play around the honeysuckle.

Fishing men who mean business usually go to the bayous at dawn when the mist is as thick as gumbo, or in the evening just before the sun drops behind the swamps.

Fish And Sing

Negroes are the best cat fishermen in the world. There is an affinity between a cotton field negro and a big, grinning channel cat. They load their lines with angle worms, spit on the bait, beat up a batch of crackling bread, build a fire near the bank, and while the fish make up their minds what to do, the negroes, barefooted and free—sit on a stump and sing like this:

"O, I'se th'u wid eatin' bacon fat, so I chunks muh line what de fish is at;
"Den sets back and let 'em bite—
Got nufin' to do 'til tuhmorrow night.
"Hey—hey—lawdy, lawd, lawd,"

JESUS REBUKES SELF-SEEKING (Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:30-50.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law. Romans 13:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—My Playmates.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Test of Greatness.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Others First.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Sin of Selfishness.

I. The Stupidity of Self-Seeking (vv. 30-32).

Jesus with his disciples was on his way to Capernaum for the last time. He sought a way of retirement in order to be alone with his disciples so as to lead them to apprehend the meaning of the cross. The teaching which was interrupted at Caesarea by Peter's rebuke is now resumed and with definiteness he declares the future event as already present.

1. "The Son of man is delivered into the hands of men" (v. 31).

2. "They shall kill him" (v. 31).

3. "He shall rise the third day" (v. 31). While pressing continually upon them the fact and necessity of the cross, he always showed them the bright side—his triumphant victory over death in the resurrection from the dead. The hearts of the disciples were so steeped in selfishness that they failed to grasp the meaning of his teaching.

II. The Wrangling of Self-Seeking (vv. 33-37).

1. The searching question (v. 33). Because Christ was omniscient he knew the secrets of their hearts. The fact that the disciples were wrangling about official position while the Lord was facing humiliation and death for them and for the whole world, shows how completely alone he was in his sorrow.

2. The silent disciples (v. 34). They were ashamed in his presence when the selfishness of their hearts was revealed.

3. The stinging rebuke (v. 35). "If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all." The greatest men are those who are willing to take the lowest place and serve others.

4. The striking illustration (vv. 36, 37). He took a child and set him in the midst of them, thus in a concrete way enforcing his teaching. The child was an illustration of ignorance and dependence. By example and word he showed that true greatness is expressed by willingness to aid the weak, to enlighten the ignorant, and to serve those in need. All who render such service do it, not merely to the needy ones, but to Christ and God. True greatness, therefore, consists not in self-seeking, but in rendering cheerful service to the needy in the name of Christ.

III. The Intolerance of Self-Seeking (vv. 38-41).

1. John's guilty conscience (v. 38). In the light of the teaching of Jesus, John was disturbed over having forbidden a worker for Christ who did not follow after him. Doubtless this intolerance was in part due to jealousy for Christ, but also for selfish ambition. Many times bigotry is mistaken for zeal for Christ.

2. Whom to tolerate (vv. 39-41).

a. Those who are casting out devils (v. 39). We should really satisfy ourselves that supernatural works are being done. Are demons being cast out? However, this is not final, for there is a supernatural work not of God (Matt. 7:21-23).

b. Those who are doing supernatural works in Christ's name (v. 41). All workers going forth in the name of Christ and for the glory of Christ should be given Godspeed, even though not members of our church or school. "Forbid him not."

IV. The Awful Issue of Self-Seeking (vv. 42-50).

1. Ruin to others (v. 42). Self-seeking usually results in ruin to others.

2. Ruin to the individual (vv. 43, 45, 47). In both cases the issue is eternal torment. Selfishness is opposed to God; and that which is opposed to him must be eternally separated from him. Self-renunciation should be so complete that we should be willing to abandon the most necessary and lawful things in life—hands, feet, eyes—when they become occasions for stumbling either for ourselves or others. No matter how dear or how necessary the friendship, faculty, or possession, if it leads to disloyalty to Christ, it must be forsaken. Spiritual surgery must be employed even when the loss is as great as the sacrifice of a hand or foot. Better suffer the temporary loss and pain of such separation than to suffer eternally.

Leaving the Gospel

"Wrong views of Divine truth among the people of God are always the immediate forerunners of a total departure from the Gospel on the part of a great body of professors of religion."—Robert Haldane.

BAPTISM

As shown last week, the final step to take to get "into Christ" is to be buried with Him by baptism "into His death for the remission of sins." Acts 2:38;Rom. 6:3-6. Salvation is "in Christ" and when one is baptized into Him, His blood washes away sins. Rev. 1:5. In this way the church that Christ built is sanctified and cleansed "with the washing of water by the word." Eph. 5:25-27. The word of God is truth taught by the inspired writer of the scriptures. This word of God of the scriptures is the teaching of the Holy Spirit. Christ said "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life." Jno. 6:6-3. And when one hears the teaching of the scriptures, he hears the teaching of the Holy Spirit; when he believes this teaching, he believes the Holy Spirit; when he repents under the teaching of the scriptures, he repents under the influence of the Holy Spirit; and when one is buried by baptism "into Christ" for the remission of sins, he is obeying the Holy Spirit. He is then a child of God, having been born of "water and of the spirit." Jno. 3:5. People do not "join the church" that Christ built, but are born into it. Those who are born into God's family, into His household, are born into the church that Christ said He would build, for the church of God is the house of God. I Tim. 3:15.

The very time that one is baptized into the one body, (I Cor. 12:13) he is then saved from his past sins, and does not need to "join anything." But he needs to continue "steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine." Acts 2:42. "God does the adding to His church." Acts 2:47. Those who fully comply with the terms of the "one baptism, Eph. 4:5, are thus added to the "one body." Eph. 4:4; I Cor. 12:13.

It is by the spirit that we hear. It is by the spirit in the teaching of God's word that one believes, repents and is buried by baptism into one body, which is the church. Eph. 1:22-23.

The one baptism is a baptism which the apostles could perform and that was to be taught. Matt. 28:18-20. It is to last till end of the world, and is the one man can carry out in obedience to God. But the baptism in the Holy Spirit as it occured on Pentecost cannot be carried out by man. Water baptism can be carried out by man, and is the one baptism commanded of us, and all who faithfully comply with all of its terms are automatically members of the kingdom of heaven. Do we say that we need an organization?

Let me suggest that when faithful children of God follow the scriptures in their work and worship, the church becomes automatically and scripturely and fully organized. Any extra organization by man is presumptious, dangerous and deterimental.—R. L. Huffman.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Already fant outlines are becoming visible of the location of the first stand which is to be made by the Republican minority in Congress against the militant and up to this time successful Democratic majority. Since the new administration came into being, most of its efforts from the legislative standpoint have been to meet emergencies. In order to meet these emergencies banking and economy legislation had to be enacted at once. It was necessary to restore confidence and to make a desperate effort to balance the budget. Since the Republican minority had already announced a policy of assisting the adminisration in all constructive measures looking to the bettering of the nation, there was no resistance, but efficient coorporation, to the emergency measures.

A great many people back in the country, therefore, who have been daily expecting congressional fireworks, are beginning to wonder whether the Republican have given up for good. There is no authority for taking any such view. The Republicans have only been waiting until they could find sound and strategic territory on which to make a stand. The outlines of that territory will become plainly visible when Congress gets to the point of tinkering with the tariff, and the day is probably not far away.

During the campagin we heard a great deal about the iniquitous Smoot-Hawley tariff. We were led to believe that one of the first things Congress would do would be to level to the ground this "robber tariff." As yet nothing along this line has been done and it is now becoming evident that probably the first thing accomplished will be in the way of raising, rather than lowering, tariffs. The reason for this is not hard to find, if one will study the farm bill which the administration desires to enact into law. In order to make the provisions of this law effective, if it is to be enacted, it is becoming evident that there will have to be drastic changes in our agricultural tariff rates—but the changes must necessarily be in the direction of higher tariff rates, rather than lower ones. Additional protection will have to be granted all of the farm commodities which, it is hoped, will be helped under the new farm bill. If such higher schedules are not enacted, the farmers who will benefit from the new law—if any of them benefit—will be the agriculturists in foreign countries who will immediately take advantage of the higher prices which it is hoped to offer to the farmers of the United States. This will doubtless be a blow to the ardent free traders who told us in the last campaign that the protective tariff does not and cannot benefit the American farmer, but it is a blow he will have to take on the chin and like it.

But there is another angle. Mr. Roosevelt and his assistant orators told us in the campaign that prosperity would be restored through foreign trade and that this would be brought about by tariff agreements between the United States and foreign countries. One of the alluring examples cited was Canada and it was predicted that foreign trade between the United States and the Dominion would be increased by a tariff agreement. But Canada, it is to be remembered, has nothing to ship us except grain, butter, cheese and other agricultural or dairy products. If we lower the barriers, it will be the Canadian farmers and not the American farmers who will benefit by the new farm bill. So it is going to be a little difficult to arrange a tariff agreement between Uncle Sam and Canada. The same will go for all other agricultural nations which are the ones most anxious to arrange reciprocal tariffs with us.

It is when these questions come to the forefront, that the Republican minority, it may be predicted, will come to life. The Republican tariff policy is clear and consistent, and the minority in Congress will have a clear-cut substitute program to offer. For what the majority offers is bound to be rather nebulous because of the multitude of conflicting opinions which the majority statesmen will have on the issue. The Republicans will then have the advantage of fighting with a united front on the ground made familiar to them by hundreds of conflicts in the past.

CHILD HEALTH DAY PROCLAIMED—

May 1st is Child Health Day, so proclaimed by President Roosevelt. The event will be observed all over the country, if the wishes of the chief executive are heeded. The wording of the proclamation follows:

"Whereas the Congress by joint resolution has authorized and requested the President of the United States of America to proclaim annually that May Day is Child Health Day; and

"Whereas the health and welfare of our children concern not only their parents, but also the nation at large; and

"Whereas the observance of such a day gives us opportunity to unite in furthering the health and protection of our children;

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate May 1st of this year as Child Health Day, and call upon all agencies, public and private, and all individuals having the interest of children at heart, to set aside that day for earnest consideration of the needs of the children in their communities and in their homes, and to inaugurate constructive activities to protect and promote the health and physical vigor of the youth of our nation.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this 31st day of March, in the year of our Lord, 1933, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the 157th. Signed, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

SAVING AND SPENDING —

Now that we have emergency bank legislation and a law which gives the President authority to reduce expenses by the reduction of the salaries of federal employes and those benefitting from the various appropriations for the veterans of past wars, and it would seem that we were on the way toward a balancing of the burget, a great many people are beginning to wonder just how big a saving is to be made at Washington after all. No sooner had the public ceased its first vociferous applause over the hundreds of millions saved in the operation of the Government than it began to learn that Congress was considered various programs which call for the expenditure of billions more. No doubt a great many of the proposed expenditures are worthy and come from the worthiest of motives, but it would seem the part of sound government to slow up a little and think and study, before there is so great an expenditure of the government's money.

In addition to the hundreds of millions to be expended in the reforestation proposal, there is an administration project for the floating of two billions in bonds for refinancing of farm mortgages. This, it is estimated, may be followed by another program with a huge bond issue for the refinancing of mortgages on homes. There is a government works bill in preparation which, it is said, may call for an ultimate expenditure of two or three billions more. This is to say nothing of the expenditures embraced in the farm bill which provides for the leasing by the government of unproductive farms at a cost of eight hundred millions. This latter cost, it is only fair to say, the administration expects to raise through a tax on the purchasers of food and clothing, but if the consumers rebel, and as much revenue as is needed fails to come in, who is going to pay the bill, except Uncle Sam?

Then there is to be an expenditure of a half billion of federal money in the furnishing of funds to the various states for relief work. The motive is laudable, of course, but where is the federal government to get the money after all, except by taxing the people of the various states?

With such pretentious programs for the expenditure of billions, most of which is to come from bond issues, thus increasing the public debt, the few hundreds of millions cut from the running expenses of the government in an effort to balance the budget begin to look more or less like pin money. There is no disposition here to question the motives of the administration. Its contentions are good; but what about the consequences? Suppose it doesn't work out. Somebody will have to foot the bill.

But if March comes in astride a donkey will it go out like a lamb?—San Antonio Evening News.

Being postmaster is not all joy. If the office is big enough to pay an adequate salary it is too big for the postmaster to read the post cards.—Pasadena Post.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All— Overlooks None

Chilton's Strawberries

One day last week a friend was overheard talking about what the strawberry crop of Chilton County would amount to this year. He got a pencil and a scrap of paper and went to figuring. He supposed that Chilton would ship at least 200 cars this season, with a minimum of 315 crates to the car—63,000 crates. If these bring an average of $1.50 per crate, they will pay the growers $94,500.00. That isn't to be sneezed at—maybe the amount would run as high as $100,000. And, too, pickers would come in for a neat little sum, even at the low rate of one and one-half cents per quart. There would be 1,512,000 quarts, for which the pickers would receive $22,680.00. And just think, only a few years ago, when King Cotton ruled, none of this was coming in. We're learning.

The All-Wise One

George B. Shaw, self-appointed world critic, and an Englishman, takes on the job of raking America over the coals again. America is not the only country, however—Mr. Shaw had a few words to say about pretty near every nation on the face of the earth. He sees no good in any of them, not even England. It seems that he is putting himself on a high pedestal, when he considers himself competent to judge all the people of the world. Although he is heralded as one of the greats of the literary world, Mr. Shaw has made himself thoroughly disliked the world over for his criticism. He says: "All American are blind, deaf—and domb." We may be all that, but if we are, there is some satisfaction in it. We may be blind, but G. B. S. isn't so hard to see through, after all. We may be deaf, but not too deaf that we cannot hear requests for aid from all corners of the world. And we may be dumb, too; but not too dumb but that our country has accomplished in a few hundred years what European countries have failed to do after thousands of years. America is the richest nation in the world, one of the most intellectual, and considered the most powerful—and it hasn't been always reaching that enviable position. That's something Mr. Shaw and the rest of the world must take into consideration when they go to criticize us.

A Jig-Saw Divorce

And now comes word of the first jig-saw divorce. I've heard of divorces growing out of disputes about playing bridge, golf, and other like things, but the jig-saw brand is the latest. This first jig-saw divorce suit was brought in a Chicago court. Some woman alleges her husband beat her because she spent more for jig-saw puzzles than the family budget allowed for that item. Maybe "hubby" went dippy trying to figure out one of the puzzles; or maybe "wifey" was the daffy one; maybe they both went cuckoo. After trying to figure out a few of the things, you'll decide it would be enough to drive anyone wild to ponder over the jig-saws.

Supply and Demand

There was once a time when I wondered, (as I imagine others have done), as to just what governed prices of different products, cotton in particular. I was always told that "supply and demand" governed this. And I always supposed that this was true until recently, but now I am not so sure. And here is the reason. For the last year or two the supply of cotton has been growing smaller. On the other hand, due to the depression, there has been far less silk and wool goods sold, with a comparative increase in the use of cotton goods. And yet the price of raw cotton remains about the same. If more cotton was being raised, and less used, each year, one might be able to understand the low price. But with the supply diminishing and the demand increasing, it just about kills the old "supply and demand" idea. Crop reports show a decrease from 1,385,021 bales in 1931 to 933,805 in 1932 in Alabama; a decrease from 19,347 bales in 1931 to 11,798 in 1932 in Chilton County. This is about an average decrease as compared with all the cotton raising sections, and yet the price remains practically unchanged. Maybe we have a right to wonder again as to what really governs our prices; surely not "supply and demand."

L. & N.'s Electric Train

If you happen to be around about the railroad some time in the near future, and see something curious looking popping along down the track, don't be surprised. That will be the new electric train "The Old Reliable" L. & N. is planning on putting on the run between Birmingham and Montgomery. Two 300-horsepower Diesel engines drive two generators, which, in turn, drive four electric motors. The new train is capable of a speed of 80 miles per hour, and can cut the time from three and a half hours to two hours on the 97-mile run from Birmingham to Montgomery. The outfit was tested out in St. Louis on March 9, and we may see it soon. Its builders claim it can pull a train of cars at about half the expense of a coal-burner, and there will be no soot, dust and cinders to contend with.

The Scottsboro Cases

Ever since the news got around concerning the alleged attack on two white women near Scottsboro some time ago, officials have been receiving messages from all ginds of associations the world over, protesting the manner in which the cases have been handled. The result of it is that these sympathizers have hurt the negroes chances instead of helping them. And they have hurt them in several ways. After all, Alabama people, from whom the juries must be picked, are only human, and they naturally resent any outsider's attempt to have a hand in running the affairs in Alabama. After the negroes were sentenced to death in the first trial, all kinds of dust was kicked up—pleas, entreaties, and even demands were made by various organizations that the men be released. That put high-handed ideas in the minds of foolish negroes in the South, and several uprisings occurred, which only fanned the race fire. Anti-Southern lawyers were hired, and after these had found themselves unable to cope with the situation, they spread rumors of danger from mobs, all without foundation of truth. As a final result, all this has just about brought matters to a point where the negroes cannot get a fair trial, and Judge Horton has so indicated in postponing trial. Alabama's court officials want to judge fairly, but until they can be allowed to work unhampered by "advice" from foreign sources, these defendants must suffer from the results of this "advice."—Man in the Moon.

THE ORIENTAL TANGLE —

The situation with regard to the proposed recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States seems to have changed within the past few weeks. Not so long ago there was a distinct and organized propaganda for the recognition of Russia, and we were being told in news dispatches from Washington that Soviet Russia would be recognized by Uncle Sam within the near future. But the atmosphere seems to have changed and some of the same political experts are now admitting that recognition may be postponed indefinitely.

There are several reasons given for the alleged change in the atmosphere at Washington. Some of the friends of the soviets in the United States are inclined to blame Great Britain for the change in this country. John Bull has recently come to the parting of the ways with Satin over the arrest of a half dozen British subjects on charges of sabotage, and there is some indication that the British government will break off trade relations with Russia unless the soviets madify their stand.

Some of the recognitionists in the United States are now seeking to cover their disappointment over the change of atmosphere in this country by charging that the United States is again "following Britain" in its foreign policies.

But there is nothing to substantiate this charge. There are other reasons for the strengthening of the sentiment in the United States against Soviet Russia. One of the reasons lies in the protests which have come forth from patriotic Americans in every part of the country. Another, and a very wieghty one, is the delicacy of the American-Japanese situation. It is known that public opinion in Japan is now very sensitive to everything which happens in America. The Japanese jingo press which seems to want to provoke trouble between Japan and America is continually charging that American policy in the Orient is desigenedly unfriendly to Japan and that we are either directly or indirectly following the lead of Russia in Chinese affairs. The recognition of the soviet government by the United States at this time would give these Japanese jingoes the opportunity of declaring in louder tones than ever that the United States and Russia were forming an alliance and hatching a conspiracy against the Japanese in China. In the present delicate state of international affairs the United States is naturally anxious to improve rather than estrange our friendly relations with Japan. This fact, and not the British trouble with Russia, is the really weighty reason why the administration at Washington is going slow in any change of relationship or lack of relationship with Soviet Russia.

WILL HULL ATTACK TARIFF WALLS?

Cordell Hull for years has been an uncompromising foe of protection. Though the Democratic party in 1928 accepted the Republican principle of a tariff equal to difference in cost of production, Hull continued to storm against protection and to call the Hawley-Smoot tariff a wall, though the tariff commission is busy trimming that wall to a height that accords with the principle adopted by his own as well as the Republican party.

By selecting Hull, Roosevelt implies that the most important work of the State Department will be negotitation of the trade agreements to which he is pledged. Hull will be prepared to bargain away sections of that wall in exchange for the opening of foreign markets to American goods. That will be easy for him, since he ragards the wall as an iniquitous thing. He may have difficulty in inducing other nations to lower their tariff walls for admission of the commodities of which we have most to sell. Nations of Europe approach closer every year to producing their own food supply behind the shelter of tariffs, and may be loath to admit our wheat, pork or fruit at lower rates.

Our exports on manufactures have been steadily growing and have consisted largely of autaumobilies, sewing machines, typewriters, adding machines and electric equipment. Europe has equipped factories for mass production of these very articles and others, and may prefer to protect its infant industries. Europe buys almost half of our exports, and of the field for tariff bargains, but may wish to maintain the barrier against the goods we are best able to export.

As the price of any concessions, Europe may insist that the American market be thrown open to goods which would seriously compete with American industry. After Mr. Hull has made his bargains, they will have to run the gauntlet of both Senate and House, where Democrats are as keen in defense of the industries of their states and districts as are Republicans.

Mr. Hull will acquire a new point of view on the tariff when he undertakes to make it the subject of bargains. Having been a member of the house in 1913, when the Underwood tariff, proclaimed as a competitive tariff, was passed, he doubtless had a hand in framing it. He has since been occupied in opposing protective tariffs. He has seen only the American tariff, and that only from a revenue-only viewpoint. He is now to come in contact with other nations' tariffs and with their view of protection in his efforts at mutual lowering of tariff walls. His experience may change his views of the tariff; it might even make him a protectionist.—Portland Oregonian.

Bennett Clark, son of the late Champ Clark, Speaker of the House, takes his seat in the Senate, announcing as his "principal and immediate aim" lower tariffs.

This will be good news for foreign countries anxious to pour in here the product of underpaid labor that gets its wages in depreciated currency.

It is not such good news for twelve million Americans that would like to get back to their jobs.

Perhaps, after Mr. Clark has looked around and sees how many American factories have been closed by European competition, he may discover that lower tariffs would mean lower wages, where there are any wages, and less employment.—Washington, D. C. Times.

Clean Up Campaign for Clanton

Under promptings of the Kiwanis Club, a most extensive clean up campaign will soon be inaugurated in Clanton. The city officials will extend their cooperation, and the work will be done by the employment agencies of the R. F. C. business. A number of people will be given jobs and it is hoped that many of the unsightly places in our town can be put in good order. We have had clean-up campaigns in the past. Most of them merely scratched the surface of what should have been done. We ought to be able to make this effort reach far enough to mean something.

Electing A Superintendent

At last the people of Chilton County will have the privilege of electing their County Superintendent of Education. The election has been called by Judge Reynolds for June 20th. There is some conjecture as to how candidates shall be nominated. The law does not make the procedure clear. However, it is certain there will be some candidates secured by some means or other in time for the election. Superintendent Lawrence says he will be a candidate. Others have been mentioned as probable candidates.

Fair Returns From Strawberries

According to Mr. J. N. Dennis, the strawberry business at Clanton is panning out in a fairly satisfactory manner up to now. A total of seven cars have been shipped from Clanton. Some of them contained over 400 crates. The last car that went out Tuesday night was sold on the tracks here for $1.85 a crate, and contained 420 crates. Mr. Dennis says this is a fair price, according to present conditions. Grades of berries have not been so fine on account of the rain and cool weather. Improvement is noted in this respect during the first of this week.

The Value of One Man

The death of Rev. D. S. Martin last Saturday has caused me to do a great deal of thinking. Like his thousands of other friends, I was, of course touched with deep sorrow at his passing. But my thoughts upon his great and noble life and character have been uplifting to me. As I pondered the wide scope of uplifting usefulness of the life of Rev. Martin, I thought of this quotation from J. F. Newton; "The world will never be better than the men who inhabit it. Everything begins and ends with the individual. One man living a brotherly life is worth a thousand lectures on brotherhood." Brother Martin actually lived a life of brotherhood. His disposition was sweet. His purposes in life were great, and great the more because they were simple. He lived for a definite purpose. He was set out on a course with the sole intentions of going to one goal. On the way he played when playing did not cause him to lose any time from his life's job. He worked steadily and pleasantly. He reared a noble family, all of whom were and are richly endowed with the nobility of a consecrated and purposeful father. His life touched thousands of people in thousands of ways. And I dare say that every life he touched was made a better life. What a glorious monument to a man.

THE WAY BACK TO PROSPERITY

The governments, and notoriously the federal government have gone on the theory that their expenditures are untouchable. The costs of the federal government, indeed, have continued to mount. It has been impossible to collect as much money each year as the government has spent, with the result that the unbalanced portion has been borrowed. This has had the effect of raising doubts about the stability of the nation's money and its treasury and has led to violent gold movements, injurious both in America and abroad. The demand of the business community for a balanced budget has been met not by the reduction of expenditures but by the increase in tax rates and the imposition of new taxes. In the end, therefore, our governments have created not more hope of profit, and therefore a basis of recovery, but the certainty of further reductions in profit and therefore increased stagnation.

This policy of idiocy must be ended before the depression will begin to yield. Business men hold that the cause of the depression is excessive taxation and the cure is a slashing of taxation with a budget balanced on the reduced revenue. That is a mature judgment, based upon years of battling against declining profits and the steady attrition of reserves and inventory values. The stubborn refusal of politicians to heed the advice of precisely the men who are in position to know most about what is impending progress is the most striking phenomenon of our times.—Chicago Tribune.

An essayist says he can think of nothing more ghastly than the modern feminine hat. Perhaps not, but we have moments of depression when we fear that somebody will.

The British threat to break off trade relations with Russia indicates that trade relations with Russia are not so valuable as a lot of our recognitionists would have us believe.

Bearcat Gas Stays On Top

No doubt my customers and friends will be glad to know that Polk Brothers put on a driving contest last week with their new Chevrolet car, and gave a premium for the one who drove the farthest on a quart of gasoline. The contestants were allowed to use any kind of gasoline they wanted to, and in this contest was used Bearcat, Ethyl, Crown, Texas, Sinclair, Woco Pep, Super-Shell, Gulf and Pan-Am. And each of the brands were used several times.

The mileage ranged from 19 to 32.6 miles per gallon, and no doubt, those who have been using Bearcat will be pleased to know that it went over the top and won the prize. The car was driven by Curtis Hurtt, making 32.6 miles on a gallon. Bearcat was used by other drivers, and 30 miles per gallon was the lowest made with Bearcat.

It will be of further interest to know that Curtis Hurtt used other makes of gas, and received a much lower mileage from each of them. I am sure this will be a surprise to those of my friends that have been using other high-test gases, at a much higher price. And it seems to me that in time of this great depression it would pay you to find a Bearcat station and fill your car with the best gas at 17c, instead of going to other oil stations and paying 22½c. And remember, friends that the price of gasoline was much higher before I opened my station.

Bearcat gas is sold at Brownie's Place and Green Rutherford's Place here in Clanton; at East Texas Service Station in Calera, and Brownie's Place in Tuskegee. Buy Bearcat and keep the price of gas down.

This contest was under the direct supervision of Polk Brothers, Chevrolet dealers, who were naturally impartial so far as the kind of gasoline used was concerned.

Sunbonnets

A play in two acts, given by members of the Ladies Guild of Thorsby at Helen Jenkins auditorium at 7:15 p.m. Saturday, April 22nd. The setting is in a small country village in which for forty years the ladies of the town have been divided into two social groups, not on speaking terms with each other. On account of the absent mindedness of a summer boarder and the helpfullness of two girls, the two societies meet at the same place at the same time. Are they mad? Well, come and see for yourself.

Admission 15c for adults and 10 for children under 12 years of age.

The characters are as follows: Mrs. Butterfield, who takes summer boarders, Mrs. Nat Bentley; Charlina, her 14 year old daughter, Mrs. Horace Franklin; Mrs. DuBois, city boarder at Mrs. Butterfield's, Miss Jennye Robinson; Mildred, her 16 year old daughter, Mrs. Relious Franklin; Miss Tryphena Sanford, inquisitive little postmistress, Mrs. Jim Higgins; Mrs. Pheelan, a kindly old friend of Mrs. Butterfield's, Mrs. J. M. Bosworth; Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Bob Davenport; Mrs. Tibbitts, Mrs. S. E. Norton; Mrs. Pendleton, Mrs. G. F. Harper; Miss Malvine Spinney, Mrs. Clyde Meade; Mrs. Crannon, a minister's wife, Mrs. Wm. Each. Between acts you will be favored with several numbers of music.

Miss Ottis Merchant spent Saturday night with Miss Loutisha Bean in New Salem community.

A union meeting of the B. Y. P. U. and Christian Endeavor was held at the Baptist Church Sunday night, April 16. The leaders were Mrs. Hubert Reinhardt and Miss Lois Prim. "The Resurrection," was the topic of the evening. The scripture was read by C. B. Jean. Short talks were given upon these subjects, "The Grave Christ Never Entered," by Marie Jackson; "Easter in Jerusalem," by Conway Thornburgh. "Golgotha's Three Crosses," by Lois Prim. A reading "Blessed Redeemer," was impressively given by Mrs. Hubert Reinhardt, accompanied by a violin duet by Mary Louise Reinhardt and Grantland Davis. Lorene McLawn read a poem, "When Jesus Drinks The Wine," A beautiful duet, "He Died For Me," was sung by Edna Lee Wilder and Verlon Goodgame. Rev. Don West, a speaker of the Christian Life Conference, gave an interesting talk on the principles of Jesus and why He was crucified. At the close of the evening service, a pageant, "The Light of the World," was given.

Mrs. George Davis and little daughter, Mary Joe, spent last week in Thorsby with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Littleton.

Mr. Cecil Each of Birmingham visited home folks during the past week end.

Misses Francis Wilson and Sallye Mahan and Carrie Gordon of Montevallo spent the week end in Thorsby with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson.

Thorsby Institute News

On Friday night the Helen Kellar Literary society under the direction of Miss Davison and Miss Phillips gave a very interesting Easter pageant called "Dawning." About fifty boys and girls took part.

The week end Christian Life Conference for young people was well attended. This was in charge of Miss Davison wso was assisted by the young people and teachers of Thorsby Institute. Lois Thompson was chairman of the conference and Ruth Prim was secretary.

Various addresses were heard. Among the speakers were Dean J. C. Rogers of Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., Rev. A. R. VanCleave of Southern Union College, Wadley, Alabama, Dr. Steelman of Alabama College, Montevallo and Rev. Don West, a mountain poet. At the banquet Saturday, 120 were in attendance. This was in the dining hall. The color scheme was pink and green. The place cards were in the shape of rabbits. The banquet was prepared by the dormitory girls, under the direction of Miss Leech. Everything was very apetizing. There was singing and cheers during the banquet. At the close, toasts were given by several young people. After discussions in the afternoon there was an Easter egg hunt followed by a picnic supper. Saturday night at the dining hall for an hour there was a social for which games had been planned. After this Dean Rogers spoke in the auditorium and the Mt. Creek representation gave a short play having service as the theme.

Sunday morning an Easter sunrise service was held followed by an outdoor breakfast. Easter carols were sung after this at various homes. Rev. VanCleave was the preacher at the morning service. In the afternoon the Southern Union College group had charge of the first part of the service, then the Piedmont group took charge under Miss Hazel Maddox. Miss Laura Rogers, daughter of Dean Rogers, played a beautiful violin solo. Miss Maddox gave a short talk and the group gave a demonstration that brought out the idea that sacrifice and service are the most important things in life. The communion service was in charge of Rev. F. P. Ensminger, D. D. of Demorest, Ga. It was one of the best conferences held at Thorsby. Phares Raybon was elected chairman for next year, Edith Foss, secretary and Christine Dopson, treasurer.

Thursday and Friday are examination days, ending the fifth term.

Tuesday morning at chapel the Bible class, which has been studying recently the book of Acts, gave a dramatization of chapters 24, 25 and 26, showing Paul's defense before Felix Festus and Agrippa. The Bible class is taught by Miss Klingelhoefer. The program was under her direction.

D. M. PAXSON DEAD

Many Thorsby people were interested last week to learn of the death of Mr. D. M. Poxson. Mr. and Mrs. Paxson had been esteemed residents of Thorsby for about thirteen years, until last June when they removed to Gainsville, Georgia, to make their home with a daughter and granddaughter. Mr. Paxson was nearly 81 years of age, having been born in Henry County, Ohio, April 23, 1852. He and his wife were married in August, 1872, and so had spent more than sixty years of married life together. The larger part of their lives was spent in Alabama. Mr. Paxson was a contractor and builder. He had been responsible for large contracts in different parts of the state and had lived in Mobile, Tallassee and Gorgas, before he came to Thorsby in 1919 to spend their declining years.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Hall in Gainsville, Ga., and Mrs. Laird of Hollywood, California. He leaves also three granddaughters. Their friends will recall the tragic death of a granddaughter, Peggy Davis, France, a few years ago. Mr. Paxson's strength had been gradually failing for some months and he passed away very peacefully last Thursday morning, April 13. Mrs. Paxson and Mrs. Hall, accompanied the remains to Birmingham, where on Saturday afternoon, they were laid to rest in their last resting place, in the beautiful Elmwood cemetery by the side of two grandchildren long since deceased.

Brief services were conducted in Johns Funeral chapel by Rev. E. W. Butler of Thorsby. The only other Thorsby people able to attend the services were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mead and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Thompson and Mrs. H. M. Gerald.

Mrs. Caroline Skinnes died at the Clanton hospital Tuesday morning. The funeral was held at the Lutheran church on Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Pate and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mims spent Sunday in Collins Chapel community with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Gore.

County Farm Agent's Notes

BAKER 4-H CLUB

The Baker 4-H Club met last Wednesday night, April 12th, with a good attendance. We had some topics discussed by some of the members, which were very interesting.

We have all our officers to their places and we think all the members and parents are going to help us all they can, and we are going to put up a good fight for the club.

Mr. Hamilton was with us at our meeting and made us a splendid talk, which I think will help all the members in their work. We are going to debate some later. All boys had better come and join so you can help us with it.

All parents and any one wishing to come, have a special invitation to come and help us. Remember our meeting dates and come.—Earl Lowery, Reporter.

THIRD ONE-VARIETY

Gadsden, Ala., April 13.—Alford's Bend is the third one-variety cotton community in Alabama. This community is across the Coosa River from Coates Bend, which was the first community in Alabama to achieve the distinction of being a one-variety community. All farmers in these communities plant only one variety of cotton. It is D. P. L. 4-8, which is a leader in tests conducted by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The cotton improvement program in this county is a result of the educational work of County Agent L. L. Self. The second one-variety community is Lily Flagg, Madison County.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Longcrier and Leslie, Jr., of Montgomery, spent Sunday afternoon here with relatives and friends.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q. By what means can we get eggs for hatching which do not carry the white diarrhea disease?

A. This disease is also called Pullorum, and it is one of the worst diseases of baby chicks. Hens which are carriers of the disease lay eggs which will hatch into chicks with the disease. The remedy or prevention is to test the hens from which incubation eggs are to be saved. The test is very simple, but to be reliable must be made by the county agent or thru his office, so as to be sure that the flock from which the eggs come is free from the terrible disease. Write to your state experiment station and ask to have the flock tested before saving the eggs for hatching. When baby chicks are bought from public hatchery, you should be sure that the eggs are from tested flocks.

Q. What flowers or plants would you suggest planting on the north side of a building which receives very little sunshine?

A. In such a place plant ferns, pansies, violets, lilies-of-the-valley; and if you want vines, grow English ivy or creeping myrtle.

Q. Is it too late to sow grass seed in the lawn?

A. If the rains are abundant in your region, grass seed may be sown at this time, provided it includes considerable English rye grass which comes up rather promptly. A little white clover and a little blue grass or a little red-top grass may be mixed with the rye grass. Rake in the seed and then pack the surface with a broad packer or roll with a light roller.

BETTER COTTON

Russellville, Ala., April 12.—In his effort to induce farmers to plant better cotton, J. D. Wood, veteran Franklin County agent, is giving wide circulation through the press and in meetings to such success stories as that of Mr. S. N. Ozbirn of Atwood community.

Mr. Ozbirn produced and sold 19 bales, 15 of which stapled one inch and 4 of which stapled 15-16 inch. On the date of sale 7-8 inch cotton was being sold 30 points off December, while Mr. Ozbirn sold his crop for 40 points on December or a premium of $3.50 per bale.

Huntsville, Ala., April 17. — The Lily Flagg one-variety cotton community has grown until 5,600 acres are now included in this area which is producing only one improved variety of cotton, reports J. B. Mitchell, county agent. The original area that was planted to ont variety was only 3,600 acres, but 2,000 acres are being added this spring, with the result that all the cotton on the Whitesburg Pike from Huntsville to the Tennessee River this year will be on the D. P. L. 4-8 variety.

SORGHUM SPLENDID FOR FILLING SILO

Auburn, Ala., April 17.—An excellent crop for Alabama farmers to grow for filling silos is sorghum. It is a very heavy yielder, is adapted to most of the soils of the state, and withstands drouth exceedingly well, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The Texas seeded ribbon (gooseneck) variety is the most desirable one for silage purposes, he said. This is a tall-growing, late veriety. He urges formers to save seed on their own farms for all planting needs. In purchasing seed, farmers should be very careful to get seed true to variety, he added.

He emphasized the importance of preparing land for sorghum well, in order that the young, tender plants may grow off readily and make cultivation easy. "Sorghum should be planted on fertile wall drained bottom land, or after a good crop of either hairy vetch or Austrian winter peas has been turned," he said.

Heavy applications of stable manure will increase the yields. If commercial fertilizers must be applied, a side-dressing of nitrogen fertilizer at the second cultivation, or about the time growth starts, is recommended. Sorghum is a heavy feeder on nitrogen.

Farmers usually plant sorghum in 3 to 3 1-2 foot rows, and use about 10 to 12 pounds of seed per acre. It should be planted when all danger of frost is past. May is the usual planting month in most sections of the state.

COUNTY AGENT ADVISES ABOUT FARM FENCE POST

During the past few years considerable interest has been shown by farmers in growing black locust for fence posts. Mr. Stapp states that black locust seed will soon be available by the department at Auburn, at a cast of 50 cents per pound. He further states that about one-fourth pound will give the average farmer a nice supply of fence posts in a few years time. Mr. Stapp requests that any farmer interested in growing black locust come and see him at an early date.

RULES FOR FARM LOAN EXPLAINED

Auburn, Ala., April 16.—Borrowers are free to use the proceeds of production loans made by the government through the Secretary of Agriculture for any needed supplies within the regulations, and are free to purchase whatever brand or manufacture of goods that suits them best or which they find to be most economical.

This ruling was announced by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and is based on instructions received from C. W. Warburton, who is in charge of production loans for the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Regulations governing crop production loans made to farmers by the government through the Secretary of Agriculture, contain no requirement or suggestion regarding the brand or manufacture of supplies to be purchased with the proceeds of the loans," Dr. Warburton said.

Dr. Duncan has written county agents of the ruling and they will pass it on to farmers as a part of their educational work.

The impression is current in some quarters that the U. S. Department of Agriculture requires fertilizer purchased with proceeds of Government production loans to be an American-made product. "This impression is incorrect," Dr. Duncan said. "No preference or suggestion of a preference is shown."

NATIONAL FORESTS IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., April 18. — The extension of the national forest system to include lands in the Tennessee Valley was authorized by an act of the legislature approved by the governor April 10. The legislature has thus responded effectively to the demands of the situation in connection with the president's proposed development plan for that part of the state.

The bill was introduced in the house by Mr. H. L. Reeder of Florence and ably handled by him and his associates in the senate through to final passage. Prior to the enactment of the new law, the federal government was limited in its acquisition of new lands to the present exterior boundaries of the existing Alabama National Forest. The extension of authority granted, however, opens up a wide field for the establishment of additional forests.

GAME AND FISHERIES

Montgomery, Ala., April 18.—Indications that the woodcock, a popular game bird several years ago before the accuracy of nimrods thinned its rank, is becoming more prolific are contained in reports received by the Alabama Department of Game and Fisheries.

Ted Cottrell and Marvin Whatley, district game wardens at Birmingham, reported that George Swindle, paymaster of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Rairroad company, saw a woodcock near Eutaw recently and later discovered a nest with two eggs in it.

Another report from warden Arnold Hale of Boligee, stated that L. H. Dearman of that place had made a similar find in Greene County. Commissioner I. T. Quinn expressed the belief it might be one and the same bird, but it is not infrequent that the department receives reports of woodcocks being sighted in different parts of the state.

The appearance of four strange birds near his home piqued the curiosity of Thomas H. Smith of Fort Payne. When the attempted to dislodge a woodpecker from its nest in the top of a dead tree, he became more intensely interested in these pugnacious little birds.

He described them as about the size of catbirds, dark brown on the back and wings and almost black on the breast. The back and wings bore yellow spots and the breast white spots. The most distinguishing thing was a large yellow bill.

Mr. Smith said he thought they might be starlings and his description tallies very closely with that of the starling. The starling began to appear in this state in Dekalb County and other northeastern counties a few years ago. They are now appearing in increasing numbers in that section of Alabama and some have been seen in the vicinity of Montgomery.

The new Carmichael fishing law, granting trip fishing licenses for one week to non-residents for a fee of $2.00 per fisherman, already has demonstrated its magnetism. The biggest magnet thus far has been the Tennessee river. Fifty applications were filed at Florence, where Muscle Shoals is located, by out-of-state residents desiring to fish on that river within two weeks after the passage of the act.

JACKSON CHAPEL 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Jackson Chapel 4-H Club boys were expected to meet last Saturday afternoon. They were surprised that the Club leader did not come to the meeting. The Lomax boys gave the Club boys some baseball practice last Saturday.

Mr. W. V. Cowart was a visitor of the club last Saturday.

If the farmers are interested in the Club meetings they are invited to attend the meetings. We have arranged to have our meetings every two weeks. The business meeting will be about the last of the month.—Calvin Williamson, Club Reporter.

Miss Holtsfield of Montgomery visited friends here Sunday.

BANKHEAD AMENDS BILL TO SAVE INDIVIDUAL MERCHANT

Washington, Apr. 14.—On motion of Senator John H. Bankhead, the Senate committee on agriculture Tuesday wrote into the farm relief bill an amendment applying the tax on stocks of goods to those held by chain stores while exempting stocks of individual merchants.

The bill, as it passed the House, provided for a tax on stocks on hand camparable to the tax placed upon manufacutrers of the commodities included in the measure, but exempted stocks held by retail dealers. Senator Bankhead's amendment removes from the retailers exemption stocks held in stores of which more than two are owned, managed or controlled by a single interest. It is similar to the provision in the domestic allotment bill which the House passed in the last session but which failed of action in the Senate.

Senator Bankhead virtually has been in charge of the administration's farm relief bill during its consideration in the Senate committee, on account of the original opposition of the chairman, Senator Smith. The latter, however, has accepted the bill now that it is well on its way to passage in the Senate in practically the form in which President Roosevelt desires it. The bill incorporates the land lashing plan which Mr. Bankhead began advocating as a means of reducing over-production of farm commodities more than a year ago.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Mr. John Clower is working in Birmingham this week.

Mr. Will Kellum and Mr. Joe Lucas of Belle Ellen visited the Misses Champions Friday.

Mrs. Lizzie Crumpton of Macedonia community visited Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Crumpton last week.

Miss Virginia Price, of Jemison, spent the week end with Mrs. Roxie Price and family.

Mrs. Pearl Tubbs from near Birmingham is visiting relatives here.

Mr. Sam Woodley is working in Mr. Henderson Hayes's store at Jemison during the strawberry season.

Miss Margaret Hodgens has been visiting relatives near Birmingham for the past two weeks.

The following B. Y. P. U. officers for the Senior Union have been elected: President, Govers Price; vice president, Lance Franklin; secertary, Laura Adair; corresponding secretary, Agnes Compton, treasurer, Maurice Hodgens, choister, Wilson Clements; pianist, Gwendolyn Clements; quizz leader, Ada Rascoe; group captains, Misses Mary Clements and Velma Price; general secretary, Mrs. Lois Woodley; leader for the Juniors, Miss Willie C. Clements.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Where Do We Go From Here?

The Bible says "Feed the sheep." It does not say "Beat the sheep." Nothing irritates me so much as to see someone drive a hungry team. When the horse is well fed and well taken care of, I expect him to pull the load. The trouble with our churches is that we have been so busy with programs that we haven't time to feed the people. We have a lot of starved church members. They have about made up their minds to stop pulling. What the preachers ought to do is to take the team out and feed them, and then hitch them up again.

A story is told of a poor woman who stood for the first time on the seashore. She looked out at the expanse of water and said, "Well, that's one thing there is plenty of." There is plenty of everything that God gives. There is plenty of space. There are more stars than telescopes can discover. God puts more blossoms on a fruit tree than it can bear. The tree has to throw off some of the blossoms to make room for the fruit. God throws away the beauty of the daydawn on eyes that never appreciate the beauty. He paints the exquisite coloring of the sunset and men rarely look in that direction.

Is heaven a city foursquare? I mean a literal city. I rather think so. "You know, heaven couldn't be a city hanging up in space," is what a friend said to me. "Why not?," I inquired. "This earth is eight thousand miles in diameter and twenty-five thousand miles in circumference, and it hangs in space. If God could hang all these worlds in space, why couldn't He create a city and hang it in the sky? He could if he wanted to."

"I am not interested in the 'sweet by-and-by'," is what a preacher told me not long ago. "I am interested in the 'now-and-now'," he said. That sounds wise, but the preacher was wrong. He is interested in what is to come after this life. I want to do all I can to bring beauty and joy to the human heart, but I know I can't stay here long. "Where do we go from here?," is the question that has confronted every human being. Surely God would not put this longing for immortality in our hearts and then disappoint our longing. There must be life beyond this life, or this life itself has no meaning.

SQUIBS OF INTEREST CLIPPED FROM L. & N. EMPLOYES' MAG.

The two-cents-a-mile inaugurated on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad April 1st is a reduction of more than 44 per cent under the general fare of 3.6 cents a mile in this country, according to the L. & N. Magazine for April, which points out that the public may now travel via L. & N. for about one-third of the total cost of making a trip by automobile. The three-cent fare in pullman and parlor cars, together with the elimination of the surcharge, reduces the cost of this type of travel approximately 20 per cent.

Anticipating a heavy increase of traffic as result of the reduced fares, the L. & N. is making a survey to determine which of its discontinued passenger trains should be reinstated and to arrange schedules to meet the public need, the magazine says.

During the first ten days of the operation of its store-door delivery plan which was inaugurated on March 15, the less-than-carload freight business of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad at Birmingham showed a 40 per cent increase over the corresponding period in February. Many other stations showed nice increases, and others made a much better showing than was anticipated before the plan became operative.

D. W. Boyd, depot agent at Calera, has recently retired from his position and has been put on the pension list. Mr. Boyd is 66 years old and has been in the L. & N. service 46 years.

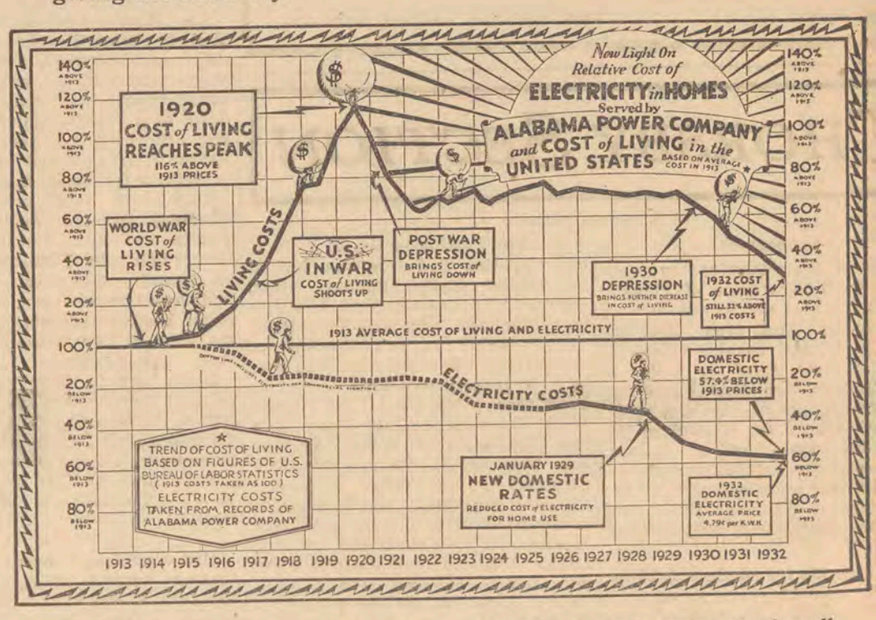
Facts ...about our ELECTRIC RATES

ALABAMA householders are now paying considerably LESS THAN HALF as much for electricity today as they did 20 years ago, and more than ONE THIRD LESS THAN THEY PAID only six years ago. These and other indisputable facts about the decline in the rates of electricity in Alabama are graphically shown in this rate chart. We invite you to write for folder giving the full story.



(1) Alabama's power rates are among the lowest in the nation for like service.

(2) Alabama's average rate for all domestic service has declined over 37% in the past 5 years alone.

(3) Alabama's average rate for electricity in the home (Domestic Rate) is 57.4% BELOW 1913 prices; whereas cost of living in the U. S. is still 32% ABOVE 1913 prices.

(4) Alabama's average rate for all domestic service throughout the State is 14% BELOW the national average.

(5) Alabama's average rate for domestic electricity in 1932 was only 4.79c per kilowatt hour.

(6) Alabama's average rate for home electric service has gone steadily DOWNWARD since this company was organized.

SPRING POETRY

Compositions by Fifth Grade Pupils of the Clanton Grammar School

Spring Time

Out in the woods
The trees are green,
And the birds are seen
In their nests of green.

Out in the woods
And down by a brook,
I'd like to stroll
With a good story book.
—LAMURLE DELOACH.

Spring

Spring brings the green trees
And the gentle breeze,
The bird's bright feather
And the nice warm weather.

It brings the spring showers
And the sweet flowers.
The butterflies fly
Underneath the blue sky.

The children's faces gleam
With the light of a sunbeam.
They laugh and shout,
And jump about.
—SARA ELIZABETH VENABLE.

Spring

The birds are chirping,
The trees are green,
The brook is rippling,
Wild flowers are seen.

The dogwood is blooming,
So wildly for me,
Gay birdies are singing,
In the old cherry tree.
—LEWIS CLIFFORD POPWELL.

Spring

Down in the brook
The trout are swimming,
The fisherman, taking his hook,
His daily work is beginning.

The little squirrels in the tree
Are dropping acorns on me,
While birdies in the cherry tree,
Are singing pretty songs to me.
—RAY MILLER.

Spring In The Woods

The violets are bright and right over here.
The trees and birds rustle and cheer
Away out in the woods.
The bushes and the flowers
Are watered by the spring showers
Away out in the woods.

In the spring the woods are happy,
In the valleys they are sappy
Away out in the woods.
The redbird, robin and the wren
Like to go and eat with the hens,
Away out in the woods.

When you go down around the brook
All the fairies like to look,
Away out in the woods.
They fly about and pull the leaves
They pull the acorns with perfect ease,
Away out in the woods.
—KENNETH THOMPSON.

Spring

Out in the woods where the grass is green,
Out to some grand old, beautiful scene.
Out to see many a pretty thing,
That's where I'd like to go in the spring.

Out where all the berries grow,
Out where all the roamers go,
Out to see many a pretty thing,
That's where I'd like to go in the spring.

Out where all the vines are growing,
Out where all the birds are soaring,
Out to see many a pretty thing.
That's where I'd like to go in the spring.

Out where clever but dumb little scouts,
Go slipping and sliding and tumbling about,
Out to see many a pretty thing.
That's where I'd like to go in the spring.
—BLANCHE TIMMERMAN.

Spring

Now the grass is turning green,
And the dear old earth is a pretty scene.
All about us flowers grow,
While we sit thinking in a row.
—ELIZABETH ARMSTRONG.

Spring

The melody of spring is beautiful,
Ah, who would mind being dutiful?
With the harmony of the birds and bees,
And the waving of majestic trees?
Oh, gladly we all our gifts will bring
To thee, beautiful, joyous spring.

Oh, spring, we lift our voices high
To sing thy praises to the sky
So all shall know that God has made
The flowers and the mossy glade.
—GRACE HICKS EZELL.

Spring

Oh, how the birds sing!
How they circle in a ring;
How the blossoms
Look like big 'possums.

Oh, how the sun is shining so bright.
And now the moon shines a tnight,
Down by the old brook,
Where a fish is on the hook.
—BILLY MADDOX.

Spring

Out in the woods
The cool brooks flow,
Out in the woods
The green trees grow.

Up in the trees
The little birds sing,
Because they know
It is now spring.
—ELAINE BURDETTE.

Spring Time

Said the violet, "Spring is here,
I do not fear."
Said the brook, "I am a funny thing,
For now I want to sing."
Said the honeysuckle, "I am bright, and I present a pretty sight."
Said the dogwood, "Some people are cruel, but I am like a little jewel."
Then said the sweet pea,"I am small,
But I heard spring call."
—JIMMIE WYATT.

Spring

I sat by a brook one spring-like day,
And watched the squirrels come out to play.
The violets were purple, the skies were blue.
We watched the robins, and away they flew.

The trees were green as green could be;
The woodland creatures were happy and free.
"'Tis spring time now," I said,"I know."
Spring is our friend, not our foe.
—THOMAS PYRON.

Spring

The roses are blooming,
The birdies are cooing,
The brooks are bubbling,
The flowers are cudling
Into the grass beside the brook,
Where a little girl sits with her book.

It's time for us to go swim
In the pond by the elm.
Down the sliding board,
Off the diving board,
We shout with joy and glee,
Feeling happy, gay and free.
—ANNIE CORDELIA SMITH.

Spring

Here are the trees,
The birds and the bees,
Singing and growing
And smiling and growing,
And smiling at me.

Here comes the robin
Singing to me
I was sick and blue,
But now I'm as happy as he.
—KINYON VINSON.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Last Saturday night and Sunday were our regular preaching days. We had a large crowd in attendance. Everybody enjoyed the sermon.

We sure had a good Sunday school Sunday afternoon. Our Sunday school is still progressing. We got 13 new members Sunday; so everybody come back next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and bring someone with you. Also there will be prayer meeting next Sunday night at Mt. Springs.

Mrs. Paralee Taylor of Elmore County was the Saturday night guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lubie Moats.

Rev. A. C. Nelson and family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Giles Saturday night and they took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Henson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Carroll were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Giles Saturday night.

Mr. Oscar Williamson and Miss Estell Giles got married Saturday night. We wish them a happy and succesful life.

Remember we will give away the quilt next third Saturday night. If you want a chance, see the ladies of the Ladies Aid.

(Dan Smith)

Well, tomorrow night is the night of nights. Those who fail to come to the high school tomorrow night will miss the time of their life. Take it from me. Just think what you will see at the prices of only 15 and 25 cents. A darn good play and entertainment between acts that will make you forget all your troubles. Oh, boy! this is the best thing that has been presented to the folks of Clanton since Buck was a calf. So don't fail to see "Girl Shy" at the high school tomorrow night.

Come on, Margaret, bring those seniors out!

Congratulations, Mr. Little! Fellow students, one of our dear teachers will leave us next year and bestow his intellect, personality, school spirit and friendship on another group of students. Mr. Little has been elected to serve as the principal of the Clanton Grammar School next year. Do we envy those Grammar school kids?

The Senior III class realized a neat sum from their subscription campaign last week. This campaign was put on through the Curtiss Publishing Company, publishers of a number of popular magazines. The class wants to thank all those who helped in this worthy project.

Only about four more weeks until school is out.

See Helen Moore as the wash woman tomorrow night.

Personal quiblings—Where did Jarrell get all his talent—What is the tune to "Bury me deep on the Lone Praire"—Have all of our teachers read that article in the Readers Digest—Do all the teachers know their respective nicknames — Where did Punchie get his S. A.—Why is the music room so popular at dinner—?

The Chilton County High school is to have the honor of having Mr. J. A. Kellar, of Andulusia, superintendent of school there, to deliver the baccalaureate address of the graduating class of 1933. Mr. Kellar is now the president of the Alabama Education Association. Every one is cordially invited to hear this inspiring message.

The Utopian Science Club of our school has selected the pins they will wear for this year. According to reports the pins have already been ordered and are expected soon. The pins will bear the following inscription: U. S. C., C.C.H.S. and '33.

We students were very much entertained yesterday at the chapel period when the Senior III class presented a mock trial of all the members of the faculty. Each teacher was tried before the court for something he or she had done or was doing. Louie Alford presided as the judge, Ralph Culver was the bailiff, Wayne Hilton was the prosecuting attorney and Calvin Minor was the defending lawyer.

Last Wednesday an account of the trip to the cotton mill was made by the members of the Chemistry class. Hilda Hart, Tina Hyman and Louie Alford took part on this program.

Things are taking on an air of improvement down at the ball park. Bill Simpson and several other baseball addicts are putting the old park in tip top condition.

Something new in the history of dear old Chilton County High will take place on the campus next week. The tennis club which has been very popular, outsiders as well as the teachers will stage their first tennis tournament. The ladies double will be played Monday afternoon on the club court. The best two out of three sets will decide the winner until the finals then the three out of five will tell.

Don't forget the play tomorrow night. Bring your fifteen and twenty-five cents. Several of the students have tickets to sell, so see them early so you can get your ticket.

Below is given an account of the trip to the cotton mill, made by the chemistry class, under the direction of Mr. J. B. Varnell.

This report submitted by Joe Moore was chsen by Mr. Vernall from the entire class as the one to be published.

"The very first steps in making cloth out of cotton is to have the cotton. This cotton is bought as brought to the mill and stored in warehouses. They usually have a large supply on hand, and this is a good grade, mostly strict middling, with a staple of fifteen sixteenths to more than an inch.

The cleaning room is next. This is where the cotton is brougrt into in ton-bale lots. They are untied and laid near the feeding end of the clearance. When all of the bales are put in mixed together, they have a wide assortment to pick from, thus assuring them a fair grade of cotton.

After they go through the cleaning process the cotton is then blown from the cleaning room to the feeding and rolling room through a large pipe. After reaching this room it is in a knotty form. Cotton is fed into one of the machines by hand, and it goes through two machines where it is beat, and at last it is rolled, like cloth, on a large spool. The spool of raw cotton is then weighed and graded again. Then it is ready for the spinning room.

The rolls of cotton are brought into the spinning room and are put on the machinery, where they begin their first journey on the way to thread. The rolls slowly unwind and the cotton is drawn through one side of the machine that contains fine wire-like teeth for the purpose of tearing apart the rolled cotton. It comes out on the other side of the machine in the form of a spidery web, and goes into a small hole about one inch in diameter, there it goes through another twisting concern and out of that into a long cylinder-like container. From there it is carried to the next machine and fed through again and retwisted.

This process is carried on through the plant until the desired size of thread is obtained. The thread can be twisted very small. When the thread is as small as desired, it is taken off the machines in the form of a bobin and put in chutes according to size. These chutes go right down into the preparing room.

The bobins are taken out in the preparing room and put on a machine which winds this thread from the bobin to a large spool which will hold about twenty thousand feet. These spools are then carried to a rack and put on it. The rack will hold from four hundred and fifty to around five hundred. These spools are wound on a long drum or spool, which is about a yard wide. This thread is wound straight, and about eighteen thousand feet are wound on it. This large drum of thread is then put on a machine and the threads are coated with a lardy substance and corn starch. After this is done it is brushed by hand and cleaned. The reason for this coating is to increase the durability of it. Another machine in that department is a machine for making rope which is used in the mill. After the thread is prepared it is then ready for spinning or the weaving.

The first step in weaving is putting the thread on the weaving machine. After this is done the bobins are loaded and it is ready for weaving. The way the designs are changed is by a small chain with pegs in it. The pegs are moved to change the pattern. These machines are run by automatic control. The bobin is knocked back and forth between the thread and it is woven. If one thread breaks in this weaving the machine automatically stops, until the thread is found and re-tied. The cloth is wound on a roller and when a certain amount is reached it is taken off and is ready for the finishing room.

The cloth is first carried into the finishing room and is re-rolled on a large spool. After that the cloth is tested and assorted according to the grades and designs. Then the cloth is put in a machine and folded. Then the cloth is weighed and packed ready for shipment.

WHAT IS HAPPENING TO YOU?

IF you are among those who are trying to get along without telephone service, a number of things are likely happening that may directly influence the welfare of yourself and family.

You are probably missing the pleasant, informal gatherings that are arranged by telephone. Or, if there are children in the home, they no doubt feel cut off from the happy contacts that the telephone affords.

Being without a telephone also deprives you of the means of calling the doctor quickly, or getting help in case of fire or other emergencies. In short, the home without a telephone today is isolated.

The cost is less than ten cents a day. Any telephone employe will explain the party line and other classes of service.

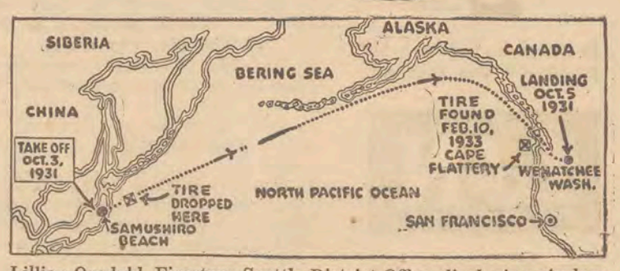
Tire Dropped by World Fliers Drifts 4400 Miles Across Pacific



Lillian Ousdahl, Firestone Seattle District Office, displaying airplane tire which drifted across Pacific. Map shows course of its travels.

An amazing ocean journey of 4400 miles made by a Firestone airplane tire dropped by Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon in their epoch making round the world flight in 1931 has just come to light through the discovery of the tire afloat in the Pacific off Cape Flattery, state of Washington.

Stranger than fiction, the story of the tire's wanderings constitutes a romantic episode without parallel in maritime and aviation history. The world fliers cast the tire into the sea with the rest of the undercarriage of their plane shortly after taking off from Samushiro Beach in Japan October 3, 1931, their purpose being to lighten their burden and thus to save gasoline and gain speed. Two days later they made their famous "fishtail" landing at Wenatchee, Washington, sliding to a stop on the metal "belly" of the plane.

No one ever expected again to hear of the discarded landing gear. Weighted with heavy metal, it was supposed to have gone to a watery grave from which it could never return. But one of the tires at least had other plans. Through the buoyancy of the still fully inflated tube, it came to the surface and, carrying the wheel with it, began its remarkable voyage to American shores.

The course it followed was presumably the same as that taken by the fliers, but the time consumed was more than sixteen months as against two days they required for the trip. The tire was discovered bobbing up and down in the ocean by Captain Ivar Baggen of the schooner Presho less than two hundred miles from the spot where Pangborn and Herndon landed on their return to this country.

After Captain Baggen had brought the airplane tire ashore, the mystery of where it had come from was soon cleared. Through its serial number molded into the sidewall, its identification was established by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

CIRCUIT COURT HERE

Hiker—No, I can't say I have.

He—In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

She—Yes, big boy, but you think spring is here every time you get into a warm room.

Natives of the Carolinas are noted for their great politeness. A passenger was enjoying a smoke in the smoking car. From time to time he expectorated with great satisfaction out of the open window.

The rush of the air caused by the fast flying train must have interfered with his aim, for a tall, lean Californian in the seat just back of him touched him lightly on the shoulder and remarked with great politeness: "Mistah, you done spit on me four times an' I ain't said nothing about it. I wouldn't say nothing now, ceptin' I got on my best suit of clothes."

"I suppose you miss your boy while he is at college?"

"Yep," replied farmer Corntassel, "I dunno what I'll do without him. He got the livestock so they won't move unless he gives 'em the college yell, an' I can't remember it."

CLEAN-UP WORK STARTS MONDAY

People of Town and County Are Urged To Give Full Cooperation

One of the most important and impressive clean-up campaigns Clanton has ever had will start next Monday, May 1st, and continue through Saturday, May 13th, with the city cooperating extensively with the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring this movement and at the meeting last Thursday night at the Exchange Hotel, representatives from the city council as guests of the club began making plans for the city to do its share in this work.

It is hoped to make this clean-up campaign the best ever had in Clanton, and the Kiwanis Club and others taking part in sponsoring it, are seeking the cooperation of all the people of Clanton and would like to see it extended throughout the county.

The club hopes that the campaign in Clanton will only be a starter for a county-wide clean-up campaign, not only to improve the appearance of our county, but also from a standpoint of health conditions. This county-wide suggestion comes from Mr. Kitchens, a representative of the Federal Land Bank, who travels over this county considerably. Mr. Kitchens states he would offer one year subscriptions to the newspapers in the county for the best showings in rural sections in each Commissioner Districts, of homes on the greatest improvement in appearance of the premises. Those who think they will have the greatest improvement in the rural homes during this campaign are asked to notify Mr. Kitchens before and after the campaign.

The Kiwanis Club in sponsoring this movement is anxious not only to make towns in the county clean, healthful, but is anxious to see every farm home made as attractive as possible. A marked improvement can be made my moving old farm implements, broken automobiles and other articles, from the front of homes to some place in the rear, and by doing a little grading around the front of homes. It will be surprising how a little careful planning and a little work will improve a place.

The people of Clanton are asked to keep on the lookout next week, after this campaign starts, for the city truck and the street cleaning crew. The city truck will go about town, gathering up trash and garbage when placed at advantgeous points by the homes where cleaning is going on. Let's all get behind this movement and attend to the smallest details in making Clanton a more attractive town.

WAR VETS MEET MONDAY NIGHT

Trotter Jones and J. M. McLellan of Montgomery Will Speak

Capt. R. D. Woodson, commander of Chilton County Post of the American Legion, issues a special call to all World War Veterans of the county to attend the next meeting of the Post on Monday night, May 1st at the courthouse in Clanton.

On this occasion the Post will have two distinguished visitors in the person of Mr. J. M. McLellan, past commander of the department of Georgia, and D. Trotter Jones, adjutant of the Alabama Department. These visitors will come with a very valuable message which should be heard by every soldier in Chilton County.

At this meeting it is expected to give the veterans an outline of how the new federal laws will apply to soldiers benefits through the Veterans administration.

Monday night, May 1st, is the regular monthly meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary. A short business meeting of the units will be held, after which the visiting gentlemen will speak. The ladies of the auxiliary will join in hearing the speeches.

All ex-soldiers of the county are urged to attend and bring their wives The business sessions will begin at 7:30 o'clock, after which the speaking will take place.

Wisconsin Tuesday became the second state to ratify national prohibition repeal when one woman and 14 men, elected delegates to the constitutional convention, voted unanimously for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Michigan was the first state to ratify the amendment by convention.

JOHN BAREFIELD KILLED BY A PISTOL WOUND

John C. Barefield, age 69 years, died at his home at Minooka last Wednesday morning as a result of a pistol wound in the head. The bullet entered the center of the forehead, ranged downward and came out at the base of the skull.

Coroner J. Mell Martin, was summoned to the home to make investigation. After completing his examination of all the circumstances, the verdict of the coroner was that Mr. Barefield came to his death by the accidental discharge of a pistol in his own hands.

For the past twenty years Mr. Barefield has been operator of the railroad pump at Minooka.

Funeral services were conducted at Providence Thursday afternoon by Rev. Johnson, of Jemison. Burial was in charge of Martin. The deceased is survived by his wife, six sons and one daughter.

BATTLE IN G.O.P. NEAR SHOWDOWN

Whether Hoover Aids Are To Retain Party Control Is Issue at Stake

Washington, April 24.—A conflict within the Republican ranks over whether friends of Herbert Hoover shall continue in control of the party organization for the next four years appeared Monday night to be nearing a showdown.

It flared into the open Monday when it became known that high ranking members of the Hoover administration had formed an organization known as "Republican Federal Associates" to work for party success in the 1934 congressional and the 1936 presidential elections.

When news of the development reached Capitol Hill, Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, told newspaper men it was "too early" to begin any plans to rebuild the party.

Old guard forces who fought the nomination of Hoover in 1928, consider the new organization an attempt by the former president's followers to retain control. They are watching the situation closely and are ready to act when they believe the proper time has arrived.

The group is headed by Ogden L. Mills, the Hoover secretary of the treasury, and Walter F. Brown, the Hoover postmaster general. Four other members of the Hoover cabinet and six members of his "little cabinet" are participating actively.

McNary said it will be time to consider reorganization "after we determine the value of the present emergency program."

"The party," he added "must agree on broad progressive policies of government and leadership must arise from men in whom the public has implicit confidence."

Among the purposes of the organization, as outlined in a letter sent out to prospective members, is "maintaining the national credit and integrity of the national emergency."

Within the past few days, Mills has been active in opposing President Roosevelt's inflation program. He was one of the signers of a Republican statement assailing the administration's fiscal proposals. Incidentally, it was not signed by McNary.

The letter said the plan of organization "contemplates a select group of members in each congressional district throughout the country, who will work actively in their several communities to promote the objects of the organization, including the nomination and election of candidates who will support Republican principles both before and after elections."

"SIMON-PURE SIMPLETON" AT CHILTON COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

Another smashing hit for the entertainment of the populace of Clanton and Chilton County, Friday night, May 5, the Senior III Class of the Chilton County High school will present its annual graduate play. The title of this four-star play is "The Simon-Pure Simpleton."

The name itself is enough to make all lovers of good rollicking comedies to crowd the auditorium. Besides, this is the regular annual Senior play and never in the history of the school has the seniors offered a play that was not fit to be seen. And the play this year promises to surpass all which have gone before.

So, good citizens of this good town of Clanton, feel that old school spirit that was abundant in your person when you attended the little red schoolhouse, and come out next Friday night at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium and see the play of your life. No kiddin'. Again here is the date, May 5, at 8 o'clock, and the admission is only 15 and 25 cents.

REPRESENTATIVE PITTS ACCOUNTS FOR HIS ACTIONS IN LEGISLATURE

Chilton Representative Reviews His Position on Important Issues of Taxation and Meausures To Bring Further Economy in Operation of State Government

To the Citizens of Chilton County:

Since the legislature has recently adjourned, I desire to take this method of giving you an account of my stwardship, as your representative.

You will doubtless recall that Gov. Miller did not include in his call of a special session any economy measures, and for that reason under our state constitution, it required a two-thirds vote, instead of a majority vote to pass economy measures. In spite of this fact many economy measures were passed cutting the state's operating expenses, besides others passed in the earlier part of the session. During the last week there was passed through the house and senate a salary slashing bill, which will save the State of Alabama $500,000 yearly. The bill was immediately signed by the governor, and is the present law, much to the apparent disgust of the higher-ups, who are just now beginning to realize that this country is passing through a terrible business depression. The records show that your representative voted for these economy measures as well as proposed measures to abolish useless offices and departments.

Also my record will show that I voted against the one cent gas tax and the sales tax. The last mentioned was the hardest fought for by the administration forces. We sent the sales tax forces to defeat by eight votes, the last day of the session. I had the honor of being selected by the anti-sales tax members of the house as one of a committee of three to lead the fight against the tax on the floor of the house.

After passing economy measures, by reducing salaries, etc., I believe that the state can live well within its income; however, at the same time, can not take care of the twenty million dollars indebtedness, and pay the school warrants, which should be made negotiable and bear interest. For this reason I voted for the resubmission of a limited income tax to the people of the state, which will be voted upon during the month of July of this year. In my humble judgment, the most fair, equitable and just tax of all, is the income tax, where it is imposed upon those who are making money, and are naturally able to pay. Under the proposed measure a married man will have to have a net income of $3,000 per year before he is called upon to pay an income tax, with a five per cent limit on individuals and a three per cent on corporations.

I submit to any person familiar with the state's financial condition, with millions of dollars in out-standing warrants that either a sales tax or income tax, one of the two is inevitable, to care for this deficit.

Today when the federal government is furnishing money to purchase the necessities of life for 80,000 families in Alabama, is it right, fair or just when buying their food and clothing that the state should collect five per cent tax on this money furnished for relief?

I have always been a supporter of our schools and would like for them to continue operating, but during these distressing times and depression I feel like it is a question of food and clothing first and schooling second. For this reason, I could not believe the majority of my constituents desired me to vote for the sales tax.

Realizing the vast majority of the people of this county desired the privilege of electing the county superintendent of education by a direct vote of the people, I passed a bill in the house in 1931. Our senator, Duncan, defeated this bill in the senate. Apparently since the 1931 legislature he saw the error of his way, and introduced a similar bill about a month ago and in fulfilling my promise, I passed the same through the house, without a dissenting vote and the governor signed the same without delay.

There are three propositions which the legislature passed, submitting to the voters during the July special election. First, the Sparks Constitutional Amendment, which amends the constitution in order that constitutional officials' salaries may be reduced, which is an economy measure. The second is what is known as the Warrant Act, which provides that all outstanding warrants will bear a five per cent interest, making the same negotiable. The third proposition to be submitted to the people of the state is the income tax. At a later date I desire to inform the people as to these propositions and fell like the majority of the people in this county will be in favor of all three of the propositions.

Of course, the people of the county are familiar with the fact that a special local election for Chilton County has been called by the Probate Judge in compliance with the county superintendent of education bill passed through the house and senate to elect a county superintendent, which we vote upon during the month of June. —Respectfully yours, Percy M. Pitts.

Clearing Swamp Land Around Clanton

Once more we take our pen in hand to write something on the subject of reclamation of swamp lands around Clanton. The urge which prompted this article was furnished last week, when one day Judge Reynolds carried the writer over to his place near the cotton mill to see a certain little project which he is carrying out.

To begin the story at the beginning, we will say that Judge Reynolds had a few acres of the low and heavily wooded swamp land which he desired to convert into a pasture for his cattle. A brief study of the subject convinced the judge that Mr. Shaw's plan of cutting off the timber and sowing grass seeds right on top of the ground was the best course to take toward securing a pasture.

Being a keen business man, Judge Reynolds then began to figure how to make the swamp timber serve good purpose. His thoughts turned to lumber. It was estimated that he had several thousand feet of good lumber in his little portion of the swamp. A saw mill man with a tractor mill was engaged, and when the land had been cleared and the timber cut, he had over 35,000 feet of usable lumber, some of it very fine hardwood.

Having progressed thus far with favorable success, Judge Reynolds began to figure some more. He concluded to use the lumber to build some houses. This was considered a laudable undertaking, first, because there were people who wanted to live in the houses, and second, because there were carpenters and workmen who wanted a job.

The result of the whole undertaking is now so far advanced as to be able to speak for itself. There are six neat, comfortable new bungalows almost completed alongside the old Thorsby highway, and people either already moved into them, or ready to move in when finally completed. The swamp is cleared off, and the ground sodded in grass. Cattle are grazing all over the place. Ditches have been dug to carry off the excess water.

And when one passes along the road viewing the improved appearance of that section of the swamp, the thought comes up: How beautiful it would be if all the swamp lands around Clanton were subjected to the same or similar processes.

Judge Reynolds has made a practical demonstration of what can be accomplished. Mere words are not adequate to tell the story. It is hoped that every person who has any of our surrounding swamp land will look over and study carefully the Reynolds project. It may be that his plan would not be altogether workable in other instances, but certainly there should be some solution that would ultimately bring us to the clearing of all our swamps, and at the same time bring some profitable results to the landowners. We commend Judge Reynolds for his job.

Different other minor projects of clearing the swamp land of timber have been observed. Dr. Parrish, for the last few years, has been gradually pushing inward on his swamp, making a splendid pasture. Quite a bit of clearing has been done in the neighborhood of the Reynolds Addition east of town. We understand that a project near the Chilton County High School is soon to effect clearing of the swamp which will also furnish lumber to rebuild the fence around the school baseball park.

Some talk has been made of getting some work of ditching and clearing in the swamp done by laborers paid by the R. F. C. funds. Any kind of a feasible project that looks toward helping the condition of Clanton's swamps is indeed to be encouraged and commended as worthwhile to the community at large.

BOB JONES COLLEGES TO MOVE TO CLEVELAND, TENNESSEE

The editor of this paper has received a letter from Dr. Bob Jones, the founder and president of the interdenominational, coeducational, orthodox, Bob Jones College, whose articles appear weekly in this paper, saying that the board of trustees of the Bob Jones College have voted to accept the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce in Cleveland, Tennessee to move Bob Jones College to Cleveland next fall. The Bob Jones College will move into the beautiful buildings formerly occupied by Centenary College. The college will open on September 6. Dr. Jones says, "Our students in the Bob Jones College come from all parts of the world. College Point, Florida, is rather inaccessible. We are moving to Cleveland, Tennessee, where we will be more accessible to our constituency."

The college will have headquarters in Cleveland, Tennessee after June 1.

WANTS BIG MAN TO RUN SCHOOLS

One Who Will Stay Clear of Local Political Issues and Factions

Editor Union-Banner:

I hope if you have space that you will publish the few remarks in this letter.

I am not accustomed to writing in newspapers but I feel so much interested in the welfare and education of the children of Chilton County I want to say a few words to the voters of this county.

I am sure that we will all agree that the education of our children is the biggest and the most important business we have to do with. Considering the number of children and income we have from taxes, we ought to have the best county schools in Alabama and yet it is my information that we are about the bottom of the educational list.

It seems to me that with the county receiving proceeds of 3 cents gasoline tax in place of 2 cents and considering that nearly all our large bridges are of a permanent nature and the court house and jail practically new that the county ought to be able to supplement the school funds enough to guarantee a nine months free public school for the children of this county, and as I see the situation, we, the voters of Chilton County, have it within our grasp to bring this condition about if we will forget politics, forget all political past prejudice and have only one purpose in view in selecting a man to head our school system; a man that is big enough to rise above little petty politics and look only to the interest of the education of our children, a man that can harmonize the different factions of our county. Then I feel like we will be able to establish in our county the best schools that are in the State of Alabama.

We look to our school teachers as being leaders of society who are capable of giving the very best thought to our boys and girls and who should take the lead in public matters, and yet, for the past year it seems like the school teachers of Chilton County have been afraid to express themselves on public matters unless a few leaders should agree with their suggestion, and if they did not agree, would cause the teachers to lose their jobs.

People, can't we citizens of this county adjourn politics for one election, come together, and select the best man we have in the county to head our school system. Can't we think alone for the welfare and future of the children of this county and do as I stated, establish the best schools in Alabama. We have brains, we have the patriotism and we have the money. All we need is to consecrate the best thoughts we have and select a man big enough to lead us in this great undertaking, and when we have elected a county superintendent of education by a majority of the voters of this county let's everybody give him their support and let's make our county a shining light in the educational world.

In conclusion it is my opinion that the voters of Chilton County have a great responsibility placed upon them. That is, to elect a county superintendent of education. And now it is with the voters of this county whether they will elect a superintendent that can give this county such an administration of school affairs that we are entitled to or will we vote for some political faction to advance the personal interest of a few people or will we vote for our children.—Respectfully, Perry Gore.

Mrs. Willie P. Jones has returned home from a brief visit to Montgomery.

SALE OF POPPIES TO BE ON MAY 27

Under Direction of Chilton County Unit of American Legion Auxiliary

Clanton will observe "Poppy Day" this year on May 27, the Saturday before Memorial Day, it was announced by Mrs. Kin Vinson, chairman of the poppy committee of Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. The unit is making extensive preparations for the observance of the day and is hoping for the full cooperation of all other organizations and individuals.

Memorial poppies, to be worn in honor of the World War dead, will be made available to everyone in the city by volunteer workers from the Auxiliary Unit. Organization of the workers is going forward rapidly under Mrs. Vinson's direction and the unit expects to have its "poppy girls" in all parts of the down town district throughout the day. The flowers for the sale have been ordered from Tuscaloosa Hospital where they have been made by disabled World War veterans.

"Poppy Day is the day for personal tribute to the men who lost their lives in the country's services," Mrs. Vinson explained. "It is a day when all can show that they still remember and honor the sacrifices made by those who defended America during the great war crisis, and that they are carrying on for America in time of peace. The poppy is a patriotic symbol which means honor for the dead and service for the living.

"No price will be asked for the American Legion Auxiliary poppies. The Auxiliary wants everyone to wear a poppy and to contribute for the flowers according to their means. All contributions will be used for relief work among disabled veterans and their families, the bulk of the money going to support the relief activities of our local Auxiliary Unit among needy families in this county."

MRS. B. B. COMER TO BE GUEST OF KIWANIANS

Not only the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, but Clanton as a whole will be honored tonight when Mrs. B. B. Comer, of Verbena, will be the guest of the Kiwanis Club, to give a talk on a recent trip to India.

Mrs. Comer is one of the most interesting women in the state and her travels in India are very interesting, when in her friendly manner, she tells of that country. She will be accompanied to Clanton by Hon. S. L. Gibson, of Verbena, who will also be a guest of the club.

The Kiwanis Club feels honored upon the acceptance of its invitation by this distinguished woman.

FIRST OF JULY IS TAX DEAD LINE

Date Set For Closing The Tax Books by W. G. Culp, Tax Collector

W. G. Culp, tax collector of Chilton County, has recently released a statement regarding his plans for closing up the tax collecting business for this tax year. Mr. Culp states that under an enactment of the recent state Legislature, he is able to extend a little more leniency to the delinquents than has been the case of past years. Therefore, Mr. Culp is passing on these extra days of grace to the taxpayers of the county, thus giving them the benefit of the extension.

On July 1st Mr. Culp will begin to arrange for the advertising of delinquents; so until that date no extra fees will be charged those who pay up their taxes. Of course, interest began on January 1st this year on all unpaid taxes, and this will have to be included in all payments no matter when made. But after the first of July there will be extra charges in the way of fees, coats, etc.

Although this extension works a distinct hardship on Mr. Culp and his office help, inasmuch as it will bring the closing of this year's tax business right up to the opening of the new tax year, October 1st, yet he is glad to extend as much leniency as possible to the taxpayers of the county, even if it does mean extra work for him.

Mr. Culp asks those who have not paid their taxes to bear this matter in mind and make every effort to pay their taxes before July 1st and thus save the extra cost that will be attached to it after that date.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

The dairy fraternity is indebted to Mr. R. Lee Sharpe for the following article quoted in full from the Southern Dairy Products Journal:

"Little do we realize the debt we owe the cow. During the dark ages of savagery and barbarism we find her early ancestors natives of the wild forests of the old world. As the bright rays of civilization penetrated the darkness of that early period, and man called upon the cow, she came forth from her seclusion to share in the efforts that gave us a greater nation and more enlightened people.

In 1493 when Columbus made his second voyage to America, the cow came with him. Her sons helped till the soil of our ancestors, helped him clear dense forests, and made homes possible for the coming generation—and when the tide of emigration turned westward, they hauled the belongings of the pioneer across the sun-scorched plains and over the great mountain ranges to new homes beyond. Truly, the cow is man's greatest benefactor. Hail, wind, drought and floods may come, destroy our crops and banish our hopes but from what is left the cow manufactures the most nourishing and life sustaining foods. We love her docility, her beauty, and her usefulness. Her loyalty has never weakened—and should misfortune overtake us, as we become bowed down with the weight of years, we know that in the cow we have a friend that was never known to falter. God bless the cow—little do we realize the debt we owe her.

"It is needless to say, the lowly cow looms large in literature. Thomas Gray in his "Elegy" paits a picture of the friendly cow when he writes: 'The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,'—and Longfellow pictured the peace and industry of Arcadia when he wrote: 'Patiently stood cows meanwhile, and yielded their udders unto the milk-maid's hand, whil loud and in regular cadence into the souding pails the foaming streamlets descended.'

"God bless the cow."

ALABAMA'S FISHING RODEO

Mobile, Ala., April 25.—Here's good news for the deep sea fishermen!

Alabama's fifth annual deep sea rodeo—the greatest competitive sporting event of its kind—will be held off the coast of Fort Gaines, at the mouth of Mobile Bay, on August 7, 8, and 9.

The dates for the big fishing contest were announced by Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the Alabama department of game and fisheries, who first organized the rodeo in 1929, following a meeting of the rodeo board of directors at Mobile.

Preparations immediately were begun for this big sporting contest by L. G. Adams, president of the rodeo board, and Sam H. Lackland, secretary, and they expect to have headquarters established and committees functioning within the next few weeks.

The Alabama deep sea rodeo has become the American angler's greatest adventure in fishing for tarpon, the "silver king" of the finny tribes. and has attracted sportsmen from every state in the union and many parts of the world. It is held in the gulf waters surrounding Dauphin Island, about 30 miles south of Mobile.

Attendance has increased each year, the last two rodeos drawing between 300 and 500 sportsmen. Despite the depression, Commissioner Quinn expects the 1933 rodeo to draw a record number of entries. Requests for registration blanks already have been received from New Orleans, Dallas, Shreveport, Memphis, Chattanooga, Toledo, Jackson and Meridian, Miss., and Fort Benning, Ga., among out-of-state points, and from numerous Alabama cities and towns.

In addition, the Alabama Association of County Commissioners and the state hotel men's association have arranged for their annual conventions to be held in Mobile on the dates of the rodeo.

Plans have been advanced this year to organize rodeo teams, through chambers of commerce and civic clubs of various cities throughout the country, which will compete against each other in an elimination fishing contest.

The rodeo is open to the fishermen of the world and prizes are awarded annually for the best catches of tarpon, cavalla, ling, redfish, mackerel, bonita, blue fish, black fish, speckled trout and numerous other salt water fish.

The rodeo was organized for the purpose of informing deep sea fishermen of this country that the advantages of Alabama's waters for fishing are unexcelled anywhere on the American coast, Commissioner Quinn declared.

The heaviest concentration of tarpon during August along the entire gulf coast is found in the waters around Dauphin Island.

No special invitations are issued by the rodeo board, but there is an open invitation to everybody everywhere to participate in this big annual sporting event.

AUBURN WILL OPEN FOR USUAL SESSION

Auburn, Ala., April 25.—The Alabama Polytechnic Institute will open for its sixty-second annual session as usual with registration beginning on Tuesday, September 5, 1933. The next summer term—as already announced—will begin on Monday, June 5.

Announcement of this was made through a statement to students now attending the institution by he Administration Committee, composed of Dean John J. Wilmore, chairman; Prof. B. H. Crenshaw, and director L. N. Duncan.

"We are proceeding with plans for another year at Auburn," said the statement. "Due to financial conditions we will necessarily be handicapped but we are facing the handicaps as they confront us and, with the help of the faculty, students, alumni, and others interested in Auburn, we feel that next year will be a good year for the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"Last summer we suffered severely from reports circulated over the state that Auburn would not open in September, or if it did it could not carry on longer than Christmas. We are giving you notice in advance that such reports are likely to occur again and urge you most strongly to be on the lookout for them and try to contradict them vigorously whenever and wherever they come to you.

"We are fully aware of conditions and handicaps but our work will contine without interruption," the committee added. "We do not know how to quit or to go backward. Auburn has only a forward gear. We are confident that 1933-34 will be a splendid year here."

VEGETABLES NAMED FOR PLANTING NOW

Auburn, Ala., April 25.—Vegetables which should be planted now include turnips, mustard, tendergreen, New Zealand spinach, snap beans, lima beans, cucumbers, okra, pepper, eggplant, squash, and tomato plants, according to Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Where vegetables are already up and growing, he says that it is well to side-dress with a quick acting nitrogen fertilizer, appliyng about 1 to 1½ pounds to 100 feet of row. With leafy vegetables and tomatoes several applications of nitrogen at intervals of two to three weeks are helpful, he said.

He urged gardeners to be on the lookout for insects and to spray and dust to control them. Those who are not in position to buy spraying and dusting materials will find it advantageous to pick and destroy the first insects that appear.

FOREST FIRES LESS

Montgomery, Ala. — The favorable weather conditions prevailing during the past few weeks have held the forest fire hazard down to a comparatively low index figure, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. This is permitting the furlough of a number of agents and patrolmen who have been on duty during the winter and spring.

While the precipitation is greater during the winter and spring months, the high winds that usually prevail between rains quickly dry up the surface vegetation with the result that fires run much faster than during the late spring and summer when the ground cover is comprised mostly of green growth. The more even distribution of the rainfall this season, however, together with the absence of many severe winds, have prevented an acute hazard.

The probabilities are that fire loss for the current year will be comparatively low, unless the summer and fall seasons should be unusually dry. In the latter event it is hoped that reforestation crews who are engaged under the unemployment relief act will be of great assistance to the landowners in the prevention and suppression of fires.

Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter, of Martin Dam, spent Monday in Clanton with Dr. and Mrs. P. T. Hinkle.

SINGING AT CALERA HELD LAST SUNDAY

The singing at Calera Sunday, April 21st, went over in a big way. It was held in the Jr. High School auditorium, with Mr. Gresham Lowery presiding for the day. The singing began at ten o'clock, with a large number of directors present from five different counties.

Mr. Lowery got the people started off singing with a lively and peppy spirited way. He knew just how to keep them in a real singing mood through the day, and to keep the interest growing instead of some getting tired and leaving. The house was packed to its capacity and several people were not permitted to get an entrance into the presence of the singers. It was estimated that there were about eight hundred seated in the house besides those who were standing about in the doors and halls and on the stage.

The Dixie Volunteers from Birmingham were present and they kept the people in a laughing and cheering way because of their good singing. They really know their stuff when it comes to singing.

SUMMER SCHOOL AT MONTEVALLO

Announcement has just been made of the summer school at Alabama College which opens June 12 and closes August 26th. The first term closes July 21st.

A feature of unusual interest to all teachers of the state is the progressive Education Institute and Demonstration school which will continue throughout the first six weeks. This is put on under the auspices of the Progressive Education Association and financed by an outside source.

The first experiment with Progressive Education to be conducted in the south was put on last summer by Alabama College when more than four hundred teachers, supervisors and principals enrolled for it.

The success of the plan in 1932 induced an educational fundation to provide funds sufficient to continue the project this year when the college was unable to do so without outside help.

Teachers may take credit courses for six weeks or spend form one day to a week in observation and seminar work with those in charge of the Institute.

It is a rare opportunity for teachers of Alabama.

Mr. O. D. Grooms and twin daughters, Olys Mae and Gussie Fae, of Valdosta, Ga., spent a few days recently with friends and relatives in Clanton and Chilton County.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

I stood on the steps of a museum in the city of Cario, Egypt. My guide was an intelligent Mohammedan. He said to me, "Doctor, before you leave the city I should like to take you into a museum and show you statues that will tell you the story of Egyptian depravity thousands of years ago." I replied, "I do not wish to see these statues of perversity. I have been at Athens, and in the midst of the wreck and ruin of Athenian culture there were statues of perversity. This city of Cario is built upon the ruins of other cities whose inhabitants were so wicked that God wouldn't let them live." Then, I thought of America. On the walls of public buildings in this country you will find the same statues of perversity and the same pictures of depravity that you will find among the ruins of nations that God has destroyed.

God is under no obligation to America. A nation has no right to live unless it lives right. The dust of the centuries blows over the bones of dead nations who lived like we have begun to live.

America has done in a few years what it has taken other nations centuries to do. America has put a big percentage of her population in the cities. We have in these cities some of the same elements of degeneracy and decay which wrecked Rome and destroyed Greece and sent to hell the other nations who at one time were powerful.

"The plowing of the wicked is sin." I was surprised to find that statement in the book of Proverbs. This means that even the legitimate work of a wicked man is sin. The reason is plain. A wicked man plows God's dirt. He cultivates God's soil. He depends upon God for sunshine and rain to make a crop, but he never stops to recognize God. He plows for himself, the sin of building the tower of Babel was the sin of the spirit of the people who built it. "Go to, let us build us a tower and a city" is what they said. They should have said, "Go to, let us build for God a tower and a city." Had they built in that spirit the city would have stood. It is a sin to build a city without recognizing God. It is a sin to do ligitimate business without having a God-conscience.

ELECTION CALLED FOR JUNE 20TH

People Will Choose County Superintendent of Education

Acting under authority of the new local bill passed by the special session of the legislature last week, Judge Reynolds has called an election to be held in Chilton County on June 20th, in which the voters of Chilton County will elect a superintendent of education. Official notice of the call of the election by the Probate Judge appears in another place in this paper.

For many years past there has been a great deal of agitation for the adoption of a law giving the people of Chilton County this privilege. A bill to this effect has been introduced in almost every session of the legislature since 1919.

Such a bill was introduced through the house of representatives by Mr. Pitts a few years ago, but it was killed in the Senate by Senator Duncan. In the special session just closed the bill which is now a law was introduced and passed through the senate by Mr. Duncan, and was supported in the house by Mr. Pitts. It is now a law, and its provisions will be put into effect as quickly as possible.

Judge Reynolds stated that he has made the call and published the same as quickly as possible in order that there might be as much time as possible for the people and prospective candidates to become familiar with the situation.

Under the law the official elected as Superintendent in the special election of June 20 will take office the first of July this year and hold it until his successor is elected and qualified in the general election of 1934. Thereafter the Superintendent will be elected every four years under the same procedure as relates to the election of other county officers.

Up to this time there has been only one avowed candidate for Superintend in the special election. Mr. Buford Lawrence, present Superintendent, has declared that he will be a candidate. Other names have been mentioned as probable candidates, but no definite expression has come from them, so far as we have learned.

Lesson for April 30

JESUS SETS NEW STANDARDS OF LIVING

(Stewardship Lesson)

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:1-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise. Luke 6:31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus and the Children.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Choosing Time.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making the Right Choice.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—All for Christ.

I. Concerning Marriage (vv. 1-12). The question touching divorce which the Pharisees temptingly put to Christ brought forth teaching which exhibits marriage in its true light.

1. Marriage should not be degraded by divorce (vv. 1-5). Marriage was instituted by God and was intended to be indissoluble. Moses suffered divorce, limited and regulated it. Its existence indicates the coarseness and perverseness of man. Its real cause is sin. Perhaps the most outstanding evidence of the blighting effects of sin is seen in the increasing number of divorces.

2. Marriage God's primal law (vv. 6-8). The ideal law of life for the subjects of Christ's kingdom is marriage. This is proved by the fundamental fact of sex. "God made them male and female." (v. 6). The union of the male and female natures is physical, mental, and spiritual. In marriage the male and female natures are mutually complemented—"They twain shall be one flesh: so then they are no more twain, but one flesh" (v. 8).

3. Marriage has God's sanction (v. 9). When God created Eve and brought her unto Adam, he declared that man should leave his father and mother and cleave unto his wife and that they shall be one flesh. God performed the first marriage ceremony.

4. Remarriage of the divorcer is adultery (vv. 10-12). The marriage relation can only be dissolved by death and sin. Marriage is for life. Divorce for other than marital infidelity does not give the right to remarriage.

II. Concerning Children (vv. 13-16). The union of the male and female natures according to God's primal law of marriage, lays the foundation for family life. The normal issue of such union is children. It was fitting that Jesus in connection with the divine law of marriage should set forth his estimate of children. Christian men and women will regard children as the property of the Lord and will esteem it a high and holy privilege to train them for him. Observe:

1. Children brought for the touch of Jesus (v. 13).

2. Parents rebuked by the disciples for bringing their children (v. 13).

3. Jesus' reply (vv. 14, 15).

a. "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God" (v. 14).

b. "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein" (v. 15).

4. Jesus' action (v. 16). He took the children up in his arms and blessed them. Where Christ rules, childhood is sacred.

III. Concerning Riches (vv. 17-31).

1. The young ruler's question (v. 17). This young man was in earnest. He came running and kneeled to Jesus. He was a young man with a lovable personality. Jesus loved him. While moral, earnest, and courageous, he had a defective theology. He thought that eternal life could be obtained by good works.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 18-20). He put his finger on the weak spot in the young man's life. He knew that possessions gripped his heart, revealing the fact that he was a covetous man, a violator of the tenth commandment.

3. Lacking one thing, and yet lost (vv. 21, 22). When the Lord pointed out to him that the love of money was the defect of his life, he chose wealth rather than Christ, and perhaps parted company with the Lord forever.

4. The peril of riches (vv. 23-27). Jesus said, "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!" Discerning the astonishment of the disciples he said further, "How hard is it for them that trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of God!" The difficulty does not lie in the fact that a man possesses riches, but that riches possess him. Wealth is a mighty power and in itself is good. It will provide bread for the hungry, and send the Gospel to the ends of the earth. It is a short step from the possession of riches to trusting in them.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

Bible Subject Discussed by Rev. J. Robert Bean, Clanton, Ala.

THE SIN OF OMISSION

"Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." James 4:17. Sin is a transgression of the law as given in the first epistle of John 3:4. "Who soever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law." The kernal of the conception of sin as given in the above terms is that of deviation from a line given as a standard.

If the standard be viewed as a goal to be reached, sin consists in missing it; if it be set as a law with a command to conform to it, sin is disobedience. If it be an ideal perceived by the moral sense, sin is a failure. In any case, it is what ought not to be. And whether looked at as missing the mark, departing from the line or disobeying a command, its main feature is that it offends God.

Sin was not known to the world before Adam's transgression. His was a sin of commission. God told him not to eat the fruit of a certain tree, so in his act of disobedience to God's law he became a sinner, thus bringing sin in upon the whole world.

Outside of a "sin unto death," or sinning against the holy ghost, there are but two classes of sins known to God or man. These are: the sin of commission, and the sin of ommission. And since Christians can only be guilty of the sin of ommission I will try to give them some thoughts here that will be of some benefit to them.

It seems, just to think of it, that all of God's children would try to please Him with their lives. First, we will consider church attendance. How many of your neighbors who are members with you don't attend the regular church services? How often are you absent? Do you let just any little thing keep you away from your church? Have you lost interest in the Sunday school and the regular church sehvices Are you not omitting to do what you know to be your duty along this line? This is the sin of omission and should not be because Paul says: "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is."

Second, the matter of finance. Do you suffer all the others to furnish all of the money necessary for the operation of your church? Do you not feel that it is your duty to help with your little mite? Surely it is wrong to let a few bear all of the expense of the church. You may say that you are not able to help but you be able to drive around in your car. Just a little from each one is all that is necessary. Then the burden will not be so heavy on the few that pays. If omission of duty is a sin, then lots of church folks are guilty, in this second count, for we read "let each lay by him in store on the first day of the week that there be no gathering when I come."

Third, who will say that it is not a duty of all Christians to use some of their time with the unsaved? Is that work confined altogether to the pastors of churches? Why is it that Christians are willing to help in revivals? Some are so eager for the conversion of sinners while the revival lasts that they get out and talk to sinners and read the Bible to them and pray for them, and I believe that if all would practice this all along through the year, a greater number would be saved.

Brother, "to him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not to him it is sin," so if you help during a revival because you think it is your duty, then I ask you just when does it cease to be a duty? The attitude of the average Christian along this line seems to indicate that they don't love the souls of sinners just as they should. I fear that you will feel condemned in the day of judgment if some one on the other side points you out and says that you had ample opportunity to speak to them and did not do it. Let us not be guilty of the sin of omission any longer, but get busy about our Lord's business. The fields are white unto the harvest but the laborers are few. — Rev. J. Robert Bean.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Health is very good in our community.

Our Sunday school is still progressing. We got 10 new members Sunday. We sure are having a good Sunday school one more time. There was a large crowd there Sunday. Everybody enjoyed the Sunday school fine. If you don't believe we are having a good Sunday school at Mt. Springs, come and see. If you come one time you will be sure and come back. We had a large crowd that attended from Cane Creek and Pinedale, and they helped us out. We sure thank you people for being with us and helping us out in our Sunday school. Come back next Sunday. Bring someone with you. Come with a well studied lesson and ready to answer the questions.

EDITORS TO ATTEND STATE MEET AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Oneonta, Ala. — The University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa has been named as the 1933 meeting place of the Alabama Press Association, the dates being Thursday and Friday, July 13 and 14. Editor F. G. Stephens of the Southern Democrat published here made this announcement with the explanation that the executive committee selected the University instead of Dauphin Island, near Mobile.

Housing accommodations, he said, will be provided in University dormitories at a very low cost. Meals will be served in a cafeteria. A program is being arranged and will be announced later, Mr. Stephens added.

The Best Proof

The best evidence of the inspiration of the Word of God is found in the word itself. When studied, loved, obeyed, and trusted, it never disappoints, never misleads, never fails. It satisfies.—J. Hudson Taylor.

The Noblest Life

The noblest life is to live as his children that we may reveal to others the blessings of his presence, his guidance and his peace.—Thomas J. Garland.

Miss Nora Cleckler of Sylacauga, spent last week end with relatives in this county.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

N. F. A. Club to Give Box Supper

The New Farmers of Alabama Club is sponsoring a box supper at the County Training School Friday night, April 28. The purpose of the box supper is to raise representation and transportation fees for the annual conference at Tuskegee in July.

This local chapter is a branch of the state organization which meets at Tuskegee annually to compete in the following activities: Oratorical contest, judging livestock, poultry, farm seed and farm products. Handsome prizes are given to the winners. Our local club members are busy making ready for the conference. They are interested in the conference because of its educational value and the prizes given. Come out and encourage them Friday night. Your presence will be appreciated.

Rules for Garden Contest

Variety — Each contestant must know the name and variety of all vegetables in his garden.

Fertilizer—Any method of fertilizing may be used.

Cultivation—Any method of cultivation will be permitted. Garden must show signs of being well kept.

Arrangement—Vegetables must be attractively arranged. Do not plant a part of the vegetables on one side and then skip to the other side. Be sure to complete one row before starting another.

Diseases and insects—Each contestant must know all diseases and insects that may be found in his garden and the method of controling or eradicating them.

Here Is Another One

A man came over for me to go over and look at his young heifer that had just dropped a calf. On his way he mentioned many different things that might have been the cause of the ailment. Upon reaching the place I found that according to an agreement before he left, his wife had given the cow two large filthy dish rags. She said the cow had lost her cud and the dish rags would do her good. Further questioning disclosed the fact that they had not fed the cow anything for several days.

Read this over and over again, please. A cow has four stomachs: the rumen, the recticulum, the omasum and the abomasum. The rumen is much the larger and will hold eighty per cent of the thirty to forty five gallons that all the stomachs may hold. The grass or hay swallowed by the cow, first passes to the runner or paunch, where it gets soft and later belched into the mouth. That is, it is brought into the mouth my muscular contraction where it is chewed as a cud for a short time, after which it is ready for further digestion. The liquid part goes to the recticulum as honeycomb, and the solid part goes to the amasum, or many plies, etc. When a cow stands and chews its cud, it is chewing the grass that has been belched up from the first stomach.

Please do not treat a cow so mean as to give her an old dirty dish rag.—Benj. Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The calm announcement of the French government that it intends spending more than a million dollars in propaganda in the United States, to fight anti-French views on this side of the Atlantic have provoked a storm of disapproval in our newspapers and among our people. Doubtless this sudden storm will prove a surprise to our friends across the Atlantic. The reason they may feel surprised is simple: America has been a propaganda infested nation for years.

During the World War and since that time many millions have been spent by foreign governments and foreign interests for propaganda purposes in the United States. France has not been the only offender. Other nations have been busy along the same line. Therefore it must come as a shock to Europeans that we are now venting indignation over a proposal of France to increase its propaganda activities here. They probably thought that we ought to have become used to it by this time. The only way in which France is now departing from custom is that it is openly admitting that it will try to influence American opinion by propaganda. Up to this time the efforts on the part of our European friends, in influencing news dispatches, using lecturers and special articles for European purposes has been carried on as quietly as possible.

This European propaganda has had various motives: to influence our opinion in favor of this nation's or that nation's policies; to get us into the League of Nations or the League Court; to induce us to cancel the war debts; to prevail on us to lower our tariffs—the objects of foreign propaganda in America have been varied and many. And unfortunately the efforts of the foreign propagandists, either innocently, or perhaps through collusion in some cases, have been aided and abbetted by those of our own internationalists who have sought to create the impression that Europe is always right in her policies, and Uncle Sam is always wrong in his.

It is to be doubted very much whether the millions or so dollars which France intends to spend on propaganda in America will be expended wisely. One might give the European republic a little hint; if Mr. Frenchman wants to influence American opinion favorably, let him not seek to color the news, or to subsidize lecturers or internationalists. Let him apply the money on to the payment of the debt which France owes the United States Nothing will so induce a change of public opinion in America as that.

Americans believe that they were of some use to France during the World War. They know that the war debt incurred by France before the armistice had been cancelled. They know further that France has an ample gold supply and has suffered less from the effects of the depression than any other civilized nation. Therefore when France tells America that she can no longer afford to pay us anything on this post-war debt, there is naturally an outburst of anti-French feeling in the United States. And statements by M. Herriot to the effect that another debt payment ought to be made so that Uncle Sam can help France again when she gets in trouble do not set so well either.

European news agencies are for the most part subsidized and controlled by their governments. This makes the spreading of propaganda through colored news, much easier. The American news gathering agencies are not federally subsidized. That is one reason why Uncle Sam cannot keep up with Europe in the propaganda game. There are other reasons, among them the fact that Europe has been at the game for hundreds of years and has become adept at it, while we are still raw and green, and unskilled in the gentle art of diplomatic misrepresentation.

But in spite of the terrifice foreign propaganda, and the internationalist home guard, which has been so busy for the past score of years, or perhaps because of it, the American people are getting wiser to the old game and are no longer so easily fooled by it. We Americans may be "boobs" as Bernard Shaw claims we are, but it is pretty difficult to fool all of us all of the time.

WE ARE ALL RIGHT

Crack-brained fools talk about a "redistribution of wealth." What "wealth"? Where is the "gang" that could make a living out of a factory if it were given them?

In the last four years there has been in this country the mightiest "redistribution of wealth" that has ever taken place since Columbus made his discovery. If anyone be skeptical about it, let him read the figures of decrease in income taxes.

As for you farmers, if you had land worth $10,000 in 1929 and still have it, would you be willing to swap it for railroad or factory stock then worth $10,000? If so, you will have no trouble in finding a trader.

Men who have strong arms, fifty or a hundred acres, and are willing to dig food out of them are about the only class who are comparatively free from anxiety in this country. If the legislature taxes them too highly, whose legislature is it? Is it composed of their representatives?

In a democracy government will be no better than the people make. They make it.

To the South Carolinans is no danger of famine or widespread distress. The proportion of people actually suffering is smaller, smaller by far, than it was forty years ago.

It is the belief of the News and Courier that before the year ends "times will be better." That is not saying that we shall have the high living of a dozen years ago.

Here and there in South Carolina is a man with a family who is "doing well." In the forty-six counties are some thousands of them. They are at work and their heads are cool.

If one able bodied man can support a family in South Carolina in these times, so can 400,000—and the number of families is not much larger than that.

There is fear in South Carolina, but it is not that people will starve. The fear of the pepole is that they will not be so rich as they were, that they may have to give up their cars and some of their other luxuries.

If our people were in a really dreadful condition, pestilence would stalk. It always does when a country is in dire poverty. The plain truth is that the average of health has scarcely been lower than usual the last four years. If the whole population, white and black, 1,728,765 men, women and children, could be placed on the scales, our guess is that they would weigh as many pounds as in 1928.

We call ourselves a "Christian People." How much faith have we? We are murmuring much as the Children of Israel murmured when Moses was away on the mount.

We, a healthy, strong people, with abundance of land in a blessed climate, are bleating and bellowing like calves and bulls.—Charleston News and Courier.

CANCELLATION DRIVE STARTED IN 1920

Propaganda for cancellation of the European debts owed to the United States was launched as far back as 1920 and has been continuing ever since, according to Arthur R. Robinson, United States senator from Indiana, who writes convincingly on the debt subject in the current issue of the National Republic. In describing the methods of the propaganda, Senator Robinson writes:

"In the drive for cancellation we have seen the execution of several well defined methods of attack. Europe first intimated that we should be the great idealists we had shown ourselves in lending the money and 'be a good fellow' and forget about the debts. But America with huge expenses of running the government was not anxious to be a good fellow. We could not tell our thousands of bond holders to be good fellows and forget about their claims for payment.

"Since we were not destined to be motivated by such high-sounding altruism, Europe began to abuse and villify us. They abused us in the press, in the street, and in bitterly satiracal cartoons. But abuse got them nowhere even if it is continuing. What was the next attack tried by the cancellationists?

"After Germany had paid until she could pay no more, France and Britain made a gesture in what has come to be known as the Lausanne agreement, whereby the German indemnity was to be reduced ninety per cent. This sounded well at the time it was announced but it developed later that there was a joker in the gesture. France and Britain had entered into a gentleman's agreement, the terms of which provided that the Lausanne agreement should become effective only in event America could be induced to reduce the foreign debts in the same amount, namely, ninety per cent. Of course, the debtor nations attempt to link reparations with war debts.

"This condition is unsound. In the first place, there was no such idea in the minds of the high contracting parties when the agreement was entered into. In the second place, reparations exacted from Germany represent war indemnities demanded by the conquerors from a vanishing people, while the obligations due this country from European nations represent money loaned which they promised to pay back on demand. In the third place, America did not participate in dividing the spoils of war. Reparations is entirely the business of Europe, but indebtedness due this country from European nations is very much our business.

"Altruism and abuse having failed, the new approach begins. They now appeal to our greed. We are in the midst of a world-wide depression and want to get out. Our debtors have a ready solution; cancel all war debts and, presto—the world will be rolling merrily along back to prosperity.

"If it were but that, perhaps prosperity would be worth the price but the cold facts are that it simply isn't true. Thus cancellation is offered as a magic solution and with the temper of the world awaiting any sort of panacea it is no wonder that this thesis has some followers. The amazing thing is that so many of our leading publicists and usually well balanced journalists have been taken in by this specious logic. Let us axamine the facts.

"We are told that insistence on debtor nations' fulfilling their obligations will cause a world economic collapse. I fear that 'world collapse' is another phase in the new lexicon of highbrow economics that will not stand the test of logic."

The great captain of finance was the fellow who happened to have more than 50 cents in his pocket when the bank holiday opened.

Wouldn't it be nice if you could just forget your troubles for a few hours and go fishin'.

The price of hams has gone so low that even the pigs are entitled to do a little squealing.

There is one thing we have noticed. There aren't nearly so many long freight trains blocking the street crossing as there were in the days before the depression.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

Lazy Days Are Here Again

It's fishin' time again, folks; the laziest time of the year. Here of late, there doesn't seem to be any real fishing season, for some of our Ike Waltons fish the year round, and catch 'em, too, even in the dead of the winter time. But just the same, when the buds begin to swell, and the violets come peeping out between the rocks, gnats and flies get to swarming around, and bees and butterflies come out of winter quarters; when farmers' minds turn to plowing, and lovers' minds turn to weddings, then everyone has a hankering to go fishing. It is as natural as life, itself. We may be very much civilized and modernized, but nature will assert herself. Our forefathers welcomed the warm days of spring, when the fish swarmed the streams and were easy to catch. That was one of their best seasons of the year, and they enjoyed it. Well, after all, we're not so far removed from them, even with all our new-fangled tricks and inventions to bring pleasure. We may revel in all these false and man-made pleasures for a time, but after all, there comes a time when we love to live with nature—to roam the hills, paddle canoes over the water, to take fish from the streams, fry it over an open campfire, and then sink into restful sleep in the open, with a blanket of blue all set with starry jewels for a covering. That's life! And that time has come to us again. It's springtime, folks, the best and laziest season of the year.

Rich in Power

I wonder how many people realize just how rich Chilton County is in natural resources. Our county is crossed by several swift streams—big branches, creeks, etc. For years and years these blessings have gone unharnessed and undeveloped—even now there are only a few places where advantage has been taken of all this natural wealth. Not long ago I visited the Thompson place, out on Yellowleaf Creek, and my eyes were opened. There Mr. Thompson has built a beautiful home, using the slate rocks of which there are thousands within a few yards. Then a dam has been built, a generator installed, and electric conveniences are everywhere. Lights burn everywhere, a radio brings in the outside world, an electric range does the cooking, and fans whirl. Too, a hydraulic ram has been installed and is fed by a big spring; this ram furnishes running water in the house. There is every convenience of city life, yet without the congested condition and hurry and bustle of city life, and at little or no operating costs. It has taken a bit of work and money, but the result is something wonderful. Nature put the raw materials there—only development was needed. That is a fair example of what may be done in countless places in our county. Men who know, and have examined Chilton's streams say that there are enough to furnish lights and power to every home. The expense is small—the benefits are great. The raw materials have been given to us; it is up to us to develop them.

Jess and Buck Again

You will remember that I told you a few weeks ago just how Jess Baker and Buck Gore cooperated in the running of their stores. Now somebody comes along and says that if that is the case, they ought to cut a door between their places, and go in together. But I don't think that is necessary, because all Buck's stock stays out on the sidewalk all the time anyway. In that way, Jess can get to it easily if someone comes along and wants something Buck has while Buck is gone (which is most of the time). No, I don't believe the door would do any good. Jess says Buck's biggest job is opening and closing. That's like this. In the morning, Buck unlocks his doors and drags everything out in the sunshine—that takes a pretty good while; and then at night he must drag it all back again, except, maybe, the goods Jess has sold for him, or that he may have sold for himself in passing by every once in a while. In fact, lots of people help Buck out with his sales. There's always plenty of the fellows lounging on the mourners bench down on Lickskillet Street (Buck calls it that), so, if Jess happens to be busy in his own store, the would-be buyer merely wakes one of the other boys on the bench, and the sale is made. Some system!

"Efficient" Postmasters

When President Roosevelt first took his seat, he served notice to all, Democratic plum-chasers included, that "we have a nation to save—not a political pie to cut." Maybe you thought that was just so much bunk, (I'll confess I did), but the big boy has taken another step to prove his words. Now comes word that Republican postmasters who have records of efficient service need have no fear of removal for party reasons, but will be allowed to remain to finish their terms of appointment. I suppose that news was a pretty big blow to "deserving" Democrats who had turned eyes to these positions. No doubt, Democrats will be appointed in time, but just "when" is what these fellows want to know. Maybe "to the victors belong the spoils" is just another bit of history, after all. I think President Roosevelt has surprised a lot of people—some favorably and some not so favorably. After following his action since taking office, many of our Republican friends feel a new confidence in his ability and fairness. They fell that he is well aware of the crucial condition of which he is in charge, and is making every effort to better this condition. They are taking faith and hope—and that helps. On the other hand, many Democrats are a bit disappointed that the plum crop is ripening and falling much slowly then they expected. But, then, this is the "new deal," you know, and one can't expect a pat hand every time. One Demmy says: "This may be a new deal; but if it is, the dealer must be slipping all the Democratic aces up his sleeve; mine are all little ones, with not a face card showing." Too bad! Too bad! Another disappointed heart.

Some Job

I went out to the jail one day last week. No, I wasn't taken—I went of my own accord. Posey Marcus and his sons were painting the white castle, and took to figuring a bit on just how much work there was to the job. After counting and calculating a while on the number of bars, etc., in the cages, we found there were well over 7,000 bars alone, besides walls, posts, bunks, and other things. And a count of the brush strokes on each bar was from eight to ten. That would total something in the neighborhood of 100,000 brush strokes on the bars, not mentioning the rest of the building and fixtures. Then I decided to try to figure out the walls, etc., to try to draw some idea of the complete job, but the wheels in my noggin were soon clogged with figures, the paper I was figuring on gave out, and I broke my pencil. I had to give it up as a bad job—the figuring. And from the way those fellows were forced to bend their necks, backs, legs, etc., to get around and paint in all those corners, I think the painting was even worse than the figuring. When the boys finish that job they will be qualified as trapeze performers, or contortionists, or twisters, or some like job.—Man in the Moon.

HOW CIVIL WAR PERIOD WAS FINANCED

"Financing the Civil War Period," is the title of an interesting article in the current issue of the National Republic by Robert L. Archer, who has previously conributed articles to the same magazine on financing the Revolutionary period, the period of the war of 1812 and the Mexican War. At the beginning of President's Lincoln's administration the total public debt was sixty-five million dollars, according to Mr. Archer, who writes in part as follows:

"The quarter century period 1850-1875 opened with a public debt of approximately sixty-three million dollars contracted on account of the Mexican War. By 1857 the debt had been reduced to twenty-eight million dollars. In that same year the country was again in the throes of a severe depression, and again there was a sharp decline in the revenues of the government. So much so that on December 8, 1857, the secretary of the treasury reported that although there was a balance of more than seventeen million dollars at the close of the fiscal year, yet so great was the decrease in revenue that it would be necessary to provide the treasury with additional funds in order to meet the demands upon it. He recommended that authority be given for an issue of treasury notes in the amount of twenty million dollars. A bill to that effect was introduced in both houses, and was the subject of exciting debate. Charges of mismanagement and extravagance were made on the one hand and on the other charges were made that the banks by suspending specific payments had caused the depression. Notwithstanding strong opposition the necessity for immediate action was apparent, and an act authorizing the issue of not to exceed twenty million dollars of treasury notes became effective December 23, 1857. The notes were to carry not more than six per cent interest and to be payable in one year. Under this act over fifty-two million dollars was issued including re-issues. All have been paid.

"When the loan of 1857 was authorized the prediction was made that the amount was not large enough. This prediction was speedily realized. The situation was reported to Congress in May, 1858, and a new loan of twenty million dollars was authorized, payable any time after January 1, 1874, and bearing five per cent interest. The whole amount was sold at premiums ranging from two to seven per cent.

"In December, 1859, the secretary of the treasury reported that the authority for a re-issue of the treasury notes of 1857 was about to expire, and that it would be necessary for congress to extend the authority for re-issue.

"Apparently Congress did not agree with the secretary as to the proper course to pursue. It did, however, authorize a loan of twenty-one million dollars at not exceeding six per cent, to be reimbursed in not less than ten or more than twenty years. The proceeds were to be used in redemption of the treasury notes of 1857.

"Under this act a little over seven million dollars was borrowed at five per cent.

"Failure to sell the whole amount appears to have been caused by the political turmoil of the time.

"It therefore became necessary for some further action to be taken. Accordingly a bill was passed and approved December 7, 1860, authorizing another issue of treasury notes not to exceed ten million dollars, at not more than six per cent interest, or, after advertisement, at the lowest rate offered. The whole amount was issued at rates ranging from six to twelve per cent per annum. Offers at from fifteen to thirty-six per cent were declined.

"The credit of the government had sunk so low that the secretary of the treasury, John A. Dix, in a letter dated January 18, 1861, suggested that the surplus that had been distributed to the states in 1836 be pledged as security for a new loan."

NOT THE NAVY'S FAULT

Those pacifists and pacifist-economists who let out a roar every time the government proposes to do something to bring the United States navy up to necessary strength are talking without the facts when they blame the navy for any part of the great increase in Federal expenditures during the past ten years.

An examination of the facts discloses that while such arms of the Federal government as the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Interior, Postoffice and Treasury show increases in expenditures during the past ten years the navy has actually decreased its expenditures.

For example: the Department of Agriculture spent $144,000,000 in 1922, and in 1932 had increased its expenditures to $319,000,000 without any great benefit to the farmers. The department of commerce during the same period increased its annual expenditures from $21,000,000 to $53,000,000, the Justice department from $18,000,000 to $52,000,000 and the postoffice from $68,000,000 to $203,000,000.

Only the navy department of all the great branches of the government showed a decrease. In 1922 the navy department expenditures were $459,000,000 while in 1933 the amount had been cut to $358,000,000. The decrease of course was due to the Washington conference and our failure to live up to the agreement in the London Conference.

That we build up to the London agreement is absolutely essential if we are to maintain our position in the world and continue to protect American lives and property not only abroad but in our own country. The day may come when the nations of the world will agree to skeletonize their naives to the minimum strength required for policing the seas. But until that time comes Uncle Sam will be risking national disaster not to keep his naval place in the world. At the same time the figures quoted above prove that the great increase in governmental expenditures since the war has not been due to any increase in the annual outlay on our navy.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Out of Circulation For the Time

Your friend, The Man on the Corner, has been out of circulation for the past few days, nursing an injured foot. Locomotion has been difficult to accomplish, notwithstanding I have had ample accessories in the form of a pair of crutches. My conclusion is that crutches only serve to aggravate one who is cripple. He would be much better off if he left the crutches alone and remained indoors altogether. As a result of my disability I have not been on the corner this week; therefore have not seen anything that is going on in town.

The Banner's Birthday

This week The Union-Banner enters upon Volume 41, which means that this newspaper has been in continuous existence in this community for forty-one years. It is exactly as old as your Man on the Corner. Since 1917 the paper has been under the management of the present publishers. While the paper has not produced a fortune in this world's goods, it has at the same time afforded a living for the publishers, and has endowed us with many contacts and friendships which we cherish as the greatest riches possible to obtain in this life. We have sought to serve our people and to carry forward always the common interests of our county. Realizing that the good-will of our subscribers and patrons is the most valuable asset we have been able to accumulate, we face the future with an ever-increasing zeal to serve and to be in some measure a blessing to our friends and fellow citizens.

Heavy Hail Around Here

More than one instance of heay hail has been reported from different sections of the county the past week. The most severe we have heard of was Monday about noon, nine miles out from town on the Lay Dam road. Abe Lakeman, of Lay Dam, came along just after the hail had fallen. He gathered up a lot of it and brought it to town. He said when he came along the ground was covered four inches deep with the pellets. The area extended from where the Mims Ferry road turns off from the highway to the Sidney Stevens place. It was feared the hail had inflicted serious damage to strawberry fields, but we have received no reports to that effect so far.

Saving a Tree

Clanton should be proud of her trees. Everywhere in our little city our streets are beautifully shaded by overlapping boughs of fine live oaks and elm. Owners of property should be watchful of the condition of the trees. As they grow old many of them will need attention in order to preserve their life and beauty. Proper pruning should be administered. Ocassionally rot sets in on a trunk. This should be thoroughly dug out and the cavity filled with concrete. I have observed an example of this treatment of trees on the county courthouse property. There are right now many trees in Clanton that should have such attention.

The legislature of the state of Washington is considering a bill which would offer a bonus to the man bringing in the first paying oil well in the state. Considering the present condition of the oil industry one would think it better business to pay the oil drillers not to bring in a well.

If gasoline stations get licenses for dispensing beer they can then advertise as "filling stations for man and machine."

Periods of proseprity are times when we buy what we can't afford. Periods of depression are times when we pay up.

REAL HELP FOR FARMERS

In the debate in the senate over the proposed enactment of the administration farm bill, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, is quoted by the press dispatches as stating that the law of supply and demand has failed so far as farm prices are concerned. Senator Robinson evidently hopes to repeal or modify this law through the kind offices of the proposed new farm bill. The task will be a little difficult even for a body so august and important as the United States Congress.

Since the law of supply and demand is a natural economic law, it might be well to see whether we have not failed in taking advantage of it before we charge the law itself with having failed to function. It would seem to the average layman that the law has been functioning only too well. We have had more farm commodities than the people, in their depleted financial condition, have been able to consume. The law of supply and demand has been working only too well.

Any legislation which is to help the farmer must take into consideration the idea of decreasing the supply with increasing the demand for agricultural commodities. The supply can only be decreased by curtailment of production by agriculture itself or through the vagaries of the weather. Up to this time, curtailment by agreement has always seemed to fail and there is no assurance that it will succeed in the future. Human nature being what it is, the average individual always depends on the other fellow to curtail, and prefers to raise a full crop for himself. But perhaps nature is coming to the rescue this year if we can believe some of the advance crop predictions.

The most satisfactory way to help the farmer, of course, would be to increase the demand for his product. Here is where Senator Robinson and his friends can be of real help to the farmer. The demand can be increased not only by an unnatural tax on the consumer which will arouse his indignation and induce him to curtail as much as possible, but by giving the consumer more money to spend for what the farmer raises.

In order to give the consumers more money to spend there must be more and steadier jobs. One of the first things to do to bring this about is to cut off the flood of foreign goods pouring into our markets from Japan and some of the countries of Europe, who are able to surmount our tariff walls because they have gone off the gold standard and depreciated their currency. These nations would not eat our wheat, our pork and beef products, our butter and cheese if they were supplying all of our finished goods requirements.

Why not then, cut off these imports and turn the job of making these goods over to American workmen who will buy the meat products, the butter, eggs, cotton, wheat and corn of the American farmer if they get the money to do it?

Folks, you have got to hand it to the senior II class and Miss Margaret Kendrick, their class advisor. They filled the auditorium last Friday night with their play "Girl Shy," the first time it has been packed in a long time. Comments that are everwhelmingly favorable can be and are heard everywhere on the presentation of this play and the acting of the players and the coaching of the coaches, Misses Josephine Martin and Margaret Kendrick. Also the entertainment between the acts was lauded very highly. Oh boy, have those senior II's got that C. S. Miss Kendrick and the senior II class want to take this opportunity to express their appreciation and gratitude to all those who helped in any way, great or small, to put this play over.

That interesting article about the trip to the cotton mill in last week's column was written by Joe Moore. For some unknown reason the author's name was omitted.

"Simon Pure Simpleton" is the name of the senior II class play to be given May 5, only one week from tomorrow night. Let's everyone save their money and see this play. Back the senior class as this is the last year that they will be here; so show that good old S. S. and come to their play.

C. S. is Class Spirit and S. S. is School Spirit. We have it here. But let's show everyone that we do have it. Several good examples have been exhibited here in the past few days. Don't let it lie down. Make it better. Come on, what do you say?

Thanks, Senior III's.

That "C" club has an eye for business. Stop by the old radiator at recess and dinner and spend your extra nickel or dime with the "C" club. Another chance to show your S. S.

Any time anyone has any suggestion for items to make in this column please don't hesitate. Any criticisms anyone has to offer will be welcomed. This is your column, faculty and student body.

Did you know that first county high school built in Alabama was built at Atmore in Escambia County in 1903. This school (Chilton) one of the first built under the state bill was built 18 years ago. During its existence it has had 8 principals. Our present principal has remained longer than any of the others (no reflection on any of them is meant at all) five years, which speaks well of him.

The ruin of most men dates from some idle moment," says Hillard. We have only a few weeks until school is out. Whether we make the grade or not depends upon our response to our examinations. With all the distractions, which we should not overlook, and the closing of school with its final examinations, graduation preparations, etc., we have no moment which can be spent foolishly.

"The Simon-Pure Simpleton." Sure this is the second time I have mentioned this play, but believe me, it is worth all the space given it. So, next Friday night, May 5. at 8 o'clock, prepare to forget all your troubles and enjoy the time of your life.

"Education is the attainment of a sound mind in a sound body". If this statement is true, which it most surely is, then one's education ends only after he has left this earth.

Quite a number of students took the Current Event Examination sponsored by the Scholastic Magazine. The winner in each school receives a valuable fountain pen.

Only 22 more days until school is out. There are only 17 more school days.

INSURANCE AGENT'S CONVENTION TO LEARN OF NEW PLANS

Birmingham, Ala.—The very latest development for fire and casulty agents will be made available to all of the insurance agents of Alabama who attend the State Convention in Birmingham May 11th and 12th.

Under a plan which is of very recent development, the purchaser of fire insurance may arrange payment in monthly installments through his own fire insurance agent, the policy in itself constituting collateral for the unpaid balance. This completely relieves the agent and the purchaser of the necessity of borrowing money and furnishing collateral for the financing of insurance premiums.

This plan is furnished to all local fire and casualty insurance agents in the southeast through the Peoples Finance & Thrift Company of Alabama, whose main offices are located in Birmingham, the originators of this plan in the south.

"That the plan meets an absolute need has been clearly proven," said A. M. Shook, Jr., President of that company, today. "Our company began the devolpment of this plan in a modest way about a year and a half ago, and the ever increasing demands that have been made on us lead us to feel that we are furnishing insurance protection to a great many firms and individuals who could not ordinarily carry insurance if the standard terms were inforced. The most important feature of this new development in the insurance business is, of course, arranging the payments so that while entirely convenient for the assured, they are also sufficient to maintain the collateral value of the policy, thereby reducing to a minimum the liability of both the assured and the agent from a financial standpoint."

It is expected that most of the Alabama agents who attend the Birmingham Convention will familiarize themselves with this new manner of handling premiuums, and upon their return will make this service available to their assureds in their respective communities.

I. G. A.'s BIG CANNED FOOD AND 5c AND 10c SALE NOW ON

The Union-Banner wishes this week to call the attention of its readers to the big canned food sale being put on by all the I. G. A. Stores. Please take note that there are four of these stores in Chilton County—Culver & Jones, Clanton; T. J. Henderson, Mt. Creek; Gulledge Brothers, Verbena; and Maplesville Cash Grocery, Maplesville.

These stores are offering some eye-openers this week, when it comes to attractive prices on grocery items. And the quality of the goods should not be overlooked. You know what I. G. A. means on a package or a wrapper; so you cannot go wrong by purchasing these brands. They advise that now is a fine time for the housewife to fill her pantry with these specials while it can be done at a minimum cost. And remember that lots of grocery items are advancing in price.

PROMINENT SINGERS TO BE AT BIRMINGHAM CONVENTION

A card from Prof. P. B. Shaw at Brookside, Ala., says that there will be a number of noted singers at the Jefferson County singing convention to be held at Five Points next Sunday. Among them are: Virgil O. Stamps with Quartet, J. R. Baxter, Homer Morris, J. M. Henson and B. L. Whitworth. A cordial invitation is extended to Chilton County singers, says Mr. Shaw.

ALL DAY SINGING AT CORINTH NEXT SUNDAY, APRIL 30TH

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that there will be an all day singing at Corinth church, near Mitchell Dam, the fifth Sunday in this month, April 30. All singers and lovers of music are invited to come, bring dinner, and spend the day in singing. Be sure and bring along your song books, said I. D. Huett in making the announcement. Singing will begin at 10 o'clock.

MUSIC TABLETS FOR SALE

The Union-Banner has for sale a quantity of music tablets for use in singing schools, etc. The tablets are of regulation size, and contain 40 pages. The paper is of good quality. Music teachers, students, and all needing music blanks are invited to examine them.

POPLAR SPRINGS

It has been several weeks since you have heard from this place, but everybody is still working.

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are still doing fine.

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days, but our pastor, Rev. W. P. Lowery could not be with us Sunday on account of a funeral up near Montevallo, and Rev. W. H. Wilson preached for us. Our pastor was with us in B. Y. P. U. Sunday and delivered us a good sermon after the program was over.

Everybody has a welcome at our church at all times, so come.

Rev. K. U. Hull will preach here the first Sunday in May; so don't forget to come, and bring someone with you.—Secretary.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST NEWS

The reason on which an institution is based is always given when the origin of any institution is given.

The Lord's passover was to be "for a memorial" to keep in memory the deliverance of His people from Egypt. Ex. 12:11-14.

Baptism is a memorial and faith shown in Christ's death, burial and resurrection. Rom. 6:3-5.

The Lord's supper was instituted to keep in memory the Lord's death till He came. I Cor. 11:23-26.

We are to remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea and all that in them, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it. The Sabbath measures of the first week of time. By observing the Sabbath of the fourth commandment we show that we believe in the God who made heaven and earth. Ex. 20:8-11. Ex. 31:16-17.

The Book of the Acts of the apostles, which describes the history of Christ's church for about twenty-eight years, following the day of Pentecost, refers eight times to the seventh day or the Sabbath day. Read Acts 13:14, 27, 42, 44; 15:21; 16:13; 17:1; 18:4. This shows that the apostles of Jesus Christ, during the year that followed the death, resurrection, and ascension of the Lord Jesus, recognized the seventh day—the identical day on which the Jews met in their synagogues—as the Sabbath, God's holy day, under the Christian dispensation. Read Acts 13:27; 15:21.

There are three great facts. Read Acts 13:27. 16:12.

1. The seventh day in the only day that God ever rested an, blessed or sanctified, or set apart for men to observe.

2. The seventh day is the only day to which God ever gave any sacred title.

3. The seventh day is the only day of the week that God has ever commanded man to keep. And observed after Jesus died on the cross. Read Luke 23:56.

Our revival services are being held every night during this week at the church. The Lord is richly blessing us in our meetings. Many seem deeply interested in the Bible truths that are being unfolded to them. Everyone who attends the meetings are sure to receive a blessing. There is one here for you if you will only but come and receive it. We will have a special song service followed by a short Bible study held at the church on next Sunday afternoon, April 30, at 2:30 p.m. Anyone who wishes to attend will be cordially welcome. Bring your Bible.

PENSIONS REDUCED

Montgomery, Ala., April 25.—Walter K. McAdory, state pension secretary, announced Tuesday that Confederate pension warrants would be ready, for delivery May 1 by Alabama probate judges.

The pensions, for the quarter beginning April 1, have been reduced 50 per cent due to the depleted condition of the pension fund.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

After John the Baptist had been beheaded and Christ had taught His disciples many wonderful lessons, and they having seen His power manifested in curing the sick, raising the dead, cleansing lepers, and otherwise demonstrating His divinity, He asked His disciples saying, "Whom do men say that I, the son of man, am?" Matt. 16:13-19. Finally Peter said, "Thou are the Christ, the son of the living God." Jesus blessed Peter and promised to build his church upon that great principle of truth that Christ was the son of God.

This gives us to understand that Christ was to be the head "over all things to the church," which is His body. Eph. 1:22-23. Christ was to have all authority in heaven and in earth. Matt. 28:18. Whatsoever is done in word or in deed should be done in the name of Christ. Col. 3:17. There is no other name given under heaven. Acts 4:12.

Paul speaks of this church in the follwing language: "For as we have many members in one body, and all the members have not the same office; so we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members of another." Rom. 12:4-5. Christ here compares this church to one's body, Christ being the head. The head is always the ruler, law makers, and guide to direct the members of the body how and when to act. His church is His body, and every Christian is a member of it. I Cor. 12:13; Eph. 1:22-23. The word of God which is found in the scriptures, is His law and guide, and is given to us that the man of God might be perfect and thoroughly furnished unto every good work. II Tim. 3:15-17. There is no such thing as finding something good that is not taught in the scriptures.

Christ being the head over all things to His church, the "whole family" in heaven and in earth is named of Him. Eph. 3:15. God has seen fit to name all of His children for Christ, both those on the earth and those who are in heaven. Christ built this church good enough, large enough and in every respect, great enough to please himself, God and the angels of heaven, and stamped upon it His own name. His name stands for all that is good. It stands for authority, for prayer, for a righteous life, for baptism, for goodness, for mercy, and all things that pertain unto life and Godliness." II Pt. 1:3. And His is the only name that does. We had just as well call the whole church of Christ by some feature that belongs to it. Faith is a feature belonging to every members of the church. But we do not name the whole church for it and call it a "faith church." We would not think of calling it a "repentance church" just because God requires us also to repent. And we would not be willing to call it a "confessing church" just because God requires us to confess Christ. And, why should it be called a "supper church," because the Lord's supper belongs to the worship? Or why call it by any ordinance? One ordinance would do as well as another. The truth is the name of Christ stands for it all. Of him is the whole family named. Eph. Eph. 3:14. He is the bridegroom, and His church is His bride. Eph. 5:23-26.—R. L. Huffman Huffman.

MAN FROM BIRMINGHAM ATTEND PRESENTATION OF COOKE PLAY

Union-Banner:

A visitor from Birmingham, and once a newspaper man, it was my pleasure to sit in on the play at your local theatre last Friday night. I was delighted and surprised to witness a presentation of a wonderful play, by a company of high caliber artists, a company worthy of playing the best and biggest theatre our country affords.

Many a time I have paid as high as two dollars to witness a far inferior evening's entertainment. The acting was sincere, artistic and finished to the nth degree. If a little instructive criticism is permissible, with the exception of overacting in several places by the two male leading members of the cast, nothing could be added to make the presentation a perfect one. Birmingham would welcome such a company, with pleasure and perhaps help to restore the old days, when it was my delight to follow from week to week, the histronic efforts of the flower of American Thespians.—E. Samuels, Birmingham, Ala.

The above play referred to was the one presented Friday night of last week at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton by the Cooke Players. They were here all last week and will be at Thorsby for one week commencing Monday, May 1st.

MANY ATTENDED SINGING AT COURTHOUSE LAST SUNDAY

The spacious courtroom was crammed full at the community singing held at the courthouse in Clanton last Sunday afternoon. The best singing for many months was enjoyed by the large class and by the host of anxious listeners. Prof. O. L. Devaughn of the Central Society presided. Those called upon to direct were: Jesse C. Jones, Columbus Scott, L. T. Grant, G. C. Powell, J. R. Robinson, W. M. Devaughn, W. G. Culp, G. C. Weldon, Hudson Williams, T. E. Wyatt, A. H. Glasscock, J. Z. Mims, W. L. Sanders, Chester Wyatt, Ralph Grant and Joe Painter. Interspersed on the program were several special songs. One duet was sung by Ralph Grant and Jesse Jones; two quartets were sung by the Glasscock singers; and two quartets were arranged by W. M. Devaughn. The opening prayer was offered by Rev. Sam Henley and the closing prayer was offered by J. Z. Mims. J. Z. Mims was appointed to act as chairman of the next singing to be held at the courthouse.—T. E. Wyatt.

REFUGE NEWS

Just a few words in regard to this place. Everybody is real busy picking strawberries.

We are glad to report that our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. are still improving. We had an extra large crowd out at church Sunday and a good number of visitors.

Rev. M. Lockhart and family were dinner guests of Mr. R. N. Connell and wife.

Mr. Reese Baker and wife, and Miss Ruby Easterling were dinner guests of Mr. Elijah Mims and family Sunday.

A good number of our young people enjoyed a bountiful dinner at the home of Mr. Toy Baker Sunday, and also Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Baker.

Little Buddie Mims, the 8-months old son of Mr. Monroe Mims was buried at this place Monday evening at four o'clock. We extend to the family our greatest sympathy.

We are looking forward for our annual singing on the third Sunday in May. Everybody don't forget, for it will not be put off.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Easterling are the proud parents of an 8-pound boy which arrived Monday a.m.

We were glad to have our visitors Sunday, which were Mr. S. L. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Reese Baker, Miss Ruby Easterling. We invite you back again.

Mr. Lester Powell and wife were also visitors.

We set a goal at this place once to have 50 present at our Saturday's service and got 49. Now we have set another goal for 75 and we want all to help us get that number on the next fourth Sunday, our regular preaching day. Everybody come back to Sunday School and bring someone with you and a well-studied lesson.

If you visitors received a welcome at Refuge, tell others, if not tell us.

One fine day a young girl and her father were out for a ride along a country road. Suddenly three bandits hopped into the middle of the road and held them up. The daughter, who was wearing the family jewels around her neck, had the presence of mind to put them in her mouth. The robbers finally left, taking everything, even the car. The father turned to his daughter very crushed.

"Child, they have taken everything. My watch, pocketbook, cuff buttons, and the car. Oh, what shall we do?"

"Look, father, I saved the family jewels," she said, removing them from her mouth.

"Say that's fine. Wish we had had your mother along, 'cause then we could have saved the car."

MAPLE SPRINGS

The people around here have been busy these pretty sun-shiny days. Some are getting ready to plant, and some are busy picking strawberries.

Our church has not been completed yet, but we are hoping it will soon be ready to have services in.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Davis were the Sunday all day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis of Clanton.

Mr. Phillip Brown was the week end guest of Mr. Ottis Glenn and Mr. Oliver Glenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Downs of Birmingham were the Sunday all day guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs.

Miss Merle Kelley was the Friday night guest of Misses Marie and Bernice Devaughn.

Several from here attended the singing at the courthouse Sunday. They reported a good singing and a good time.

Mr. Joe Lansford was the Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. Arnold Glenn.

Miss Lois Blalock was the Saturday afternoon guest of Misses Perlie and Alma Driver.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Parrish and daughter were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Lansford.

Mrs. Willie Davis and children were visiting some friends of Collins Chapel last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dennis were the Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the many thoughtful and sympathetic acts of our friends during the illness and death of our husband and father, R. G. Hall.—Mrs. R. G. Hall, Mrs. W. J. Patrick, A. N. Hall, Mrs. C. A. Marlar, Mrs. C. J. Chandler.

REPORT OF COUNTY BOARD OF REVIEW OPEN FOR INSPECTION

The State of Alabama
Chilton County.

Notice is hereby given by Akins I. Collins, Tax Assessor of Chilton County, Alabama, that the Board of Review of said County has returned its report and the same is now open for inspection in the Tax Assessor's office.

The Board of Review will sit at the courthouse of Chilton County on the first Monday in June, 1933, to consider such protests as may be filed by any taxpayer, as provided by law.

Any taxpayer who is not satisfied with the valuation of his property as fixed and entered upon the return list, may file objections in writing to such assessed valuations with the Secretary of said Board (Akins I. Collins) on or before the last Monday in May, 1933, and the taxpayer shall set out in such objections filed the description of each item of property and his reason for making objection to the assessed valuation as placed thereon. (Section 158, of 1923 Revenue Act).

Drastic Governmental Revisions Are Reported

Knight and Hard Studying Departments With View Of Dispensing With Or Skeletonizing Forces; Wilkinson Enters Legislative Race

State political interest Monday centered on reports that the state governmental setup will be modified sharply to meet the shrinkage of revenues and the formal challenge extended to Gov. Miller by Horace Wilkerson, Birmingham attorney, to a joint debate on the income tax amendment.

Reports of the drastic governmental revision were contained in press reports early Monday afternoon from Montgomery, which stated that the attorney general, in cooperation with State Comptroller Hard, is making a study of the essential functions of government to determine which may be retained and which services may be dispensed with or skeltonized during the present emergency.

Mr. Wilkerson's challenge of the governor to the joint debate was made public in his letter to the chief executive. Simultaneously he let it be known that if the vacancy as representative from Jefferson County is filled by an election he will be a candidate.

The revision of the state government, press reports said, was occasioned because of the financial emergency which has brought about a sharp reduction in state revenues. Under the law the attorney general is resuired to recommend which of the various state agencies are essential and which may be dispensed with or minimized, and as a consequence Atty.-Gen. Knight Monday began a study of the law with a view to make his report probably by the end of the week.

"After Mr. Knight defines the essential functions of government," Mr. Hard declared in an Associated Press dispatch from the capital, "and if he finds I have the power, I will sweep aside existing appropriations and endeavor to keep these functions in operation with the limited funds on hand.

"There is not enough money to run all the departments. But there is enough to run some. And that is what we are trying to do—find out which ones must be kept running—and if we have the power to revise these appropriations and run them."

Reports form Montgomery pointed out that under the Fletcher budget and financial control act the State Health, Education and Child Welfare Departments will have no more operating funds until the beginning of the next fiscal year, Oct. 1, unless a revision is made.

The Health Department recently was authorized by the State Board of Health to skeletonize its force, on account of the financial situation, and as a result 50 per cent of its personnel has been dropped.

Dr. A. F. Harman, state superintended of education, also was quoted at the capital Monday as favoring the immedate summoning of the State Board of Education to consider reorganization of that department.

State Auditor John Brandon announced in Montgomery Monday that the quarterly payment of warrants for Confederate veterans had been ordered suspended and that new warrants for 50 per cent of the amount will be issued and honored by the state out of the reduced pension fund.

Mr. Wilkerson's letter challenging Gov. Miller to a joint debate, made public here Monday morning, declared in part:

"The newspapers say you are contemplating a series of stump speeches in behalf of the income tax amendment that will be voted on in the July election.

"It is most fitting that this measure should be thoroughly discussed in all sections of Alabama. Our people are entitled to all the light they can get on this subject.

"With that in mind, I herewith challenge you to a series of joint debates on the question: "'Resolved, that the income tax amendment should be adopted.' You take the affirmative. I will take the negative.

"You are to have the opening and closing. An equal amount of time to be allotted to each side. You name the time and place of each debate and the number of debates, provided, however, Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile shall be among the places where the question will be debated.

"Please advise your acceptance of this challange to joint debate, and give me reasonable notice of the time and place where you prefer to hold the first joint debate."

In announcing his candidacy for the legislature to succeed W. Cooper Green, Mr. Wilkerson said:

"If the people of Jefferson County are allowed to select their representative in the legislature to succeed Mr. Cooper Green, I expect to be a candidate.

"I will keep up the fight to keep the schools going.

"The exemption of every home, up to $2,000 taxable value, from all taxes, a reduction of the automobile tag tax to $3 and a repeal of the tonnage tax that is keeping thousands of miners out of work and destroying the coal industry in this district will be among the things I will specially work for.

"I can be counted on to oppose all income and sales taxes."

MORE FERTILIZER BEING SOLD THAN LAST YEAR

Judging from tag sales, Alabama farmers have this year bought 26 per cent more fertilizer than they had to the same date last year, reports the state department of agriculture and industries.

Through Friday, April 21, this year tags had been sold for 220,300 tons of fertilizer compared with 174,150 tons to the same date last year, according to a comparative statement released by Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture.

The same statement showed that fertilizer sales in Alabama are still far short of 1931 when tags had been sold for 375,550 tons to April 21.

Mrs. Annie Lamar Cole has returned to her home in Montgomery after a visit to her sister, Mrs. G. L. Phillips.

University News

University, Ala., April 25.—A hypothetical murder case which involved several technical points of law was tried by students of the University of Alabama Law school Saturday. The presiding judge was Hon. Lawrence Gerald, prominent attorney of Clanton, Ala., who was a student in law of Dean A. J. Farrah's first class at this institution in 1913.

The evidence was prepared by the practice court class and was carried out as completely as a regular circuit court trial. The attorneys for the defense were John L. Johnson of Birmingham and George LeMaistre of Tuscaloosa; prosecuting attorneys were Pelham Merrill of Anniston and Thomas Huey of Birmingham.

In the trial, Billy Walker, of Birmingham, was tried for the murder of Frank Broadway, of Cecil, Ala. Broadway, a filling station proprietor, was slain in an attempted holdup of his place of business. In his dying declaration he accused one "Billy Walker." Several difficult points came up in regard to the death statement, hearsay evidence, and mistaken identity. The jury disagreed, and there was no verdict.

The law school faculty paid high compliments to the trial judge, who handled the case very skillfully although he had heard absolutely nothing of the evidence, and of the four attorneys who demonstrated skill and preparation in the trial. It is hoped to make this type of practice trial an annual event. The court room was packed to capacity.

Mr. Gerald has been a great friend of the law school and contributed liberally to the building fund when Farrah Hall was being erected.

University, Ala., April 25. — Dean Dabney S. Lancaster of the University of Alabama will speak before the National Associations of Deans and Advisors of Men, convening at Ohio State University, April 27-29. His subject will be "Relationship of the Depression to the College and University Within Such Institution."

Pelham Merrill of Anniston was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. for next year. Others elected were Theodore Ledeen, Robertsdale, vice president; and Donald Shartt, Silver Hill, secretary and treasurer.

Senior students in the department of areonautical engineering have returned from Pensacola, Fla., where they inspected the Naval Air Station at that base. They were accompanied by Prof. Laslie Walker.

All Alabamians are urged to save all documents which might be of value to future historians in studying the civilization of this state, says J. A. Anderson, postmaster at University of Alabama.

Teachers College Bureau of Publications, Columbia University has just issued from the press "The Preparation and Work of Alabama High School Teachers," by Dr. H. C. Pannell, associate professor of education, University of Alabama, and state supervisor of teacher training. The work makes a careful analysis of the essential factors and conditions underlying the training and teaching experience of 2,018 Albama public high school teachers.

The "unemployed bootlegger problem" may be with us soon if the plan is carried out to free from prison all jailed for violating prohibition laws.

Governor Rolph of California says that as soon as his state's overwhelming vote against prohibition is certified he will free 1,000 convicted of bootlegging. It will be hard for the 1,000 to accustom themselves to "$30 a week," and harder still to find the $30.

Newcastle, Pa., develops a new idea. Gentlemen that steal milk bottles left on doorsteps go early before the milk is delivered and scribble a note asking for two extra quarts.

The customer and milk man know nothing about it, until settling time comes, weeks later.

It is an old idea started in Wall Street. Down there, the financial genius scribbles a note, ordering tens of millions more shares of stock. The customer doesn't know anything about that until some time later, when settling time comes. This depression is settling time.

On the site of the great Hoover dam the Colorado river for ages has rushed with its millions of gallons per minute through the high rock walls of a narrow canyon. It follows that path no longer, for man's engineering genius has turned the river aside, forcing it to run through an artificial tunnel, dug in one of the canyon's rocky sides, almost a mile high.

Where the river once rushed through a channel cut out of solid rock by the water ages ago everything is dry. Engineers and workers at the great dam, undisturbed by the torrent, will proceed to erect a wall that will hold back millions of gallons of Colorado waters to be used as man may decide, for irrigation or power. When the wall is finished the tunnel will be closed, to open at any time when water behind the dam needs lowering.

Colonel Turner, Los Angeles pilot, establishes a new California championship with a new east-west flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 12 hours 33 minutes, beating by two hours the record of Frank Hawks.

This is big news. The world awaits something to end this depression and the flying machine may do it.

Steam started one great boom after Waterloo, the gold rush in '49 started another, electricity, used for light and power, started another, the automobile started the recent great boom, which war's squandering raised to a frenzy.

The German cruiser Karlsruhe, first to visit an American port since the war, received in New York harbor a grand reception, guns booming, airplanes flying overhead, flags displayed. The war is over and a German battleship should be treated like any other foreign battleship.

ZASU PITTS' COMEDY HAS TRAGIC TOUCH

There is a fine line between laughter and tears.

Zasu Pitts, admittedly the screen's greatest comediene, has been hailed by one of the industry's leading directors as the finest tragediene of the motion picture.

Erich von Stroheim is the director who thus characterizes the doleful opinion through the fact that in several of his pictures Miss Pitts has played roles of exceptional tragic power. This is true of "Greed" and "The Wedding March," and her fine ability as a dramatic actress has again been demonstrated in the recently - completed "Walking Down Broadway."

"All theatregoers," said von Stroheim recently, "are familiar with the fact that Miss Pitt's comedy always has a background of sadness. She is always a pathetic figure, and in many instances the spirit of tragedy which animates her being would be accepted for what it really is, if it were not for the humorous situations of the stories in which she usually appears. These alone throw many of her scenes into the comedy classification, instead of over the fine line into tragedy.

"Miss Pitts' attributes as a natural tragediene are apparent in every comedy scene she appears in, and it is this fact which adds zest to the comedy. So also does the same fact add to her power in tragedy. She and Charlie Chaplin occupy a peculiar niche in the world of theatricals, in that both, while they have attained the highest point in the comedy field, are at heart essentially tragedians."

Miss Pitts is presented in the type of role in which theatre audiences know her best in "They Just Had to Get Married," the uproariously funny Universal comedy which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, May 3 and 4. The equally dolorous Slim Summerville is co-starred, and the supporting cast includes Roland Young, Verree Taesdale, Fifi D'Orsay and many other screen favorites. The picture was directed by Edward Ludwig.

"NIGHT COURT"

Phillips Holmes, Walter Huston, Anita Page, Lewis Stone and Jean Hersholt head the impressive cast of "Night Court," which will be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre.

Filmed under the direction of W. S. Van Dyke, this picture offers one of the most sensational stories of political corruption ever presented on the screen. It focuses its attention upon a night court magistrate who uses his office to further his activities in the underworld.

Huston plays the unscrupulous jurist who presents a respectable side to the public but shows quite another to his nefarious associates. Holmes is seen as a taxi driver whose home is undermined by the machinations of the crooked magistrate but who ultimately brings the dishonest judge before his own bar of justice. Miss Page enacts the chauffeur's wife who is "framed" on a morals charge and sent to prison to seal her lips from judicial investigators.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Miss Caroline Skinnis, whose death and funeral occurred last week, was for many years a citizen of Thorsby, who by sterling character and kindly Christian living in humble circumstances, manifested a mind and spirit that ennobled her whole life among us. She was one of those dependable persons, who was so helpful in many ways that good people were glad to number her among their friends. She was of a quiet, unassuming nature, yet full of good works, and so cheerful that it did one good to meet and talk with her.

During the past few years she suffered greatly at times, but when physically able, she was to many in Thorsby as "a ministering angel" in times of sickness or trouble. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

The Ladies Guild social will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at Thorsby Institute dining hall with Misses Jenkins and Leech as hostesses. All are welcome.

Miss Elsie Lowery from Jacksonville Normal School were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our grateful appreciation of the assistance we received from so many people in the care of our maiden sister, Miss Caroline Skinnis, during her recent illness and our bereavement. We also are thankful for the many expressions of sympathy we have received; also for the flowers and other tokens of esteem for her, that were given by her friends.—Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Dyrhovd.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lucas with their son, Ronald, and daughter, Mrs. Mills, with her small son, Charlie William, left Monday for Flint, Mich., where they expect to spend their summer in the future, but may return to spend their winters in Thorsby.

Notice. Thorsby Eastern Star ladies will hold a strawberry festival at Thorsby Masonic hall Saturday. Price per plate is 15c. They will begin serving at 5 p.m.

Thorsby Institute trustees will hold a regular quarterly meeting at 9:30 a.m. in the living room at Thorsby Institute dining hall. It is expected that Rev. Frank Jenkins, president of the board will be present to preside at this meeting, Thursday morning this week, when members of the faculty for the ensuing year of the school will be elected.

Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers shipped their 22nd car of strawberries for this season on Tuesday, April 25. Unfavorable weather so far this season has adversly affected the berry crop and few berries of standard quality have been obtained.

Rev. J. E. Each, who has been attending a rural school for ministers the past ten days at Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn., is expected home the end of this week.

"Sunbonnets" the play given by members of the Ladies Guild last Saturday night was a great success. Each member of the cast acted her part exceedingly well and the audience enjoyed every moment, apparently. Nineteen dollars was added to the treasury.

Next Sunday afternoon at two p.m. there will be a meeting for women at the Congregational church. The purpose of this meeting is to learn what the women of our churches are doing and to discuss problems and better ways of working, also to become acquainted with each other. Groups are expected from Birmingham, East View, Mt. Creek, and Mt. Springs churches. Anyone interested in the work is invited to attend.

Mr. W. L. Spencer, state supervisor of secondary education in Alabama is to be the commencement speaker at Thorsby Institute this year. Commencement exercises will be at 10:30 Tuesday morning, May 23. Next Saturday afternoon the senior class plans to have a picnic.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR STRAWBERRY GROWERS

Reports received form those in charge of strawberry shipment in Chilton County are that this will be the best strawberry year in the history of the industry in this county.

So far this season, 26 cars have been shipped from the Clanton Association alone, and managers are confident that the total for the season will reach 75 cars. This, with shipments from the other three associations in Chilton County, at Maplesville, Jemison, and Thorsby, should bring the total for the county to 225 cars.

In 26 cars shipped by the Clanton association there were 8,709 crates, an average of 335 crates per car; local shipments include 418 crates, making a grand total of 9,127 crates, including Monday's shipments. The average price is given at about $1.75 per crate, a total of approximately $16,000. The present rate at which berries are selling is about $1.75.

We have no official figures from the other associations, but reports are that they are having a good year.

The grade of berries shipped so far is given as fair, although cool weather and much rain has hurt some. The grade should improve with warmer and dryer weather, and prospects now go to show that Chilton's 1933 crop should go well over $100,000.

If the goal of 225 cars is reached, averaging the minimum of 315 crates per car, there will be 70,875 crates, containing 1,701,000 quarts; at the rate of one and a half cents per quart, pickers will receive over $25,000.

COUNTY-WIDE PICNIC

County Agent C. E. Stapp has begun making plans for the county-wide picnic to be held July 21.

Some 2,500 people of Chilton County who attended the picnic last year voted that it be made an annual affair. Mr. Stapp states that he was highly pleased with the get-to-gether last year and hopes to be able to make it even better this year. He has already started engaging speakers and entertainers.

Many of those who attended last year are anticipating an attendance of around 5,000 this year. Mr. Stapp states that he hopes to be able to make it both comfortable and educational for all who attend.

We are sorry to report the serious illness of Mr. Jim Mose Robinson at his home near Providence, Beat 16. He suffered a severe stroke of paralysis last Thursday night.

Mayor J. Lee Smith and W. J. Headley returned Wednesday morning from Hot Springs. They came back sooner than expected on account of the illness of Mayor Smith's father, J. Wiley Smith, of South Clanton.

VOLUME 41.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1933 NUMBER 2

COMMITTEE MET LAST THURSDAY

To Consider Nominating Candidate For County Superintendent of Education

Editor Union-Banner:

At a special call of the Republican Exucutive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, which met at the courthouse at two o'clock p.m., on April 27th, 1933 the following proceedings were had and done, to-wit:

After a roll call by the secretary it was ascertained and declared by the chairman to be a quorum present whereupon the chairman declared the committee in session to attend to any business that may legally come before the committee.

At this point the following resolution was introduced, to-wit:

Be it resolved by the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama;

That, whereas, at the recent special session of the legislature of Alabama an act was passed providing for the election of county superintendent of education of Chilton County, Alabama to fix his term of office, to define his qualifications, powers and duties and to provide for the election of his successor in office;

And, whereas, as provided by said act, an election has been called by the judge of probate of Chilton County, Alabama to be held on June 20th, 1933;

And, whereas, no candidate has been nominated by the Republican party of Chilton County, Alabama, to run as the candidate of such party for such office in said election;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the said Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, now in due and legal session assembled, that we favor and recommend nomination of a candidate for the Republican party to run for such position as County Superintendent of Education in Chilton County, Alabama, in said election by a primary election, if said nomination by primary can be legally provided for.

After the resolution was read in the hearing of the committee, a motion to adopt said resolution was made and duly seconded. In the discussion of the motion it developed and all agreed that a legal primary could not be held and that the only legal way to nominate a candidte for this special election was by the county committee of the party, whereupon the above and foregoing resolution was amended as follows:

"Motion prevailed that all Republican candidates for Superintendent of Education make public announcement of same through the Uinon-Banner and file such announcement with the chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama, not later than May the 10th, 1933, and that the County Republican Executive Committee adjourn until noon, Monday, May the 15th, 1933, at which time they will meet back at the courthouse in Clanton, Alabama, and make nomination and declare same for superintendent of education of Chilton County to be elected on June the 20th, 1933."

After adoption of the above motion, Mr. W. H. Conway, committeeman from Beat 2, Jemison, Alabama, was given a few minutes in which time he stressed the idea that the Republicans had a good chance to elect a governor for the State of Alabama next year and that we should begin now to make strenuous efforts to bring this fact about.

After Mr. Conway's speech the committee adjourned, apparently disappointed over the fact that they were not able legally nor financially to have a primary in which to name a candidate for the special election to be held June 20th, 1932, but determined to return home and find out as best they could whom their people wanted for superintendent of education and return at noon on May the 15th, 1933, and nominate some one whom they thought the people wanted.

As secretary of the committee, I wish to insist on all Republicans to assist their committeemen in making this selection, that no mistake may be made and that the cause of education may continue to go forward.

Yours for the success of the Republican party and the cause of education in Chilton county and the State of Alabama.—J. Z. Mims, secretary.

LAST POULTRY CAR THIS WEEK

County Agent C. E. Stapp advises that the last poultry car for this season will be run this week. It will be at Verbena Wednesday afternoon; Clanton all day Thursday; Jemison Friday morning.

All persons who are interested in selling poultry are urged to take note of this announcement.

JAMES MOSES ROBINSON

May 4, 1933

James Moses Robinson, age 71 years, died at his home near Providence in Beat 16, last Wednesday afternoon. Burial was at Providence cemetery Thursday afternoon with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, assisted by Rev. J. D. Hughes.

Mrs. Robinson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mahala (Parrish) Robinson; one daughter, Mrs. J. W. P. Murphy; two brothers, John M. Robinson, of Clanton, and Elijah (Bud) Robinson, of Providence; one sister, Mrs. J. Monroe Parrish, of Providence. He was a son of the late Elijah Robinson, of Providence, who died several years ago.

J. E. Robinson, who died in 1918, while Postmaster at Clanton, was the only son of James Moses Robinson.

The deceased was born and reared at the same place where he died. He was married 52 years ago, after which he lived for several years on the river near what is known as the Cove. Coming to Clanton from the river he lived here several years, engaged in the mercantile business with his brother, John M. Robinson. About twenty years ago he moved back to his father's old home place, the place of his birth, where he lived until his death.

Mr. Robinson was a very useful man, one who enjoyed the universal love ,respect and confidence of his neighbors and associates. He was a member of Providence Baptist church since he was 19 years old, and was clerk of the church at the time of his death. For many years he was prominent in the councils of Waxahatchie Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men. He rendered many years of faithful service to the Peoples Telephone Company in various official capacities.

He was a quiet, unassuming man, calm, deliberate and reliable in all his councils, and ever zealous of his integrity. To be good to his family and to be honest and helpful to his neighbors was the dominating purpose of his life.

CHILTON CO. VETS SUPPORT JEFFERS

Resolution Passed At Legion Meeting at Courthouse Monday Night

The regular monthly meeting of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion at the courthouse Monday night was well attended.

Commander R. D. Woodson presided over the business session, after which he introduced two visiting speakers, Department Adjutant, D. Trotter Jones, and J. M. McLelland, of Montgomery. The latter is former Commander of the Department of Georggia.

Both visitors made speeches dealing with the present and future outlook of the ex-service men of the country.

Membership in the Legion and a program of community service by the Legion was stressed by Mr. McLelland as the only means whereby ex-service men may maintain the favor of public opinion in the future.

Trotter Jones was on his way back to Montgomery from National Headquarters at Indianapolis. He left Birmingham by plane Sunday, flying to the Indiana city and returning by plane Monday.

The following resolution commending Congressman Lamar Jeffers for his support of veterans' legislation in Congress was introduced by Grover A. Bice, of Thorsby, and passed by unanimous approval of the meeting:

Whereas, the Hon. Lamar Jeffers, member of Congress of the United States from Alabama, saw fit in his own judgment to oppose and vote against the indiscriminate reduction of veterans' benefits which was embodied in the bill recently passed by the Congress of the United States, and known as "Bill to maintain the credit of the United States" and

Whereas, in so doing, he has received criticism from certain individuals and certain newspapers;

Therefore, be it resolved by Chilton County Post of the Department of Alabama, American Legion, in regular meeting assembled this the 1st day of May, 1933 that this Post go on record commending Hon. Lamar Jeffers for his views and his vote against the bill named herein;

Be it further resolved that copies of this resolution be sent to Hon. Lamar Jeffers, the Department of Alabama, The American Legion, and The Union-Banner.

Don't miss Tom Frank Teel's performance between the acts at the Senior play Friday night, at 8 p.m.

WEAR A POPPY ON MAY 27TH

Message From R. D. Woodson, Commander of American Legion Post

All World War veterans of Chilton County are urged to pay honor to their fallen comrades by wearing a memorial Poppy on Poppy Day, Saturday, May 27, in a mesage issued Monday by R. D. Woodson, commander of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion. Commander Woodson declared that the wearing of the poppy is the individual way to show remembrance for the war dead and devotion to the ideals for which they gave their lives. The message stated:

"On Saturday, May 27, America will pay its annual tribute to the men who gave their lives in defense of the country in 1917 and 1918 by wearing the memorial poppy. I am sure that every World War veteran and all other patriotic citizens of Chilton County will wear this token of remembrance on that day. Wearing the poppy means that we have not forgotten our comrades who fell amid the poppies of France and that we are carrying on for America in their spirit.

"The poppies will be offered on the streets here by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary, our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters. They have volunteered for this work, giving their services without thought of personal gain. Disabled veterans have made the poppies which will be distributed, and the contributions they will receive will go entirely to the relief of needy veterans and veterans' families. Be sure not only to wear a poppy on Poppy Day, but be sure to wear an American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary poppy."

MISS CORINNE POLK HONORED AT ATHENS COLLEGE

Miss Corinne Polk, lovely and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Polk, of Clanton, will graduate from Athens College, Athens, Alabama, on May 30th. Miss Polk has been accorded the honor of valedictorian of the graduating class. At her graduation she will receive the A. B. Degree, also a certificate for completing the commercial training course offered by the college.

A further evidence of the popularity of Miss Polk at the college will be evidenced when she will be crowned Queen of May on the 19th. The May Fete is an annual event at Athens College. The many friends of Miss Polk will be gratified to know that she is to be so distinctly honored at the college festival this year.

Miss Polk will return to her home in Clanton on May 31 to spend the summer months.

Reynolds To Furnish List Qualified Voters

If Primary is Held To Nominate Candidate For Superintendent

Editor Union-Banner:

It is reported that at the meeting of the Republican County Executive Committee held last Thursday one of the main oppositions to the Primary was the cost of a list of qualified voters which it was argued would exceed $200.

We have in the past had several unofficial elections such as the recent elections with reference to the R. F. C. money and as to the county agent, and in each of these I furnished a list of qualified voters and will be glad at this time to furnish this list free of charge in order that the people of the county may express themselves on the question of the selection of a county Superintendent of Education.

I have always believed in the people of the county freely expressing themselves and I trust that after June 20 we may have a county superintendent of education selected by the popular vote of the people of the county.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate.

SIX BOYS SENT TO FORESTRY CORPS

Now In Training at Camp McClellan, Near Anniston

According to a report of Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, director of relief work for Chilton County, six boys have been sent from here for enlistment in the United States Forestry work. They were carried to Birmingham last week for physical examination. After examination the boys were assigned to Camp McClellan at Anniston where they will receive two weeks of preliminary training and conditioning.

Leaving Camp McClellan they will go to the National forest areas in Winston and Lawrence Counties. All six of the boys are members of families who are listed on the work relief program for Chilton County and whose applications for work were in the office of Miss Austin before the 6th of April. No new applications for forestry work are being taken, Miss Austin said. The quota for this county will be made up from boys whose families were on record in the local office for work relief prior to April 6th.

The names of the six boys who were enlisted last week are Allen Cook, R. W. Ingram, Marcell Wilder, Eugene Wilkerson, Clyde Deloach, Askew Rockett. Each of them agreed to send $25 a month of their salaries back home to their families for their support.

Come and see how Durwood Robinson as constable Ben, catches those counterfeiters in the Senior Class play Friday night.

W. T. BEAN WILL BE A CANDIDATE

Favors Holding A Republican Primary Election To Name Candidate

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

After having been petitioned in writing by over a hundred voters of the county, including many trustees of the schools, and after having been solicited by an overwhelmning number of people in person, I have virtually made up my mind to become a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Education. I think now that in all probability I shall file my official announcement within a few days. However, I do not believe that the plan that the Republican Executive Committee for the county has fallen upon is the best way to select a candidate to be voted upon on June the 20th.

I have thought that a primary in which all of the Republicans could express their wishes would be far better and would give a much more general satisfaction. The many people of the county have been insisting upon the right for the superintendent to be elected by the vote of the people. I am sure that a primary can be held yet, and I am more fully convniced that it would be for the interest of the party to give the people voice in the matter instead of the executive committee to nominate some one.

I just want to ask those who may oppose a primary, what their objections to people's ruling in this matter could possibly be? I had far rather have the nomination at the hands of all of the Republicans than by just a few. If a candidate could be selected by the majority of the party, he then could feel assured of a much better cooperation of the people in helping run the schools as well as a better cooperation on June the 20th. I favor a primary for the nomination of a candidate for all important offices, and I cannot see any injustice in our having one.

In another place in this paper there is explaied the plan upon which the Exucutive Committee decided last week. I wish every one would study that plan, and if this plan is carried out, I want to ask my friends throughout the county to get in touch with their Beat executive committeeman and help them to learn the sentiment of the people of their respective beats, so that they may have more definite information upon which to base their votes later.

When I make my formal announcement, I expect to carry another letter dealing more directly with my candidacy.—Very sincerely, W. T. Bean.

JAMES WILEY SMITH DIED

James Wiley Smith, age 73 years, died at his home in South Clanton last Sunday, April 30, following an illness of several weeks. Burial was in Clanton cemetery Monday afternoon, in charge of Martin. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell at Clanton Baptist church.

Pallbearers were G. C. Harris, Dr. E. G. Hyman, J. M. Popwell, T. M. Taylor, D. D. Easterling and Tom Patterson.

Mr. Smith is survived by four sons: J. Lee Smith, Mayor of Clanton; M. V. Smith, merchant, of South Clanton; Dewey and F. O. Smith; one daughter, Mrs. Reuben Lowe, of South Clanton.

In the years of his early maturity Mr. Smith was prominently identified with business and mercantile interests of Clanton. He left here about twenty-seven years ago and with his family moved to Oklahoma, where he engaged in business for a long time. When he retired from active business he came back to Clanton about nineteen years ago.

A great throng of friends attended the funeral Monday afternoon. A great array of floral offerings were contributed by sympathizing friends of the family. The stores of the city were closed for an hour during the time of the funeral.

Sixty-One Carloads Berries From Here

Total May Reach One Hundred Cars By End of The Season

A total of 61 car loads of strawberries for this season had been shipped from Clanton up to Wednesday morning of this week. Comparing this year's production with last year, Mr. J. N. Dennis, secrtary of the Clanton Berry Growers, gave us the following figures.

Last year the first berries came in on April 20, two crates received on that date. This year the first berries came in on April 10, a total of 36 crates that day.

Last year the first car load shipped was on April 23, and contained 419 crates. The first car load this year was shipped April 12, and contained 315 crates.

The entire number of car loads shipped from Clanton last year was 40, the last car leaving here on May 23.

When asked to estimate what the number of cars would be this year Mr. Dennis stated that a number of conditions might be considered as affecting that question. With average season condtions and a continuation of the present market standards, Mr. Dennis predicted that Clanton's total shipments for this season would reach 100 car loads.

LAW DOES NOT FIX A PRIMARY

Explanation Offered by J. N. Dennis, Chairman of Committee

On Thursday, April 27th, the Republican County Executive Committee met at the courthouse to make arrangements for the special election to be held on June 20, 1933, for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent of Education. In order that the public may understand the action of the committee, I am writing to give the following facts:

It was brought to the attention of the committee, among other things, that there was no provision, under the statute, for a legal primary to be held to nominate a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Education for the special election. In other words, under the statute governing the special election there is no provision made for the expense incident to said election. It was also brought to the attention of the committee, under the law in this state governing special elections of this character, that the only authority and the only mode of nominating a candidate for a political party, in order to have the same legally certified to be voted on in the general elecnomination should be made by the tion, it is necessary that the said governing authority of said county, which, in this instance, is the Republican County Executive Committee. In other words, in order that the nomination should be made legally it is necessary that the nomination should be received through a direct vote of the Republican County Executive Committee.

The above statement of facts relative to the law were unanimously agreed to by those present. We regret that those who prepared and introduced this local bill did not make the same provisions in same pertaining to the calling of a primary election for the short term of one year as they did the next general election for the four-year term. In other words the party or parties who drew the bill failed to provide in this act for a special primary for the year of 1933.

The committee agreed to adjourn until noon, May 15th, at which time a nomination will be made for County Superintendent of Education. All those who wish to run are asked to announce by May 10th, after which date announcements will be closed. —J. N. DENNIS, Chairman Republican Executive Committee, Chilton County.

FROM CHILTON COUNTY BOYS IN FORESTRY SERVICE

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, director of social service for the Chilton County Welfare Department, has received the following letter from the six boys who were enlisted from Chilton County last week in the Forestry Service:

We, the undersigned boys from Chilton County, Alabama, take this opportunity to express to our Social Director, her assistants and our personal references our sincere appreciation for the untiring service in our behalf rendered so that we might be enlisted in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Our group was received and taken care of in a way that has made us very happy, and we look forward to happy days of work in camp and forest. We are clothed in blue denim, Khaki, dependable shoes and equipment housed in tents, and well fed.

It is our intentions to serve as best represents our County, friends and relatives throughout our enlistment in the Corps and to return home benefited in mind, body and experience. We have the privilege of attending religious worship much the same as we do at home.

Repeating our thanks and hoping that we may have news from our county from time to time, we are,

Sincerely,

—Allen Cook, R. W. Ingram, Marcelle Wilder, Clyde DeLoach, Askew Rockett, Eugene Wilkerson.

These boys are attached to Civilian Conservaion Corps, Co. 464, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

HILL GROCERY STORE TO MOVE TO MAIN STREET LOCATION SOON

The Hill Grocery Store of Clanton wil soon move to a new location, it was announced last week by Ernest Arant, manager.

The new home of the Hill Store is the place formerly occupied by Calloway Drug Co., on Main Street. Just when the move will take place was not stated.

The Hill store management is highly pleased with their new location, feeling that it will be more convenient for their customers. They will have a larger store with many added advantages over the old place.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GETTING CROP LOANS

Mr. U. H. Prickett, field inspector in this district for the Crop Production Loan Office with headquarters at Memphis, Tenn., has given out the following facts relating to the 1933 loan to this newspaper:

In making the crop production loans in 1933 pursuant to the Act of Congress, the Secretary of Agriculture was instructed by Congress to prepare rules and regulations setting forth the terms and conditions on which such loans would be made.

The secretary provided in such regulations that borrowers would be required to reduce their cash crop acreage 30 per cent less than such crop grown by them in 1932 (except that such reduction would not go beyond a certain minimum number of acres, which was 8 acres with respect to cotton.)

The secretary further provided that all borrowers would have to plant a sufficient kitchen garden to meet their own requirements, and also to raise sufficient feed crops to take care of their livestock during the coming winter.

The borrowers were all required to set forth their proposed crop schedule in their applications, and all field inspectors and county agents know of this schedule.

The loaning period will close as of midnight, April 30, and immediately thereafter field inspectors and county agents will make inquiry and inspection so as to see that all borrowers comply with their promises.

GIVES FEED NEED OF 100 CHICKS

Auburn, Ala.—Home production of corn, peanuts, soybeans, oats, wheat, and skimmilk for feeding chickens is being advocated by H. R. Bailey, extension poultryman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who has presented a feed budget for the poultryman.

"Pultry products depend largely on the amount of home-produced feeds available for the poultry ration, and experimental information shows that the biggest net profits are secured when the most home-made feeds are used," he said.

He pointed out that experiments conducted at Auburn show that as much as 94 per cent of all the feed required for a well-balanced poultry ration can be produced on practically all farms of Alabama.

To enable farmers to produce an ample supply of feeds at home, he has prepared as feed budgets four formulas giving the amount of feed needed for 100 hens for one year.

The first of these formulas includes corn 94 bushels, soybeans 10 bushels or peanuts 32 bushels, meat scraps 450 pounds, and shorts 1,000 pounds; the second includes corn 75 bushels, wheat 24 bushels or oats 50 bushels, soybeans 8 bushels or peanuts 24 bushels and meat scraps 450 pounds. In these two rations the only feeds which would have to be purchased are meat scraps and shorts.

Skimmilk is used in the other two formulas. The first uses corn 100 bushels, soybeans 10 bushels or peanuts 32 bushels, and simmilk 1,000 gallons; and the second uses corn 75 bushels, wheat 24 bushels or oats 50 bushels, soybeans 10 bushels or peanuts 32 bushels, and skimmilk 1,000 gallons.

AGRICULTURE

(By Clifford Manning)

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that the farm population increased in 1931 by 648,000.

It is estimated that the farm population was 32,000,000 by the end of 1932. This total will be close to the peak of people on farms, as of January 1, 1910. In other words, there are as many people living on the farms as at any time in the history of this country. The south has never had a decrease in rural population. The white rural population of the south increased 1,939,476 from 1920 to 1930. The percentage of increase in rural white population has been greater during 1931 and 1932. The department describes the increase as the largest and most significant in the ten years that population changes have been estimated.

A little while ago one rural community took a census and found sixty additional people. These people had moved in so quietly that no one realized the community had increased so much in such a short time.

The bureau believes that a considerable part of the farm-ward movement in normal years consists of persons who have had some farm experience ante-dateing their city life. On the other hand, it is believed that comparatively few persons move from frams to cities. People are going back to farms in large numbers, with mingled hope and fear, after looking for work in the cities. Many of those returning to the farms allege that they have gone to stay—that the city will never claim them again.

On the other hand, there are urban employers who say emphatically that they see no possibility of employing workers in the same number as prior to 1930. There are those who think that the cities will never again absorb labor from the country as they did in the first decade following the war. If these predictions are correct, then the rural situation takes on quite a different aspect from that which has been evident for a generation.

In the historical days the farmers were looked upon as the lower class of people, but in this modern day they are becoming equal to the other classes. Without agriculture, the world would be intensely lost. Millions would starve to death, and the rest would go back to the fishing and hunting style of our prehistoric ancestors.

Agriculture is the primary basis of wealth, and the world's stock exchange is regulated by the production of farm products. Although, according to physical labor, farming is easier to us than it was to our grandfathers, because of the modern machinery, but mentally it is harder now than it was then, because each day there is a new kind of disease or insect that the farmer has to fight.

Composition is much harder among the farmers than it was which makes an over-production or an under consumption of the farmers products.

FAULTY NUTRITION MAY ENDANGER NEW GENERATION

Chicago, Ill. May 2.—Asserting that the health and efficiency of the coming generation is seriously threatened by a prevailing condition of faulty nutrition, Miss Anne E. Boller, dietician of Rush Medical College and head of the National Live Stock and Meat Board's department of nutrition, urged parents to use every care in planning an adequate diet for their children in a statement issued today.

"The condition is widespread in extent and alarming in its significance," said Miss Boller. "Evidence of the gravity of the situation was brought forcibly to my attention by a survey in which I recently participated among a representative group of our school children. It was found that approximately 90 per cent of this group, picked at random, had developed nutritional anemia in varying degrees. More than half of the cases were markedly or very markedly anemic.

"Information secured in the survey indicated strongly that a diet out of balance rather than a lack of food was the basic cause of this condition in the majority of these children. The survey showed, among other things, that the meat intake was wholly inadequate. For example, in the case of 60 per cent of this group, the amount of protein, especially meat, in the diet was extremely limited, a fact which may have contributed materially to the anemic condition."

Miss Boller pointed out that modern research has revealed the high value of liver for the prevention and treatment of anemia. This discovery was recognized as an outstanding scientific achievement. She stated that in addition to the iron, so necessary in combating anemia, liver is such an excellent source of other nutrients, including vitamins, that it would seem advisable to iclude it in the child's diet at least once a week.

According to Miss Boller, malnutrition in children may be manifested by various symptoms, including marked overweight as well as marked underweight for height and age, an abnormal color, fatigue posture, lack of endurance, and inattention at school. Although the extent to which this condition may bring about permanent injurious effects is dependent upon various factors, it is her opinion that if long continued, serious results are inevitable.

Miss Boller outlined the ideal daily diet for a child as consisting of milk, egg, cooked and uncooked fruit, vegetables, including potatoes and one cooked and one uncooked vegetable, orange or tomato juice, cereal, bread butter. These foods provide such essential elements as protein for growth and for tissue repair, iron for building blood, phosphorus and calcium for strong bones and healthy teeth, and the vitamins necessary to general health.

"Research studies," said Miss Boller, "have shown that contrary to old ideas, meat should occupy a prominent place in the diet of even the very small child. Besides contributing the essential food elements in easily assimilable form, meat has another function, that of adding flavor to the entire diet.

In conclusion Miss Boller called attention of parents to the fact that they may well consider the less-demanded cuts of meat in planning the children's menus. She said that these cuts are just as desirable in flavor and food value as the so-called select cuts and that present prices make them available for even the most restricted budgets.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

On January 1, 1932, according to the U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry, there were reported 1,005 dairy herd improvement associations with 427,044 cows on test in 44 states of the union.

In a tabulation made by the U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry of more than 200,000 yearly individual cow records of cows in dairy herd improvement associations in 1931, it was found that cows producing 100 pounds of butterfat returned an average of $14 over feed costs. A 200-pound production returned $52 over feed cost. At 300 pounds the returns were $93 and at 400 pounds the returns were $135.

On an average one cow in the 400-pound group returns approximately as much over feed cost as 10 cows in the 100-pound group. In other words, as production is multiplied by 4 the income is multiplied by 10.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q.—Please explain the difference between succession cropping and succession planting in garden work.

A.—In the early part of May after the early crops have been taken out of the row or rows in the garden, such as lettuce, radishes, green onions, and early greens, we often plant the warm weather crops such as beans, corn, tomatoes, okra, and others that cannot be planted in the cooler weather. This plan of following one crop with another of a different season is called succession cropping. In order to keep fresh beans, fresh corn, fresh tomatoes, etc., during the summer, we often make several plantings about two weeks apart. This plan is particularly valuable for snap beans, lima beans, table corn, okra, and tomatoes. We often make three plantings of each, about two weeks apart. This is called succession planting, because in each case the same crop is involved, but the same soil is not used. The different plantings are in different places in the garden.

Q—How can we break our hens from wanting to "set"?

A.—Watch closely and catch the hens when they first begin clucking or sticking to the nest. Shut them up in a coop which has a wire bottom and on which they cannot sit down comfortably. Give them plenty of water to drink, but do not feed them any heating food such as corn. Give them some dry mash which they do not relish very much, such as bran, and let them remain there until they stop clucking. Then they can be liberated. The common plan of tying red rags to their necks or feet is a foolish idea.

SPIRITS OF THE WOODS

Montgomery, Ala., May 2.—In ancient and medieval times, and even at the present in some localities, a widespread belief existed that each forest and each tree in it, had its own particular spirits. According to the Alabama Commission of Forestry, a frequent conception was that these spirits were green in color with a skin of mossy texture, and at times they appeared as actual men and women. Such beliefs were very common in the northern countries of Europe. It was believed that these spirits were vested with the duty of looking after the forests in general and protecting the trees from harm.

Local belief held that a woods spirit named Pulch haunted the Kammer Forest. A second type of wood spirit was known as the Waldgeister, and was believed to inhabit the ancient forests in large numbers. Most of the Waldgeisters were of a benevolent disposition, but some were regarded as the reverse. It was claimed that they alone of all forest spirits were familiar with the secrets of medicinal plants.

The Union-Banner has for sale a quantity of music tablets for use in singing schools, etc. The tablets are of regulation size, and contain 40 pages. The paper is of good quality. Music teachers, students, and all needing music blanks are invited to examine them.

SOYBEAN FOR HAY A SPLENDID CROP

Union Springs, Ala.—"Soybean hay is the cheapest and best crop I can raise," says R. C. Russell, prominent Bullock County farmer, who has had several years experience with soybeans.

"I have been planting the Laredo soybean for several years as a hay crop and have been highly pleased with it. The Laredo does not shatter the beans and it is easily cured. I usually plant about the first of April, but soybeans may be planted as late as June and make a good hay crop," he said.

Commenting on Mr. Russell's experience, County Agent James Nunn said that the soybean is an excellent crop for hay, grazing and soil building, and that the Otootan variety as well as the Laredo gives splendid results.

Mr. Russell says that he breaks land flat for soybeans, lays off the rows 18 inches to two feet apart, and then applies compost in the furrows. He plants the seed in the furrow with a planter which drops the seed about as they would be dropped for cotton. The thicker the planting the smaller the stalks, he said.

"I usually run one furrow in the middle with sweep set flat after the beans are up to three or four inches," he said. "I never hoe them. I plant on light sandy land.

"Stock eat the hay well. I have made a practice of saving seed every year since I first planted. This is done by leaving a narrow strip in the field."

Some farmers find that applications of 200 to 400 pounds of a phosphate fertilizer are helpful in growing soybeans. Many of them use basic slag, which contains lime and other fertilizer elements as well as phosphorus, and is a product of the steel industry of the Birmingham district.

FARM POPULATION IS LARGEST IN HISTORY

More peole live on farms of this country than ever before in history.

This was reported by F. W. Gist, statistician of the department of agriculture, who says that the farm population of the U. S. increased 1,001,000 last year. The population was 32,242,000 on January 1, 1933 compared with 31,241,000 on January 1, 1932.

"This is the largest increase recorded since 1920," he said. "From January 1, 1930 to January 1, 1933, the farm population has increased from 30,160,000 to the present high mark. The previous high mark was 32,076,960 in 1910. The farm population is now the largest in history.

In the east, south and central section of the United States in which Alabama is located, a net of 74,000 families went to farms during 1932. The number moving from cities to farms was 190,000 and from farms to cities 116,000. The total farm population at the end of 1932 in this district was 5,472,000 a gain of 187,000 during the year.

The soybean is an excellent crop to plant for hay, grazing, or soil building. The Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, has found the Otootan a leading variety for hay.

Ninety-four per cent of all feed required for a well balanced poultry ration can be produced on Alabama farms, says H. R. Bailey, Auburn extension poultryman. Experiments have revealed that peanuts or soybeans afford a splendid source of protein for the poultry ration.

HOW TO FISH

(By James M. White)

Montgomery, Ala., May 2. — Still fishing or "pole and line" fishing is the most ancient form of taking fish for sport, but despite its great age it still has a greater number of devotees than any other method.

Just when and how the idea originated is hidden by the distant past but it is known that the stone age man caught fish in this manner. His "hook" in reality was not a hook at all, but a small stone in which a groove had been chipped or ground slightly nearer one end than the other.

In this groove he tied his line of some suitable vegetable fibre and the stone was imbedded in a morsel of flesh. When the fisherman "got a bite" he permitted the fish time to swallow the bait and the stone. Upon tightening the line the stone was pulled sidewise, making it impossible to be dislodged.

The original idea of still fishing has passed through several stages of evolution since the stone age, but the basic principle remains the same. The most revolutionary change has been in the hook. Forked limbs, which had been sharpened and hardened in the fire, and small limbs from which thorns grew at an angle, have been employed. Perhaps from the forked limb came the idea of the hook.

Fish hooks have been used for more than 2,000 years. The American Indian used the hook method long before the coming of the white man. Fishing hooks of bone, similar in form to the present day steel hooks, with a groove on the shank for attaching a line, have been unearthed in various parts of the country.

The parts that compose the "tackle" of the still fisherman consist of hooks, lines, floats, sinkers, pole and lure or bait. They may be purchased in various sizes and weights, but to get the most pleasure out of fishing, one must choose the correct sizes and weights. A person would not care to fish for bream or crappie with an outfit heavy enough for black bass, because the weight of the tackle would be out of proportion to that of the fish.

Artificial lures are not suitable for still fishing and a variety of natural bait is used. Live minnows are the preference for bass and crappie, while cockroaches, crickets, earth worms, catalpa worms and grasshoppers are used for bream and other members of the sunfish family.

After having attached the line to the rod or pole, the hook baited and the float adjusted to the right depth, cast the lure in places frequented by the particular fish sought. On lakes and impounded bodies of water it is best to use a boat, but in creeks and small streams the likely places can best be reached and fished from the bank.

SPRING FEVER
may not put you in bed

". . . but if you feel listless, tired, run-down, appetite dull, with a weak let-down feeling—perhaps nervous and worn out—why not "snap out" of this condition? Tone up your appetite, increase those red-blood-cells, and get in step with those who put zip and pep into everything they do—the best way to be happy and cheerful.

There is a good old medicine, S.S.S., tested both by time and by scientific research, which in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has been found to be remarkably efficient in restoring to the blood the normal amount of red-blood-cells and their hemo-glo-bin.

". . . if you suspect an organic disease, consult a physician. S.S.S. is not a "cure-all" BUT for a pimply skin and that tired, worn-out, let-down feeling—"spring fever" just try S.S.S. and see how you awake after a night's sound sleep feeling fresh and fine,—and see how you eat with restored appetite . . . see how your skin clears up.

Instead of slowing down in the early afternoon, you should possess ample energy to carry on thru the day and evening hours. S.S.S. is a particularly valuable tonic in the Spring of the year. It is liquid of course . . . never sold in tablet form.

. . . as a word of caution to the millions who know S.S.S. and its benefits from personal experiences, we suggest that you do not permit anyone to switch you to any of the hundreds of "just as good as S.S.S." substitutes. Remember that successful products are always imitated, but it seldom pays to buy imitations—insist upon S.S.S. At all good drug stores.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

Bible Subject Discussed by Rev. J. Robert Bean, Clanton, Ala.

FAULT FINDING

Matthew 12:24, "But when the pharisees heard it, they said, this fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils."

The Hebrew form of the word is "Baalzebub," which means "the God of flies." Baalzebub was worshiped by the Philistines of Ekron, II Kings 1:6.

The faultfinder is one given to finding fault. A careful study of the disposition of the Pharisees to find fault with everything done by our Lord will lead to the conclusion that they did not so much as dispute the facts of His miracles, or the spirit in which He did them, but was altogether actuated by a feeling of condemnation. They did not like to concede any power or authority to anyone but themselves.

Although our Lord could see through the thin vail of this hypocracy and know just the intent and purpose of all of their objections, to what He did, they never stopped to think of that, but was bent on just one thing and that was to keep the people from believing. The Pharisees knew that the moment one believed in Christ that they would no longer follow them.

So today it does not require a supernatural mind to see the hidden object in almost, if not all of the faultfinding among our people. I will admit that where one is really at fault our object is, or should be to find and expose it, but as a rule we start at the wrong end to accomplish our purpose. Instead of going to the one in fault we go direct to their best friends and try to lower him in their estimation.

Nine-tenths of the editorials that we read in the newspapers and almost as many comments of other writers are made up, in part at least, of faultfinding. It is refreshing indeed these days to hear a word of commendation of any one's actions. This is an age of faultfinding and the members of our churches are not clear of it. In fact, it seems that it bobs up there more often than in the world.

If I could be allowed to pick out the easiest job in the church I would select that of faultfinding for it would require no effort on my part. All that I would have to do would be to wait until some one did something and then get on the job and find some fault with what he did. Of course I would not vote on any question in the church so that I would be free to criticize what others did, and then if what the church tried to do failed or fell flat I would be in a position to say, "I told you so," not stopping to see that my attitude had as much to do with it being a failure as everything else combined, but I don't want the job, because all that I could hope to get out of it would be that feeling of superiority that is the sum total of the wages of the faultfinders. So, to sinners, the job of the faultfinder down to its last analysis we find that his only object is to elevate himself in the eyes of his hearers.

I was spending the night with the family and while the husband was out feeding and getting things ready for night, the wife began to find fault with her husband and hardly finished telling me of his faulth when returned to the house. The next morning I went with him to the barn and after he finished feeding we stood in the hall of the barn while he told me of one fault after another of his wife. At last she stuck her head out of the kitchen window and called breakfast, and on the way to the house he said, "Now, brother Bean, don't you think from what I have told you that we don't get along well, for there is not a better woman in this country than my wife."

So, instead of either of them doing what they wished to do, that is to elevate themselves in my estimation, they just lowered themselves a notch or two.

I heard of a man whom no one could induce to say anything harmful of another, and while some parties were discussing the faults of a certain man, one asked him what he thought of him, and he said, "Well one thing I know about him, he is the best whistler I have ever heard whistle." It is said that after that those faultfinders did nothing but whistle. I had rather hear you whistle any time than to hear you find fault with your friends.

When I hear you find fault with some one I feel sure that you never pray for them. So, let us try praying for our leaders in our churches a while and I feel sure that their faults will not loom up so high to us and the more we pray for them the smaller will their faults seem to us. Of course in this whole sermon I have been finding fault with the faultfinders, but who wouldn't? — J. Robert Bean.

SPECIAL ELECTION

For the Election of A County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Ala.

Under and by virtue of the provisions contained in Section Two of an Act of the Legislature of Alabama, approved April 11, 1933;

"To provide for the election of a County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, to fix his term of office, to prescribe his salary, and the manner of payment, to define his qualifications, powers, and duties, and to provide for the election of his successor in office," which said Section Two reads as follows:

"That immediately after the passage of this Act, a special election shall be called by the Probate Judge of Chilton County, and held in Chilton County, Alabama, the expenses thereof to be paid out of the general funds of said county, for the purpose of electing a county superintendent of education for said county, by the qualified electors thereof, who shall assume the duties of his office July 1, 1933, and shall hold office until his successor is elected and qualified, at the general election to be held on the second Tuesday in November, 1934, at which time his successor in office shall be elected, and thereafter the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County shall be elected quadrennial, and hold office for a term of four years, unless removed for good cause, nominations for this office shall be made in the primary elections as provided for the other county offices."

I, L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby call a special election for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent of Education for Chilton County, Alabama, said election to be held at the several voting places as they now exist in said county, on the 20 day of June, 1933.

Dated this, the 19 day of April, 1933.

University News

University, Ala., April 29. — The Hon. John D. McQueen, president of the Alabama State Bar Association, addressed members of the senior class at the University of Alabama at their annual class day exercises Friday.

Mr. McQueen gave the lawyers practical advice on cross examination, how to conduct a trial, how to examine women witnesses. He emphasized the ideals of the legal profession and stressed the importance of honesty. He said that the honest barrister, although he might never be rich, would be a credit to his community. He declared that the dishonest attorney loses everything and becomes an object of scorn.

Tom Huey, Jr., of Birmingham, president of the senior class, presided, and presented to Dean A. J. Farrah a photo of the graduating class a custom begun in 1914. The Rev. T. H. Evans, Christ Episcopal church, gave the invocation and benediction; William Hardwick, Hartford, read the class history; Earl Tews, Evanstown Ill, the class prophecy. Dean Farrah made a short talk.

Melvin Israel of Tuscaloosa has been elected president of the Blackfriars Dramatics Company of the University of Alabama for 1933-34. Other officers are Katherine Lawson, Montgomery, vice president; Marie Sears, Birmingham, secretary; Bernie Feld, Birmingham, treasurer; Fred Hahn, Floral Park, N. Y., and Gordon Hauschildt, Long Beach, Cal., executive council.

Staff appointments made by director T. Earle Johnson include Bernie Feld, business manager; Edward Reigel, University, stage manager; Robert Melka, Chicago, assistant stage manager; Gerald Alonzo, Lyndhurst, N. J., and Vincent Amar, Rock Lake, N. Y., assistant stage managers; Joe Jessup, Dothan, advertising manager; Hoyt De Shields, University, make-up manager; Sidney Liewant, Bronx.

Miss Gwendolyn Drolet of Tuscaloosa was elected the most popular senior girl in the University of Alabama at the annual senior ball recently. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, is Women's editor of the Crimson-White; Rammer-Jammer and Corolla staffs.

J. O. Smith, Baker Hill Ala., was named most popular senior boy. Smith is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, having received his A. B. degree several years ago; he is now a student in engineering. He is a Theta Xi.

Three hundred and fifty students in psychology, University of Alabama, attended a clinic in the Partlow home for the feeble-minded Friday afternoon.

Dr. W. D. Partlow, president of the Alabama Insane Hospitals, made introductory remarks on feeble-mindedness, its social and individual consequences. The clinic was directed by Dr. Roy Woodruff of the hospital staff.

New officers of Company K, fifth regiment, Scabbard and Blade, at University of Alabama are Harle Bailey, Boaz, captain; Gould Beech, Montgomery, first lieutenant; William Danforth, Houston, Tex., second lieutenant; and Eugene May, Birmingham, first sergeant.

JESUS FACES THE CROSS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:32-52.

GOLDEN TEXT—And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem. Luke 9:51.

PRIMARY TOPIC — Doing Hard Things.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Doing Hard Things.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Cost of True Greatness.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Greatness Through Sacrificial Service.

I. Jesus Foretells His Death and Resurrection (vv. 32-34).

This is the third time he makes this prediction. This time it was while on his way to Jerusalem.

1. Jesus going before the disciples (v. 32). Jesus was going with the full consciousness of the awful tragedy of the cross before him, the treachery of Judas, the fiery persecutions of the priests and scribes, the unjust judgment, the delivery to Pontius Pilate, the mocking, the scourging, the crown of thorns, the cross between malefactors, the nails, the spear—all were spread before him. The notion that the death of Christ was incidental to his career is most fallacious. The very purpose of the incarnation was the vicarious death (Heb. 2:14).

2. The amazed disciples (v. 32). His utterances and demeanor filled their minds with perplexity and their hearts with awe.

3. The crowd followed in fear (v. 32, R. V.). The strange atmosphere and happenings struck them with awe and fear.

4. Jesus instructed the twelve (vv. 33, 34). In this state of confusion Jesus called them to himself and patiently instructed them as to "what things should happen unto him."

a. "Delivered unto the chief priests and scribes."

b. "They shall condemn him to death and deliver him to the Gentiles."

c. "They shall mock, scourge, spit upon, and kill him."

d. "The third day he shall rise again."

II. The Ambitious Request of James and John (vv. 35-45).

1. What it was (vv. 35-37). It was for a place of pre-eminence in the Kingdom. According to Matthew, their mother was the intercessor (Matt. 20:20). Christ had told them of the awful agony of the cross and also of the glory which should follow. It was not entirely for their glory that they made this request, but because of their personal desire to be with their Lord.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 38-45).

a. To James and John (vv. 38-40).

(1) Their misconception rebuked. "Ye know not what ye ask."

(2) Positions of glory in Christ's Kingdom are earned, not obtained through favor or arbitrary assignment. The way to honor is through suffering. The cup which they were to drink was all that they were to suffer because of his crucifixion.

b. To the ten disciples (vv. 41-45).

(1) Their displeasure (v. 41). They were displeased with the request of James and John, because they were not free from selfish ambition.

(2) True greatness declared (vv. 42-45). To minister to others is greater than to be ministered unto (v. 43). Among the Gentile nations greatness was conceded to those who exercised authority over others. The highest standard of Christ's Kingdom is to forget self in devoted service to others, even to the giving of one's life.

III. Jesus Cures Blind Bartimaeus (vv. 46-52).

Though already bearing the weight of his cross, he had time for gracious deeds. Blind Bartimaeus received his sight.

1. Bartimaeus' request (vv. 46, 47). As soon as he heard that Jesus was passing by he cried to him for help. The fact that he addressed him as the Son of David showed that he recognized his Messiahship.

2. Rebuked by the multitude (v. 48). This rebuke provoked even a more earnest cry from Bartimaeus.

3. The blessing granted (vv. 49-52). Though Jesus knew his desire, he wished him definitely to commit himself. Note the progress in the experience of Bartimaeus.

a. A blind beggar (v. 46). b. His cry for mercy (v. 47). c. The persistence in his cry (v. 48). d. His response to the call of Jesus (vv. 49, 50). e. His specific request (v. 51). f. He immediately received his sight (v. 52).

How quickly an earnest soul may pass from sore need to jubilant discipleship.

Hypocrisy

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Observations

I notice that during the last two or three weeks fifteen or more persons have been to Fate Williams, purchasing velvet beans, cow peas, seed corn, cotton seed, eggs and friers. These were not city people, but people living right here in the community. Is it a fact that we can't save our seed from fall until spring? Is it not good management to hold your farm products until prices are highest? Most of us get rid of our products as soon as possible, regardless of the price, and along this time of the year when we should be selling them, to buy a little sugar, flour, work clothes or something of that sort, we have nothing to sell. It is nothing more than poor management when we sell our corn in the fall for 25c per bushel and buy it back in the spring for 75c per bushel. Try Fate Williams's practice for a change.

Don't Stop So Soon

I was talking with a lady on gardening the other day, and she made the statement that her garden was all complete. Every place in her garden was planted, and she did not need any more seed until next fall. Then she would need only turnips and mustard. Listen, folks, there is something that should be planted in your garden each month of the year. So often we do just as Mrs. A does her garden. We plant in the spring and let the stock eat the grass down in the fall, so that a row of turnips or mustard may be sown. What about those early vegetables? They will be ready for removal soon and what are you going to plant when they are gone?

The following may be planted during the month of May: Cantaloupe, Rockyford or Banana, 3-4 months; lima beans, Gopps pale or Carolina, 8-12 weeks; pole beans, Kentucky Wonder, plant in cornfield; squash, crook neck, or mammoth white, 2-4 months.

Whenever possible, buy seed from regular seed houses, for they specialize in handling seed which in most cases are fresh and reliable. Do not plant early varieties for late varieties or fall varieties for spring varieties. Let us see if we can't have some year around gardens.—Benj. Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

ADMINISTRATOR'S FINAL SETTLEMENT NOTICE

State of Alabama, Chilton County, In Probate Court, April 26, 1933; in the matter of the estate with will annexed of John Gafford Stearnes, deceased; To: John Eugene Stearnes, U. S. Navy, Barrack "H", Unit 1, East Platoon 37, Naval Operating Base, Norfolk, Va., and all other parties in interest:

Take notice and you are hereby notified that on the 26th day of April, 1933, came Esther M. Cooley, Administratrix of the estate of John Gafford Stearnes, deceased, with will annexed and filed her accounts, vouchers, evidence and statement for final settlement of her said administratrixship.

It is, therefore, ordered that the 26th day of May, 1933, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all parties interested may appear and contest said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand this the 26th day of April, 1933.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There is no substitute for prayer. Fine music, fine preaching, splendid organization, the most efficient religious machinery—nothing will take the place of prayer.

Prayer will not take the place of anything else. I tell my boys and girls in the Bob Jones College that they need not ask God to help them pass examinations if they haven't studied. God doesn't do for men what they can do for themselves. God sends the sunshine and the rain, but He won't cultivate the soil and gather the wheat. He won't chew our food for us. He does for us what we can't do for ourselves.

A man is a fool to get under a tree in a thunderstorm and ask God not to let the lightening strike him. That sort of acting is tempting God. If duty calls me under a tree during a thunderstorm, then I have a right to ask God to take care of me.

The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord. There is no such thing as an accident in the life of a man who is surrendered absolutely to God. I get aboard a railroad train. The engineer is careless, the train is wrecked, and I am killed. God is not responsible for the carelessness of the engineer or for the wreck if I am surrendered to Him. I go down the street and I am shot from the alley by an assassin. God is not responsible for the sin of the assassin. But God sent me down the street in time to come in contact with the bullet if I am really surrendered to the Lord.

Nothing can harm consecrated Christian people. Fire can't burn them. Water can't drown them. Death can't kill them. That is the faith that made the early church unconquerable.

The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church. It used to cost something to be a Christian. Jesus Christ called His followers to a life of suffering. He didn't offer them ease or earthly reward. He offered them a cross and a shroud. He sold the cause to them. They said, "The cause is worth dying for," and they followed Jesus.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Developments in the financial policy of the United States are coming so rapidly these days as to leave the average reader of the newspapers a trifle dizzy. The first rocket to flash across the dull financial skies was the announcement that Uncle Sam is off the gold standard and that a new embargo had been declared on gold exports. All sorts of guesses were made as to the reasons for this action. One was to the effect that the action was a prelude to an experiment in controlled inflation. Another ventured the opinion that the action was taken to put the United States in a better position to "talk turkey" in the conferences with McDonald of England and Herriot of France. This later guess has the greatest number of supporters at the time.

That the gold embargo and the decision not to support the American dollar in foreign markets changes the international conference picture is an undisputed fact. Uncle Sam was maintaining his dollar at 100 cents in the world financial markets. Great Britain and many other exporting countries, including Japan, were off the gold standard. This gave John Bull and the wily Jap tremendous advantages in the world markets and even enabled them in some cases to surmount our tariff walls and undersell American producers in the American market. Uncle Sam was naturally interested in getting Great Britain back on stable money basis, as other nations would follow suit and the stability of world currency be reassured, with the result that we would be no longer handicapped in the world markets.

There was good reason for believing that Mr. McDonald was coming to America with the expectation that gold standard Uncle Sam would beg the British statesman to put John Bull back on the gold basis. The Britishers were then intending to promise to consider the idea providing Uncle Sam would do something about reducing or cancelling the war debts and lowering the American tariff so that our market could be flooded again with British made goods.

But about the time Mr. McDonald got to the middle of the Atlantic, conditions changed. Uncle Sam went off the gold standard himself, and British calculations were completely upset. When Mr. McDonald now asks President Roosevelt "how much will you give us to go back on a stable money basis?" the president, if he desires so, can reply: "How much will you give US to go back on a stable money basis?" It may not be as simple as that, but any rate this illustrates the diplomatic poker playing possibilities, and how Uncle Sam has dealt himself a couple of aces during the past two weeks.

While the embargo on gold met with pretty general approval, the bill introduced into congress giving the president power to inflate the currency has not met with such widespread acclamation. While the bill gives the president discretionary right in the matter of inaugurating inflation, many financial students point out that generally when it is applied, currency inflation eventually gets beyond control, with the result that the wage earners, holders of savings accounts and life insurance policies suffer first. While credit expansion or reflation is desirable, the confidence of a great many people in the administration program was not enhanced to any great degree by the comparison made in official circles, of the present financial situation and a football game in which it was stated that just as in a football game a new play is not developed until the effects of the preceding play are ascertained, so it is impossible now to map out a financial campaign in advance, that procedure must be on the play by play theory. A great many cautious people would still like to know where they are going when they set out on the seas of financial experimentation. Lawrence Sullivan, writing in the Washington Post, comments on this phase of the situation in the following paragraph:

"President Roosevelt, himself, has likened the move to a crucial maneuver on the football field, and yesterday a celebrated member of the Republican insurgent group in the senate likened the new venture to a youngster's experience with a cannon firecracker: 'We are sneaking up in the dark to light the fuse. We will then stand back to see what happens before deciding upon the next step.'"

The administration's friends however, say that it knows exactly what it is doing and that its program is sound and complete. All good Americans, regardless of policy, will hope that they are not mistaken.

TIME TO GO SLOW.

Although the house has passed the arms embargo resolution it is to be hoped that the senate will go slow in following the action of the other legislative branch of the government. Although hailed by its sponsors as a move for peace, many of our most serious students of government believe that it might easily involve us in war before the country realized what it was getting into.

It is a significant fact that practically all of the professional internationalists of the country, including leading advocates of America's joining the League of Nations are favorable to the resolution. It is not hard to guess that they hope through this simple resolution to involve the United States either directly or indirectly in the machinery of the League in support of whatever policies that international organization might adopt in the future.

In viewing the arms embargo resolution with doubt and misgiving there is no intent to cast reflection on the soundness of the international views of our present chief executive, Mr. Roosevelt. There is no reason to believe that he would not apply embargo, if at all, in what he regarded as the best interests of the United States. But international affairs have a way of getting out of hand suddenly and unexpectedly, and there is no way of knowing just where we are goin when we embark on the seas of international politics.

One of the keenest and best students of international law in congress is Mr. Beck of Pennsylvania and his recent words in the arms embargo debate in the house are worth repeating:

"The present proposal, however—and this is the fatal defect of this resolution—gives the power to the president in case of war in any part of the world or in case of threatened outbreak of hostilities, not merely to form an alliance with other powers to boycott one or both of the nations involved in the conflict, but it adds the dangerous power of saying that the president can select which of the two warring nations he regards as the aggressor and which this nation will favor by allowing munitions of war to be sent by our citizens and which it will discriminate against, because he does not believe in the righteousness of its cause, or for political reasons of a more general character.

"Therefore what you are asked to do is not to allow the congress, as the great council of the republic, to determine whether the nature of any quarrel between foreign nations justifies the congress in intervening in behalf of either power, but it involves the question of vesting in the president the power to pass upon the moral equities of any war and to discriminate in favor of one nation against the other, and such discrimination is unneutral and is universally recognized in international law as a casus belli, if not war itself, for one can question, certainly, after the decision that we obtained in the Alabama Claims, that if we, as between, let us say, France and Germany, should decide to discriminate in favor of France and against Germany, or vice versa, that the nation against which we discriminated could, at the end of the war, put in a claim for damages because of our lack of neutrality, and in default of our paying damages, if it thought it had sufficient power, coerce us in the payment of indemnities by act of war."

It appears that the country is about to get better acquainted with Mordecai Ezekial who, with Messrs. (and professors) Moley and Tugwell, is of the economic triumvirate proposing and disposing in Washington. Mr. Ezekial is a modest man and has given Who's Who the go-by, but then so also was Col. House. He had many of the reticences if not all of the solemnities of a Japanese elder statesman and liked to wrap his works in a cover of mystery. He went about on gum shoes and sometimes was thought to use the drains in making his entrances and exits. Col. House never seemed to dislike the suggestion that silence was strength and that he was the big shot in the shadows in spite of the fact that Mr. Wilson seldom brooked any imperiousness except his own.

Mr. Ezekial, Mordecai Ezekial, comes rightly by the intimation of a major of a major prophet who can look sternly upon the errors of a generation and prescribe bitter medicine as the cure. He may go among the unrepenant with a flail and an ox goad. He may believe that the people must feed on thistles and tares before they will deserve good crops with the benediction of their own consciences.

We should know more about Mordecai Ezekial. He is one of the portentous signs of the times.—Chicago Tribune.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None

On Goat Hill

I want to commend Representative Pitts for his fight against the sales tax. That outfit of lawmakers at Montgomery appear to be suffering from a tax complex, or something of the kind, but Pitts is generally found on the right side of each question, insofar as the people of Chilton County are concerned. Sinister influence by special interests has been brought to bear in many instances—those lobbyists are not paid to sit around down there and listen and look pretty. They have a duty to perform. But a careful check on Mr. Pitts finds that he is not so easily swayed by these special interests and their agents. He works and plans toward the best interest of the people he is down there to represent—Chilton County's people. As a result, agents of the special interests don't think he is so "hot." Here is an instance to prove that. Recently, a bill came up which, if passed would have saved people of Alabama thousands of dollars every year, with Chilton getting her share of the saving, of course. While there were plenty of people urging hi mto vote for the measure, Mr. Pitts received only one letter against it—and that from a representative of the big "special interests." That letter threatened "political oblivion" for Pitts in coming elections if he voted in favor of the bill. He voted and worked for that bll. And he answered the "political oblivion" threat by a letter to the writer, containing these words: "I don't know that I will ever be a candidate again; but if I do, I would be glad of the chance to have you as my opponent in the race." You tell 'em, Percy.

James M. Robinson

In the passing of James M. Robinson, Chilton County has lost one of her best citizens. In this good man were embodied all those fine qualities which go to make one loved, respected and honored. With him honesty was as natural as life; he was meek and humble, always willing to abide by the wishes of his fellow-men, yet always ready and quick to fight that which he deemed wrong. He was a friend to everyone, and all who knew him were his friends. He was a Past Sachem of Waxahatchie Tribe No. 9, I. O. R. M. and here around the campfire I first came to know "Uncle Jim's" real worth. Many times as questions have come up in the lodge hall, after much discussion, Uncle Jim could usually be depended upon to work out practical solutions to the Tribe's problems. In Redman parlance, he has left the forest of life, now, and has gone to the happy hunting grounds of his forefathers, leaving behind a path of good deeds and noble endeavors which anyone may follow and be certain that they are following in the footsteps of a worthy one who will lead them on and on unto the perfect day. "Another friend is gone—another jewel vanished."

Legs and the Boss

Yes, sir, it is a fact. There is such a thing as a "triped." Our boss is one of them these days. He was a quadruped when his foot was first broken, because he had to have two extra legs to walk on, but he has since shedded one of them, and I suppose that makes him a "triped" now. At first Mack undertook to explain his accident to all his friends who wanted to know about it, but he found that wouldn't do. When he went out on the street to attend to business, he never knew how long it would take him to get back, and when he did get back he couldn't do anything but give explanations. And now, it's just a bit funny to hear someone inquire, and hear Mack answer that "a steamboat ran over me," and leave his friends to figure out for himself how he managed to get in the way of a steamboat.

"Jack" On the Radio

There are a few people in Clanton who listen in on the "Farm and Home Hour" given by the National Broadcasting Company a little after noon each day, and these few got a pleasant surprise last Tuesday. Snow was falling in Chicago, and so the Chicago White Sox baseball team was not playing that afternoon. Managers of the Farm and Home Hour had several members of the Sox up before the "mike" to give their listoners a little spiel. After Fonseca, manager of the club, had his say, none other than Minter C. Hayes, second-baseman, was announced. Maybe you don't know such a person; but if you don't, you very probably know "Jack" Hayes. Well, Minter is Jack, or Jack is Minter, either way you liwe—he's just Jack to me. Jack greeted all his friends "down there in Clanton." Someone in the studio asked him how he got the name "Jack;" he didn't know, but guessed people just got to calling him that, and that it had stuck. And by the way, that kid is really "cuttin' up" up among the tall timber of the baseball world. During training season he led the entire White Sox team in hitting, and since the regular season started he hasn't done so bad, and his fielding is the class of the league. I can remember when they called him "little runt," but that has been changed to "big brute" now; only last week he punched the old horse-hide over the fence in Detroit for a home run.

Wandering and Wondering

How many crates of strawberries will the Clanton association ship this year? How many will Chilton County ship? When will the L. & N. start their new electric train? Where does Will Jones sell so much Coca-Cola? What has become of Mr. Sam'l Scott, the photographer? Will we have another tornago this year? If so, where will it hit? What is Dr. Hayes building on his vacant lot? How much wider will the busses get to be? When will the bus drivers ever realize what the center stripe on the highway is meant for? Will Alabama get beer? If so, when? Where are all the Model T's? When will Dr. Gragg drop by in his sky-buggy, and invite me to ride with him? Would I have the nerve to go, even if he should? Why not get some of the R. F. C. money to drain the swamp with. Why has no one mentioned that before now? Will that swamp ever be drained? What is Mr. Will Reynolds intending to build with all those rocks he has piled off just south of the creek? What has become of Anton Felix Shoenwetter's "motor-bike"? Who will be the next probate judge? Who will be elected superintendent of education? How high will the price of cotton go? What does all the "gold standard" talk mean? Does it mean anything? If so, is it good or bad (I hear arguments that it will be both good and bad)? What will the government decide to do with Muscle Shoals? If they do anything, how soon? When will the depression really end? If "happy days are here again," who knows it? How strong is 3.2 beer? Will it burst the stomach, the head or the pocket-book? These are a few of the things I wonder about. Now for one more question. Who can answer all of these for me?—Man in the Moon.

THE COMING CONFERENCE

The entire world is looking forward to the conferences to be held in Washington between President Roosevelt on the one hand, and Ramsay McDonald, M. Herriot, and statesmen of other European powers on the other. Hope is expressed everywhere that something real will be accomplished for the promotion of peace and a return to more normal conditions. Certainly if the conferences do not succeed their failure will not be due to a lack of good wishes on the part of the people in every country.

Yet the difficulties to be overcome are almost insurmountable, or have been up to this time. Whether the critical condition of world finances has changed the situation remains to be seen.

We hear a great deal of talk about tariff bargaining, removal of trade barriers, debt revision and so on, and to the average person it would seem that there ought to be an easy solution to all of these questions. The trouble is, however, that Uncle Sam is almost alone in regarding these questions as purely economic. With the European nations it is not entirely a question of debts and tariffs. It is in part, and in the large part, a problem of politics. In addition to any economic advantages which might be gained, European nations want political advantage. That has been the stumbling block in all of the conferences since the World War.

For example, France would be willing to make all sorts of tariff concessions and might even agree to continue debt payments if Uncle Sam would agree to go into alliance with her to protect the French frontiers along the Rhine valley and on the Italian frontier. What France wants is not so much economic rearrangement as political concessions. The French say it is security they are after, while the anti-French politicians say that what France wants is the political dominance of the continent. Which view you accept depends on whether you are pro-French or anti-French in your views. And just as France sees all of these questions from a political viewpoint so do the other nations of Europe. France is not the only nation which puts politics ahead of prosperity. That is why Europe is again breaking up into a system of two grand alliances.

In these conferences the United States is willing to view the questions from the standpoint of the economic good for the reason that he is not interested in European politics. European nations take the other angle because politics has to them been the paramount question for a thousand years.

That is why the League of Nations and its League Court have failed to live up to advance notices. Formed ostensibly for the purpose of dealing out abstract justice, these two international organizations have been the football of international politics and have when the powerful nations are involved, been compelled to make decisions from the standpoint of political expediency rather than abstract justice.

This furnishes the real reason for Uncle Sam's remaining out of these international organizations. He is interested in restoring world prosperity but not in Europe's political problems.

The international conferences about to be held have a chance to succeed if international politics can be forced into the background. If this is not done they will fail.

HOW ABOUT INFLATION?

Inflation is a subject which is now being discussed in the country more and more each day. There are many proposals. Some of them call for printing of paper money, others for reducing the gold content of the dollar. Still others aiming at controlled inflation advocate great bond issues the proceeds of which are to be used for the construction of public works.

In speaking of currency inflation, Nation's Business recently made the following very pertinent remarks.

"As a nation, we live less on currency than any other country. Nine-tenths of our business is done by check. And that's one of the things that make talk of currency inflation seem ridiculous.

"We have more currency than we needed in our liveliest business days. Why make more? What we need is faith or credit—and credit is another name for faith. We need bank deposits in action. How the activity of bank deposits has fallen is shown by some Federal Reserve Bulletin figures:

"From 1923 to 1925 deposits in member banks in the leading citits turned over 26 to 32 times per year. From the fall of 1925 to 1929 turnover increased until it became 45 times a year.

"In the last quarter of 1932 it had dropped to 16 times per year. Money was doing its work slowly and all business lagged."

But in spite of all efforts on the part of sound money advocates to show up its fallacies there is a certain allurement about inflation. It looks like such an easy way to get rid of our difficulties. Yet the facts are that after its first exhilarating effects have worn off, the nation which adopted inflation is always worse off than it was before. The case of Germany is an example. Everyone remembers what happened there a few years ago when inflation was tried. The German people remember it so well that, although the depression has hit them as hard as any nation in the world, they are clinging doggedly to the system of sound money.

The fact is that what we need in America is not an inflation of currency but an inflation of credit or confidence. This confidence is even now slowly returning, and if a few adjustments to our economic system which are still necessary can be made without undue shock the process of recovery will set in. What we need most is not more money but more confidence in ourselves and our country. When we get it the money will come out of hiding and we will be riding up the hill once more.

Our office boy says he is in favor of beer coming back, just so it doesn't come back again after he drinks it.

France will spend one million dollars to propagandize herself back into the good faith of Americans, so we hear. If she would pay this on her debts to Uncle Sam there would be no need of propaganda.

Moving Pictures

As you sit and enjoy a good picture show, with the talking characters, and everything, does it happen that you think of how moving pictures came into being? In digging back into old books and papers, I sometimes run across interesting items; and this is the case with reference to the pictures and their history. A few days ago I was perusing an old newspaper file and found the following: The first idea of moving pictures was conceived back in 1826. In Boston, a party was in progress, and had reached that stage where stunts, riddles, etc., were in order. One man asked another if he could tell how to see both sides of a coin at the same time; he held the coin before a mirror to solve the problem. But that did not satisfy; the other man took a coin, with the liberty head on one side and an eagle on the other, and by spinning the coin on a table, both head and the eagle seemed to appear at the same time. Some fellow, with an inventive quirk, became interested; the next day he took a cardboard disc, drawing the picture of a bird on one side and a cage on the other; by spinning this disc, the bird appeared to be in the cage. That gave him another idea, and next, he drew several pictures of a man in the different stages of a dance; when this strip of pictures were drawn over an opening, the man appeared to be dancing. From this beginning, more study was put on the subject, other people taking a part in it, until in 1877 the first regular moving picture was shown. Science and invention have worked wonders with pictures, until now we have the "talkies". What a difference from the first idea of moving pictures. But, you know, "big oaks from little acorns grow."

EMBARGO PLAN UNWISE

Doubtless there will be — certainly there ought to be—a fight to the finish against the adoption by the senate of any such arms embargo resolution as that which has just been jammed through the House.

It is proposed by this resolution to authorize the president to enter into arrangements with foreign governments to prevent the shipment of arms whenever and wherever he thinks best.

No resolution dealing with such an intricate foreign program of this extraordinary session of Congress which was called to relieve the emergency here at home.

Adoption of this resolution will not relieve the domestic emergency but may aggravate it by new threats of war.

But the resolution is as unwise as it is untimely because as Representative Beck of Pennsylvania pointed out:

"It seeks to vest in the President of United States, to a large extent, the supreme issue of war and peace, for with this power his ability to implicate us in any part of the world seems resonably clear."

As this student of the constitution rightly contended, this resolution would empower the president in case of war or in case of its threat "not merely to form an alliance with other powers to boycott one or both of the nations involved in the cnflict," but also to select "which of the two warring nations he regards as the aggressor and which this nation will favor by allowing munitions of war to be sent by our citizens, and which it will discriminate against.

By the federal constitution, the power to declare war rests with the congress. There it should remain.

And the way to keep the power to make war where the constitution put it is to reject outright the arms embargo resolution which the house approved and sent to the senate.

The American people look to their senators in congress, Democrats and Republicans alike, to hold this unwise and untimely proposal in the committee of foreign relations until the congress meets in regular session next January.

Then there will be ample time to subject this un-American provocative and dangerous proposal to that careful study and ample debate which will expose the reckless folly of this latest attempt to lure the United States into a war-breeding alliance with foreign powers.—Washington D. C. Herald.

WORLD ECONOMIC UNIT

Signs continue to multiply that the rock on which the Democratic administration is in greatest danger of splitting, if it does not watch its step, is the tariff boulder. Alrady Mr. Cordell Hull, one of the few sincere free traders left in the country is suggesting the ideal of a utopian agreement which will make the world one economic unit. The idea of the world as an economic unit is about as practical as the one which developed during the World War to the effect that Mother Earth was to become a political unit. Make the world safe for democracy was the cry then and it failed miserably. The attempt to make the world an economic unit is just as impractical and will fail just as miserably.

The folly of considering the world as an economic unit at this time can easily be seen when one stops to consider the wage levels and the living standards of the various nations of the world. In Japan, for example, the wage is about one-sixth of ours, and it has been beaten down even further by the depreciation of Japanese money. In all of the nations of Europe the wage level is less than ours, varying in different degrees in the different countries.

In Japan the workman lives on a handful of rice and a cup of tea, but he works efficiently and his competition is deadly, and becoming more deadly all the time. In placing the United States and Japan as a part of the economic unit, without tariff barriers, it is easy to see what would happen. Japan would soon be furnishing us with our manufactured products and taking little in return except perhaps steel scrap and cotton which could, if necessary be made into amunition to shoot at us when our navy deteriorates to the point where such shooting would be made safe and profitable. Because of our higher living standard in any general world economic unit, Uncle Sam would become the economic cipher.

After reading G. Bernard Shaw's New York speech we are convinced that the American boobs he has referred to on former occasions are the ones who would pay real money to hear him talk.

According to the proposed securities bill, the public will get all the inside information about every proposed stock issue. If it does, there probably won't be so many new issues.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

Mr. Stapp states that out of the 370 farmers who borrowed government money for crop production, that 130 or 41 per cent borrowed some money to buy corn and that 200 of the 370, or 64 per cent borrowed money to buy fertilizer for corn.

Mr. Stapp feels that every farmer should try to produce enough corn in 1933 that he will not have to buy corn to make a crop on in 1934. Mr. Stapp further states that if the farmers who run short of corn every year would plant 5 acres per mule, in vetch or Austrian peas this fall and follow same with corn in 1934, that he feels sure they will have plenty of corn in 1935.

Mr. Stapp states that farmers of Chilton County have already and are turning under more than twice as much vetch and peas this spring than has ever been turned in one season in the county, and that he is expecting many farmers to be pleased with their corn yield this fall.

Mr. Stapp further states that all farmers who borrowed money this spring from the government for crop production, signed a statement that they would plant sufficient food and seed crops to supply their needs.

When a napplicant stated that he didn't have a hog, Mr. Stapp would stop and say, "What are you going to do for cracklins to go in bread next winter?" Every farmer who possibly can should arrange to grow his own meat this winter.

PATES CHAPEL

A three-act comedy, "Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard," will be presented at Pates Chapel school, Saturnight, May 13, beginning at 7:30.

Admission will be 10c. The proceeds will go to the church and the school. Come and enjoy a good laugh.

"THE SIMON-PURE SIMPLETON"

People, if you want to have the time of your young life see the Senior play at the high school auditorium tomorrow night, Friday, May 5, at 8 o'clock p.m. The title of this sensational entertainment is "The Simon-Pure Simpleton," and those who see it are promised several hours of side splitting laughter and mirth to the nth degree. Besides this wonderful play, various vaudeville entertainments, such as comedy sketches, chorus girls, music, etc., will be offered. In brief, everyone who sees this play is promised and guaranteed a night of entertainment as only the best can give.

Imagine yourself a country hick, who suddenly inherits $10,000 and immediately want to become citified. The hero of this comedy is Wilbur, a country boob, who, when he inherits this ten thousand dollars, ditches his country sweetheart and friends, and gets him a sophisticated city flirt.

Some smooth oil stock schemers appear on the scene and almost have poor Wilbur's money when his country sweetheart, still true, rushes in amidst many humorous complications and saves poor Wilbur. This is a play full of excitement, romance and mirth. The cast includes for your amusement, a light-headed country hick, city flapper, a detective in disguise and a chuckle-headed country constable.

The members of the cast are Wilbur Weed, the Simon-Pure Simpleton, Clarence Easterling; Aunt Martha Weed, a boarding house keeper, Margaret Jones; Bee Lambert, the beauty shop proprietress, Hilda Hart; Otter, a student of the grasshopper, Ralph Culver; Ben Cobb, village constable, Durwood Robinson; Jennie Bee's assistant, Mary Robinson; Bella James, in the cluthches of the streets, Clyde Jones; Joe Cook, of the Sunshine Garage, Dewey Williams; Hattie Street, Aleck's wife, Dorothy Sessions; Aleck Street, Wilbur's good friend, Jarrel Burdette.

Don't forget the time and date, tomorrow night, Friday, May 5, at 8 p.m., and, my dear folks, the admission is only 15 and 25 cents.

MAPLE SPRINGS

If this pretty weather lasts much longer, some body will soon have to go to chopping cotton.

Health at this place is not so good at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wilson and children were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pate of Thorsby this week end.

Mrs. W. F. Glenn was the Sunday afternoon guest of Mrs. Marthy Brown.

Mr. Alonza Davis was the Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. Audie Brown.

Mrs. H. B. Wells has been seriously ill. We hope her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Yates were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Watkins Sunday afternoon.

Little Lester and Lois Davis, who have been visiting their grandfather, Mr. Little, of Collins Chapel, have returned back home.

We are sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Wiley Smith, of South Clanton. He has passed on to that great beyond. Let's all live in a way that when God calls us we will be ready to go.

Mr. Oliver Glenn was the guest of his uncle, Mr. Calvin Glenn of Cooper Saturday night.

Several from here attend the singing at Corinth and Oak Grove. All reported a good singing and a good time.

Little Miss Lillie May Davis is on our sick list this week. Let us wish her a speedy recovery.

We have not had Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. at this place in a good while, but we are hoping our church will be completed by the third Sunday. That will be our regular preaching days. Everybody has a hearty welcome.

REFUGE NEWS

Our Sunday School was very small Sunday. It seemed as tho some of our folks just had to take a little vacation, as there were five Sundays in April, an unusual thing. I think they did what we have been telling them to do, come and bring someone with you, for we had a splendid crowd and a well studied lesson. We want to especially thank our young folks for their program.

Miss Opal Lynch of Notasulga was the Saturday night guest of Miss Clara Mae Mims.

Mrs. Hally Wilson was an all day visitor at Mr. Elijah Mims Sunday.

Mr. T. B. Easterling and family visited relaives near Dixie Camp Saturday and Sunday and reported having a nice time.

Mr. Jim Powell and family of Sylacauga were visitors in our community Sunday night.

Those that have part in our program that is to be rendered at Pates Chapel are as follows:

B. Y. P. U. Class—Misses Clara Mae Mims, Peggy Mims, Cleedie Easterling, Turna Bell Minor, Messrs. Loyd Mims, Virgil Robinson.

B. A. U. Class—Mr. Elijah Mims, Mr. Joda Connell, Mrs. T. B. Easterling, Mrs. Hattie Belle Mims, Mrs. Etta Baker.

There will not be any services at Refuge next Sunday night on account of our class visiting Pates Chapel.

We are glad to report that Mrs. J. S. Easterling and baby are doing very nicely.

Everybody is still picking berries and we are hoping that our busy time will soon be over.

Don't forget our Sunday School next Sunday. Next fourth Sunday is when we want to reach the goal of 75 present at our service. Don't forget the date.

DUKE IS PLEASED WITH HIS WORK

County Commissioner, Charley D. Duke, of the Fourth District, made a trip covering all of his district on Tuesday of this week. In a statement given out Tuesday night, upon completion of his trip, Mr. Duke said:

"I find that everything in my district is working nicely. All of the road workers are making steady and substantial progress with their programs. I am pleased with the work that is being done by those who are employed under the R. F. C. relief. I am convinced that the men who are thus employed are working hard and trying their best to render full value for the money they are getting. I believe they appreciate the opportunty that is thus afforded them to make some money with which to provide the needs of their families."

Mr. Duke himself is intensely interested in making the effects of the work in his district as far-reaching as possible. In his statement referring to the general program of his district, he said:

"I want my people to know that I fully appreciate every act of carrying out my objectives. I have been accorded some very valuable co-operation from our citizenship and I appreciate it fully. By way of suggestion, I want to say that I hope our people will give some attention to cleaning off their property alongside the public roads, so that the appearance would be improved. There are many places where bushes, briars, and trash have been allowed to collect along fences beside the roads. These places could be cleaned out so as to improve the appearance most wonderfully, and I hope our people will consider this matter seriously."

East View News

Rev. A. C. Nelson returned home Friday night from Nashville, Tenn., where he attended the rural church school at Vanderbilt University, from April 17 to 28. There were 228 rural leaders from 20 states and 16 denominations attending the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Jacks were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams of Montgomery were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Traywick and family.

Miss Louise Smith spent Saturday night with Misses Gulma and Maudie Ree Traywick.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rushing are spending this week at Thorsby, where they are engaged in picking berries.

There will be a singing at the church here the second Saturday night, at which time the Ladies Aid will give away a quilt.

Rev. A. C. Nelson filled an appointment at Walnut Creek last Sunday.

Clean-Up Work Is Being Pushed

Hoes, picks, shovels, mowers and cutters are seen plying their work with industrious citizens of Clanton as power behind them, in the city-wide clean-up campaign sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, which began last Monday.

While this campaign will continue for two weeks from Monday, and is yet in an early stage, a great deal of improvement is being noted all over town. Vacant lots, alleys, front yards and back yards are taking on a brighter look as the result of this campaign, in which the Clanton Pilot Club is also taking a hand in pushing.

However, much has been done and is being done, a representative of this newspaper, making rounds over the town, finds that there is plenty to be done yet and that there is a great amount of room for improvement. Especially is this being found to be true on vacant lots in town.

Little effort and work is required from each individual to make things look bright and shiny in our town and the Kiwanis Club, Pilot Club and city officials are urging everyone to keep busy in this clean-up campaign.

Considerable work is being done in our city cemetery, under the direction of J. Mell Martin, a member of the Kiwanis Club. The cemetery recently underwent considerable cleaning from the Pilot Club and it is being given another general cleaning and straightening up. This is one spot in Clanton that needs attention frequently and should be made a spot of beauty.

Residents in the rural sections of Chilton County should take interest in this campaign and join in with the spirit that is prevailing in Clanton to "clean things up." This has been suggested and is not a suggestion to be passed up. Each community could start a clean-up campaign of their own and work wonders in beautifying their homes and property.

Workers who have been signed up on R. F. C. funds have been available to Clanton in this campaign and in the early part of this week have been used in the cemetery. However, it was stated that these workers would be released to work in different sections of the city throughout the remainder of the campaign, which ends on May 13th.

Foursquare Church

(F. E. Clements)
Pastor

The Foursquare Gospel is so named because it groups the four phases of Christ's ministry into the following divisions:

1. Jesus Christ, the only savior, Matt. 1:21; Acts 4:12.
2. Jesus Christ, the baptizer with the Holy Spirit, Matt. 3:11; Acts 1:5 and 2:3-4.
3. Jesus Christ, the great physician Matt. 8:16-17; James 5:14-16.
4. Jesus Christ, the coming king, John 14:3; James 5:8; Acts 1:11.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

An interesting meeting was held at the Congregational church on Sunday afternoon, when women from Birmingham and nearby churches gave reports of work being done, and exchanged ideas for the future. Miss Fairbank had prepared an exercise on "Giving to God", using verses from the old and new testaments to show how different kinds of gifts have been given. She will be glad to furnish this exercise to anyone who would like to use it. The reports were encouraging and show that the women are enthusiastic workers. The delegates present from other churches included: Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson and two sons, and Mrs. Mims and two daughters of East View; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Escoe, and Mrs. Jack Johnson of Mt. Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Robinson, Mrs. W. C. Bonham, Mrs. Arthur Akers and Mrs. McKenzie of Birmingham.

The fire, which occurred last Tuesday night, destroyed one of the oldest and largest houses in Thorsby. The house was known as the J. F. Peterson place. Miss Elizabeth Daniels was living alone in the house which was owned by Mr. William Holcombe of Birmingham. The fire is believed to have started from the flue from the kitchen stove. Some of the furnishings were saved. Miss Daniels is now living in one of Mrs. Villadsen's twin houses. Mr. Holcombe expects to build again on the same site.

ALABAMA MEETS APRIL PAYROLL

Montgomery.—The state of Alabama met its monthly payroll of approximately $275,000 Saturday including the March salaries of the Health, Education and Child Welfare Departments.

J. H. Hard, Jr., state comptroller said he had received a verbal ruling from Attorney General Knight that these three departments, dropped from the payroll in March under the Fletcher budget act, had police functions to perform that were mandatory.

"It will soon be necessary, however," Mr. Hard said, "for the Education and Child Welfare Departments to cut their personnel down to these police functios as the Health Department already has done.

Mr. Hard delayed the payment of salaries to 29 legislative employes who are checking and preparing the legislative journals under authority of a joint resolution, in view of the Supreme Court's ruling Thursday that the Legislature had no authority to employ its clerks by a resolution.

This payroll, for two weeks' work, amounts to approximatel $1,860 and will not be paid, Mr. Hard said, pending a ruling from the attorney general on its validity.

ALABAMA TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATIONS MEETING

Dr. L. W. Roe of Mobile was reelected president of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association at their annual meeting held Thursday morning at the Jefferson Davis Hotel in Montgomery. Other officers were Dr. S. B. McPheeters who was reelected first vice president, Miss Ita Stocks of Gadsden, second vice president, Dr. S. C. Tatum of Center, secretary and Mr. William Robertson of Birmingham, Treasurer.

The Alabama Tuberculosis Association is an organized center for the prevention of tuberculosis and the dissemination of knowledge regarding this disease.

"The organized tuberculosis movement can proceed no faster toward ultimate triumph than the average person in the community will permit," says Dr. Roe. "There is no disease known to man which lends itself to defeat so easily as tuberculosis does on the application of intelligent knowledge. Tuberculosis begets tuberculosis. Where there has been one case there is likely to be another, not because it is inherited but that usually it is acquired through close and repeated contact with some member of the household who has tuberculosis. The vital problem today in preventing tuberculosis is to trace the source of cases which are known back to the cases which are unknown. Although the death rate from tuberculosis is slowly decreasing, the Alabama death rate per hundred thousand population is much higher than that of the United States. With the continued support of public spirited citizens of Alabama, tuberculosis can be made a medical rarity," concludes Dr. Roe.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Hall of Clanton Lodge No. 423
A. F. & A. M., Clanton, Ala.
April 27, 1933.

To the Worshipful Master, wardens and brethren of Clanton Lodge No. 423 A. F. & A. M.

We, the committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late brother, Rev. T. J. Deason, beg leave to submit the following:

Brother Deason was born May 4, 1862. He departed this life April 2, 1933. When a boy of 14 years he united with the Baptist church, and for thirty-four years was a faithful minister, serving many churches in the county. Brother Deason was both a faithful Christian and Mason, and leaves a record of noble acts and duties well performed over a long, useful life. He was initiated an Entered Apprentice February 5, 1898; passed to the degree of Fellow Craft March 5, 1898, and raised to the Sublime degree of Master Mason July 27, 1898. Because he was faithful as a man, a minister, a citizen, and as a good Mason, be it resolved:

First, that we tender to the members of his family our fraternal sympathy.

Second, that we recognize that our county, state and lodge has lost an upright and faithful steward in all the walks of life.

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the county papers for publication, and that a copy be sent to the bereaved family, and one spread upon the minutes of our lodge.

Respectfully submitted,
W. H. SARTOR, Chm.
J. R. MULLINS.
S. J. EZELL.

CHS Ink Drops

(Dan Smith)

The Senior III Class has a treat and I don't mean maybe, in store for for everyone Friday, tomorrow night, For tomorrow night is when they present their annual play. This play, the sensation of the season, is entitled, "The Simon-Pure Simpleton." And you are promised three acts of the funniest fun found. And don't forget that entertainment between the acts and especially the exhibition of tap dancing. You students get out and help the Senior Class advertise. Remember that you will be seniors some day (I hope) remember we want every student in the high school to be peresent tomorrow night at 8 and for him, her or it to bring his, her or its friend. Let's pack the auditorium for the Senior III class. Come on S. S.

Two picnics and one camp in one week. Last Friday night the "C" club gave their picnic at Oscar Norman's camp. Saturday the Utopian Science Club held their picnic at the river and over last week end Miss Griffin took her home economics girls to a camp at Gragg's camp. Several boy friends were their guests for dinner Sunday.

Only 16 more days till school is out. It was a good move when Mr. Warr ordered all the magazines out of the library so that those who were reading them could study since they needed it real bad. Maybe there will be less failures.

Last Friday marked the closing of a very interesting phase of study here. The students of Mr. Little ceased their study of Current Events. The next two Fridays which usually were the recitations of current events will be turned over to a much important and greatly needed review.

With all the English notebooks, biology notebooks, chemistry manuals, flower notebooks, mapbooks, etc., to be handed in we have little time for leisure. So, take on a serious and studious attitude for the next two weeks, but not too serious, and studious, remember that everything has its limit. Now, the limits on leisure time has closed in on us.

You wonder why all the Senior III's are going around here with a smile on their face? Well, its not because they are leaving their dear old alma mater for I am sure each one hates to leave, but the real reason is they are looking forward to the night of May 12. Am I not right Senior III's?

A number of our students are treading the old corridors now for the last time. Some will go right out and face the ups and downs of this world immediately. Others will prepare themselves further and attend some college. Living up to the old tradition they will leave a memorial of some kind here. We will miss these outgoing Seniors but lets give them all a smile and a word of cheer and commendation for it won't be long now.

I wonder if I was wrong in speaking of our S. S. and C. S. I sincerely hope not.

There is usually some outstanding romance which will linger in the minds of us dear scholars. Who will it be this time. Several new ones have sprung up in the last few months.

I wonder who will have the distinguished honor of being valedictorian for the graduating class of 1933? Does being a valedictorian of a class mean that that person is the smartest in the class? I most certainly do not think so; do you?

If any student accosts you in the hall and informs you that you are violating the United States Constitution, please excuse him, her or it, for they are only studying the constitution under Mr. Little. This study is indeed worth while and important.

By the way, the faculty has not yet selected the most intellectual person for each room. Maybe they have been too busy. Anyway we should not let that item escape our notice.

It is pleasing to note that the senior class of this year will graduate in caps and gowns. May I say here that I believe that these caps and gowns add a touch of dignity to the exercises and besides this will be the only chance a few will have to wear them.

Better late than never. Here is the Junior I's who's who for the year of 1932-1933: Best all round boy, Marshall Lee Ware, best all round girl, Geraldine Hollis; most dependable boy, Grady Jones; most dependable girl, Annie Clement; most popular boy, Bobby Powers; most popular girl, Margaret Golson; best looking boy, Bobby Powers; prettiest girl, Thelma White; most loyal, Annie Clements; best athlete, Demar McEathern; wittiest, Harvey Armstrong; most original, Marshall Lee Ware; biggest grumbler, Kermit Jones; neatest boy, Bobby Powers; neatest girl, Willodean Teel; cutest, Thelma White; most friendly, Annie Clements and most intellectual, Annie Clements.

Gee, we have a real P.-T. A. here. I believe we should show them more appreciation than we do. Our faculty is really and truly proud of them and they can't be blamed either. The high school P.-T. A. has, for the past few weeks, sent sandwiches and other refreshments to the faculty meetings on Mondays. And every member of the faculty wants to thank the P.-T. A. for their kindness.

Alabama Merchants Praise Percy Pitts

Editor Union-Banner:

After about ten weeks of grilling and going through the third degree in a determined effort on part of the Miller Administration to make the people of Alabama swallow a sales tax, the people emerged victorious.

In a fight against this tax, the merchants of Alabama had the sympathetic and unstinted backing of more than 2,500,000 customer-consumers who knew that they were about to have snatched from them a part of their meager living in order that certain fattened and useless state instituions migh continue undisturbed.

We are glad to say that the senator and representative from Chilton County aided in this victory. Hon. J. G. Duncan, Jr., of Prattville was successful in leading a victorius fight against the sales tax when the first vote was taken in the senate Friday morning, April 14, later to lose because the senate reversed itself Friday night when it adopted the sales tax rider less than six hours after the senate had defeated the same proposal when it was first offered as a rider to the Norman Tobacco Tax proposal. The first vote was 18 to 17 against, but during the two hour interval for lunch Senator C. G. Brown of Russell County, who had voted against the measure in the morning, vanished and did not return to the capitol. Senator John Darden, of Coosa, former candidate for president of the Alabama Service Commission, who had promised anti-sales taxers and a number of senators that he would oppose the sales tax, lined up with the other crowd during the second offensive. Senator Paul J. Hooten of Randolph did not vote on the final passage of the sales tax in the senate, but on the test vote for adoption of the sales tax, he voted against the measure as he had done earlier in the day.

Representative Percy Pitts took the floor in the house in opposition to the measure and worked closely with the legislative committee of the Alabama Independent Merchants Association.

We commend these gentlemen very highly for the part they took in this fight and hope that the people of your section will see them personally and thank them for their help in defeating the sales tax in Alabama.—Sincerely yours, Alabama Independent Merchants Association, Inc., B. C. Apperson, secretary.

ALL DAY SINGING HELD AT CORINTH ON LAST SUNDAY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your good paper to say a few words about our all day singing at Corinth last Sunday. We were called to order at ten o'clock by Archie Jones, singing one song. After this we had prayer, led by A. L. Robinson.

I. D. Huett was elected chairman; Archie Jones, secretary; A. M. Jones, R. M. Brigance, committee. Directors for the morning were: J. W. Cagle, R. M. Brigance, Archie Jones, F. S. Newman, A. M. Jones, Clarence Billingsley, O. L. Devaughn, A. O. Boswell, Thomas Steel, singing three songs each.

This brought us up to the noon hour and we shared a bountiful dinner. We were called to order at one fifteen by I. D. Huett. Directors for the afternoon were L. T. Grant, Archie Devaughn. J. W. Cagle, Lee Grant, W. J. Gilliland, G. C. Weldon, J. R. Robinson, T. E. Wyatt, J. B. Williams. Organists for the day were R. R. McKinney, Beatrice Pratt, Annie Boswell, Flora Thomas, Lee Grant, Claudie Hughes, Mrs. John Sewell.

We had a quartet from Sylacauga that we enjoyed very much and one made up of our home folks that was fine. We at Corinth want to thank everybody for coming and helping us, and to thank everybody for their good behavior. We want all of you to feel a hearty welcome to come and help us at any time.

Rev. W. A. Goss dismissed with prayer.—Archie Jones.

OAK GROVE

We are pleased to report a large crowd, and a fine service at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night.

We especially wish to thank our visitors for their presence and attention, and invite them to come and be with us again.

Quite a few people from this place attended the singing at Mt. Pleasant Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Lassie Northcutt is real sick at this writing.

Miss Annie Bell Allbright of Bessemer is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. Ernest Cofer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Thompson of Clanton were visitors of the latter's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Cobb, Sunday afternoon.

There will be preaching at this place by our pastor, the Rev. Horace Nabors, next Saturday night.

We will also have Sunday school Sunday morning at 10:00 a.m., and preaching at 11, singing in the afternoon at two o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited.

Prayer meeting every Wednesday night at seven o'clock.

Mrs. Esslinger of Birmingham is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Warr.

Writes About The Hospital Clinic

Editor Union-Banner:

I want to say a few words through your paper about the Chilton County Clinic, organized by some of our doctors and held at the hospital every morning. It is of great value to our community. It is a place where those who are able to pay can get the opinion and service of several doctors working together, which is much better than one doctor alone, and those who are unable to pay are getting the kind and careful attention of these doctors, so far as examination is concerned and are given a free diagnosis and, in some cases, free treatment.

However, any thinking person must realize that this group of doctors cannot undertake to give free treatment to all who might come for it, or even free diagnosis to those who are well able financially to pay for service. Again, I say it is a great help to Clanton and surrounding community.

In my way of thinking, the most needed thing for Chilton County is a community hospital service on a cooperative plan, whereby one could get such service at a rate that would be in keeping with the paying ability of our middle class of people. In these hard times, a man must be almost rich to pay a hospital bill or else be so poor he can pay nothing and depend on charity; and this last class has almost ruined our hospitals. This burden has been so great that it has closed the doors of many of them.

What I think we need is some cooperative plan, whereby one could pay a reasonable amount in advance for such service and get it when needed. I have, for a long time, been on such a list to a Birmingham hospital and have found the service satisfactory. The only trouble being it is too far away, and takes too long and too much expense for patients and friends to reach the hospital.

What we need is some such arrangements here in our own community or home town, where we could have our sick ones near us and be able to see them and have them near at hand and avoid the great loss of time in getting to a hospital which might mean the difference of life and death to the patient and surely means expense in money and time to family and friends.—Sincerely yours, G. C. Powell.

Friday night Bible study at the home of Mr. Jim Pate of Thorsby.

There will be no preaching at Mineral Springs school next Saturday, May 6th, but Saturday night week, May 13th, there will be preaching there. Come then.

Preaching at home of Mr. Gip Johnson, five miles south of Clanton. Come.—R. L. Huffman.

SPRAY FORMULAS FOR INSECT CONTROL

Insects are divided into two classes namely, sucking and chewing. For sucking insects you may use one of the following mixtures:

(1). Kerosene Oil Emulsion. Dissolve one-fourth pound of laundry soap or lye soap in one quart of water. Add two quarts of kerosene oil and mix thoroughly. This forms a stock solution that will keep for several months. When ready to spray take one part of this stock solution and mix with 20 parts of water and spray under pressure.

(2). Black Leaf 40. Dissolve a piece of laundry soap about the size of a hen egg in one gallon of water and add one teaspoonful of 40% Nicotinesulphate, or Black Leaf 40. Spray full strength.

For chewing insects you may use one of the following:

(1). Lead Arsenate Spray. Mix one ounce of lead arsenate to a thin paste with a little water. Add sufficient water to make three gallons of spray.

(2). Lead Arsenate Dust. Mix one pound of arsenate of lead and six pounds of hydrated lime and dust plants thoroughly, paying attention to whether or not insects are on the top or bottom side of the leaves, as poison must reach the part of the plant attacked by the insects.

(3). Calcium Arsenate Dust. Mix one part of calcium arsenate with six parts of hydrated lime.

The above mixtures are too strong for bean beetle control. For bean beetle control, magnesium arsenate has proved fairly successful when used in spray form at the rate of one ounce dissolved in three gallons of water and sprayed on underside of the leaves.

"Earnie, dear, don't go too far in the water."

"But look, daddy's out a long way."

"I know, dear, but your father's insured."

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowan visited Wetumpka Sunday.

FAMILY MEETING AT SARDIS

The children and grandchildren of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hayes and of the late Mrs. L. B. Broadhead met last Sunday at Sardis, where Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Broadhead are buried.

During their lifetime Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Broadhead worshipped at Sardis. The family history and traditions that were made by these departed loved ones furnished a solemn and inspiring background for the occasion of the gathering of members of their families at their last resting place.

Those present at the gathering last Sunday were Mrs. H. B. McCary and children of Birmingham; Mrs. Bessie Poyner, Mrs. R. J. Campbelle, and Mrs. J. L. Malone and children, of Selma; Mrs. S. J. Kicker, Miss Cleo Broadhead, Sherwood Crosby and J. H. Hayes, of Clanton, Mr. L. B. Broadhead and children of Maplesville.

A number of friends of the family in the community were also visitors during the day. All of them brought sweet recollections of days gone by. Their kindness and hospitality made the day one sweet to remember. We wish to express our thanks to them, and most especially do we wish to thank Sardis church and community for the care taken of the graves and grounds of our loved ones who sleep there.—One of the family.

OLD FOLKS DAY AT FRIENDSHIP WAS BIG SUCCESS LAST SUNDAY

Last Sunday was held the fifth annual old folks and ministers days at Friendship church. The attendance was better than in any previous meeting and the day went off fine in every respect. Rev. Monroe Honeycutt, preached at 11 o'clock. A complete report of the meeting will come out in next week's paper.

THREE SCOUTS PASSED TEST

The Court of Honor for Clanton District Boy Scouts held a meeting at the County High School Friday afternoon last week at which three scouts were given tests and were advanced in their work.

Owen Deal, of Troop 51, Lay Dam, and Wade Alford, of Troop 47, of Clanton, were given their Safety Merit Badges. Marshal Lee Ware, of Clanton Troop was passed on his test for Second Class Scout.

With Scout Executive, John J. Sigwald, the court of honor was represented by C. E. Stapp, L. C. Warr, and W. M. Wyatt.

MONROE WYATT NOW MANAGER OF SHELL SERVICE STATION

Monroe Wyatt is back in the gasoline business again after a vacation of several months. His present connection is manager of the Shell Service Sation on the highway across from the Ford place.

With the exception of a few months since he gave up the Woco Pep station, Mr. Wyatt has been in the service station business in Clanton for the past eight years. It looks like his case runs true to the old saying that you can't keep a fellow out of the kind of business he once gets habited to running.

In connection with his service station, Mr. Wyatt will also operate his tire vulcanizing plant, which is the only one of its kind in Clanton. With this up-to-date equipment he can rebuild broken or damaged tires and make them as good as new.

"I am back in the game and looking for business," Mon said, "and I extend a wide-open invitation for all my friends and former customers to come to see me at the Shell place."

PASTORS UNION OF THE CHILTON-UNITY BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

The Pastors Union of the Chilton-Unity Associations will be held at the First Baptist church in Clanton on Monday, May 8, at 10 a.m. The following is the program:

Devotion, "Stewardship of Prayer," by Rev. G. G. Williams.

"Stewardship of Influence," by Rev. J. W. Jones.

"Stewardship of Opportunity," by Rev. Homer Carroll.

"Stewardship of Possessions," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

"Stewardship of Evangelism," by Rev. A. S. Bentley.

A cordial invitation to any interested person is given.—Rev. J. W. Jones, secretary.

SCOUT JAMBOREE AT TALLASSEE FRIDAY OF THIS WEEK

A number of Boy Scouts of the Clanton District, together with several other persons interested in scouting, will attend the fifth annual scoutcraft Jamboree to be held at Tallassee on Friday of this week.

While in Clanton last week Scout Executive John J. Sigwald urged all scouts and others interested to make arrangements to attend. "It will be a great event for scouting," he said, "and Tallassee is making arrangements to fully care for and entertain all who come."

The program will begin at 10:00 o'clock Friday morning and end at 3:30 in the afternoon with the announcement of winners and awarding of ribbons to the successful contesting scouts. The Tallassee district as hosts, will furnish dinner, entertainment, and ribbons.

The contest in which scouts will engage include inspection, knot tying, semaphore, archery, string burning, Morse signaling, pace compass, rescue race, fire by friction, and first aid. It is understood that Troop 51 of Lay Dam will enter all the contests. The efficiency that has heretofore been shown by the Lay Dam trooop marks them as a strong contender for the honors to be awarded in these contests.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep appreciation for all the favors, kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our husband, father, and grandfather. We are very grateful for the beautiful flowers and other tokens of esteem. Our hearts are overwhelmed with the way in which the people showed their interest and love, and since there are so many of them we find it impossible to send all a personal note of thanks. Thus we are doing it through this paper.—Mrs. James M. Robinson, Mrs. J. W. P. Murphy, J. W. Murphy, Mrs. E. B. Atkinson, Mrs. L. M. Williams, John Murphy, Charles, Durwood and Mary Robinson.

HOSPITAL DAY, FRIDAY, MAY 12

Having been appointed by the state president of hospital day observance, I as county chairman, hereby invite the public to meet on this occasion at the Central Alabama Hospital, Friday, May 12, 1933 at 10 a.m., at which time a suitable program will be rendered.—Grace Robinson, R. N., county chairman.

PILOT CLUB SPONSORS CLEANING OF CEMETERY

The Pilot Club of Clanton started the move about a year ago for a better-kept cemetery in Clanton. Last year they improved the looks of the cemetery very noticeably. Those who visit the cemetery now will notice a marked improvement. Mr. Mell Martin of the Kiwanis Club has been giving the Pilot Club his able assistance.

Guy DeShazo of Panama City, Fla. was a visitor to Clanton last week. On his return he was accompanied by his father, W. F. DeShazo, who came back home Sunday night.

SINGINGS AROUND HERE EVERY SUNDAY IN MAY

The many singing fans of Chilton County will have somewhere to go every Sunday during this month, and they will not have to drive far to get there. Next Sunday there is an all day affair at Liberty Hill; there is some kind of program in the morning and a singing in the afternoon. The same as the case at New Salem. A broadside invitation has been extended the singers of the various societies to cooperate, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance at both places.

The second Sunday comes the annual singing at Walnut Creek. This is an affair to which the people of that and adjoining communities look forward with much interest and anticipation. We sometimes refer to this gathering as Tom Jeff Marcus's day, because he is always there with bells on—especially around 12 to 1 o'clock. We would not have you infer that he goes there just for his dinner, but to say the least of it, we have never known him to leave just as they dismiss at noon.

Then the third Sunday comes around the time for the annual singing at Refuge, and they are going to have it this year as in former years, notwithstanding the county convention which comes off that day at Jemison. We presume that there will be plenty of singers to make both these events interesting on the third Sunday.

When the fourth Sunday in May is mentioned we always think of Providence. The annual Salem singing will be held there again this year on that date. Every place in the county always sidestracks all other engagements for this day at Providence, and the singings there for the past several years have been occasions of much interest to many people.

SMITH-BACHELOR ENGAGEMENT

The Birmingham News last Sunday carried the following announcement: "Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bachelor of Wetumpka, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Nell, to Billy Smith, of Clanton, the wedding to be an event of May 25th."

Miss Bachelor is a lovely and popular young lady of Wetumpka. Mr. Smith is editor and publisher of The Chilton County News, at Clanton. Their many friends will receive the news of their engagement with much interest.

VOLUME 41.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1933 NUMBER 3

STATEMENT FROM SUPT. LAWRENCE

Candidate For Election In the Republican Primary on May 19th

To the Voters of Chiton County:

I am quite sure that you have knowledge of the fact that a local bill was passed in the recent session of the legislature of Alabama, providing for the election of a county superintendent of Education whose term of office will begin on July 1st and will serve until his successor is elected and qualified in the general election in 1934. At a meeting of the Republican County Executive Committee held at the courthouse on yesterday, Monday, May 8th, it was decided to hold a referendum on Friday, May 19th. In this referendum the voters of the county will be called on to select a candidate who shall run in the general election to be held on June 20th.

I regret that it is not going to be possible for me to make a personal call on each voter in the short time in which we have to run. I have served you as superintendent for the past few years and you know my record. I have sought at all times to meet the wishes of the communities through their trustees in every way that it was possible to do so. If I am nominated and elected to serve you again I shall continue to follow the same policy of trying to meet the wishes of the communities insofar as it is possible to do so.

It is not my intention to annoy you with newspaper articles nor to engage in anything that favors mud slinging. The people of the county know me and they know those who are seeking to remove me from the office of county superintendent and I believe that the public understands the reason for it. I am appointed already for a term of four years, my bond has been filed and my oath of office taken and this is all recorded in the probate's office and the fee for recording same has been paid. After all of this has been done the bill providing for the election of a superintendent was so frawn as to make it necessary for me to enter the race and be elected by the people of the county, although I had already been appointed according to law. I do not wish to be misunderstood. I feel that such a bill providing for the election of a county superintendent of schools or any other office so far as that is concerned should be so written as to take effect at the expiration of his term and not to oust

STAMPS SINGERS FRIDAY NIGHT

Pouplar Artists Will Perform At The Courthouse Here

The Stamps Singers will be at the courthouse in Clanton Friday (tomorrow) night, May 12, at 8:00 o'clock.

This troupe is headed by Virgil O. Stamps, well known singer, teacher and composer. Mr. Stamps is founder of the Stamps-Baxter Music Company, and one of the best known men in musical circles in the South.

Freddie Martin, 16-year-old musical marvel, is another of the troupe. He is a fine entertainer—pianist, singer, piano-accordionist, and known as "the boy with the million dollar smile."

Oliver Woodward, the Kiowa Indian baritone, whose voice is winning much fame for him, will be here.

Viola Ramsey, said to be one of the best all-round musicians in the South for her age, completes the troupe. She is 14 years of age, and a singer, piano-accordionist.

The program will consist of solos, duets, trios, and quartets, both vocal and instrumental.

There will be all kinds of enterainment—sacred songs, popular songs, semi-classical songs, spirituals, and comedy.

All in all, these gifted entertainers are bringing a program well worth your time. It will be a program delightfully different, and will last about one and one-half hours.

Don't forget the date, hour, and place—Friday night, May 12, at 8 o'clock, at the courthouse. The admission will be 10 cents for children, and 20 cents for adults; the proceeds to go to buy books for the singing societies.

Come and bring your family. And tell your friends to come too. This will be something great. Don't miss it!

MELL MARTIN IS ATTENDING FUNERAL DIRECTORS' MEETING

J. Mell Martin, local funeral director, and secretary of the Alabama Funeral Directors' Association, left Clanton Wednesday to attend three meetings in different sections of Alabama, all of which are being sponsored by the Alabama Funeral Directors' Association.

The first meeting is at Birmingham, Bankhead Hotel, Wednesday night. Thursday night the meeting will be at Jefferson Davis Hotel in Montgomery. The third meeting will be at Andalusia at noon Friday.

As secertary of the Alabama Association, Mr. Martin will have charge of arrangements for each of the meetings. Other officers of the State Association will be in attendance. The lecture of the National Funeral Directors' Association will be on the program for an address at each of the meetings.

Attendance at the meetings will be made of funeral directors of the localities adjacent to the cities where the meetings are to be held.

At the meeting of the Alabama Funeral Directors in Montgomery last month Mr. Martin was for the fourth year elected as secretary and treasurer of the Association.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION AT JEMISON THIRD SUNDAY

Mr. W. G. Culp. president of the Chilton County singing convention, says that he believes we are about to have the greatest singing that has ever been held in Chilton County. At the convention at Jemison the third Sunday in May there have promised to attend more outstanding singers than have ever before assembled at one time in the county. Among the notables are: Homer Morris, J. M. Henson, the Strand Quartet of Atlanta, Virgil Stamps and his quartet, of Dallas, Texas.

The singing will be held at the high school building at Jemison, beginning at 10 o'clock. There will be no public dinner, but those who like good singing are invited to come and bring their lunch and spend the day.

TOWN WILL VACCINATE DOGS

At a meeting of the Town Council last week it was agreed and ordered that the Town will vaccinate dogs again this summer against rabies.

City Clerk, C. H. Pipes, states that a census of dogs in the city will be taken as soon as possible, and notice will be given of the date upon which the doctor will be ready to administer the treatment.

STAPP HAD OPERATION

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, underwent an operation last Sunday at Dr. Arthur Johnson's Infirmary. His recovery has been steady and he will be back on his job the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Stapp came home from Gadsden to be with her husband during his sickness.

NEGRO KILLED WIFE TUESDAY

Charley King, negro, of Mt. Creek, came to Clanton shortly after noon Tuesday, and told Chief of Police, Hardy, he had killed his wife and wanted to give up to the law. Officer Hardy placed the negro in jail.

Sheriff Gillespie and his deputies were gone to Mt. Creek to investigate the killing when King arrived and surrendered.

It was reported that King killed his wife with an axe. Upon returning from Mt. Creek Sheriff Gillespie stated that he was told King's wife was threatening him with a dirk, when King drew a knife and stabbed her to death.

Reports of the affair say it was one of frequent family rows between King and his wife. It was also stated that the King negro has only recently been released from the asylum for insane.

"BACK STREET"

One of the outstanding screen dramas of recent years is booked for showing at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton on Wednesday and Thursday, May 17 and 18. The picture is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

The picture is "Back Street," adapted from the widely read novel by Fannie Hurst, with Irene Dunne and John Boles in the featured roles. It is directed by the master of human, domestic drama, John M. Stahl.

"Back Street" tells the story of a woman who considered no sacrifice too great to make in the name of love, and a man who gave freely of his love but at the same time retained his social position as a husband and father. The story covers a span of 20 years, and is said to give an especially affecting picture of the trials of two people whose love is ouside the law, notwithstanding its sincerity and depth.

May 19th Set As Day For Special Republican Primary

From 12 O'clock M., Until 5 P.M., Republicans Of County May Express Choice For Superintendent of Education

Elsewhere in this issue of The Union-Banner is an official call by Mr. J. N. Dennis and Mr. J. Z. Mims, chairman and secretary respectively of the Republican County Executive Committee of Chilton County, for a special primary election to be held at the various voting places in the county on the afternoon of Friday, May 19th. The polls will open at 12 o'clock noon, and will close at 5 o'clock p.m. At this primary will be voted upon Republican candidates for Superintendent of Education of Chilton County. The candidate who gets the highest number of qualified Republican votes in this primary will be chosen by the Executive Committee as the Republican nominee to run in the election of June 20th, which has been called by the probate judge.

This order was issued by the Executive Committee, which was in session at the courthouse in Clanton on Monday of this week. The dates and other details were figured out by a subcommittee appointed by the chairman, which sub-committee met immediately after the executive committee adjourned.

May 11th has been set as the last day on which candidates may announce in this primary. They must file notice of their intention to run with Mr. J. N. Dennis, chairman of the committee. At this same time candidates may also file with Mr. Dennis a list of three qualified electors in each voting district, from which lists election managers and clerks will be chosen to hold said primary election.

The beat committeemen will serve as returning officers, and will have the returns of the primary at the courthouse by 12 o'clock noon, on May 20th. At this hour the entire Executive Committee will be called together for the purpose of canvassing the votes and naming the winner.

The names of those placed on the above named sub-committee are: W. H. Conway, Beat 2; Z. J. Jones, Beat 14; J. L. Dupree, Beat 4; and J. L. Miner, Beat 11. The election managers and clerks will be asked to serve free of charge, as none of the expense can be paid for out of county funds. The supplies will be paid for by public donation. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has agreed to furnish the lists of qualified voters free of charge.

Two announcements for the race have been filed according to the ruling—B. Lawrence and W. T. Bean. Unless someone else enters the race today, Thursday, these two will be the only contenders. The official announcements of both these gentlemen appear elsewhere in this issue of The Banner, as well as a long letter from each laying before the voters their claims for the place.

COUNTY EMPLOYS A HOME AGENT

Other Business of Interest Transacted by Commissioners

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County was in its regular quarterly meeting the first of this week, for the transaction of general business. A great many matters came before the court for consideration.

Among the transactions of more general public interest to the people of the county was the action of the court passing an order to employ a county home demonstration agent.

In support of this movement a large delegation of ladies from all parts of the county came before the court. The group was composed of the following: Mrs. C. N. Eiland, Mrs. Mastin, Mrs. C. D. Foshee, Mrs. J. Q. Wade, Mrs. D. O. Manning, Mrs. Earle Thomas, Miss Jessie Dorminey, Mrs. J. E. Dorminey, Miss Unis Murrah, Miss Mabel Wilkins, Miss Lorene Wilkins, Miss Bertha Dennis, Mrs. H. M. Nix, Mrs. J. P. Payne, Miss Lena Downs, Mrs. Baker, of Shelby County, Mrs. Waldrop and Mrs. Kilgore, of Coosa County, Miss Kitty Clyde Austin and Mrs. C. E. Stapp.

After hearing the appeal of the ladies, the court passed an order to appropriate $50 a month for six months for the employment of a county home demonstration agent. The person to be employed will be furnished through the Extension Service at Auburn, and will be here to take up her duties not later than June 15.

A joint meeting of the commissioners court and the town council was held Tuesday for consideration of the question of draining the swamp lands around Clanton. This proposition was supported strongly by a group of representative citizens.

The commissioners court agreed to furnish R. F. C. laborers to begin work on digging the drainage ditch next Monday morning, and the town agreed to supervise the work. The job will start at Dake's old mill and proceed up the swamp to the place where the city sewer enters the creek. A committee composed of J. D. Collins, John Thompson and Charly Cox was appointed to work with an engineer of the State Health Department in laying out the work and getting it under way.

An order was passed transferring $2,000 from the general fund of the county to the fine and forfeiture fund, at the request of Sheriff Gillespie.

By order and approval of the court two bridges will be built on the old Maplesville Road between William Walker's and the intersection of that road with the Maplesville and Jemison road. This piece of road has been abandoned for some time, but will be reopened by the county.

HOSPITAL DAY PROGRAM FRIDAY

Public Is Invited To Visit the Hospital In Clanton Then

According to announcement previously made, a program will be rendered Friday morning, May 12, at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton, in recognition of National Hospital Day.

Miss Grace Robinson, superintendent of the hospital, and chairman of the hospital day observance committee for Chilton County, announces that the program will begin promptly at ten o'clock a.m., and will last for about one hour.

On the program there will be the following persons representing the various interests and organizations of the community:

Hon. J. Lee Smith, Mayor of Clanton, representing the Town; Rev. L. P. Cochran, pastor of Clanton Methodist church, representing the churches; W. M. Wyatt, representing the Kiwanis Club of Clanton; Mrs. Reed Mullins, representing the Pilot Club of Clanton; Superintendent Buford Lawrence, representing the schools; Dr. C. O. Lawrence will have charge of the music.

The public is cordially invited to attend this program. All former patients of the Central Alabama Hospital are especially invited to come back for this occasion.

The purpose of National Hospital Day is to give the people of all communities in the country an opportunity to come together in such a manner as they deem suitable to show their appreciation of the hospital as as a community institution. It is hoped that the people of Clanton and Chilton County will respond to this opportunity which will be afforded them on next Friday, May 12.

GRAY-MILLER WEDDING

Outstanding in the nuptial events of the season was the wedding of Miss Pauline Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Gray of Lynn, Alabama to Mr. Otto Miller, of Birmingham, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the bride's homes

The vows were read by the bride's uncle, the Rev. Wesley Barton, before an improvised altar of ferns and roses. The ring ceremony was used.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Jim Barton. She was attired in ashes of roses dress with beige accessories.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for their home in Birmingham.

Those from Clanton who attended this affair were: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Miller, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Miller, Jr., Mr. Foster Miller and Miss Juanita Miller.

MASS MEETING FOR REPEAL OF PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

A mass meeting of the sovereign people of Alabama is hereby called to meet at the Grand Theatre at Montgomery on May 17, 1933, at 7:30 p.m. to provide for the repeal of the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States.

The Democratic party in its platform expressly calls for repeal and the Republican party has declared for the resubmission of the question thereby demanding its reconsideration by the American people.

The presence of the Amendment as a police regulation in the Constitution is such a manifest mistake that we call upon all good citizens to return this power to the states where it formerly resided and to which agreement of all political parties it rightly belongs.

We, therefore urge all citizens, male and female regardless of party affiliations to meet with us and help to take from the constitution this police regulation and thereby leave to each state the right to regulate its own affairs. — Signed Frank P. Glass, Chairman; Sanford Mullins, vice chairman; Mrs. Solon Jacobs, president, Alabama Womans Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

The call has been signed by a large number of prominent citizens of Alabama, who will lend their support to the campaign for repeal of the 18th Amendment.

SHIPPING CORN INTO CLANTON BY THE CARLOAD

"We have received our third carload of corn in the last two weeks, from Tennessee and Illinois," said Mr. R. W. Taylor of the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Co., Monday. "In addition to this, we have also bought many small shipments of corn."

Mr. Taylor also stated that his house has bought two car loads of pure hog lard in the last thirty days.

It is a sad commentary upon the farm situation in Chilton County to say that our farmers do not grow enough corn, meat and lard to supply the home demand. Those things should be the first objective of our farmers. Then we might consider cotton and some other things.

MRS. EARLE THOMAS AND CHILDREN IN AUTO WRECK

Mrs. Earle Thomas and three children were hurt in an auto wreck Monday afternoon at the junction of the Selma and Birmingham highways in Clanton. The children in the car with Mrs. Thomas were Reita, age 8, Hazel, age 6, and Willene, age 4. Reita was the most severely injured. Mrs. Thomas and the other two children were only slightly hurt.

Speigner's ambulance was the first to the scene and carried Mrs. Thomas and the children to the central Alabama Hospital, where they were given prompt attention. Tuesday afternoon Mr. Thomas stated that they would be able to go home in a few days.

Mrs. Thomas had started home in her car. She was driving west on Fourth Avenue. As her car crossed the Birmingham Highway, it was struck by a truck coming south. The truck was from Florence and had started to Florida to get a load of fruit. Mr. Thomas had left town just ahead of his wife and children, and had been at home only a few minutes when he was informed of the accident.

McCUTCHEON-THOMPSON

Mr. Cicero L. McCutcheon, Jr., and Miss Edith Mae Thompson, popular young couple, of Clanton, were married in Prattville last Sunday. Their many friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

The County Board of Education was in session Tuesday.

Gresham Lowery of Columbiana was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

WE THANK YOU

Recently a committee of ladies was appointed to appear before the Commissioners Court in the interest of a Home Demonstration Agent for Chilton County. I was a member of that committee and as such member, and as a citizen and taxpayer of Chilton County, I desire to publicily commend and thank the commissioners for the courtesies shown the ladies, and for their approval of our request.

This agent is to work at a cost of $50 per month to Chilton County. I feel that she will repay her salary many times in teaching our women and girls to be better home makers and maintainers, as well as to be better citizens.—Respectfully, Miss Lena Downs.

Mr. John D. Wyatt wishes his friends and customers to know that he has moved his shop into the building at the back of his former location,—the place where Perry Body Shop used to be.

BEAN CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL SUPT

Former Official Seeks Nomination of Republican Party

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I wish to say that I have decided to become a candidate for the office of county superintendent of education. It has not been my intention for a long time to ever ask for a public office again, but the solocitation has been so great and so insistent that I have decided to make the race, subject to the Republican primary, May 19th.

To those who may not know, I wish to say that I once held this position, and I want to ask everyone interested to acquaint himself with my official record made while serving in this office. I do not claim to have done any great things, but I am asking for this place wholly on the record I have made as a teacher, as county superintendent of education, and upon my merits in general. I am willing for the people to pass upon me according to my life's work.

There are many things that I would like to call attention to that I accomplished while superintendent of education, but the lack of time, lack of space and propriety prevent my doing so. However, I wish to give a few of the achievements of my work. The length of the school term was lengthened from about four months free school to a seven months free school for every white school in the county, regardless of where it was located. I devoted my entire time to the betterment of the schools, visiting no school ever less than twice each year, devoting most of my time to the schools where I was needed most. There was enough interest developed that during the short time that I served there were seventeen school houses erected. No costly buildings could then be erected because the state gave only $200 toward the erection of any school house, and the county had no funds with which to assist. Every school in the county was graded and the first high school in the county was erected while I was serving as superintendent of education.

I do not wish to make any detailed promises as to just what I would do should I be elected to this position, for I believe that the operating of the schools is one of the biggest jobs in the county, and I do not want to make a promise that can not be fulfilled. But, however, I do want to assure you that I will devote

REYNOLDS OFFER TAXPAYERS HELP

In Filling Out Blanks For the County Board of Review

Editor Union-Banner:

Notice is now being published in the papers advising taxpayers of the county that in order to get reductions in their assessments that objections must be filed with Akins I Collins, Tax Assessor, on or before the last Monday in May, which is May 29th, and that these objections will be heard on the first Monday in June.

Last year many people entitled to reductions in taxes failed to properly file their objections and I want to urge that every one entitled to relief from oppressive taxes should file their objections in writing with the Tax Assessor promptly. The objections cannot be considered by the Board of Review unless filed on or before May 29th, and it is only necessary that the taxpayer set out the description of each item of property and his reasons for making objections to the assessed valuation of his property. Blanks for this purpose are available at the probate office and if you desire to get a reduction in taxes or file objections to the valuation now placed on your property, I will render you all assistance possible in preparing this blank.—Yours respectively, L. H. Reynolds.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

THE COUNTY 4-H CLUBS

I noticed that some of the 4-H Clubs have been holding their meetings and are getting the parents and non-members over the county interested in the club work. A meeting of all the club presidents and county officers will be called some time the last of May or the first of June, to discuss the 4-H Club camp this summer, the county-wide exhibit for this fall and other matters of 4-H Club work.

The following is a number of topics for discussion in 4-H Club meetings for the months of May and June:

May

1. Bool weevil control.
2. Insect control on garden vegetables.
3. Proper rations for calves and pigs.
4. Incubation of baby chicks.
5. Brooding baby chicks.
6. Spacing and cultivation of cotton and corn.
7. Side application of fertilizer for cotton and corn.
8. Use of farm tools: cultivators, etc.
9. Soil building through fertility.
10. Home improvements. (a). Cut flower arrangements. (b). The lawn and its care.
11. Junior cooperation.

June

1. Review cultivation instructions. (a). Check record books.
2. Pullet production for market.
3. How to prepare honey for market.
4. Keeping records on production of, (a) Cows; (b), hogs; (c), chickens.
5. Relation of woods and water to farm needs.
6. Digging and storing Irish Potatoes.
7. Discuss county 4-H Club camp.

Information on any of the above can be had by writing our county agent.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford M. Manning

Heavy rain has caused the Aalabma farmers to mark time this year, and to use all the favorable weather they could in preparing his land. Disc plows and harrows have been preparing land, followed by planting in some sections.

Most of the cultivatible land of the state has been plowed or will be plowed between now and late spring. which will bring the total to approximately 8,250,000 acres for cotton, corn and other summer crops.

In 1932 Alabama land in cultivation totaled 8,232,000 acres. It is probable that more will be planted this spring, because the farm population has increased.

Soil preparation this spring will include 225,000 acres on which hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas grew during the winter, to add nitrogen and humus to the soil. The legumes are being turned under now and some have already been turned. The estimated value of the nitrogen in these legumes is about $1,600,000.

The Alabama acreage that was in winter legumes this year is the largest ever planted and Alabama is the leading state in the nation growing winter legumes. So you see what our farm demonstration agents are doing in our state.

Another feature of the time is the strawberry industry. Express shipments of strawberries have been going from all over the state. Conecuh, Escambia, Chilton, Cullman and Marshall Counties are about the leading strawberry counties of the state. Probably Chilton is among the leading ones of these.

An optimistic report concerning probable boll weevil activities in 1933 was mode by Prof. M. Robinson, entomologist at Auburn. Prof. Robinson thinks depredations this year will not be as great as before, because a frost early last November destroyed the insects. Fall food supply and the cold weather of February was another blow. However by saying that summer weather conditions may be very favorable so that weevils which do emerge will do more damage than is indicated, because there has been lots of rainy, warm weather, which is a help to insects.

ALABAMA FOREST RESERVES COMPRISE STATE LANDS

Montgomery.—All State lands suitable for the purpose are by law forest reserves, points out Colonel Page S. Bunker, State Forester. This is an important provision, since most of such lands will remain permanently in the title of the State and afford opportunity for the development of experimental and demonstrational areas in the timber growing sections.

Some of these forest reserves are already being operated on a timber porduction basis and a substantial revenue is being obtained. This direct income could be greatly increased were sufficient funds available to the Commissions of Forestry to place the lands under more intensive administration. It is regarded as likely that with the restoration of normal economic conditions the Legislature may make appropriate provision for this purpose. The cutting of timber from the state forest reserves without the proper authority is a criminal offense subject to severe penalties.

GOLD MEDAL FOR BEST 4-H GIRL IN COUNTY: TRIP TO CHICAGO

Here's something which should set county 4-H girls buzzing. It's about the fine rewards offered in a contest announced by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work in Chicago, notice of which is just received by this paper.

The contest is for girls enrolled in home economics clubs and carrying on one or more projects. Every such girl has a chance to try for a handsome gold medal to be awarded this fall to the county champion. Selection is to be made by the county and state extension agents.

The winner of county championship then has a chance to capture the state title. The state prize in this contest is a trip with all expenses paid to the Twelfth National Club Congress to held in Chicago this December in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition. This state winner will be one of 40 girls in the country to experience this great educational and sightseeing trip during which they will be guests of Montgomery Ward & Co., which is sponsoring the contest as an incentive to 4-H Club girls and their leaders.

A grand surprise will be sprung at Chicago. This is the awarding of a $400 agricultural college scholarship to the outstanding girl in the group. Complete details may be obtained by interested local people from the county extension agents.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Florence, Ala., May 10.—An offshoot of the revival of national interest in Muscle Shoals and its gigantic development possibilities has been the organization of the Muscle Shoals Game and Fish Protectors Club.

F. W. Irvine was elected president of the new organization which had a charter membership of 46 sportsmen. C. H. Jackson was elected vice-president, W. G. Beadles, treasurer, and Dr. T. L. Bennett, Sr., secretary. All of the officers live in Florence.

Belief was expressed by these executives that the membership would be doubled at a meetnig scheduled for May. The membership fee was fixed at $1.00 a year per member.

Rep. Homer L. Reeder of Florence, chairman of the House Game and Fisheries Committee, addressed the new club at its organization meeting. He lauded the Carmichael fishing law passed at the recent session of the Legislature whose author, Rep. C. E. Carmichael, resides just across the Tennessee river in Tuscumbia.

"There is much commendation of our new law and I feel that it will accomplish much good," declared Rep. Reeder. "Most of our citizens are trying to obey the new regulations."

He said that crappie and bass are biting with vigor and "some of our best fishermen are having to take out before the sun goes down.'

Describing itself as an "organization for the conservation of fish and game," the club dapoted a resolution pledging each member to obey the game and fish laws of the State and to lend his moral support to the game wardens.

Some of Alabama's most enthusiastic hunters and fishermen reside in the Muscle Shoals territory along the banks of the Tennessee river. This stream, the power source for President Roosevelt's vast Tennessee Valley development program, abounds in fish and the forests that stretch from its banks to the foothills of the Cumberland range are abundant with game.

There probably is no section in the State that offers greater opportunity for such an organization of sportsmen.

TOP-DRESSING MAY RESULT IN PROFIT

Auburn, Ala.—Nitrogen — most important element in plant growth may pay yet.

Despite economic conditions it may still be wise to top-dress cotton, corn, sorghum, and sudan grass with a quick-acting nitrogen fertilizer, said J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Nitrate of lime and nitrate of soda are quick-acting nitrogen fertilizers.

Cotton which received the Auburn minimum planting mixture of 200 pounds superphosphate, 25 pounds nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime, and 25 pounds muriate of potash should have a side-dressing of 75 pounds of the muriate fertilizer immediately after chopping. For cotton which had a mixed fertilizer at planting time, the recommendation is to apply 20 pounds of either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime for each hundred pounds of the commercial mixture used if commercial mixture contained 3 per cent or more of nitrogen.

The recommendation for corn is to apply 100 pounds of one of the nitrate fertilizers per acre 35 to 40 days after planting and for sudan grass and sorghum 100 pounds immediately after plants come up.

When prices of farm products were higher and other factors were more favorable than they are in 1933 larger applications of these fertilizers were profitable and might pay this year but conservative action recommends the amounts named.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

(By K. C. Davis, Knapp School of Country Life, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.)

Q.—In what ways is sweet clover better than Japan clover as a hay crop to follow oats or other small grain?

A.—The sweet clover makes a more rapid growth and produces many times more good hay or pasture than does the Japan clover. It also makes a winter cover crop the first winter. This saves a loss of nitrogen during that winter. The sweet clover grows much earlier the next spring than does the Japan clover, and a big cutting of hay or much pasturage can be secured before it is time to plant late corn that spring. Sweet clover will produce much more green manure for turning under than the Japan clover.

Q.—How can farm homes and other rural homes be most easily kept free from flies or how can the nuisance be reduced?

A.—House flies begin breeding rather rapidly when warm weather comes. They lay their eggs in such places as garbage cans, manure piles, and in other rotting material. A good plan is to clean up all of the winter manure and spread it on a field as early as possible before the hot weather causes the eggs to hatch Privy holes should be kept tightly closed or screened and the place kept dark. Cover the seats with hinged boards which are placed over the openings when not in use. Pour kerosene or similar oil on any breeding places if they cannot be cleaned up. Oil from the crank case of an automobile may be put on such places as pig wallows and any kind of mud holes which are frequented by livestock of any kind. Flies can be poisoned in great numbers by placing plates of water containing a few drops of formaldehyde where they like to come and drink. Place some blotting paper or soft paper in the water for the flies to crawl upon and suck up the water. The formaldehyde kills the flies. Mosquitoes are kept down by putting oil on stagnant water where they breed.

Q.—What sprays should be used to control plant lice?

A.—On house plants use strong soap suds; but for outdoor plants, spray with nicotine mixed with water at the rate of one part of nicotine to about a thousand parts of water. Try a teaspoonful to about a gallon of water. Be sure to spray the underside of the leaves where the lice are most abundant. This will kill them as they are easily destroyed when the spray material actually hits them.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

Time spent in May planting either soiling or temporary pasture crops will pay big dividends in late summer.

In addition to hay crops planted in May provide additional acreage of corn and velvet beans for October and November grazing.

Sow cowpeas and millet or plant sudan grass and soybeans in alternate rows. These crops may be used for grazing, soiling, or hay.

Good pasture will not furnish sufficient food for the highproducing cow. Feed the high-producing cow a limited grain ration and the low producing cow little, if any, concentrate with pasturage.

AMPLE FEED CROP ONLY SAFE COURSE

Auburn, Ala. — Cotton prices may continue to improve but never have been and never will be high enough to make the buying of feed profitable.

So says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in warning farmers not to forget to plant ample feed crops.

Reports indicate that the Alabama farmers will this year plant its biggest acreage of soybeans. The soybean is considered Alabama's leading summer legume. It is excellent for hay, grazing, and soil building. The beans furnish a wonderful feed, especially for chickens. The Otootan is a leading variety.

As a fertilizer for soybeans, the Auburn experiment station has found that basic slag, a product of the Birmingham steel industry, which contains phosphorus, lime and other valuable plant foods, give excellent results.

Another of Alabama's major crops is peanuts, which is grown extensively throughout the state. It is a leading crop in southeast Alabama for hogs. Recently it has been found that peanuts furnish an excellent source of protein for the poultry ration.

Close spacing of peanuts is essential to good yields, Mr. Lowery said. By close spacing is meant that Spanish peanuts should be planted in rows 2 to 2½ feet apart with plants placed 3 to 6 inches in the drill.

Many farmers are adding to their feed supply this year by planting sorghum for silage. The Texas Seeded Ribbon Cane or Goose Neck variety is recommended. Since the advent of the trench silo it is now practical for any farmer to have silage.

Cowpeas and velvet beans and sudan grass are other excellent hay and feed crops that should not be overlooked.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Appreciation

I wish to thank the following persons for the good showing they have made on building up the terrace I laid off and for continuing the yard beautification as planned: Ralph Oden, Bud Barbour, A. T. Holifield, Ben Looney, Will Allen, Mesdames L. A. Draper and Howell. Many people tell me that they appreciate my help so much, but when I visit them later I find the same old conditions as before. If you appreciate my help I would prefer that you show me. Actions speak much louder than words.

N. F. A. Club Busy

The N. F. A. Club is busy getting ready for the annual conference at Tuskegee. The N. F. A. Club met on Monday night to consider further plans for raising money. Heretofore only a few boys have been attending the conference. We are expecting to carry at least fifteen boys and an equal number of farmers and ministers. Rev. N. C. Shepard, R. C. Mixon and E. W. Burt are all ready to make the trip.

Garden Contest Nears End

Those boys who are taking part in the garden contest have only a few weeks left. Those who kept busy all the while will find that it pays to strike while the iron is hot. You had better learn all the varieties of vegetables in your garden and check closely to see that few, if any, insects are found in your garden.

Is Nitrate of Soda Poison?

A man said to me the other day that he didn't eat anything that had been side-dressed with soda. In fact, he did not use any commercial fertilizer under his vegetables. I asked him if he ever bought canned vegetables, cabbage, or watermelons that were shipped from Florida or anything of the kind. The answer was yes. If highly fertilized vegetbles from Florida will not hurt you, it appears to me that the same would be true here.—Benj. Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

REPORT OF COUNTY BOARD OF REVIEW OPEN FOR INSPECTION

The State of Alabama
Chilton County.

Notice is hereby given by Akins I. Collins, Tax Assessor of Chilton County, Alabama, that the Board of Review of said County has returned its report and the same is now open for inspection in the Tax Assessor's office.

The Board of Review will sit at the courthouse of Chilton County on the first Monday in June, 1933, to consider such protests as may be filed by any taxpayer, as provided by law.

Any taxpayer who is not satisfied with the valuation of his property as fixed and entered upon the return list, may file objections in writing to such assessed valuations with the Secretary of said Board (Akins I. Collins) on or before the last Monday in May, 1933, and the taxpayer shall set out in such objections filed the description of each item of property and his reason for making objection to the assessed valuation as placed thereon. SPRING FEVER
may not put you in bed

. . . but if you feel listless, tired, run-down, appetite dull, with a weak let-down feeling — perhaps nervous and worn out—why not "snap out" of this condition? Tone up your appetite, increase those red-blood-cells, and get in step with those who put zip and pep into everything they do—the best way to be happy and cheerful.

There is a good old medicine, S.S.S. —tested both by time and by scientific research, which in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has been found to be remarkably efficient in restoring to the blood the normal amount of red-blood-cells and their hemo-glo-bin.

. . . if you suspect an organic disease, consult a physician. S.S.S. is not a "cure-all" BUT for a pimply skin and that tired, worn-out, let-down feeling—"spring fever" just try S.S.S. and see how you awake after a night's sound sleep feeling fresh and fine,—and see how you eat with restored appetite . . . see how your skin clears up.

Instead of slowing down in the early afternoon, you should possess ample energy to carry on thru the day and evening hours. S.S.S. is a particularly valuable tonic in the Spring of the year. It is liquid of course . . . never sold in tablet form.

. . . as a word of caution to the millions who know S.S.S. and its benefits from personal experiences, we suggest that you do not permit anyone to switch you to any of the hundreds of "just as good as S.S.S." substitutes. Remember that successful products are always imitated, but it seldom pays to buy imitations—insist upon S.S.S. At all good drug stores.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

Bible Subject Discussed by Rev. J. Robert Bean, Clanton, Ala.

Weeping—Joy

Psalm 30:5—"Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

Notwithstanding the fact that men have been trying for ages to so understand the Bible as to make it mean that all sorrow and weeping are taken away by the religion of Jesus Christ, their own every day experience belie that interpretation.

If the orginal purpose of religion was to remove all sorrow and weeping from the children of God in this life, I must admit that it has utterly failed in its resign. But I find no place in the scriptures where the promise is held out to us that weeping, sorrow, anguish, pain and death is to be forever removed from us while we are in the flesh.

Our lot in this life is suffering, disappointments, sorrows, weepings and all other troubles that are the effects of sin in the body and in the wrold. Of course we may and do have some joy and happiness while we journey to the land of bliss, but they are fleeting at their best, and are designed to encourage us. Peter wanted to build three tabernacles on the mountain of transfiguration and just remain there with his transfigured Lord and be in a state of happiness continually. But it became necessary for him to descend to the valley where he found sorrow, sickness and disappointment. A correct understanding of the text is all that we need to help us to decide this question, so let us examine it.

"Weeping may endure for a night."

Mothers, how often have you wept over that boy of yours? When your first born became sick while he was yet too young to tell you where the pain was and how severe it was, did you not weep? That same boy now is almost a man and you are still weeping over him. He seems not to care how much sorrow and weeping he may cause you. Does that girl of yours always act in a way to bring joy to you, or does she cause more or less of tears to fill your eyes? O, how you pray that they might become Christians and live a Godly life. Your life is filled with weeping, over the condition of your household or the condition of your church or your own state of health. Something is forever wringing tears of sorrow from your eyes. But dear mother, look up, "weeping will only endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morining."

We are now passing through the night of life. The way seems dark and dreary, sorrows, fears and weeping beset us on every side, sickness, pain and death are hiding at every turn in the road, but we must endure it as best we can because it is our lot in this life. Jesus encountered all of these things. Am I better than my Lord that I should be free of all this? No. Let us go on through the dark night of trials, tribulations, sorrows and weeping, then brother, sister, "joy cometh in the morning." How glad we are when the storms are past and the clouds are lifted and the sun shines out again. How glad we are when the long dreary winter nights are past and the bright spring day breaks upon the world.

Joy. There is not a better word than the word "joy." It thrills us to hear a joyous shout. The night of weeping comes to an end, God's children go shouting through the gates of that city of Joy, saying "Holy, Holy is the Lord of hosts." The whole earth is filled with His glory." We will exchange our cross of weeping for a crown of joy,—joy that fadeth not away. Never more to come to sorrow or weeping. Never more to have those heart-aches that are our own lot in this life.

I believe that my sinful father, mother and wife are entirely free from all of those things that cause tears of sorrow to flow down the cheeks of God's children while here in this land that is cursed with sin, sorrow and death. I am willing to undergo all of the troubles of this life if I can but finally come into that morning of great joy, of peace and happiness with my Lord and those dear souls that wept over me so many times while they were yet with me.

Dear children of God, let us not grumble at our lot. Let's make the world just as happy as we can because that will be all of the happiness that some of them will ever have. Let us look forward to that blessed and happy day when all of God's children will be gathered home to glory. Then can we sit down together with all of our loved ones and talk of the great joy that comes to the redeemed of earth through the Lord, Jesus Christ.—J. Robert Bean.

TO HUSBAND AND WIVES

Dear readers of this paper:

Take a little time with me and get your Bible and read what God has to say to husbands and wives. Take the tenth and twelfth chapters of Mark, where Christ speaks of divorces. Read Jeremiah, third chapter. Deuteronomy(chapters from 21 to 25. The Book of Numbers, 6, 30 and 31 chapters. The Book of Proverbs, 6 and 7 chapters. Ezra, 10th chapter. The Book of Hebrew, 13th chapter. Read 7th chapter Romans. Read first Corinthians, 5th and 7th chapters. Read Levictius, 18 chapter. The Book of Ephesians, 5th chapter.

I feel if everybody would read these chapters I have cited and obey the commandments of God, there would not be so many divorces and children suffering. Also read the 19th chapter of Matthew. I have always tried to obey these and follow the commandments. I am sure if you would read these chapters they wouldn't do you any harm.—B. G. Johnson, Clanton, Route 7.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Health is very good at present in our community.

Our Sunday School is still progressing nicely. We received two new members last Sunday. There were not as many out last Sunday on the account of bad weather. But there will be a large crowd next Sunday. So everybody come and bring some one with you. Come with a well studied lesson. There will also be prayer meeting after Sunday school.

Everyone come and take part.

Gracie Moates came home last Saturday. She had been spending a week with her parents in Elmore County.

Don't forget the Sunday School at 2:30 o'clock and prayer meeting after Sunday School.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION

The Union-Banner:

I wish to express the sincere appreciation of all officers and members of the Jefferson County Singing Convention for the publicity given us in your splendid paper.

We also wish to thank Mr. W. G. Culp, president Chilton County Singing Convention, and all other singers from your county for their very liberal contribution in making our convention an overwhelming success. Mr. Culp fully demonstrated his fine qualities as a singing director and we know that the singing fraternity of Chilton County is proud of their president.

In this connection, I desire to say that many of us will reciprocate with our presence and cooperation when your convention convenes at Jemison on the third Sunday in this month.

For your information a conservative estimate of those attending our convention was placed at three thousand, and Mr. Culp was most kind in helping to arrange our program, and to assist us in the entertainment of our visitors.

Very truly yours,
R. L. GODFREY, Pres.

Rev. and Mrs. Zac Y. Apperson, who have been at Louisville Seminary for the past year, were in Clanton the first of this week. They will be on their vacation until the middle of next September, which they will spend in this county, in Birmingham and in DeKalb County.

SPECIAL ELECTION

For the Election of A County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Ala.

Under and by virtue of the provisions contained in Section Two of an Act of the Legislature of Alabama, approved April 11, 1933;

"To provide for the election of a County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, to fix his term of office, to prescribe his salary, and the manner of payment, to define his qualifications, powers, and duties, and to provide for the election of his successor in office," which said Section Two reads as follows:

"That immediately after the passage of this Act, a special election shall be called by the Probate Judge of Chilton County, and held in Chilton County, Alabama, the expenses thereof to be paid out of the general funds of said county, for the purpose of electing a county superintendent of education for said county, by the qualified electors thereof, who shall assume the duties of his office July 1, 1933, and shall hold office until his successor is elected and qualified, at the general election to be held on the second Tuesday in November, 1934, at which time his successor in office shall be elected, and thereafter the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County shall be elected quadrennial, and hold office for a term of four years, unless removed for good cause, nominations for this office shall be made in the primary elections as provided for the other county offices."

I, L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby call a special election for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent of Education for Chilton County, Alabama, said election to be held at the several voting places as they now exist in said county, on the 20 day of June, 1933.

Dated this, the 19 day of April, 1933.

Lesson for May 14

JESUS ASSERTS HIS KINGSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Mark 11:1-33.

GOLDEN TEXT—Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, thy King cometh unto thee: he is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass. Zech. 9:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Praising Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—King of All Kings.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Acknowledging Christ as King.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Lordship of Jesus.

I. Jesus Officially Presented to the Jewish Nation as Their King (vv. 1-11).

It is hardly proper to designate this the "triumphal entry" for it was only so to outward appearance. It was rather the promised Messiah publicly offering himself to the Jewish nation as the king.

1. The preparation (vv. 1-5).

a. Two disciples sent to bring the colt (vv. 1-3). Jesus told them just where to find it and how to answer the owner's inquiry.

b. The obedience of the disciples (vv. 4-6). Without asking the reason why, they went at Christ's bidding. The command may have seemed strange and unreasonable, but they rendered explicit obedience.

2. The entry into Jerusalem (vv. 7-10).

a. The disciples put their garments upon the colt, and Jesus sat upon it (v. 7). This action showed their recognition of Jesus as their Messiah, the King (II Kings 9:13).

b. The action of the multitude (vv. 8, 9). Some spread their garments in the way. Others who had no garments to spare threw down branches. This entry was in fulfillment of a prophecy uttered some five hundred years before (Zech. 9:9). They uttered the very cry which the prophet predicted. Since the prediction of the first coming was thus literally fulfilled, we can be assured that those concerning his second coming will likewise have literal fulfillment. The prophecy of Zech. 14:3-11 will be just as literally fulfilled as was that of Zech. 9:9.

c. The action of Jesus (v. 11). Upon entering the temple he looked round upon all things, but as it was eventide, he with the twelve withdrew to Bethany.

II. Jesus Exercising Kingly Authority (vv. 12-19).

1. The barren fig tree cursed (vv. 12-14). The fig tree is typical of the Jewish nation. The fruit normally appears on the fig tree ahead of the leaves. The presence of the leaves is assurance of fruit. This was an acted parable of Christ's judgment on Israel for pretension to being the chosen people without the fruits thereof.

2. The temple cleansed (vv. 15-19). For the various sacrifices many oxen, sheep, and doves were needed. It was impracticable for people from distant parts to bring their sacrifices with them. They brought money, therefore, and bought the animals needed. This privilege was provided in the Jewish law (Deut. 14:24-26). In such cases exchange was necessary. However, when evil men used it as an opportunity for gain, it became an offense to God. It defiled his house. Jesus made a scourge of cords and drove out the money changers (John 2:15), overthrowing their tables and pouring out their money. By this act he declared himself to be the Lord of the temple, and one with God. The scribes and chief priests grasped the meaning thereof, for they were aroused to murderous hate and sought to destroy him.

III. Jesus' Authority Challenged (vv. 27-33).

1. By whom (vv. 27, 28). The chief priests, the scribes, and the elders demanded that he show by what authority he accepted the honors of the Messiah and by whom he was given the right to cast out the money changers.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 29, 30). He responded to their challenge by a question which placed them in a dilemma. Since John was his forerunner, the commission of John and Jesus had the same source. If John's commission was from heaven, Christ's commission was from heaven likewise. If they had accepted John's message, they would have been ready to accept his. They were powerless to destroy John because the people accepted John as having been sent from heaven.

3. The answer of the chief priests and scribes (vv. 31-33). Perceiving the force of the dilemma in which they were placed, they confessed that they did not know the source of John's commission. These rulers had no affection for Jesus so they rejected his message and sought to destroy him.

MAPLE SPRINGS

The people around this place are very busy this week trying to finish up planting their crops.

Health at this place is improving.

Mrs. Bessie Wells was visiting Mrs. Will Davis Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. B. H. Wells, who has been very sick, is improving.

Mr. W. J. Glenn had as his Monday dinner guest, his father, Mr. J. T. Glenn, of Cooper.

Mr. Arnold Glenn had as his guest Saturday night, Mr. Cecil Wilson.

Miss Evelyn Downs was the Saturday night guest of Miss Lera Mae Mitchell.

Mr. Bonnie Miller was the Saturday night guest of his sister, Mrs. Lester Downs.

Mr. Arthur Mitchell was the guest of Mr. Grady Brown Saturday night.

Miss Lera Mae Mitchell was the Sunday all day guest of Miss Evelyn Downs.

Mr. Elzie Brown, of Gadsden, was the week end guest of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Whit Brown.

Mr. Audie Brown was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. Ottis and Mr. Oliver Glenn.

Mr. Oliver Glenn was the Friday night guest of Mr. Robert Davis.

Miss Marie Devaughn was visiting her sister, Mrs. Velma Davis, this week end.

Mr. Amzie Wright was the Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. Joe Lansford.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson were the Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dennis.

Mrs. Ina Lansford spent a few hours Sunday afternoon with Mrs. R. J. Downs.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs were the Friday night guest of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miller.

A lot of work has been done on our church since the last report from us. The top has been put on and some of the flooring put in. It makes us feel good because we know it will soon be ready for service.

PROVIDENCE BEAT 13

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space to say a few words through your good paper, as I haven't seen anything from this place in some time.

Health of this community is very good at present. Everybody is very busy with strawberries.

Quite a number from this place attended the singing at Oak Grove Sunday afternoon. Next Sunday afternoon is our regular singing. Everybody come, as we are expecting a large crowd and some good singing.

And folks remember that we are going to have our annual memorial day the third Sunday in May, as that has been our usual time and the church doesn't see fit to changing our annual date. We want everybody that can to be with us.

The program will be announced next week. Remember the date, the third Sunday in May. Don't forget to bring your dinner.—O. B. Martin.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

A few years ago I met an old minister in the state of Pennsylvania. He told me that he was reared in Alabama. "I used to be a telephone operator," the old man said. "The first week I was on duty I had an interesting experience. A message came over the wire saying that trains number thirty-seven and number thirty-eight would pass at my station. I was ordered to side-track thirty-seven. A few minutes later, while sitting at the desk thinking, I heard train thirty-seven blow coming from one way, and train thirty-eight blow coming from the other way. I had forgotten which one to put on the side track. My heart sank. I felt faint. Something had to be done. "What did you do?" I asked. "I flagged both of them. Then later I wrote to headquarters and told them the story just as it was. I thought I would lose my job. But I received a letter saying, We congratulate you, young man. When in doubt play safe."

Men tell me that they don't believe in hell. "When in doubt, play safe." I am going to figure that there is a hell. If there isn't any, I shall be all right. If there is one, those who figure that there is none, might be all wrong.

When I was fourteen years old I knelt by my mother's dying bed and I took her hand and pressed it upon my aching brow that I might remember her dying touch forever. I promised to meet her in heaven. A few minutes later the stillness of the room was broken by the sob of my father's cry as he said, "Son, mother's dead." Her body sleeps in a lonely cemetery in southeast Alabama. I have sat by her grave many a time until the twilight shadows of the evening would gather, and I have listened to the funeral dirge played by the wind in pine trees near by. I've said, "Mother, I'll see you again." They tell me I am dreaming. Well, don't awake me. If my religion is only a dream, it is a blessing. I have had the dream.

Let us suppose that there is a personel God, a heaven and a hell—that both are literal and eternal. If it is absolutely true according to the orthodox position, as a Christian I win for two worlds. If it is only a dream, I have already won. I am playing the game safe.

THE "SOUND MONEY" PLEDGE

The political situation inside Congress and out has developed far enough to indicate that one of the principal issues in the congressinoal campaign next year will be the Democratic platform of 1932. The Republicans will seek to point out, in fact are already beginning it, that the party of the administration has forgotten some of the promises made in the campaign last year.

One of the principal planks in the Democratic platform, it will be remembered, was one again confirming the party in the faith of sound money. Already the proponents of the so-called administration inflation bill in Congress are being reminded that the majority party is in danger of forgetting its pledge to the people to maintain sound money. The reminders are coming not only from Republican statesmen but from some of those high in the councils of the Democratic Party.

Surely it cannot be seriously maintained that if the provisions of the Thomas bill are carried out we will continue to have sound money. The bill, which is an amendment to the "farm relief" measure, authorizes the President to put into effect several kinds of inflation, and if all the provisions were invoked there can be no doubt that we would have something in circulation which would not conform to current ideas of sound money and 100 cent dollars.

Some friends of the administration declare that President Roosevelt will not put the provisions into effect unless it becomes necessary. They maintain that the administration had the bill introduced to head off schemes for mandatory inflation. Nobody has yet been able, however, satisfactorily to answer the question of why, if they are not to be put into use, the infationary measures are necessary. The President could have headed off the inflationists anyhow by vetoing any bills of the kind which might have been enacted.

Some political students have advanced the view that the president wants the power so that he can deal more effectively with European diplomats in working out a scheme of stable international finance. It is earnestly to be hoped that this is the bes guess on the situation.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

One of the most convincing arguments against the arms embargo resolution now in congress, which would give the president the right to prevent by embargo the shipment of munitions of war to a nation which he regarded as an aggressor, is contained in a letter from John Bassett Moore, one of America's most distinguished diplomats, to the house committee on Foreign Affairs, addressed to Congressman Hamilton Fish and read into the Congressional record of April 20. The letter is a complete answer to the arguments of the internationalists who declare that such embargo power would be an instrument of peace. Mr. Moore shows that it could much easier become an instrument of war.

Mr. Moore discusses the principles of recognized international law and then says: "From the elementary principles of international law above set forth it necessarily follows that if a government bans the shipment of arms and munitions of war to one of the parties to an armed conflict and permits it to the other, it intervenes in the conflict in a military sense and makes itself a party to the war whether declared or undeclared.

Continuing, Mr. Moore declares the proposed policy is "opposed to the settled policy and the highest interests of the United States and also the provisions of our federal constitution. He adds that "if adopted it would enable the president first to make international engagements of the most far-reaching kind at his will, without the advice and consent of congress and, second, to carry us into war without the prerequisite constitutional declaration of war by congress.

Mr. Moore points out to those who think such a resolution a "peace" declaration that war cannot be abolished by calling it peace or by refraining from calling it war although he adds that through propaganda, unfortunately "there are many who appear to have been infected by these confused motions."

In predicting what would happen if the resolution were adopted and a crisis arose, Mr. Moore adds: "Groups moved by interest or swayed consciously or unconsciously by propaganda will clamor at the White House and the Department of State for the unneutral application of the ban in favor of those whom they like or approve and against those whom they dislike or disapprove. * * * Within the terms of the pending resolution our government would be asked to set itself up in rash and arrogant judgment upon the acts of other nations and on the merits of their conflicts, with a view to give or permit military aid to one as against another." There can be no questioning the judgment of this prophesy. Think what a field day it would be for the propagandists and international sobsisters when a situation of this kind confronted the government!

In conclusion, Mr. Moore points out that "if the real purpose back of the pending resolution is simply to prevent the United States from furnishing implements of war to those who are engaged in armed strife, this may be readily done by providing for a comprehensive, nonpartisian embargo on the shipment of arms to all countries engaged in armed strife whether international or civil. Such an embargo would naturally be announced and imposed by public proclamation. Of this no foreign power could complain."

But this latter suggestion would not set well with our internationalist busybodies. The policy suggested by Mr. Moore would tend to keep us out of trouble. What the international propagandists want is a foreign policy which will plunge us into the center of every European squabble which breaks forth.

FARRELL ON THE TARIFF

Those who adhere to the archaic theory that one of the causes of our present depression is the Smoot-Hawley tariff law, enacted long after the depression started, will be interested in a statement made recently by J. A. Farrell who launched into a discussion of the tariff question, and declared that the rates now in force did not give adequate protection to American industry. Continuing of our tariff Mr. Farrell said:

"That it no longer is a protective tariff is evidenced by its failure to accomplish for American industries what Great Britain, France, Canada and other countries have done by means of super-taxes on imports from countries with depreciated currencies.

"These increasing restrictions on imports on the eve of the world economic conference, give to these European countries a strong bargaining position. Any reductions offered by them would merely be reductions from exceptionally high tariff levels.

"In the United States, we not only have not increased our rates of duty, but have permitted currency depreciation abroad to nullify much of the protection intended by our tariff law.

"Our decline in export trade is not due. as some allege, to justifiable reprisials provoked by our tariff law. This decline is due not alone to unjustifiable discrimination against our trade, but to a combination of unsettling influences abroad that have reduced the buying power of countries which have been unable to overcome the secondary effects of the shell. Instead of giving us rates high enough war period."

Here is the truth about the tariff in a nutto "stifle foreign trade" as some of the free traders would have us believe, the rates, owing to rapidly changing world conditions, are not high enough to afford the proper amount of protection necessary to keep the wheel of American industry going. If Congress had paid some attention to the demand of those who wanted additional protection against the flood of commodities from countries with depreciated currency, we would be much farther along the road to normalcy than we are today.

A MEDDLESOME MEASURE

The House of Representatives, in its infinite wisdom, has passed a bill admirably designed to get this country into trouble with other countries.

It is the arms embargo bill, authorizing the executive branch of the government to prohibit shipment of arms and ammunition to any nation which gets hostile with any other nation.

It is the familiar Stimson plan to embargo such shipments to Japan. When Japan began her Manchurian adventure numerous old and young ladies in the United States—both male and female—wanted us to rush in with an embargo "to keep the peace."

That action, of course, would have made peace exceedingly hard to keep between our Japanese friends and ourselves. The Japanese would have regarded it as an insult, and when people think they are insulted they don't feel peaceable.

Fortunately, we decided to stay out of the Manchurian mess despite the old and young ladies. The American people had no desire to interfere in an Asiatic row on the other side of the world. They had more important business at home and have still.

But the embargo plan has come up again. This time the House has given it the stamp of approval and it now goes to the senate for such action as the Senate my see fit to take.

We don't know what the Senate will do.

We do know that not one American in a hundred wants to monkey with this dangerous international weapon, and not one in a million wants to stir up misunderstandings with our neighbors.

Which this will do.—Washington, D. C., Times.

THE FORGOTTEN JOY OF RIVERS

The opening of the gulf waterway is a great event in the commercial annals of the Midwest. We wish it might also awaken in our people a new appreciation of the possibilities of recreation on the splendid rivers of the great valley. These possibilities have been sadly neglected, as the possibilities of the Chicago lake shore were neglected by the people of the city until recent years. The development of the lake shore parks and bathing beaches has opened a gold mine of health and refreshment to this generation. The beautiful rivers of the Midwest are a resources of enjoyment which still remains to be exploited. Canoeing and motor boating are increasing on the streams near Chicago and doubtless near other towns and cities. But the larger rivers, the Illinois, Wisconsin, St. Croix, Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee, and many other streams are not used to the extent they ought to be.

Passenger steamers are few and on some large rivers entirely lacking simply because passenger traffic deserted the rivers many years ago. We hope they will be reappearing soon. The popularity of the automobile ought not to prevent us from adding to our resources the water highways. The facilities are inadequate now, but they will soon be provided when there is encouragement from the public. A trip in a comfortable steamboat on any of the greater rivers would be something to remember, and to those who can have a motor cruiser or any craft from a canoe up there are unlimited possibilities of pleasant adventure.

We ought to become river-minded. The rivers are there waiting discovery by the vacationist. Some day our people will wonder why they were so long forgotten. They are a heritage of beauty and interest. We ought to make good our claim to it.—Chicago Tribune.

Black Peril

The action of the U. S. Senate in connection with the case of Judge Lowell of Massachusetts is a boon to Southerners, both black and white. Recent developments in racial difficulties, especially in Alabama, have done more harm than good to the Southern negro. Communist literature and other propaganda of one kind and another has been widely distributed, and this has put the idea in the heads of some negroes that they can get away with almost anything—that their cases have been defended by highly paid "foreign" counsel, who carry their cases to the supreme court with well-founded hope that they will be quashed has given much ground for such belief. But the action of Judge Lowell in freeing a negro who was wanted in Virginia for murder was the last straw—enough to arouse the ire of all peaceloving, law-abiding citizens. If the senate succeeds in ousting Judge Lowell for this high-handed misconduct, it should have wholesome effect on the matter. For the past several years, lynching has lessened as our people's respect and confidence in the courts increased. But a few incidents like that in Massachusetts would cause them to lose that confidence, and once it is lost, lynching would again become the popular manner of meting out justice to criminals. Our people in the South are peace-loving and law-abiding. They are friends to negroes in their right place, but "social equality" is impossible. The Southern white man will NEVER recognize the negro as his social equal. To try to teach our white people "social equality" will always be a failure, and to try to force it on them would be worse than a failure—it would only widen the gap between the races. Left alone, our people will see that negroes get justice, but the meddling of "outsiders" in the matter can only make it worse.

Helena's Twister

Of all those questions asked in last week's "Wandering and Wondering," at least one of them has been answered—that about when and where the next tornado would come along. I was one among the many people from this section who went up to look at the results of Helena's twister. Streaking in from the southwest, the storm struck only a few hundred yards from the edge of the village, sweeping like a giant broom through a bunch of paper houses, and rose again as suddenly as it had dropped, at the far adge of the town. A most complete job of destruction was done. Tombstones, giant trees, houses, automobiles, power line towers, water tanks, railroad cars, all fared alike. And what queer antics these tornados do cut. In one place I saw a 3-room house, which had been surrounded by trees, and which was only a few feet from a row of box-cars, all in the path of the storm. The trees were all twisted off a few feet from the ground and looked like big toothpicks; the back room was blown away as clean as a whistle; boxcars were overturned and splintered; yet, between the back room and the cars was the rest of the house, apparently none the worse for all the wind. I don't believe a shingle was moved. Another strange case was that of the power line towers, five of which were down and twisted into scrap iron, while only a few feet away from one of them was a small wood telephone pole which had come through it all and was still standing. Judging from the debris, that was a worse storm than that which passed through Chilton County. And anyone who visited the Union Grove community last year can draw some idea of the Helena disaster from this comparison.

Soldiers And Saplings

When the soldiers were promised all kinds of things in the campaign last fall, they fell for the gag, just like many other people. They are not to be blamed for being led astray. The general opinion was that the new administration would work wonders, and they just followed the crowd. That's all. But how these fellows have been disillusioned. They were promised action, and they certainly have gotten it, too; but uot like they expected. Of course there were some veterans who were getting more than their share, but there were many who were getting nothing. And what form did the new administraion's "action" take? Instead of conducting investigation to find out who was deserving, and how much, and paying according to their findings, they made the business very simple, by just stopping all payments. Under the old plan, at least a part of the deserving veterans were being paid, even if much of the money was being wasted in some cases. But under the new order, these, too, must suffer. Now, let's see where the money (some $400,000,000) which was taken from the soldiers under the guise of an "economy bill" goes to; $300,000,000 of it will be spent to plant saplings. Is that economy? Not in my dictionary. Any way, if it narrows down to a decision between war veterans or saplings, I'll side with the soldiers, if you please. And there are many Democrats (some in high places) who are not at all in sympathy with this infernal "economy" legislation. Give due credit to them for this—three of them are Jeffers of Alabama, Long of Louisiana, and McSwain of South Carolina. The sapling planting scheme was put over in the from of a relief bill; that's just like throwing a ball into the air—no matter how high you throw it, it is sure to fall back to it's first level. A good slogan for that outfit which passed such legislation would be: "Sapheads soaking soldiers for saplings." Sapheads and saplings—the soldiers don't stand a chance.

Give Him Credit

As was stated in this column shortly after the new president took office, we reserve the right to shoot when we feel that we have something to shoot at, but we will be glad to give credit when credit is due. And right now I feel that President Roosevelt is due some credit, so here goes. On Monday of this week, a big bunch of hoodlums, including white communists, negroes, and negro sympathizers, called on the president to complain to him in favor of the Scottsboro negroes. But Mr. Roosevelt declined to see them, referring them to his secretary. In other words, he gave them a neat snubbing. Good for Mr. Roosevelt! I think he has proved again that he is 100 per cent American, both in thought and deed. The mob leaders construed his action as one of contempt for them and their cause. All the more credit to him if he did really intend to show his utter contempt for them. Let's give credit where credit is due.

CHILTON'S REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES—

The principle that has made Chilton County Republican in politics for the past forty years still exists—more than that—it still dominates in a big way. That principle is the submission of every important question to a direct vote of the people.

There has been a test of the existence of this principle over the recent matter of a primary for a county superintendent of education, before the Republican Executive Committee, and nearly everything went in favor of submitting the matter to the Republican voters. The commitee is to be commended for this action. They could have named the Republican nominee, but they preferred to let the voters say who they wanted; after that the committee will approve the choice of their constituents and thus have his name placed on the ballot to be voted on at the election of June 20th.

Nothing could be fairer—in fact, it was the only wise thing for the committee to do. The Union-Banner believes that this step of the Executive committee will mean much toward the future harmony and success of the Republican party in Chilton County.

IMMIGRANTS NOT WANTED NOW

Times are anything but propitious for passage of the bill of Representative Dickstein of New York, which would practically abrogate the executive order of President Hoover which had barred from this country some 500,000 would-be immigrants for the last 3 years. The effect of this bill would be to nullify the order to consuls, that no person should be given a visa for admission to this country unless it could be shown that he would not become a public charge. The object of the bill is to correct injustice in the separation of families, but it is an insidious measure, loosely drawn and capable of such misuses as to break down the barrier which the nation has been compelled to erect for its own protection. The present is not the time to foist upon the United States more unemployed, to be cared for at public expense. It is said that representations of officials of the State Department have given the measure its conge; neverthless the Committee on Immigration cannot be too much on its guard against subtle attempts to circumvent the salutary laws relating to immigration.—Boston Transcript.

AN UNSATISFACTORY BILL

The administration farm relief bill was a bad bill as originally drafted. It embodied a conglomeration of unworkable principles and sought to lift agricultural prices by taxing the consumers and restricting acreage. But the bill is infinitely worse now, with the price-fixing feature added by an insurgent Senate. By the Simpson-Norris amendment the bill seeks to guarantee to the farmer his "production costs" plus a "reasonable profit." This absurd effort to legislate away the validity of supply and demand is the final doom of an agricultural program that was unsound to begin with.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

When it comes to crop control it seems to us that Old Man Weather still has it all over Congress and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

We make fun sometimes of children who believe in Santa Claus and yet there are a lot of grown men who believe that Congress can solve the farm problem.

The federal government will punish brewers who put out beer containing more than 3.2 per cent alcohol. New York State authorities say that they will punish brewers who put out beer containing less than 3.2 per cent alcohol. The New York brewer in trying to adhere to the 3.2 per cent line will feel like the fellow who crosses over Niagara Falls on a tight rope.

A lot of people for years have criticized the banks as being too tight in releasing credit. But a look at the staggering totals of public and private debt in America indicates that somebody must have loosened up.

The Senate has defeated the amendment to the farm bill calling for free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of sixteen to one, and now we don't know what to do with the oldfashioned caster that we were going to have made over into shiny new silver dollars.

Last week was "Be Kind to Animals Week," and as a good Republican we are in favor of making the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November "Be Kind to Elephants' Day."

Some European nations have increased the tariff on American apples. Unfortunately it seems to be impossible for Uncle Sam to retaliate by puttnig an effective embargo on European applesauce.

It is reported that M. Herriot is coming over from France to offer us a lump settlement for the war debt. Lump of what?

The District of Columbia has a law prohibiting the sale of fireworks in that territory but it doesn't have any effect on the display in Congress.

"Ye Ed" Will Wed

Well, well! "Ye Ed" will wed. No, I'm not trying to get poetic, or anything of the kind, but just a few days ago I heard of the approaching wedding of my good friend Billy Smith, editor of the Chilton County News. Congratulations to Billy! I never suspected him of harboring matrimonial hankerings, but, just the same, I'm wishing for him all happiness and all the luck in the world in his new venture. Maybe he will call it a "new deal," being a good Democrat. Man to man, though, in most cases this particular kind of "new deal" turns out to be a "new shuffle"—take it from one who knows. Boy, how I do have to "shuffle" to make ends meet and keep the old wolf off the back doorstep. As the Kingfish might say: Welcome, my friend, into our great fraternity, the "Happy, Henpecked, Helpless Husbands." It's the greatest brotherhood in the world. So—Welcome, fellow-sufferer.—Man in the Moon.

A Home Demonstration Agent

My information is that the County Commissioners Monday agreed to make the necessary approriation of money for employment of a County Home Demonstration Agent. This is highly gratifying news. Our county and many people in the county need the services of such a person. We need it as much or more than we need the County Farm Agent; and goodness knows we couldn't afford to be without Friend Stapp. I commend our Commissioners for this action in responding to a very urgent need of our farm people.

Ditching Our Swamps

After many years of talking and calculation, we are at last greeted by the very welcome news that ditching the swamps around Clanton is to be started. An agreement was reached Tuesday between city and county officials whereby the latter will furnish R. F. C. laborers to work in the ditch, and the city will provide supervision of the work. It is stated that the work will begin next Monday morning at Dake's old mill. The hope of the promoters of this work is that the ditch may be dug all the way up the swamp to where the city sewer enters the creek. Eventually it is hoped that the ditch may be extended up the creeks on either side of the city to drain all the swamp lands hereabouts. The people of Clanton and surrounding communities will be glad to know this long-desired project is to get under way in reality.

Come to the Rail Splitting

Here is something to live for. Lewis Easterling, of Beat 16, promises to have an old fashioned rail splitting at his place this fall when the frost is on the corn and the punkin's on the vine. I am authorized to receive applications from all who want to take part in this affair. Joe Franklin is the first one to sign up. Who's next? Of course it is understood that the rail splitting will be side-dressed with all the culinary aspects of the real old fasioned affairs of this kind that used to be so common.

Primary For Superintendent

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County has acted wisely in providing for a primary election in which to make the party nomination of a candidate for Superintendent of Education. No other course could have placed in the hands of the people the full right to elect the official. Our folks have wanted the privilege of electing the superintendent for a long time. They ought to have it, and now they will have it. Maybe after we elect our superintendent, no matter who he is, we can have more harmony and less squabbling about our public school affairs.

Cotton Root Four Feet Long

Mr. Charley Giles, of Isabella community, sent to The Union-Banner office last Saturday a cotton stalk with a tap root four feet long. It has been added to our collection of rare specimens. Perhaps I should say that it was a last year's cotton stalk. It was brought in by Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Manning. Mr. Manning told me not to print his name, but I figure he just told me that in order to make sure I would do it.

EXPLANATION FROM JUDGE REYNOLDS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me to make correction of my article in last week's paper relative to furnishing the voters lists for elections.

My dictation of the article last week stated that I had furnished free voters lists for some elections in the past under similar conditions to the Primary now under consideration; and that I offered to furnish free list for the recent R. F. C. election, but the commissioners did not accept my offer.—L. H. Reynolds.

C. Reese Mullins and son, Reese, leave this morning for Birmingham, to attend the Alabama Fire Underwriters Association, which convenes there today and tomorrow.

REFUGE NEWS

Something has been said in regard to postponing the annual singing at this place because of the convention which will be held at Jemison on the same day. But the church unanimously agreed to have the singing as usual, on the third Sunday in May.

All singers as well as all lovers of sacred song have a special invitation to come; so come on.—Church correspondent.

LAY DAM

Lay Dam wishes to extend their sympathy to George Wilkinson in the death of his father. Mr. Wilkinson had been sick for some time, but at the time of the last issue, of Powergrams, it seemed that he was showing some signs of improvement.

Miss Ethel Mize recently attended the A. E. A. Convention in Montgomery as a delegate of this district. Her sister, Miss Ruth Mize, taught school for the two days that she was away.

Vacation time has started at Lay Dam. At present, Hugh Branch is away tending to various unfinished business that has accumulated for the past year.

Our friend, John J. Sigwald, scout executive of the Central Alabama District, recently spent a couple of days in camp as the guest of Mr. Powers. While here, he made arrangements for a scout camping trip on an island about two miles above Lay Dam.

For the past few days George Bates has been serving on the jury of the spring term of court in Clanton.

The writer wishes to take this opportunity of congratulating an old friend and co-worker, Sam Jordan, of Gadsden, on his safety record in the transportation department. Sam and I used to work together at the Gadsden Steam Plant about eight years ago, so I might add that this record is not a new record, but a continuation of the one he has always held.

MUSIC TABLETS FOR SALE

The Union-Banner has for sale a quantity of music tablets for use in singing schools, etc. The tablets are of regulation size, and contain 40 pages. The paper is of good quality. Music teachers, students, and all needing music blanks are invited to examine them.

REFUGE NEWS

Health of this community is very good. Farming and berry picking seem to be all the go down here.

Our Sunday School was very good Sunday, altho we hope to have a better one next Sunday.

Our B. Y. P. U. class and a good number of others visited Pates Chapel Sunday night and reported as having enjoyed themselves.

We are in hopes there won't be any mistake about our all day singing and some one get disappointed. The third Sunday in May is the date. Please don't forget, for we are in hopes there will be a good number of visitors to help us enjoy the day.

Everybody come to Sunday School next Sunday and bring someone with you. Sunday School at 10:30 a.m., and B. Y. P. U. at 7 o'clock p.m.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with the deepest and most profound appreciation that we express thanks to all the friends and neighbors for the many manifestations of kindness, assistance and sympathy during the illness, death and burial of our husband and father, Mr. Anderson Marcus.—The Family.

CHS Ink Drops
(Dan Smith)

A very interesting and instructive program was given in chapel last Wednesday by Mr. Varnell's biology class. This program was a bird program. March 15th was the official bird day but for some reason a program was not given on that day. Several interesting features were rendered on this program last Wednesday. The main feature was a bird guessing contest conducted by John Ezell, one of the members of the class. The winners of this contest were Tina Hyman and Grady Carter, who received a cash reward for their effort. A song appropriate to the occasion was rendered by Marylyn Hardy and Hilda Hart with Helen Roberts at the piano. Those participating on this program were Pauline Plyler, Roberta Cochran, Dorothy Brailey, Earl Gray, Carl Jones and Virgil Robinson.

Chilton County High School graduates are certainly making a name for themselves in this world. We are proud to note that Miss Corinne Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Polk, and a graduate of the class of 1929, will be the valedictorian for the graduating class of Athens College. Besides attaining this honor she was the Queen of May at the May Day celebration at the college this year.

Only 9 more days until school is out. This will be probably the busiest part of school with final exams only a few days off. If it is not, it certainly should be.

Congratulations, Pearl! Folks, Miss Pearl Vinson is the student who will have the distinguished honor of delivering the valedictory address at the commecement exercises next Friday night. This distinctive honor goes to the student who has the highest scholastic average during her four years in high school. And my dear readers, Hilda Hart is the lucky and deserving scholar who has the honor of being the salutatorian this year. This honor is bestowed upon the student ranking second in grades.

The seniors will hold their traditional class night next Thursday night at the high school auditorium. This program will be different to those preceding it and promises to be worth attending. They will present a play entitled, "Seniors at the Bar," picturing the seniors at court for their diplomas. This play will include the traditional speeches. The president's address, rendered by Margaret Jones, president of the class this year; the class poem, by the class poet, Serena Mitchell; class history, by the class historian, Mary Robinson; the class prophecy by the class prophet, Clyde Jones and the last will and testament by Louise Knox, will be a part of the play.

These busy seniors have already begun work on their memorial which they will leave to their dear old Alma Mater. This memorial is to be a beautiful drive gate at the north entrance to the school yards. It is expected to be completed by the first part of next week.

The Seniors really put their play over last Friday night. An exceedingly large crowd was present. Many favorable comments are heard on this play especially on the feature of the program, Tom Frank Teel's performance. Those chorus girls and Miss Colley, their instructor, should be highly complimented. Miss Williams, whose coaching and directing contributed greatly to the success, is to be lauded also.

Again a Friday night is the night. Tomorrow night the Senior II class will give due honor to the Senior III class in the form of an informal banquet at the Exchange Hotel, at 8 o'clock. You seniors can prepare for a real enjoyable time when you are present tomorrow night. Several features are to be presented for your entertainment and enjoyment. Music dolled up in her best will be present And eats, Oh, boy!

The graduating seniors are all busy attending to their graduation exercises and continuing their school work. This time of the school year is a very busy time with the seniors and also everyone else. Remember, time flies.

Well, folks, examinations begin next week on Monday. Thursday night just following that the commencement exercises are to be held with Dr. J. A. Kellar delivering the baccalaureate address. This class has proven itself worthy of the commendation of its loyalty and devotion to the school and the faculty. Much credit goes to their ever-loyal and school-spirited president, Margaret Jones, and to the other officers of the class as well as the members of the class, who through their hard work and spirit of loyalty will leave behind them a memorial worthy of the remaining students a feeling of bearing their name and in the hearts pride and admiration. While the members of the faculty will look back in later years and recall their work with this most splendid group of cooperative students.

At the time of the writing of this column the only reports of the mens singles and the ladies doubles were attainable from the tennis tournament, which has been in progress here for the past two weeks. The winners of the ladies doubles were Miss Sarah Colley and Miss Grace Plyler. The winner of the mens singles was Mr. Duggar of Verbena; holding second place was Jesse Frank Foshee. Next week a full report will be given.

Those who attend the banquet tomorrow night will have the pleasure of hearing Lloyd Howard and his accordian at their best.

We sure do admire Miss Cofield, former member of our faculty and now assistant professor at the University of Alabama. Mr. Warr received a letter from her one day this week containing a dollar to carry on the Ruth Jones memorial. This has been an honor which is bestowed upon the girl who nearly possesses all the fine qualities, personality, friendliness, intellect and sweetness that Miss Ruth Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones gave to this school before she was called to her maker. Every year at the senior class night some girl has been honored with this distinction and it will still be carried on. Thanks to Miss Cofield.

The "gadget" is a little machine that shows the difference between ordinary cord, used in other tires, and Supertwist cord, used in Goodyears... That difference is in the stretch and comeback—you can see how Supertwist cord stretches and comes back, how the cord in other tires loses its life and elasticity ... It takes about 3 minutes to tell the story—but as this customer said—"If every car owner could see that demonstration, there wouldn't be anything used but Goodyear Tires."

OAK GROVE

We had a fine singing here Sunday afternoon. We had a good crowd of visitors, although the weather was dark and threatening. Mr. H. H. Godfrey of Bessemer was a very welcome guest. Mr. Godfrey sings with the Riley quartet and is well known about here. Mr. W. J. Northcutt called the meeting to order and led the opening song, which was followed by prayer by Mr. Oscar Cobb. The following directors then led the choir in singing: Messrs Cleo Gay, Henry Godfrey, Burl Martin, Cobern Cofer, Gordon Crumpton, Buster Lowery, Velpo Mims, Sam Collins, Ellis Martin, and Mrs. Johnnie Collum. Orgaists were: Mrs. Velpo Mims, Mrs. Bertha Martin, Miss Violet Martin and Mrs. Homer Webb. The Providence and Oak Grove quartets also sang several songs each. We have our singing here every first Sunday afternoon and everyone interested in singing is invited to come and be with us.

Miss Gladys Cobb is very sick this week.

Mr. Lassie Northcutt is improving nicely.

The Oak Grove ball team played Mars Hill Saturday afternoon, and lost the game. The score was 14 to 0 in favor of Mars Hill.

Mrs. Grace Guin and mother visited the latter's daughter in Birmingham Sunday.

Mr. Bob Killingsworth lost his house by fire Monday.

The play, "Dot, the Miner's Daughter," will be presented here next Saturday night, May 13. Admission will be 10 and 15 cents. The proceeds are to be used for the benefit of the church.

We invite everyone to come and spend two hours with us which we are sure you will enjoy. Miss Roberta Satterwhite plays the part of Dot, the leading character in the play. Be sure to see Mrs. Bertha Martin and Sam Collins as the darky characters, also plenty of comedy throughout the play. You won't be disappointed.

FREE VOTERS LISTS

Editor Union-Banner:

I was a little surprised when I read Judge Reynolds' letter in last week's issue of The Union-Banner, relative to furnishing free a voters list for the primary to be held in connection with the superintendent of education office.

In that article, among other things, he stated that he would be glad to furnish a voters list free for this election, as he had done in the elections regarding the R. F. C. money, and the demonstration agent.

I prepared the list for the R. F. C. election myself, and, knowing this, I asked the Judge if he hadn't gotten his wires crossed in some way in his article. He replied that he had dictated the article to read that he had offered to furnish the list for this election, and that his offer had been refused, but that the person taking dictation had misunderstood him, and had written the article as it appeared in the paper. All good and well for that.

But an examination of the records in connection with demonstration agent elections discloses the following: There have been two elections pertaining to this. (The judge does not state in his article just which of these two he furnished free lists for). The first was held June 14, 1927, in connection with a 1-mill school tax election; and the treasurer's report shows that on July 2, the Commissioners Court passed a warrant for $206.25, "for making voters lists. The second was held November 3, 1931, in connection with a state bond issue election; and the treasurer's report shows that on November 12, a warrant for $216.15 was passed, "for making voters list."

On each respective date, surely the same lists were used in connection with each of the two questions being voted on on that date. From the above, it appears that these lists were paid for by the county. If so, then where do the "free" lists show up? These are the only instances mentioned; if there have been other "special" elections where "free" lists were furnished, what were they for, and when did they come?—Paul C. Mims.

REPORT OF THE OLD FOLKS MEETING AT FRIENDSHIP

The annual old folks and ministers meeting was held at Friendship the fifth Sunday in April. The meeting was called to order at 9:45 by Rev. J Robert Bean, master of ceremonies. One hour devotional services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Raines. The old folks meeting was made a permanent organization, and J. D. Collins was elected secretary. A committee on resolutions was named, consisting of the following: Rev. J. R. Bean, Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. M. Lockhart.

There was an intermission of fifteen minutes, and after reassembling, Rev. R. M. Honeycutt took the stand and preached. His text was taken from Isaiah 59th chapter, and from I Cor., 1:30. In his preliminary remarks Rev. Honeycutt stated that he would be 89 years old in May, 1933; that he preached his first sermon 64 years ago the fourth Sunday in this May. Rev. Honeycutt's health now is generally good. He preached for about an hour and a quarter.

In the afternoon the hour's devotional service was conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery. After an intermission of 15 minutes, the afternoon sermon was preached by Rev. J. D. Hughes.

The following resolutions were introduced by the committee for that purpose and adopted by the meeting: "We, as a committee selected to report on the deceased since our last meeting a year ago, find that it has pleased God through His providence to call from our midst the following: T. J. Deason, Bro. James M. Robinson.

"We feel that in the passing of these brethren, we have sustained a great loss, both to the country and to the cause of Christ. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved families and loved ones. And we recommend that a copy of these resolutions be furnished both county papers for publication.—J. Robert Bean, M. Lockhart, W. P. Lowery, Committee.

Near the close of the meeting other resolutions of thanks to Friendship Church for it scourtesy were voted by the meeting.

The meeting adjourned to meet again on some fifth Sunday in the early spring of 1934.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST NEWS

Elder C. J. Buhalts, who has been here during our revival meeting, will again preach for us on this coming Friday and Saturday nights, May 12 and 13. His subjects for these nights will be respectively: "The Inner and Outer Man," and "The Return of the Jews to Jerusalem."

The public is inivted to come and hear these subjects discussed, using the Bible and the Bible only for full authority. Our young people's missionary society will have a meeting Sunday evening, May 14 at 6:00 p.m. And you are invited to come to this also.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Willis and baby of Thorsby visited Mrs. Willis's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wells and family, last week.

IN MEMORY OF MR. ANDERSON MARCUS

On Wednesday morning, May 3rd, the death angels visited the home of Mrs. Anderson Marcus and bore away her husband's loving spirit from this sinful world to the great beyond.

He has been in ill health for two years or more, but all was done for him that loving friends and doctors could do. He was 86 years old and has been a member of the church for 20 years or more. He bore his suffering and pain with the same patience and kindness that he always met the trials and hardships of his past life. We hated so badly to give him up, but we know that our loss is heaven's gain. And may God teach all of us to live a life so that we may meet him again some day.

We miss him. O we miss him. But the Lord knoweth all things best and carried him home to live with Him in that dear land of rest, where there is no pain or sorrow or grief any more. We all loved him dearly but Jesus loved him best and called him to that happy home where he shall forever more rest.

He leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife and nine children and a number of grandchildren; two brothers; one sister and a host of friends and relatives. He was laid to rest May 4th in the New Salem cemertery. The pallbearers were his grandsons. —Lera Bean.

JOHN CRAWFORD SAYS HIS VISION COME TRUE

John Crawford, negro, who claims to be somewhat of a profit, says that three months ago he had a vision in which he foresaw the destruction of the Helena storm. John says that when he saw the vision the trees were bare, but that the trees were to be green when the destruction came. He said he saw box cars blown over and piled upon each other. This prediction certainly came true at Helena.

Crawford said that shortly after he had the vision he told the following people about it and asked them to watch for it: Will Cox, Dave Easterling, Van Smith, Van Edwards, Will Edwards, and J. R. Hardy.

Crawford says that God has set in to make His people humble, and if it takes storms, earthquakes and destruction to do it, He will send them until His purpose is accomplished. And he says that when God sets out to do a job He stays with it until it is done well.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

The young people of the Clanton Methodist church will present a pageant in honor of "Mother" Sunday night, at 8 o'clock, May 14th.

The pageant will take the place of the regular Sunday night service. The young people cordially invite everyone to attend and extend a special invitation to those who are mohters and fathers.

SINGINGS AROUND HERE EVERY SUNDAY IN MAY

The many singing fans of Chilton County will have somewhere to go every Sunday during this month, and they will not have to drive far to get there. Nert Sunday comes the annual singing at Walnut Creek. This is an affair to which the people of that and adjoining communities look forward with much interest and anticipation. We sometimes refer to this gathering as Tom Jeff Marcus's day, because he is always there with bells on—especially around 12 to 1 o'clock. We would not have you infer that he goes there just for his dinner, but to say the least of it, we have never known him to leave just as they dismiss at noon.

Then the third Sunday comes around the time for the annual singing at Refuge, and they are going to have it this year as in former years, notwithstanding the county convention which comes off that day at Jemison. We presume that there will be plenty of singers to make both these events interesting on the third Sunday.

When the fourth Sunday in May is mentioned we always think of Providence. The annual Salem singing will be held there again this year on that date. Every place in the county always sidestracks all other engagements for this day at Providence, and the singings there for the past several years have been occasions of much interest to many people.

SINGING AT FITZPATRICK SECOND SUNDAY IN MAY

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that there will be an all day singing the second Sunday in May, 1933, at Fitzpatrick Crossing, 2 miles east of Elmore and 5 miles west of Wetumpka.

The Christian Harmony will be used.

MIMS WILL NOT MAKE RACE FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

Since the passage of the local bill providing for the election of a county superintendent of education of Chilton County by a vote of the people, Prof. William J. Mims, of Birmingham, former citizen of this county, has been considering making the race.

He made a trip to Clanton Wednesday of this week to take a look at the local situation. After he had made investigation of the matter he authorized the following statement:

"I find that my friend, W. T. Bean, has declared himself a candidate for superintendent of education in the forthcoming Republican promary, and that he has already gone to work canvassing among the people. My conclusion, therefore, is that I will not get in the race, as I prefer under the circumstances to decline the opportunity in favor of Mr. Bean, who is my lifelong friend."

SUPT. LAWRENCE

anyone from office. I have tried to do my own thinking and to follow the wishes of the respective communities and not the dictation of any individual in the discharge of my duties. I have recognized the authority of the school board and tried to execute their orders and keep their records as the law provides that I should do.

No doubt many other things will be said to reflect upon the administration and in order that you may know the facts and the motives back of any undue criticism, I think it proper and right to call your attention to a few facts. In the first place a splendid program had been launched previous to my administration. This had had necessarily called for much money. When I came into office there were outstanding obligations in the amount of over $20,000. At the present time the county school board only owes $5,000 and this is backed by more than twice that amount of cash in the bank and uncollected taxes. Just previous to my administration we only had about 300 children in high schools. Last year we had over 900 children in accredited high schools.

At the present time our schools are in a deplorable condition. This is not true of Chilton County alone, but of every county in the State of Alabama. We know that the present state adminisration has not been able for one reason or another to do anything but talk of a large indebtedness and spend money but not for schools. At the present time if the appropriations for schools were paid to Chilton County we would receive over $90,000. Out of this amount of money we would be able to meet every outstanding obligation and would have a nice sum in the treasury. In so far as the county government of schools is concerned we are in good shape but from the state point of view we are bankrupt.

As I stated above I shall not be able to see everyone of you personally, but I wish it known that I will appreciate the support of everybody. I am looking to my friends to represent my interest in the respective beats and I believe that you know the facts about this election at this time so well that you will be glad to do anything for me possible. I assure you that I will appreciate anything that you may do and if elected I trust that I can serve you in such a way that you will not regret your assistance.

Again assuring you that I will appreciate your support and asking that you be sure to attend the election on May 19, I am.—Fraternally yours,—B. Lawrence.

my entire time to the betterment of the schools; and I promise to give the most economical administration of the school affairs that lies within my power. It wish to say further that I will exert every possible effort to see that every white child in the county has an equal chance to obtain an education. I believe that all public money should be expended just as economically as if it were an individual's money. I believe that rigid economy should be practiced at all times, but not to the point of sacrificing the efficiency of the schools. Neither do I believe that economy should be practiced at the expense of the teacher nor the child, but no money should ever be wasted on useless impractical projects.

The primary will be held from noon to 5 o'clock on May 19th, and since the time until the primary is very short, it will be impossible for me to see but very few of the voters. I wish it were possible for me to see and talk with every one, but since I can not, I wish to say that if the opportunity does not afford me the pleasure to interview you, I want to take this means to most earnestly solicit each and every one's vote and influence.

I would like to insist that every Republican voter go to the election and cast his or her vote, according to his or her conviction; and then when the primary is over, let's all be satisfied and get behind the nominee on June 20th.

Very sincerely,
W. T. BEAN.

SPECIAL REPUBLICAN PRIMARY FRIDAY

MEMORIAL FOR REV. D. S. MARTIN

Will Be Dedicated At His Old Home at Equality In Coosa County

The family of Rev. D. S. Martin have decided to designate and set apart the old Bethesda church property as a permanent memorial to him. The property is a part of the old Martin family estate in Coosa County, near Equality. Many years ago Rev. Martin gave the land on which to erect the church. It was his home church at which he and his family worshipped many years. He was pastor of the church for a long period of time.

According to a statement of J. Mell Martin, of Clanton, old Bethesda will become a shrine to the memory of his sainted father throughout the future years. The place will be fully restored in every respect and will be set apart by the family when they wind up the estate of their father. The project will be operated under articles of incorporation, and carried to its full completion according to the conception of the members of the family. Arrangements will be provided for keeping the place in perfect order in the future.

When the plans and purposes of the family were announced with regard to the memorial to Rev. Martin, requests began to come in from every direction from friends of his, asking if it would be possible for them to have a part in helping to carry out the plans. While it is not the purpose of the family to solicit the aid of friends, it has been agreed that any friend who may request a chance to be identified with the movement will not be denied the privilege.

The program of restoration and rebuilding will be under way in a few weeks, it is stated. Completion of the work will be done some time this fall, after which a dedication day will be arranged. This will be a great day at which people from many parts of Alabama will gather to honor and to remember a man whose spirit of service and sacrifice meant so much to them during his long and useful life.

Mr. Cary Baker of Birmingham visited Posey Marcus and family in Clanton last Sunday. They attended the singing at Walnut Creek in the afternoon.

ON THE AIR

Through the cooperation of a number of local business men of Clanton, the outside world will have a chance to hear something about our city by means of a radio broadcast which will be made over WAPI at 8 o'clock a.m. each Wednesday and Saturday.

Everybody is asked to tune in on this station and hear what is said. It will be interesting, educational, and expressive of the advantages of Clanton and Chilton County as a place to work and to play, to live and to make a living.

Singings Sunday

There are three all day affairs next Sunday near Clanton. The county singing convention meets at Jemison in the school building. The annual all day singing will be held at Refuge, and the memorial service in the morning and the singing in the afternoon will be held at Providence, northwest of Jemison.

It is regrettable that a conflict in dates arose such as this, but it was practically unavoidable. Nevertheless, we trust that neither place will run out of singers, and we urge that every singer in the county try and attend one or more of these singings.

DEMOCRATS PICK LUTHER E. LITTLE

To Run For County Superintendent In the Election On June 20

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County Tuesday, Prof. Luther E. Little, of Clanton, was named as the Democratic candidate for Superintendent of Education of Chilton County to run in the election of June 20th. Mr. Little will oppose W. T. Bean or B. Lawrence, one of which will be nominated by the Republicans of the county in the special primary election Friday of this week.

Mr. Little was educated in the rural and high schools of Chilton County and Howard College in Birmingham. He holds a B. S. Degree from Howard College.

He has taught school for the past eight years, his experience ranging all the way from a one teacher school to work in the Chilton County High School.

In a statement accepting the Democratic nomination for County Superintendent, Mr. Little said Tuesday afternoon: "I expect to make the race purely on my qualifications, and desire to go higher in educational work. Between now and election day, June 20, I shall acquaint the people of the county fully with myself and my policies concerning our county educational progress for the future."

Preaching Saturday

An invitation is extended to all to attend preaching service to be held next Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the courthouse. The preaching will be done by Rev. William Black and Rev. Frank Cummings, Foursquare Church ministers.

Rev. William Black, an Irish evangelist, is from Los Angeles, and is general supervisor of all Foursquare branch church work. He is visiting all Foursquare churches in the United States and Canada.

Rev. Frank Cummings is from Kansas City, and is supervisor of all Foursquare churches of the Midwest district. He is visiting all Foursquare churches in this dictrict, with Rev. Black.

Rev. Black is a widely known evangelist, and has been connected with Foursquare work since its foundation.

After the service Saturday afternoon, announcement will be made concerning services at the Foursquare church on Sunday. Everyone is urged to attend.

Interests Of Schools Should Come First

To the Voters of Chilton County:

Since this is the last issue of the paper before the primary on next Friday, I wish to say just a few words to the voters.

It seems to me that too many people are considering the personal interest of the two candidates rather than the interest of the schools. I want to ask with a strong appeal that the interest of the schools be made the paramount issue in the election and not the interest of any individual. The personal interest of any candidate is nothing as compared with the interest of many thousand children. Therefore I want to insist that everyone lay aside every issue that is of personal interest to anyone except the interest of the schools. The one great thing to be considered in the promary is whose election will mean the more for the schools of the county. If the people believe that the election of my opponent is for the greatest interest of the greatest number of children, then I think that you should vote for him, and I will willingly submit to your verdict. After you have given the whole situation a full consideration, remembering that when I was superintendent of education before, I never had but about one-fourth the amount of money that has been available for the last several years, should you think that my election would be for the interest of the schools as a whole, I most earnestly solicit your vote.

I stand strongly for the following principles:

Every white child should have an equal chance to obtain an education.

Rural schools should receive the same consideration for help from the county on repairs and equipment as any other school.

I stand for rigid economy, efficient school work and courteous service.

If elected I'll devote my entire time to the betterment of the schools.

I wish to say in conclusion that I hope every one will make a little sacrifice to attend this election so that the wishes of the people may be on this question and all be satisfied after the primary is over.—Yours very sincerely, W. T. Bean.

All Voting Places Open From Noon to Five O'clock

Republicans Urged To Express Choice

The Republican voters of Chilton County are urged to vote in the primary Friday afternoon of this week, and express their choice between the two candidates for County Superintendent of Education.

The election will be held at the several polling places in the county from noon to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. The Republican candidates are W. T. Bean, former superintendent, and B. Lawrence, present superintendent. The one of these receiving the most votes in the primary Friday will be the Republican candidate in the special election on June 20th.

Every Republican in the county should vote for his or her choice in the primary Friday. The committee has ordered a primary in order that Republicans may have a chance to name their candidate. The Republican voters of course, are glad of the opportunity to do this, and they should respond by registering a one-hundred per cent vote in the primary.

Lawrence Explains Campaign Questions

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I thought last week when I wrote an article for the press that I would not write one this week, but I feel that in view of certain reports which have been circulated that it is only fair and just to you as well as myself that I give another article for your consideration.

I notice that one of the main things my opponent stresses is the fact that he stands for the equalization of educational opportunities for all white children. That is exactly the thing for which I have contended ever since I was first elected to this office. Previous to my administration only a few children had the privilege of attending high school. I feel that every child, regardless of where he lives, should have the same opportunity to complete high school work as another. As a result of this effort to secure equal opportunities we have more than three times as many children in high school now as previous to my administration. I do not know whether he means to go back to the old system of one high school in the county or not, but if so, it means that only a very few parents will be able to pay the board of their children in this school so that they might attend that one school. We now have five accredited senior high schools located at central points in the county and I feel that they are serving a good purpose. At least I get a bit of joy out of seeing some of the poorest children in the county graduate from these high schools every year. If you bring it down to one senior high school in the county, they will be denied this priviledge.

I feel that the county board of education has evidence of the fact that they have economized in every possible way. As evidence of this I stated in last week's issue that in the beginning of my administration we owed more than $20,000 but through economy we have been able to pay off that indebtedness and only have one warrant of $5,000 outstanding now which is due January 1, 1934. If the taxes were collected and the state would pay us the appropriations due the county, we would be able to meet every outstanding obligation and would have a balance in the treasury of around $50,000.

Some would believe that the bad state of affairs in our school system is due to bad management on the part of the county board of education or the county superintendent of education. If one will stop and remember that every county in the state is in a similar condition, he will readily see that it is due to the fact that the State of Alabama has failed to meet its obligations.

It has been stated furthermore in the press recently that Chilton County has the poorest school system in the state. The writer should give some reasons for this and when he begins to look at the facts he will see that Chilton County is far above many counties of the state of Alabama. We do not begin to measure with counties like Jefferson, Montgomery and Mobile, but if you will select rural counties, as our own, you will find from the records that Chilton County is far above the average. In fact, many of the counties had to close their schools last year before the schools of Chilton County closed. Many of them are so heavily involved that for a long time they will be unable to pay off their entire indebtedness, while Chilton County is solvent and can meet its obligations any time the State of Alabama will discharge its duty.

Another report is being circulated that I did what I could to keep the people for having an opportunity to vote on the nomination of a candidate. Every member of the executive committee knows that I was entirely submissive to their wishes. I told them they were capable and honest men and that I knew they would do the best thing and that I was willing to leave the matter with them. At no time have I questioned their motives.

If any other eleventh hour propaganda is spread, please remember the motive and consider well who it might be spreading same. I have tried to stay on a high plane and I am ready to sink or swim on that principle. I have been in the county all my life and you know me. More than that, you know my enemies.

Assuring every voter of the county that I will appreciate his or her support and pledging you my very best services if permitted to serve out my term, I am, Respectfully yours, B. Lawrence, County Superintendent.

KIWANIS CLUBS IN JOINT MEETING AT MITCHELL DAM

A Kiwanis meeting of wide importance will be held at Mitchell Dam tonight (Thursday). It will be an interclub affair made up of membership from the Kiwanis Clubs at Opelika, Auburn, Montgomery, Selma, and Clanton. Dinner will be served the guests of the Alabama Power Company Club, and a varied program will be rendered. The Selma Club is sponsoring the meeting.

HOME MAKERS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO MEET ON FRIDAY

The Home Makers Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Jean Wyatt Friday afternoon, May 19th. This is a regular monthly meeting of the class and will begin promptly at 3 o'clock. All members are urged to be there promptly on time.

TEMPERANCE RALLY SUNDAY NIGHT AT BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be an interdenominational temperance rally at the Clanton Baptist church next Sunday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. There will be some visiting speakers from Birmingham. Everybody is invited to attend.

Mrs. Martha Bradbury, Mrs. Sallie Bates, Miss Dora Bates and Mack Bates, of Montgomery, were visitors to Clanton last Sunday. They visited the grave of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Dorenda Dupree, at Providence and stopped for a while with Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jones and other friends in Clanton.

Election Does Not Legislate Anybody Out Of Supt. Office

W. L. Sanders Makes Explanation of Chilton County's Local Law Providing For Election of County Superintendent By A Vote Of the People

As there has been many criticisms in regard to the local bill that was passed in the recent session of the legislature, providing for the election of county superintendent by popular vote, I wish to state just where the bill originated and how it passed the legislature. You well remember in the first session of the legislature of this administration Mr. Pitts, our representative, passed a bill through the house providing for the election of county superintendent, but failed to get the cooperation of the Democrats to the extent that the bill was killed in the senate.

The extra session of the legislature also lapsed and the bill was still on the table. Now, when the last session of the legislature convened, I went to Mr. Pitts and asked him if he was going to get the bill through the legislature, providing for the election of county superintendent of education by the people, and he said, "If you will get Senator Duncan to put the bill through the senate, I will put it through the house." He also said that he had gotten the bill through the house once and that there was no use to get it through the second time unless he had some assurance that it would pass the senate.

Seeing the condition as it was, and realizing that the cooperation of the Democrats was necessary for the passage of this bill (just as the Democrats pass all laws of the state) I sought their cooperation by showing them that it was right for the superinendent to be elected by the people just as other officials are and that it was to the best interest of the schools. After assuring me their cooperation, I had the bill drawn up and I also had it published.

On Mr. Pitt's return from the legislature he asked me for several amendments on my bill, or rather, I would substitute his original bill. I made two amendments to the bill I had drawn up, but would not substitute Mr. Pitt's bill, because it did not provide for an election before July the first, 1933.

If the election was not held until 1934, the superintendent would be serving in the first part of the term for which he was appointed, and it would then be legislating him out of office, but since the election is being held before the beginning of the next term, which is July the first, 1933, no one is being legislated out of office, as some would have you believe.

No man can be legislated out of something that he is not into.

I want the people to know that this bill was not sponsored by any political ring, or faction. Neither was it sponsored to lift any man up or put any man down. It was sponsored and enacted into law for Chilton County for the reason that it was enacted into law for forty other counties in the State of Alabama, and that was for the best interest of the schools.

I am in a position to know that a superintendent that is elected by the people will get better cooperation than one that is appointed by the board, and for this reason I have done all I could to get the bill over and have no apologies to make for having done so.

In conclusion, I wish to say the executive committee deserves commendation for giving the people a primary in order that they might express their choice for the nominee to run in the election of June the 20th, 1933. There has been some criticisms about the bill not providing for a primary election. I felt that this provision was not necessary since the date of taking office was so close to the enactment of this law that we could not comply with the law regulating special primaries for special elections, but that the committee would take advantage of this short time and give the people a chance to express their choice for a candidate just as they have, and this we appreciate very much.

Now, voters, this election is in your hands, just as I have longed to see it, and I hope you will go to the polls on the 19th and vote for the best interest of the schools and not for the interest of any individual. Think for yourselves and not be pulled about by politicians who are seeking selfish interests. Your choice will be my choice.—W. L. Sanders.

DITCHING STARTS AT DAKE'S MILL

Thirty R. F. C. Men Under the Supervision of Town Authorities

The project of digging a ditch to drain the swamp areas in the vicinity of Clanton was begun Monday morning. Work was started with a crew of about thirty men just above the Dake old mill, in charge of Tom Wyatt as foreman.

Laborers for the job are furnished by the R. F. C. administration for Chilton County. The job is being carried forward under a plan that is being outlined by the city officials of Clanton.

A ditch twelve feet wide and of varying depth is being dug. From the starting point it will be brought up the swamp toward Clanton as far and as rpaidly as posible. It will have a uniform fall in the bottom so as to carry the water away as rapidly as is possible. It is hoped that the work may be carried on until the ditch is brought up to the point where the city sewer enters into the creek.

Many property owners along the swamp and people who live in the well as the citizens and officials of rural sections adjacent thereto, as Clanton are delighted at the start made. The hope has existed for many ed some day in order to bring about years that the swamp could be drain- a more healthful situation in the neighborhood.

ALABAMA VETS CUT FROM ROLL

266 of First 1,066 Cases Reviewed Are Denied Compensation

T. J. Calvert, regional director, veterans administration, today released figures showing that 266 Alabama veterans of the first 1,066 cases reviewed with the view of eliminating or reducing disability compensations, will be cut off entirely when the new regulations go into effect July 1.

The review of 6,253 compensation cases probably will be finished within the next two and one-half months.

Calvert estimated that between 3,000 and 4,000 of the present 6,253 service-connected veterans would be left on the rolls.

Of the first 694 cases reviewed, 490 received an average reduction of 43 per cent. These 490 veterans now are drawing a total of $20,534 each month, but under the new rates which go into effect July 1 they will receive $11,580.

In the light of recent dispatches from Washington, that veterans with war-connected disabilities will be shown every consideration, Calvert saw a possibility that some of these 266 men cut off entirely may be reinstated.

The service connections of some of the veterans in this group of 266 were broken because their disease existed before enlisting, the regional director said.

Calvert sometime ago announced that 14,235 of the 14,867 veterans in Alabama receiving disability allowances for non-service connected injuries would be cut off July 1. The remaining 682 will receive a monthly allowance of $20, one-half of their present check, or a total of $12,640 a month. At present the total amount paid these veterans is something over $220,000.

He also expressed opinion that the veterans hospital at Tuscaloosa will continue operation and that the regional offices in Birmingham will continue.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

FARM COMMODITY PRICES 58 PER CENT OF PRE-WAR

Farm commodity prices are 58 per cent of the pre-war average, says F. W. Gist, department of agriculture statistician, who reports that in order to bring farm commodity prices to a par with prices the farmer pays, the former would have to advance 90 per cent or nearly double what they are at present.

"The April 15 prices in percentage of the pre-war prices for such commodities as are grown in Alabama are set out below: cotton 40; hay, 52; hogs, 44; eggs, 48; chickens, 86; corn, 44; potatoes, 61; cattle, 68; butter, 73; average, 58.

"In comparison the index of prices of commodities which farmers buy and use in family and farm expenses are as follows: clothing, 102; furniture, 129; farm material, 143; equipment, 96; operating expenses, 109; building material, 129; fertilizer, 92; seed, 68, average, 111.

"It is seen, therefore, that the present average price of farm products in Alabama is 54 per cent of the average price commodities which the Alabama farmer has to buy. In order, therefore, to bring the farm commodity prices to a par with prices the farmer pays, the former would have to advance by about 90 per cent or nearly double what they are at present."

VARIABLE FIRE HAZARD

Montgomery, Ala., May 15. — The different degrees of security from fire losses existing among various tracts of woodland depend more upon the character of the base of the fire hazard than upon any other circumstance, according to the findings of the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. By the base fire hazard is meant the degree of prabability of loss as undiminished by any protective measures. Thus, in some sections a particular tract may be expected to burn over entirely every year. If the hazard is considered with relation to area only, for such a tract it would amount to one hundred per cent. On the other hand, a second area may reasonably be expected to have but one-twentieth of its surface burned. In such a case, the hazard would be but five per cent.

A great many things enter into the composition of the hazard. Among these are the character of the vegetation, the degree of dryness, the force of the wind and the carelessness of the persons in and about the woods. The efficiency of any protective system is shown by the extent the actual losses are reduced in comparison with the probable losses, without protective measures, as indicated by the hazard.

In some parts of Alabama the base hazard averages from year to year less than one per cent. This does not imply high efficiency of the protective measures, but merely that circumstances are such that there is very little likelihood of damage whether the woods are protected or not. In other parts of the state, however, the base hazard may be as high as seventy per cent. In such cases actual losses of but fifteen or twenty per cent indicate a substantial degree of efficiency of the protective measures.

GARDENERS URGED TO CONTINUE WORK

Auburn, Ala. — Gardeners should continue their planting work in order to be certain they will have fresh vegetables the year-round, said Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"It is time to plant more beans and at this season it will be found that pole beans are more productive than bush beans," he said. The Kentucky Wonder variety is suggested. He also suggested that more tomato plants be set.

In addition he advises gardeners to begin now to get land in good shape for the fall garden. Collards, cabbage, beets, and carrots should be planted the last of June in most parts of the state for fall harvest. Gardeners in the southern part of the state usually delay this planting until early July.

He said that tomatoes and other vegetables respond well to a side application of a quick-acting nitrogen fertilizer at the rate of about one pound to 100 feet of row. Those who are unable to secure commercial nitrogen should use chicken manure at the rate of about 1½ bushels to each 100 feet of row. Tomatoes usually need two applications, the first shortly after they are set and another about the time they are setting fruit.

Mr. Brown said that if other vegetables do not have a vigorous green color they should get an application of nitrogen as a side-dressing.

NEW FARM RELIEF OFFERS FARM AID

Auburn, Ala. — The rise in farm prices which should come as a result of the new farm relief bill passed by congress should aid in the rapid economic recovery of agriculture and help all lines of business, in the opinion of Prof. J. D. Pope, head of the department of agricultural economics of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

In explaining the measure briefly he said that it has three chief aims. They are to raise prices of farm products, to help adjust production to demand, and to alleviate the distressed farm mortgage situation.

"The bill contains three principal sections," he said. "They are (1) the plan for adjusting agricultural production and paying a benefit fee to farmers; (2) the plan for refinancing the farm mortgages; and (3) the provision for inflation of credit and currency.

"Under the first section the secretary of agriculture would enter into agreement with farmers to reduce their acreage and would pay a bounty on each bale of cotton, for example, raised on farms where the acreage was reduced according to the agreement," he continued. "Funds for paying the bounties to farmers who complied with their agreements would be raised by a tax on cotton spinners. This would give farmers a benefit similar to that received by manufacturers under the tariff.

"The second provides for the refinancing of present farm mortgages over a longer period with interest reduced to 4½ per cent," he explained.

"The third section is the so-called inflation measure, the aim of which is to raise prices. Since the general level of commodity prices is reciprocal of the value of money, this is made possible under this third section of the bill which provides several methods for use by the president. He can either expand the credit, issue new money, or cut the gold content of the dollar."

Prof. Pope said he believes the third section of the measure is responsible for increases which have already occurred in prices.

ALABAMA FARM LANDS PAY $4,639,000 AS TAX BURDEN

Farm lands of Alabama paid $4,639,000 tax burden in 1930.

This is reported by F. W. Gist, statistician of the department of agriculture, who gives figures showing that the farm real estate taxes, including state and county, increased from $1,755,000 in 1913 to $4,639,000 in 1930. "The average tax per acre has grown from 10c in 1913 steadily until it reached 25c in 1929 and the same again in 1930."

Mr. Gist shows that despite the rapid increase in tax rate per acre Alabama is the lowest in the east South Central group of states and compares with 42c for Kentucky, 47c for Tennessee and 64c for Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Duncan of Birmingham spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodson at Lay Dam.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford M. Manning

The choice of crops which each individual farmer must make is governed by somewhat the same general consideration in all part of the country. Attention might well be given to (1) the different groups of crops, their classification, (2) the factors which influence the choice of crops grown in the past, (3 and the choice of crops grown under present conditions, as to market and control of insects, etc.

Crops are roughly classed as (1) cultivated, or row crops, such as corn, cotton, and tobacco; (2) non-cultivated annual crops, such as oats, wheat and barley, and (3) sod or hay crops, such as clover, alfalfa and timothy. They are also grouped according to their botanical character, their duration and their use.

All life may be divided into the plant and animal kingdoms. The higher forms of these two groups are differentiated readily, but it is extremely difficult to distinguish between some of the lower forms. In the plant kindgom there are something over 230,000 different species and each species contains from one to many different varieties or strains.

In order to classify these numerous different plants, the plant kingdom has been divided into four main divisions, which are: 1. Thallophytes are the simplest form of plants of this group; are non-cholophyll-bearing and possess little or no moody tissue. To this group belong the bacteria, fungi and algae.

2. Bryophytes are plants having better organized bodies than those of the Thallophyte group. They are simple in structure, chlorophyll bearing

3. Pteridophytes are plants having true roots, stems, and leaves, but no flowers.

4. Spermatophytes are the seed-producing plants. Plants belonging to this group are considered the most highly organized in the vegetable kingdom. They have true-roots, stems, leaves and flowers.

The classes are divided into orders, the orders into families, the families into tribes, the tribes into generae, the genera into varieties. While many plant growth processes are not well understood, much is known today regarding factors influencing plant growth, which only a few years ago was shrouded in mystery. There is no other phase of crop production to which greater attention should be given than to the physiology of the plant and the response of the plant to its environment or to different treatments.

The history of plants will be next week's subject.

TWO GARDEN PESTS VERY ACTIVE NOW

Auburn, Ala. — Two garden pests which may be doing serious damage now are the bean beetle and the Mexican bean beetle, said W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The bean leaf beetle eats holes in the leaves and may be controlled by dusting with a mixture of two ounces of calucium arsenate or arsenate of lead to one pound of lime.

The Mexican bean beetle feeds on the underside of the leaves and may be controlled by spraying with a mixture of 8 tablespoonfuls of magnesium arsenate to three gallons of water. The bean beetle chews on the underside of the leaves and makes a netting effect. The dust or spray should be applied to the underside of the leaves.

Gardeners who are unable to obtain spraying and dusting materials may effect a measure of control by picking and destroying the first insects which appear.

2,000 CARS VEGETABLES SHIPPED FROM ALABAMA

Alabama farmers have to date this year shipped over 2,000 cars of vegetables to the eastern markets for consumption, reports Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture and industries. Strawberries and Irish potato shipments are much heavier this year than they were to the same date last year while cabbage are considerably lower than last season.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

This is fly swatting month—keep busy with fly traps, sprays and repellants.

Chlorinated lime and other chemicals will help in the germ and bacteria warfare this month.

Dairy cows should be carefully groomed and the long hairs should be clipped from the flanks and udders. Udders should be washed in a mild chlorinated lime solution.

Arrange this week for the annual Tuberculin test of the herd and the medical inspection of all dairy employees.

CANNING PROGRAM ARRANGED

A canning program is being arranged by the Alabama Relief Administration in cooperation with the Alabama Extension service, to provide food for the needy after the growing season. Although jars and cans may be procured with county R. F. C. funds for those families on relief, persons who have jars and bottles which they are not planning to use are requested to notify the local welfare office if they are willing to donate these. Some of the workers will be glad to call for these containers.

HOW TO FISH

Montgomery, Ala., May 15.—You can go back to your Greek and Latin if you want to prove that fly fishing is one of the oldest forms of catching fish for sport.

First mention of fly fishing was in Halieutica of Oppian, 169 A. D., which is more of a technical discussion than sportive, but contains suggestions as to tackle and describes some battles with large fish.

In the 15th book of Aelian's Natural History, written in the third century of the Christian era, there is a description of how the Macedonians caught fish with "feathers and wool." The first printed work on this subject was a small volume or pamphlet size printed in Antwerp in 1492 by the press of Mathis van der Goes. This later was translated into several languages.

In 1496 the "Treatyse of Fysshynge wyth an Angle" was printed by Wynkyn de Worde as a part of the second edition of the "Boke of St. Albans." This evidently was a complication from older manuscripts as "bokes of credence" are mentioned frequently in the text.

From that date to the present, other works, good bad and indifferent, have appeared from time to time dealing with the history of fly fishing, the fish taken and the parts that made up the angler's outfit.

Many persons have not taken up this method of fishing because they think it is hard to master. In 20 years of practical fly fishing, I have yet to meet a man who may be considered a master fly fisherman. But in spite of this, we have grown blissful ignorant of the finer points and caught fish.

Necessary equipment for this form of fishing consists of rod, reel, line, leader and lures which should be chosen with care so that each will work in harmony. The rod may be of steel or bamboo. Length should be from eight to 10 feet and weight from four ounces up. In selecting a rod it is necessary to obtain one with the proper "feel."

The weight of the reel should give balance to the fly fisherman's outfit and in selection of his line it is essential that size and weight match the rod. Single leaders of silk worm gut are best suited to this type of fishing. They may be from two to ten feet in length and test from two to 20 pounds. A small light fly requires a light leader and the larger flies a larger leader.

Lures may be artificial flies, bass bugs, pork rinds, miniature wooden minnows, and spinners in various sizes, shapes and colors.

In learning to cast, "strip" from the reel about twice as much line as the length of the rod. Grasp the handle of the rod in the right hand and with the left hand grasp the line between the reel and the first guide. With a smoothly accelerated motion raise the rod tip until it reaches a position just behind the head. This motion picks up the line and swings it in an arc that straightens out behind the caster.

Just before the line has reached the full extent of the back cast, reverse the motion of the rod tip. If these motions are correctly timed, the line will swing back before the caster in a rolling arc and it and the leader will fall in a straight line.

When proficiency in this has been obtained, try casting backward and forward. As the line swings backward, "strip" from the reel additional line. When the rod reaches the position that almost completes the forward cast, release the line that has been stripped from the reel and it will "shoot" through the guides thereby increasing the length of the cast. Continue the backward and forward cast, stripping additional line each time until the lure falls in the right spot.

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION

I hereby announce myself a candidate for Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Republican primary to be held on Friday, May 19, 1933. Your vote, influence and support will be appreciated.

W. T. BEAN,

(Paid political adv. by W. T. Bean, Clanton, Ala.)

NOTICE OF REPUBLICAN SPECIAL PRIMARY ELECTION

In accordance with resolutions passed and an order issued by the Republican County Executive Committee, in special called session at the courthouse in Clanton, on Monday, May 8, 1933, we, as chairman and secretary of said Committee, hereby call a special primary election to be held at the various voting places in Chilton County, Alabama, from 12 o'clock, M., until 5 o'clock, P.M., on Friday, May 19th, 1933, for the purpose of selecting a Republican nominee for County Superintendent of Education to run in the special election of June 20, 1933. All qualified Republican voters in Chilton County are invited to participate in this primary election.

This, the 9th day of May, 1933.

J. N. DENNIS, Chairman,
J. Z. MIMS, Secretary,
Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, Alabama.

Perry Gore Favors Bean For Supt. Ed.

Commends Republican Executive Committee For Calling Primary

To the Voters of Chilton County:

As the people know by this time, the Republican Executive Committee has called a primary or referendum to select a candidate for superintendent of education. This primary is called for Friday, May 19, 1933 from 12 o'clock noon to 5 o'clock p.m. Whoever we nominate in this primary will be opposed by a candidate of the Democratic party, presuming that they will nominate a candidate.

The primary coming first, it is important to the Republican party that we nominate a man who we feel that is not only qualified and will be to the best interest of the schools, but one that we feel will be elected in the final election, June 20, 1933.

Our party, in my opinion, has succeeded in Chilton County in the past because it has been a party run and controlled by members of our party as a majority and just as long as we continue doing this, our chances for continued success will be much better. Therefore, I want to compliment our Republican Executive Committee in leaving this nomination to the will of the majority of the Republicans of Chilton County, because I believe their verdict is the best that we can get. In this connection we all know that Mr. W. T. Bean appeared before the committee and spoke for a primary and stated that he did not want the nomination at the hands of the committee, but had rather run in a primary before the people. On the other hand some of the friends of Mr. Buford Lawrence around the courthouse were against holding a primary and some of them argued that a primary would be illegal and tried to throw numerous objections in the way of holding a primary, and you noticed in The Union-Banner dated May 4th there was a piece by Mr. J. Z. Mims, secretary and Mr. J. N. Dennis, chairman of the committee, stating the reasons why a primary could not be held, but I am glad to see that our Republican Executive Committee stood with the people and I believe that the majority of the people of Chilton County will think more of our committee by having done this. In mentioning this matter, I think it was due to the efforts of Mr. Bean and his friends in a large measure that we are to have a primary.

The schools are in a serious condition and it looks like times and conditions are improving slightly, but we all know that it is going to take hard work and a lot of economy and proper administration of the school affairs before we can have our schools run full time again. I believe that there has got to be lots of changes in the school system and the schools will have to reduce in their overhead expenses and give more benefit to the school child, and we all know that Mr. W. T. Bean pulled the schools from a three or four months term to seven months term with less than $50,000. I do honestly believe that forgetting any man and all issues that W. T. Bean is the proper man to bring the school system back as it once was.

I am sure there are some good things about our present superintendent, but it is my honest opinion that a good portion of the people of the county are opposed to his administration and I believe that a change at this time when it looks like there might be a chance for the school system to get better would help things a great deal, and I believe that Prof. Bean is in a position to get more corporation from the greater majority of the people of this county than Prof. Lawrence, and I believe that we should lay aside all prejudice and feelings in this matter and nominate Mr. Bean and I believe also if he is nominated he will be our strongest candidate to win in the Republican party on June 20th, 1933.—Yours for the success of our schools and our party, Perry Gore.

MAPLE SPRINGS

We are pleased to announce that we will be able to hold service in the new building Saturday and Sunday. There will be a working Thursday afternoon for the purpose of cleaning off the grounds and gathering up the debris from the yards.

The pastor is gratified over the many sacrifices that have been made on the part of the immediate community and other communities as well. Space will not allow us to mention the individuals who have shown an interest in the construction of the building.

We are giving a special invitation to any and all to the services next Saturday and Sunday at 11:00 o'clock. Especially would we like to have a good representation of the membership, because of the first service to be held in the new church building.

Those who may feel disposed to attend the working Thursday afternoon will please come early, because there is much work that needs to be done. Teams will be needed for the purpose of hauling the benches to the church, as well as lots of scrap lumber that needs moving.

We have a thousand feet of 2 x 8 10 feet gum for sale, and also three or four hundred feet of ship lap weatherboarding. The 2-inch will sell for $5.00 per M.; and the 1-inch will sell for $7.00 per M.—Pastor

Well, maybe if old Chief Powhatan were alive today he would get a laugh out of the way the pale faces have handled this country.

This marketing operation is beyond us. For instance, we heard the other day that there are traders on the Chicago Board of Trade who have made lots of dough by being short of wheat.

Ramsay MacDonald and M. Herriot have gone back home without putting anything over on Uncle Sam, but wait till he plays a return game on their home grounds.

When a man's throat has become inured to 100 proof wood alcohol, it is difficult to get him interested in decimal point beer.

Somehow or other we can't picture the old-fashioned farmer who works from sun-up until sun-down, getting very enthusiastic over the thirty-hour week.

It is reported that Italians are rushing the completion of harbor works in Albania and this is said to presage European trouble. Another reason why Uncle Sam should be careful about signing any consultative pact.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

In spite of the fact that Ramsay MacDonald and M. Herriot have gone back to Europe "feeling good" and the news dispatches are telling us that prospects are bright for a very successful world conference, it is not to be forgotten, as Will Rogers said, that the two European diplomats didn't "sign anything." In other words, it will not pay to be too optimistic as to what is to happen when the international poker game starts in June.

Every American hopes that something can be done to improve the world situation, but he does not want merely to improve the European situation, politically and economically at the expense of the United States. President Roosevelt made a good start when he clamped an embargo on the export of gold. The reason we know that it was a good move from the American viewpoint is that the European financiers were "shocked and grieved" over America's action to protect itself from the gold raiders.

But the European politicians have now swallowed, or at least concealed, their disappointment and have achieved a smiling countenance again. That it is the well known "poker smile" can be accepted without proof.

Americans are willing to make some concessions to get international finance stabilized again, so that the world trade can flow more smoothly. But in order to accomplish this they do not want the big American market thrown open to the unrestricted competition of the cheap labor of Europe. Neither do they want Uncle Sam tied up in any commitments that will involve him in all of the political squabbles of Europe. That is why most Americans view with grave doubt and suspicion all French suggestions.

Now by cancelling the war debt, leveling our tariff barriers, and entering the League of Nations through the back door, riding on a consultative pact, Uncle Sam could undoubtedly get an agreement that Europe would try to stabilize its money and junk a few cannon. But the results achieved would not be worth the American sacrifice. Let us have an agreement, by all means, but an agreement in which all nations will give as well as take. During the past decade and a half Europe has been willing to do plenty of taking but very little giving. No wonder therefore that some of our hard headed statesmen, not carried away by the enthusiasm of the moment, are doubtful of the results which can be obtained.

Senator Borah, for example, sees a perfect willingness on the part of Europe to permit us to postpone debt payments with a view to their ultimate cancellation but little disposition on the part of Europe to really disarm. Speaking of the world currency situation, Mr. Borah continues:

"The currency question is no different in my eyes than the disarmament situation. No spirit of concession is visible. It is well known that Great Britain has maintained for a long time what is called an equalization fund, which fund is used to depreciate the pound and dollar, thereby giving Great Britain material advantage in the world markets as against the United States. While the distinguished representative of Great Britain, Mr. MacDonald, was our guest, bent on a mission of reconciliation and readjustment, we are advised that this equalization was vastly increased. It also is reported that a part of this equalization fund is to be loaned to France. This also happened while France's representative, M. Herriot, was in America, likewise bent on a mission of amity and reconstruction. Both these European nations seem to be going forward in a determined effort to maniplate the currency so as to gain a decided advantage over the United States in trade. Without going into details, the situation is this: We are being urged that to take from the American taxpayer that which is justly his while our debtors are spending not only millions, but billions, for armaments and so manipulating the currency as to close the markets to American taxpayers. It is time there should be some reciprocity, not only in promises, but in actual deeds, in this matter of adjusting the economic affairs of the world. I am unable to find the slightest willingness upon the part of Europe to make any concessions whatever or really to exhibit any sympathy with the adjustment of these economic problems."

The American people, regardless of politics, have confidence that President Roosevelt will not barter away Uncle Sam's shirt to secure a European collar button. A hollow achievement at the expense of the United States will be worse than no achievement at all, as badly as the world needs economic rehabilitation.

THE CHEAP MONEY ISSUE

In commenting on the pick-up in the steel business, which everybody hopes is something more than a belated seasonal spurt, the trade magazine Steel said recently:

"Widespread and unmistakably indications of further improvement in iron and steel demand, followed by the general strengthening of commodity prices, released enthusiasm pentup during almost four years depression, revealing the strong underlying aspirations for quick recovery.

Srap rose so sharply last week that dealers began to avoid orders. Adjustments in foreign exchanges began to lessen foreign competition in pig iron, iron ore and ferro alloys. On practically every finished product, makers talked of impending price advances. And to find a volume of business comparable with that placed on their books during the week they went back to the spring of 1932."

One statement of some significance among those quoted above is that which points out that an adjustment of foreign exchange has lessened foreign competition in pig iron, iron ore and iron alloys.

For some time officials of steel inrustries have called attention to the fact that foreign competition with our local industries had become severe because of the cheapened currency abroad. Protectionists in the present congress and in the preceding one urged that something be done to prevent the raiding of our markets by producers in countries which were off the gold standard. With their cheap money and low wages these producers abroad could undersell us both in world and American markets, not only in steel but in many other commodities.

But the free traders blocked all action of the kind. They adhere to the archaic theory that tariffs are immoral and that the Japanese coolie ought to have the same right to sell his product in the American markets as the American worker himself. As a result of this inaction on the part of congress the cutuation with American producers continued to grow worse and unemployment steadily increased.

It was not until the administration clamped on its gold embargo and cut loose the dollar in European exchanges that things began to look up. With European money debased, the cutting of the value of the American dollar abroad tended to equalize the situation. The result on the steel industry is apparent in the statement above. But unless can be stabilized all over the world, there will be further depreciation of money abroad and a world-wide trade war.

Wouldn't it have been better in the first place to have nullified the effect in our own market of cheap foreign currency by tariff adjustments in the United States?

ENTANGLED IN EUROPEAN DIPLOMACY

President Roosevelt has "consented to the inclusion of the United States in a consultative pact to implement the Kellog anti-war treaty."

This revolutionary change in American foreign policy has been adopted, it seems, with the objective of bringing the French and British into agreement with the United States on disarmament and currency management.

The phrase "consultative pact" is a euphemism. It seems to mean nothing more than that the United States, when war in Europe is threatened, will join with the European powers in a consultation regarding what is to be done to keep the peace. That looks harmless enough. Consultation in that sense is, in fact, a routine of diplomacy. When war threatens it is expected that the powers not immediately concerned will use what are called their good offices in mediation.

It may be taken for granted that if that were all the United States is now asked to pledge itself to do the offer would be worth nothing for purposes of bargaining with England and France. They do not want good offices. They want understandings such as existed, for example, between England and France in 1914.

A lot of people in England in the spring of 1914 thought that Britain's understanding with France called for nothing more than consultations. The English public did not realize that French and British military and naval experts had committed their countries to joint action and that British and French diplomats had complete understandings regarding the scope of their joint responsibilities in a European war. There were momentary doubts about English participation toward the end of July, 1914, but the commitments had gone too far to be repudiated. England awoke to find herself at war.

It will be said that the pact now proposed cannot lead to a similar result, but what little can be learned of the detailed proposals for consultation is not reassuring. If a war is started in Europe the United States is to determine which country is the aggressor and thereupon disclaim any neutral rights to trade with the country found guilty.

The probability is that the next war will be the logical consequence of the treaty of Versailles. Some group of nations sooner or later will attempt to kick over the terms imposed upon the vanquished. When that war is declared, who is the aggressor? Is it the nation which imposed the unlivable terms or is it the nation which seeks to regain its former position? That is the question which the United States will be called upon to answer.

The American people may think they can accept the sceheme without being entangled by it and committed by it to armed action in the future, but the chances are overwhelmingly against avoiding the next major war if the pact is entered upon. When our government itself has formerly declared a combatant nation the aggressor, what excuse can we have for refraining from participation in the punishment of the wrongdoers? If it is altogether certain that in such war France will be our ally, will not our army and navy lay plans at once for cooperation with France? And will not those plans, of themselves, involve us still more deeply in European intrigue?—Chicago Tribune.

Moon Man's Birthday

This week is a bit out of the ordinary for The Man in The Moon. He's having a birthday. No, not my personal birthday, but one for the Moon Man. This little old column is two years old this week. The first time it appeared was in the issue of May 21, 1931. During that time I've had my ups and downs—mostly downs—but I've had a lot of fun out of it. Some of the time I managed to scramble back to safety again. If the articles have done any good, I'm glad, and I hope they have done no harm. If you liked them, I'm glad of that, too, and if you didn't like them you had the opportunity to say so, or to ignore them altogether. With next week's issue, we start a new year. I hope my readers get as much fun out of it all as I do. And always remember this—if you feel like commenting at any time, please do so. Brickbats or bouquets—makes no difference—I'll be glad to have your comments. And I'll promise this: If it's a bouquet, I will enjoy it, of course. But if it's a brickbat I'll try to dodge it, and try to wiggle out of any tight places I may get in, just like the politicians do. I've learned that much from them. They're all good at it. Well, wish me luck!

Just Riding Around

On last Sunday morning I started out for a little spin, having made up the trip with the boss, and then another boss—my better half—chirps up and says she wants to go along, too. Well, what could I do? I couldn't afford to refuse—you know how it is. Some say lots of the intuition of women, but I think it must be more suspicion than intuition. Any way, we all went, and it was a most pleasant trip to Cullman. There were quite a few surprises on the way, too. In several places I saw coal veins cropping out along the side of the road—nothing to do, if you should want to stop and build a fire, but just take a pick and dig the coal right out of the side of the bank. By the look of things, if the country up there should catch fire, it would burn and burn, no telling how long. And there were the sliding rocks to be seen. Signs are posted, to warn travelers of these great slabs of rock, some of which appear loose and apt to slide onto the highway at any time. Cullman County is a great strawberry region, too, and we saw numbers and numbers of people picking and preparing the fruit for market—and on Sunday, too. Seems that Sunday is just another day with them. Many other interesting things were to be seen. And, too, I saw an old friend, Felston Mullins, who was raised near Jumbo. Felston is principal of Fairview High School, about 11 miles from Cullman. A nice trip, and I hope to go there again, some time.

'Bout Face

No matter how anyone may feel toward the army of "bonus marchers" beseiging the national capitol, their action doesn't seem to be getting them anywhere. It got them nothing last year, and about the same is the result, so far, this year. But that isn't the point I set out for. The Montgomery Advertiser, "good old Grandma," has certeainly been through the round-house insofar as her opinion on the question is concerned. Last year, when the "army" was not allowed all they asked for, and when Mr. Hoover ordered their rioting suppressed, (having to use force), the Advertiser mourned to high Heaven for the lot of the "poor veterans." "Grandma" pled their case with tears in her eyes as big as lemons. Oh, how Mr. Hoover was mistreating "the poor fellows." But what about this new "bonus army?" Now the boot is on the other foot. Now the Advertiser yells one big yell: "Foolish!" Maybe so—maybe not. But, foolish or not, it is no more foolish than that last year, when the Advertiser was pulling for them so. And it's a funny show to watch "Grandma" doing a percet "'bout face" above it all. And I've learned long ago that it's a pretty safe rule to view any question just like the Advertiser DON'T. This rule will not lead you wrong many times.

What—No Job!

While we're on this bonus army business we might as well finish it. This new outfit up there at Washington worrying the government officials doesn't smack of soldiers so much. I've heard some rumor that about half of those fellows were not soldiers, but "red" agitators. Now I believe it stronger than ever. A few days ago President Roosevelt offered to help them by offering them jobs in the reforestation project, at a dollar a day and their board and clothes. Did they take it? Not on your life! They thumbed their noses at the offer. Now, I say again, that doesn't sound like soldiers. When in the U. S. Army the soldiers received a dollar a day and their board and clothes and did hard work, with untold danger for good measure. But these fellows refuse the same pay for no harder work and much less danger. I think it was a nice offer that the president made them, and that they have refused is enough to arouse strong suspicion that the rumor about "red" agitators may be fact after all. Good soldiers would have jumped at the chance of a job, but "reds" don't want jobs and will not have them.

How Old Is She

I know you have heard the expression: "You can't tell a woman's age by looking at her." Maybe not. But here is a clipping I noticed recently, which gives some light on how to judge a woman's age. It might be called "the kissing method." Here 'tis. If she wants to be kissed, but is shy about it—16 years. When she wants to be kissed but says she doesn't—18. When she wants to be kissed, but says her mother and dad won't let her—20. When she wants to be kissed by the RIGHT man—23. When she wants to be kissed—just kissed by a man—26. When she wants to be kissed, but says men are slow—28. When she begins to tell about the men who have TRIED to kiss her—35 and up. You might try that system out some time and see how it works. But never tell who passed the recipe on to you, or I might not survive. They say it's a secret.—Man in the Moon.

STRONG PLEA FOR EXPENSE REDUCTION

A strong plea for the retrenchment of public expense, in the nation, the state and the small community, is made in the current issue of the National Republic, by Samuel B. Pettengill congremman for Indiana, in a convincing article entitled "Economy and the New Era." In part, Congressman Pettengill says:

"The gentle art of plucking financial feathers from squakless geese has never been improved upon—from the standpoint of the pluckers. It has become the canon of statesmanship and the program of politics. Every new tax revenue scheme is first examined to see whether it squares with this principle. Those who vote the taxes ask: How many feathers How many squaks? If it is believed that the squaks will equal the feathers some other plan is adopted.

"But as every period of depression, since the time of Job, has been productive of reflection, we now look with a new interest upon our featherless goose and wonder how he got that way.

"It is in the field of federal revenue that this art has been carried to perfection. State, county, and city taxes can scarcely be raised a cent in the hundred without hearing from the geese. Even at that, during the past decade, the geese have been so hypnotized by the magicians of an 'unending prosperity' that they very largely kept their squawks while losing their feathers. In fact, beginning at the end of the war they marched to the court houses and city halls and begged to have their credit pledged on new roads, bridges, sewers, pavements, school houses, etc. They only asked that pay day be deferred by a bond issue. Now they again are marching to the court houses—squawking.

"I hold no brief for public officials. They did their full share during the jazz decgde. But let us be honest about it. No one stays in public office long if he runs counter to public opinion. The 'Watchdog of the Treasury' has nearly always been a courageous and unpopular man. We now blame those who voted out the money and demand 'retrenchment,' but it is likely that they would have created these enormous tax burdens and bond issues which must now be paid with sweat and blood if their constituents had protested against them? We know they would not. So let us tell the truth at least to ourselves, and all take a fair share of whatever blame exists. It is repentance and not looking for a goat that must precede salvation.

"Fundamentally the cost of government is not a question for tax gatherers but for taxpayers. That responsibility can not be shifted under our form of government. The word 'democracy' says that very thing. When it is shifted, if ever, there will be no democracy—no self-government.

"Eternal vigilance is the only price of safety. Government does not run itself. A political perpetual motion machine has not been invented. We must recur to that wholesome truth expressed by William Penn some 250 years ago that 'Government is a clock and must each day be wound anew.' No device, no invention of political mechanics, will save us from saving ourselves. Taxpayers who have figured 'verhead' in their own business down to the last two inches of a lead pencil practically abdicated the responsibilities of citizenship during the jazz decade. Pay day has come. Something for nothing hasn't worked. It never has. It never will.

"It is in the field of federal revenue, however, that the ancient art of collecting the most tax with the least grumbling has worked the best. This has been due to many causes; the immense difficulty of following the dollar in the labyrinth of federal bureaucracy, the distance of the goose from the plucker, and the various anesthetics which have induced men to believe that they do not contribute to the federal treasury, and therefore, why worry? 'Let George dot it.' Congressmen have boasted that they never voted against an appropriation, and never voted for a tax. They have retained their seats year after yer."

TARIFF BARGAINING

Some very faint idea of the troubles Secretary of State Cordell Hull is going to have in his efforts to work out trade and tariff agreements on an international scale can be ascertained by the action of France in "agreeing" to a tariff truce from the present time up until the world economic conference. France agreed to the truce, but attached a reservation in the shape of a safeguard clause in which she reserves the right to boost tariff duties to offset any declines in the American dollar. Moreover she gives indications of using this right. In other words, France agrees to the tariff truce so long as it is good for France, but will not observe it if the observation is not good for France.

This is only the beginning. England and Argentine have violated the "new deal" by another trade agreement. Mr. Hull is going to find European nations decidedly selfish when it comes to tariff agreements. Mr. Hull himself is what is commonly called a low tariff man, and belongs to the old school which adheres to the policy as a matter of principle. But European nations have no theoretical convictions on the tariff. They do whatever is best for their own situation.

Americans who still have their feet on the ground will continue to hope that our representatives in the world conference will not let theory run away with national interest. Any world agreement should be a matter of give and take and Uncle Sam should not be required to do all the giving.

The French are doubtless right in reserving the privilege of protecting themselves against a devalued dollar. Uncle Sam would have been much better off if he had, months ago, taken action to protect his industrial workers and farmers against cheap foreign currency.

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Ninety Cents Here; $3 In Iowa

About a week ago the Clanton Berry Growers shipped a car of strawberries from which the growers received 90 cents a crate. "I wonder what these berries will cost the man who eats them," Dief said to himself as the car was being loaded. His next thought suggested a way he could find the answer to his question. A little note was put in one of the cups asking the party who bought it to write back and tell what it cost him. Monday Dief received an answer to his note. It was from a man in Clinton, Iowa. He said he bought the berries two quarts for a quarter. The farmers who grew those berries here got 90 cents a crate, the people who ate them in Iowa paid $3 a crate for them.

Jemison Shipped 29 Cars

H. H. Hayes, business agent of the Jemison Berry Growers stated while in Clanton Tuesday that his association has shipped 29 carloads of strawberries this season, and almost as many have been sold in smaller lots. "We haven't quit yet," he said. "I sold over 200 crates this morning, and we did better on them than we did on some of our car shipments."

1,439 R. F. C. Workers in County

According to a report from the office of Miss Austin, there were a total of 1,439 workers engaged on the R. F. C. employment plan in Chilton County last week. This includes the men employed on public roads, cemeteries, and other projects, as well as the women engaged in sewing. The total payroll expended through this means last Saturday for the week's work was $2,575. The men engaged in the work were employed from one to three days each during the week.

GOOD NEWS FOR NAVY

In spite of all the talk about international commitments to do one thing and another, some of which, it is hoped, may be successful, it is good to know that Uncle Sam is not going to let his insurance policies lapse. And one of the best of these policies against disaster from without the United States is the navy. According to announcement at Washington there will be included in the gigantic public works program an appropriation of $46,000,000 to start the work of constructing thirty warships, which are badly needed to bring our navy up to the strength agreed on in the London naval conference. As a sort of balance to this there has been a cut of $55,000,000 in the appropriation for the Navy Department.

According to these present plans, the sum is to be expended on twenty destroyers, five light cruisers, four submarines and one aircraft carrier. Certainly even the most ardent pacifists cannot claim that this program is to any extent jingoist. They were very proud of the accomplishments of the London treaty and ought therefore not object if Uncle Sam builds ships so that he may live up to the provisions of this treaty.

The need of a defensive navy in the present troubled state of world affairs, and the reasons for this need are so plain as to require little explanation. In addition to increasing protection for Uncle Sam, the expenditure of this amount of money will create employment, not only in the American navy yards, but in many other parts of the United States. Certainly no part of any public works program could be carried out to greater real advantage to the country.

The naval construction plans call for the expenditure of $230,000,000 in the next five years to bring our navy up to treaty strength and in the meantime, if the nations of the world unexpectedly decide to disarm, the program can be revised. As Secretary of the Navy Swanson puts it:

"This contemplated program could not be objected to by pacificists, as construction would be stopped if the conference decided against the present-size navies. Beginning construction on thirty ships would afford considerable employment and would merely be placing the United States on a parity with other naval countries."

The reason we know that the president's embargo on gold was a good thing for Uncle Sam is that France, England and Germany greeted the move with "pained surprise."

Arattlesnake appeared recently at fashion- If Uncle Sam agrees to a consultative pact and goes into a football huddle with Europe, all he will get out of it will be a lot of wrong numbers.

A rattlesnake appeared recently at fashionable Revere Beach near Boston. How do they get that way on 3.2 per cent?

J. Pierpont Morgan is going to Washington to testify before a senate committee and the capitol will be lucky if J. P. doesn't leave with a first mortgage on the dome.

The White House denies as "too silly for words" the report that President Roosevelt will go to Europe to attend the sessions of the world economic conference. The White House doubtless has not forgotten that the last time an American President attended a world conference in Europe the results were not very propitious either in Europe or the United States.

Reports from the Orient are to the effect that foreign trade between Manchukuo and other nations of the world, including the United States, has increased considerably since the Japs set up a stable government there. This hardly justifies the views of some of our own internationalists who want to put an embargo on shipments to Japan and so risk a war in order to unsettle Manchuria all over again.

CHS Ink Drops

(Dan Smith)

It would be rather appropriate to open this column this week with a farewell song, but since I am no songster I will refrain from inconveniencing my readers. This is the last column of Ink Drops that I will write for this school year. Today ends the last days of real school. Tomorrow night, Friday, the Commencement exercises will be held and the doors of dear ole C.C.H.S. will be closed to school until next September. I want to take this humble opportunity to thank all those with whom I have had the pleasure of cooperating in school and to wish them a fond farewell. Especially do I want to show my appreciation for the wonderful services our dear teachers have given me. I will always cherish memories of them. And I speak for the entire student body when I say "Farewell till we meet again and good luck."

The following students have had the honor of being the most intellectual in their respective classes. These students have made the highest averages for the past school year; Junior, I, Annie Mae Clements; Junior II, Paralee Henson; Junior III, Joe Hall Johnson; Senior 1, Wade Alford; Senior II, Dan Smith.

Last Sunday, May 14th, the Commencement sermon was delivered at the Baptist church by the Rev. R. P. Cochran. This was a most impressive sermon and we hope that of those who heard it, those members of the graduating class, will realize some good from it. They seemed to have an air of royal splendor about them as they marched down the aisle and stately took their seats.

At the chapel period on Monday of this week the traditional ceremony of the Seniors leaving their seats and the Juniors occupying them was simply, but impressively carried out. Margaret Jones, president of the outgoing Senior class, presented the class key with a short speech to Janet Sumner, the president of the Junior class, who in behalf of her fellow students thanked the Senior class and promised to carry on the dignity, loyalty and honesty that the outgoing class had bestowed upon this school during their existence here.

The new fence which is being erected around the ball park certainly adds a touch of beauty, should I say so, to the school grounds.

Here are the returns on the Tennis Tournament sponsored by the Tennis Club at the high school: The winners of the men's doubles was the fast team of Jesse Frank Foshee and James Tiffin. The runner up was the team of Coach Walker and Bill Simpson. Miss Sarah Colley and Bill Simpson were the winners of the mixed doubles and the runner ups were Mary Lou Tiffin and Carl Jones.

Don't forget the Senior Class night tonight at the high school auditorium. And folks, the program on tonight is to be different, and I don't mean maybe, from any other class night program which has been presented at this school. Tomorrow night is the big night. Graduation exercises will be held tomorrow, Friday night, May 19th, at 8:00. Remember if you attend you will have the rare privilege of hearing Dr. J. A. Keller, past president of the Alabama Education Association.

The memorial that the Senior class of 1933 is leaving their dear ole Alma Mater certainly speaks well of their untiring efforts and spirit of loyalty to their school, to their class, to their fellow students and to their facutly. Drop down to the school house sometimes and gaze upon this monument which will keep afresh the pleasant memories of the Senior Class of 1933. A unique feature of this memorial is that the names of all the members of the Senior Class and the faculty will be sealed up in a fruit jar and cemented into the center of one of the posts.

What will the Senior Class of 1934 leave to their dear beloved Alma Mater?

I wonder upon what lucky and deserving student will be bestowed the high honor of being presented the Key of Honor? Who will it be?

Miss Kendrick and the entire Senior II Class want to publicly thank Jarrell Burdette for his splendid services he so unselfishly and kindly gave them. Thank you, Jarrell. And they want to thank all those who took part on the program or helped in any other way to make this event a success.

Tomorrow night the doors of the Chilton County High School will close and another Senior Class will be launched out into the world to try their hand at the game of life. I wonder if they have stopped and thought of the responsibility and duties which will now rest upon their shoulders. Will they continue to show that untiring spirit of work and make a name for themselves? They will not have the guiding hand and spirit of their teachers to rely upon and to seek aid from as they have in their years as students. Remember, that it is not the number of times that a man keeps from failing in life that counts, but it is the number of times he can come back after a failure.

So farewell, fellow students and dear teachers. It has been a pleasure to serve you or at least attempt to serve you in this humble way. Again I want to thank all my teachers who have so unselfishly helped me in my struggle.

I'll be seeing you next year.

CORINTH-SHADY GROVE SINGING SOCIETY MET

Corinth-Shady Grove Singing Society met at the home of E. L. Jones Sunday afternoon, May 14, at 2:00 o'clock. The singing was called to order by Archie Jones, chairman. The first song was followed by prayer, led by A. M. Jones. The directors for the afternoon were: Archie Jones, I. D. Huett, A. M. Jones, S. M. Yates, Raymond Jones and Herman Dubose. Mrs. W. G. Pratt was pianist.

The singing was excellent and was enjoyed by a large crowd. We were very glad to have a number of visitors present, and hope they will come again.

The society will meet at Shady Grove the fourth Sunday, May 28th, at 2 o'clock. All singers and lovers of music are given a hearty invitation to meet with us each second Sunday afternoon at Corinth and each fourth Sunday afternoon at Shady Grove. We use Singers Choice and Songs of Praise No. 1. The singing was dismissed with prayer by N. J. Jones.—Mabel Jones, secretary.

COOPER NEWS

Last Sunday morning, May 14, two truck loads of people left Cooper to go to Wylam to attend an all day singing and preaching at eleven o'clock. The preacher for the hour was Rev. A. L. Nichols. I know I can speak the sentiment of all the 53 in number, that the sermon alone was well worth the trip. It seemed like being back at Chestnut Creek church, where he has worked so faithfully and won so many friends.

His sermon was from II Tim., Paul's last word before Nero cut his head off. The most wonderful sermon I have heard in years. The house would not hold one-half the people, and the most wonderful dinner I have ever seen. We all know that Bro. Nichols came down here to run a revival. He had a good size (smoke house) I would call it, to preach in, and the people all over Chilton County came to hear him, and he said then that if the people of Chestnut Creek church would build him a church he would fill it up.

That got the people busy and they built a church that will seat 2,000 people, and he was as good as his word. He served 2 years as pastor and on account of the distance from his home and 4 to 5 operations in his family he had to give it up, but Cooper gives him the credit of having our fine church and its large membership. The singing in the afternoon was the best I have heard in a long time. I know everybody enjoyed the trip enough that we all want to go back some time.—J. B. Jones.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mr. J. Wiley Smith take this means of expressing their sincere thanks to friends and neighbors in Clanton and vicinity for the many expressions of kindness and sympathy in their sorrow at the death of Mr. Smith.

The many friends of County Agent C. E. Stapp, are glad to see him about his business again, after being confined to his home during last week. He has about completely recovered from his tonsil operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Randall of Nashville have returned to their home after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Farley.

Prof. Earle Thomas reports that the schoolhouse at Vermont is being repainted by R. F. C. laborers; and that the grounds at Baker School are being improved.

Mrs. C. E. Stapp returned to her work in Gadsden last week, after spending a few days with her husband while he was sick from his tonsil operation.

Smiff—Say, old man, what makes you so skinny?
Bjones—I worry.
Smiff—What do you worry about?
Bjones—About getting so skinny.

"Don't you think Mr. Chugwater suffers from too high an opinion of himself?"
"I don't think he suffers. He seems to enjoy it."

Evelyn—Did you tell the reporter in confidence that your engagement was a secret?
Edythe—Yes, and the mean thing, he never put it in the paper at all.

Concord-Billingsley

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Everybody come and be with us. Services at 11 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Clarence Williams spent the night Saturday with his cousin, Mr. Porter Williams.

Storm Toll Is 250

Livingston, Tenn.—The seventh of a series of major tornadoes battering the south since March has raised the total of spring storm fatalities above 250 by killing at least 54 persons in the Cumebrland Valley of Tennessee and Kentucky.

Reports of midnight twisters that bowled over houses, uprooted trees and left behind them a scene of destruction resembling a battle field listed 20 dead in the Beaty Swamps section of Overton County, Tennessee, Wednesday, 16 in the vicinity of Tompkinsville, Ky., near Russell Springs, Ky., two near Columbia, Ky., and two at Lebanon, Tenn.

Scores were injured and roads in the Cumberland foothills were choked with trees and debris. Heavy rains and hail storms hampered rescue work. Livestock as well as humans were killed. The injured were cared for in the larger Tennessee towns and a hotel was used for a temporary hospital at Russell Springs.

The spring storms have come in fitful bursts that reaped destruction from Louisiana to the Carolinas and from Texas to Illinois.

Against The Repeal of 18th Amendment

The Steering Committee of the Alliance Against Repeal of the 18th Amendment met Thursday afternoon and made plans for perfecting the organization throughout the state. Already most of the counties of the state have set up committees that are projecting the program against repeal into the local communities and precincts. Within two or three weeks every county in Alabama will be well organized. This statement is given to the press on instruction of the state steering committee.

Alabama is dry and will remain dry. We expect to fight to the bitter end every influence and effort of the subsidized press, the brewers, the distillers and their greedy efforts to drench our state and other states with intoxicating liquors by repeal of the 18th Amendment. The Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Disciples of Christ and other denominations, the W. C. T. U., the anti-saloon league, the council of allied youth, missionary societies and other organizations that oppose intoxicating liquors have joined hands and will unflinchingly fight the battle against the devastation that inevitably comes with alcohol. The religious and moral forces of the state make no apology to the brewers or distillers or their representatives or sympathizers for their positive and aggressive stand on this moral question. The debauching scourge of alcohol, the wrecking of homes, the destruction of the bodies, minds and souls of human beings, present a great moral question and not a political one. The religious forces of Alabama will not turn over their children to the avarice and ravages of the brewers and distillers under the threat from these human debauchers that this is a party or political question. When did the corrupt, greedy, conscienceless brewers and distillers become better judges of a moral question than the ministry and the religious church-going circles of America.

The alliance against the repeal of the 18th Amendment has set May 20th as the day for general organization meetings in every county in Alabama. From May 20th on, the battle will be carried to the people in every section of the state with every available power and agency at the command of the alliance. The drys of Alabama will never stop fighting until the attack on the 18th Amendment is repulsed and until birthright of the children of this nation to physcical, mental and spiritual health and happiness is permanently secured.

REYNOLDS OFFER TAXPAYERS HELP

In Filling Out Blanks For the County Board of Review

Editor Union-Banner:

Notice is now being published in the papers advising taxpayers of the county that in order to get reductions in their assessments that objections must be filed with Akins I Collins, Tax Assessor, on or before the last Monday in May, which is May 29th, and that these objections will be heard on the first Monday in June.

Last year many people entitled to reductions in taxes failed to properly file their objections and I want to urge that every one entitled to relief from oppressive taxes should file their objections in writing with the Tax Assessor promptly. The objections cannot be considered by the Board of Review unless filed on or before May 29th, and it is only necessary that the taxpayer set out the description of each item of property and his reasons for making objections to the assessed valuation of his property. Blanks for this purpose are available at the probate office and if you desire to get a reduction in taxes or file objections to the valuation now placed on your property, I will render you all assistance possible in preparing this blank.—Yours respectively, L. H. Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones and children of Florence spent the week end here with relatives and friends.

Mrs. W. P. Lakeman of Lay Dam was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

Vaudeville Show Here Next Week

Steed's variety Vaudeville shows will be at the Wadesonian Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next week, May 24 and 25. This vaudeville will feature E. G. Russell, world's premier lightning artist; Princess Astrola; Freddie Walsh and Bud Russell, famous comedians with blackface acts; Prof. Mahera, master magician. There are five big acts of vaudeville, in connection with the picture "Red Headed Woman," and there will be no advance in price of admission. On Thursday night a Shetland pony will be given away. The show is being sponsored by a number of local merchants and business men.

ISBELL QUITS POST; DEMOCRAT GETS IT

James C. Smith To Be Named U. S. Attorney For Northern District

Washington, May 5—John Isbell, of Fort Payne, United States attorney for the Northern District of Alabama, has resigned and will be succeeded by James C. Smith, of Birmingham, it became known Friday.

Isbell succeeded C. B. Kennamer when the latter was appointed Judge of the Middle District a little more than two years ago.

There is no doubt of the appointment of Smith to the office, he has the recommendation of both Senators Hugo Black and John H. Bankhead, and was approved promptly by the Department of Justice when his name was proposed. Smith, although a Democrat, was one of the assistants to the district attorney for the Northern District from 1920 to 1925 and made and excellent record. He is a supporter of both Senators but has been particularly close to Senator Black.

In this transfer another Republican will be succeeded by a Democrat as in Federal office in Alabama Mrs. Jewel and Isabella.

"BACK STREET"

One of the outstanding screen dramas of recent years is booked for showing at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton on Wednesday and Thursday, May 17 and 18. The picture is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

The picture is "Back Street," adapted from the widely read novel by Fannie Hurst, with Irene Dunne and John Boles in the featured roles. It is directed by the master of human, domestic drama, John M. Stahl.

"Back Street" tells the story of a woman who considered no sacrifice too great to make in the name of love, and a man who gave freely of his love but at the same time retained his social position as a husband and father. The story covers a span of 20 years, and is said to give an especially affecting picture of the trials of two people whose love is ouside the law, notwithstanding its sincerity and depth.

"Is a chicken big enough to eat when it is two weeks old?"
"Certainly not."
"Then how does it live?"

McDANIEL-TEASLEY AMENDMENT

There are many reasons why the voters of Alabama should defeat this amendment on July 18th.

First, the present administration, as it has always done, is not being fair with the people, for the way this bill is drawn, it will legalize and charge interest on some appropriations that under the Fletcher Budget and Financial Control Act of 1932 would automatically expire, and should not be added to the debts of the state. Know that a majority of the voters would not have an opportunity to look the matter up intelligently, they are trying to sneak in the approval of an Act of the Lelislature No. 294, being Senate bill No. 272. In the parlance of the gangster, this administration is "trying to pull a fast one."

This is the same attempt the administration made in trying to slip in with the former bond issue, an amendment to the constitution increasing the government borrowing power from $300,000.00 to $3,000,000.

Second, This amendment legalizes these warrants at 5 per cent when they should not draw but 4 per cent.

Third, this amendment makes no provision to prevent these warrants falling into the hands of money sharks and unscrupulous politicians, many of which have already been bought at far below the face value. There should be a protection clause providing that when a warrant is presented to secure the legalized warrant, an affidavit must be made by the party that he is the original holder of the warrant, and if so, the new warrant should be issued and for the face value. If on the other hand, he has purchased this warrant from the original holder, he must make an affidavit as to the price paid and a new warrant only issued for the amount paid.

Fourth, a vote against the McDaniel-Teasley Amendment is not a repudiation of the state's debts but will result in forcing another session of the legislature, which should be an open call, and not put the drastic restrictions on economy measures as at the last session. It is currently rumored that Miller is going to call another session in August, and if this is a fact, pressure should be brought to bear, forcing an open call.

Fifth, some papers have stated that even though officials for the past 32 years have been violating the constitution by knowingly contracting illegal debts, the people should legalize these debts. With that I agree, but the people who are guilty of knowingly and openly violating the state constitution should be prosecuted either under criminal or civil law.

Sixth, the above act, while it legalizes the debt, does not provide any way for its payment, and about all the good it will do is to present a large field for unscrupulous money changers to traffic in these warrants at the expense of the school teachers.

The sooner Governor Miller, Mr. Harman and Mr. Feagin come clean with the people and present the facts the better off they will be.

Governor Miller has tried in every way to settle this question by increasing taxes, but has not tried the proper economy. In a recent statement of Mr. Hard, he stated that the administration had paid over three million on debts, had reduced the expensé over eight million. Still this same administration has increased taxes over four million, and the situation is not relieved.

Governor Miller has continuously refused to accept the mandate of the people but has tried to force only his will upon them. He seems to forget that he is a servant of the people and not a dictator.

Even though the repeal bill was passed over his veto, he still refuses to gracefully permit the people to decide this all-important question themselves, but is trying to block it in every way.

Funds have been diverted by the present administration in open violation of the constitution of the state, and it does seem that someone is either subject to criminal prosecution fer this flagrant violation, or a suit for recovery under the civil laws. I still insist that the greatest steps towards solving the state's financial problem is the elimination of Miller and Feagin.—W. B. Leedy.

PROVIDENCE, BEAT 13

Just want to remind the people again of our memorial and homecoming day next Sunday, May 21.

10:00—Devotional exercises, by W. H. Shaw.

10:30—Welcome address by W. F. Thompson.

10:45—Response by Howard Roper.

11:00—Preaching by Bro. John T. Martin, from Brent, Ala.

The third Sunday in May has been a big day with us for a number of years. It is the day to meet again with your old friends whom you have not seen in a long time. And we feel sure this will be the best day we have ever had. So just come over and be with us.

There will be singing in the afternoon, and we are going to have some real good singing. We invite all singers to come and be with us.

Our afternoon singing of last Sunday was really good. The house was crowded with folks and I am sure they all enjoyed the singing. The boys from Oak Grove and Mars Hill sung some real good quartets.

Don't forget to come back next Sunday and bring your Stamps and Henson books. We use both, and don't forget to bring dinner.—O. B. Martin, President.

Kin Vinson went to Tuscaloosa Sunday to enter the Veterans Hospital for treatment.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Everybody has been very busy on their farms, and our church has not been completed yet, although a lot of work has been done. Mr. Ocie Dewaughn, Mr. Jim Mitchell and Mr Bill Calloway and son, Luke, met at the church last Monday week and put part of the windows in and finished flooring it.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Downs of Verbena, Mrs. Evan Downs of Birmingham were visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs and family this week end.

Mr. Harvie Little of Collins Chapel was visiting his sister, Mrs. Will Davis this week end.

Miss Lera Glenn was the Friday afternoon guest of Miss Lera May Mitchell.

Little Lillie Mae Davis, who has been on our sick list for quite a while, is slowly improving.

Mrs. Elbert Yates and Mrs. Festus Wells were the Monday dinner guests of Mrs. W. F. Glenn.

Mr. Raymond Kelley, from Rockford, was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kelley, this week end.

The ladies of Maple Springs have a quilt to give away next Saturday night, May 20th, at the new church building; also will sell chances over there Saturday night.

JACKSON CHAPEL NEWS

There will be a Parent-Teachers meeting at Jackson Chapel Thursday night, May the 18th. All members are urged to be present as we have some business to attend to.

There will be a cemetery cleaning at New Harmony church, near Lomax next Friday morning, May the 19th. All that are interested come early and bring some good sharp tools.—W. L. Sanders.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Speaking of Gardening

I have some attractive gardens but in most cases they are not balanced. Most vegetables are perishable and if they are grown in excess, much loss will be the result. I notice that nearly half of our entire garden is planted to early cabbage. All of them mature at the same time and after you have eaten them two or three times you detest the smell of cabbage. Yet you have a garden full of cabbage. The same holds true with other vegetables. If too many are planted, big losses result.

This thing of having gardens is nothing easy. One must make definite plans ahead of time and work earnestly toward that end. Be sure to plant the right varieties of the right time.

In My Garden

At present the following are in my garden: strawberries, radish, snap beans—two plantings, lima beans,—two plantings, sweet potatoes, beets, spinach, white potatoes, English peas—three plantings, corn—three plantings, table peas, blackeye, pole beans—two plantings, cabbage—four plantings, watermelon, cantaloupe, squash, okra, onions—two plantings, mustard, turnips and tomatoes.

My early English peas, mustard, radish, onions, and early cabbage will be ready for removal very soon. Tomato, pepper, egg plant, and cabbage have been planted in boxes and old buckets and will be ready for transplanting as soon as the early vegetables are removed.

I shall plant my collard seed about the latter part of the month in order for them to be ready for transplanting about the first of July. It is not deemed necessary to plant collards so early when they are not usable until fall. Why not let something else use that space until then?

Thus far I have not run into any serious trouble with insects as I use controlling methods as soon as they first appear. It pays to look over your garden carefully each day.

N. F. A. Entertains

The N. F. A. Club sponsored a benefit party at the county training school Monday night for the purpose of raising representation and transportation fees to the N. F. A. Conference to be held at Tuskegee in July. Music and games were enjoyed by all. The club wishes to express its appreciation to those who came and helped make the party a success.—Benjamin Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture.

Town Will Vaccinate Dogs

On Thursday and Friday, May 25 and 26, the Town of Clanton will again vaccinate all dogs. Dr. Parrish will be at West End and Dr. Hinkle at Geo. McCain's Barn. There will be no charges made for this treatment.

Thursday and Friday, May 25 & 26

Tallassee Jamboree Declared "Best Yet" By Scout Executive

John J. Sigwald, scout execuive of the central Alabama area council, declared the 1933 Scoutcraft Jamboree held in Tallassee May 5th, was the best ever, and everyone (scouts, scouters, and friends of scouting expressed this opinion. Mr. Sigwald also asked permission to publicily express his appreciation to Col. M. Westcott of Montgomery, who acted as chief judge, the many merchants of Tallassee, the individual scouters of the Tallassee District, the scout mothers who served the barbecue and to everyone who helped make the day the big success it proved to be.

The winning troop for the ten events was troop 2 of Opelika, under scoutmaster Joe Ben Duke. Second place went to Troop 7 of Auburn, with scoutmaster John Oliver in charge. Third place was won by Troop 1 of Opelika, with scoutmaster Ed Warren in charge. East Tallassee Troop 13, under scoutmaster H. E. Parris won the 4th place with Troop 9 under assistant scoutmaster Douglass Harris the winner of fifth place. Every troop tried hard and the spirit was scout-like throughout the jamboree. Many local scout enthusiasts were present to see the competition, and scouting is not only "sold" in Tallassee, but is more thoroughly understood than ever before, which will make the maintaining of the movement much easier in the future.

Chairman C. B. Smith expresses his satisfaction and thanks the field, barbecue, publicity, awards, and finance committees for their fine work.

A detailed report from the executive shows the following interesting facts concerning the events:

Following the parade, in which close to 275 participated, the inspection event was held with Lt. Watts of Auburn leading the judging committee. Since each event was graded A, B, C, D and E, according to merit, they rated the troops as follows:

Troop 2 of Opelika, Troop 9 of Tallassee, A's; Troops 1 of Opelika, 7 of Auburn, 29 of Alexander City and Troop 51 of Lay Dam B's; Troops 4 of Opelika, 13 of East Tallassee, and Troop 40 C's; Troops 41 of Selma, and 47 of Clanton, D's; and Troops 3 of Opelika, 11 of Reeltown, E's.

The second event was the knot-tying event, in which one scout of each troop tied eight knots on a stave. A's were awarded Troops 2, 7, 13 and 51; B's to Troop 9; C's to Troops 4 and 40; D's to Troops 1, 11 and 29; E to troop 41.

Next came the interesting and picturesque semaphore (two flag) signaling, taking up the entire field. Winners in these were A's: Troops 2, 7, 9, and 51. Troop 29 a D, with other troops having mistakes of fifteen letters or more. The message was: "If I were to ask the one quality of the character of a boy that is absolutely essential I should name loyalty above all else." This sentence contains exactly 100 letters.

Archery was the last event of the morning, with Troops 1 and 4 of Opelika winning all the honors with D each.

Then came the ever-to-be-remembered barbecue. The scouts ate down by the cabin, while 27 scouters of the scout council took their noon meal in the domestic science room of the school. Following the repast the scouts enjoyed the Al Jolson picture as the guests of Manager Thornhill, while scouters held an important business session. During this meeting, President A. L. Thomas received a fifteen year veteran pin from the national representative, Roberts Blount.

Promptly at 2:30 the events resumed with string burning. Each troop had one contestant who had to cut his wood, burn two strings through to win. Those receiving A rank for burning through both strings in less than ten minutes were: Troops, 2, 3, 7, 13, 29 and 51. C grade went to Troops 4, 9, and 40; Troop 1 received a D.

Then the Morse signaling teams sending the message: "I believe boys of today more wholesome minded than ever before and earnestly striving in larger proportion to be honest." In this event A grade went to Troops 1, 2, 13, 29. No other grades were earned.

The only real new event of the Jamboree was the pace compass event. With the use of a compass two scouts of each patrol went over a course laid out by A. S. Noble of Tallassee. A's went to Troops 1, 9, 12, 40 and 51. Grade B went to Troops 2 and 7; grade C to Troop 13; grade D to Troop 4 and Grade E to Troop 41.

The rescue race best time was 27 seconds. In this event eight scouts made a life line and pulled in their 9th member 30 feet out in front. A's went to Troops 1, 2, 4, 13, 29. B's to Troop 7 and C to Troop 41. D to Troop 40 and an E to Troop 51.

Fire by friction saw only one scout a winner and that Baker Dean of Troop 1 of Opelika, who in 27 seconds earned an A.

The last event was First Aid with this problem: "A scout with his patrol went on a hike. Coming to a cliff they stopped to cook a meal. The boy cooking potatoes in a frying pan was bitten by a poisinous snake three inches below the right knee. In the excitement he threw the hot grease back on his right cheek and fell over the cliff breaking a rib on his left side." The scout teams then set about repairing the "damage" and transporting the patient back to the starting point. A's were earned by Troop 9 of Tallassee only. B's went to Troops 2, 13, 29, 40, 41, and 51. C's to Troops 1, 4, 7, and 12.

The total points was determined by counting A's as 5 points, D's as 4 points, etc. This gave Opelika, Troop 2, 38 points; Troop 7 of Opelika, 36 points; Troop 1 of Opelika 33 points.

In the chapel after the Jamboree a blue President's Award Ribbon was presented to Troop 51 of Lay Dam and Mr. Blount presented his efficiency cup to Troop 7 of Auburn.

With repeating the pledge allegiance to the flag the Jamboree was officially closed at 5 p.m.

Hers is a story of waiting. His is a story of taking. They are kindled by the lightning of passion and dominated by the thunder of events.

John E. Bryan's Opinion Of Hard's Statement

Montgomery, Ala. May 12.—When asked his opinion of comptroller Hard's statement of monies available for state services including education, John E. Bryan, president of the Alabama Education Association, who was a visitor to Montgomery Monday, explained that Mr. Hard's statement that education will not receive the $2,000,000 appropriated from the general fund would in effect result in the receipt of only 40 per cent of the appropriation payable from the special educational trust fund and of 50 per cent of the appropriations payable from the public school fund for the current year.

According to the Hard statement, based on the ruling of the attorney general of May 1, because of the reduced condition of the state treasury the comptroller will be unable to transfer $1,500,000 from the general fund to the special educational fund and $500,000 from the general fund to the public school fund.

The failure of the schools to receive this total of $2,000,000 will make it impossible for school boards to meet the expenses incurred in the operation of the schools for the current year. This means one of two things: either boards of education cannot pay teachers' salaries and other expenses incurred in the operation of the schools this year, or if these expenses are paid their funds for next year will be seriously curtailed. The loss of this $2,000,000 is in addition to the reduction of $1,250,000 in appropriations made by the legislature for the current year as compared with the appropriations for the preceding year. These reductions represent a cutting down of payments by the state of more than 50 per cent for the public elementary and high schools and of more than 70 per cent for the institutions of higher learning and for the state normal colleges, the state department of education, and other institutions under the control of the state board of education.

"It is evident from the comptroller's statement," continued President Bryan, "that it will be impossible to pay in full all the claims upon the general fund for the current year. It is understood," said President Bryan further, "that these claims must be kept within the available revenue, hence education did not expect to receive in full the appropriations made by the legislature. We did not, however, expect the state to cut education entirely off the general fund in order to balance the budget. This was done it appears in conformity with the attorney general's recent ruling in which he defined the functions of the government. In that opinion education was to give the position to which it was entitled under our constitution. As guardians of the childhood of Alabama, we respectfully protest the subordinate position in which education is placed by this opinion of the attorney general."

"Education," continued President Bryan, "is universally recognized as a state function and as an essential to any well organized society. The subordinate position in which education has been placed by the attorney general," said Mr. Bryan, "is in sharp contrast with recent opinions of the supreme courst in Kentucky and Tennessee.

These states, like most other states, place education at the center of state activities rather than subordinate thereto. For example, the Kentucky Supreme Court among other things said "the place assigned to it (public education) in the deliberate judgment of the American people is scarcely second to any. If it is essentially a prerogative of sovereignty to raise troops in time of war, it is equally so to discharge the duties of citizenship in times of peace and war.

The Supreme Court of Tennessee said we are of the opinion that the legislature under the constitutional provision may as well establish a uniform system of schools and a uniform administration of them as they may establish a uniform system of criminal laws and courts to execute them.

Concluding President Bryan said that the educational leaders understand, of course, that the present available revenue is not sufficient to meet the reduced appropriations for state services including education. For this reason he declared that the Alabama Education Association appeals to the people of Alabama to come to the support of the public schools system so that even in these abnormal times there will be provisions for reasonably efficient public schools for their children.

SHELBY CITIZENS VISITED CHILTON

J. P. Montgomery Conducted the Party Through Farm Areas

Last Monday a group of business men of Columbiana visited Chilton County.

Mr. Montgomery, vocational teacher, at Jemison High School, conducted the group through the county. The Jemison and Thorsby Strawberry Associations were visited. A tour was then made through Collins Chapel and New Salem communities. Several farms were visited. The visitors saw at first hand, the picking, packing and grading of strawberries. They saw dewberry fields, Tennessee Green Pod bean fields and Irish potatoes, crops to be sold in carload lots.

The visitors had never visited farm communities in Chilton County and did not realize that we had farm communities with such good land, crops and homes.

The experiment station, which we now have in the county was visited. The station is on the farm of Mr. Cox, below Thorsby, and is run by Mr. R. W. Taylor of Auburn. This work is part of the Auburn experimental work. A complete program to determine the best varities and methods of fertilizing strawberries, beans Irish potatoes, is now in progress. These crops have meant, and may mean much to Chilton County in the future, as they are shipped in carload lots. The most economical production of these crops is becoming of major importance to us. Mr. Taylor has numerous worthwhile experiments in progress, too many to mention in this article.

It is hoped that this work, which has such a splendid start, may be made permanent and that the bad financial condition of the state will not cause us to lose this experiment station.

Another feature of the tour with the visitors was an inspection of Mr. Burgess's storm pit at Collins Chapel and Mr. Nat Bentley's pit at Thorsby. The owners of these pits and Mr. Meade, the builder, are to be congratulated on the beauty trim, comfort and durability of these pits.

Chilton County welcomes visitors and hopes that we hay have more visits from Shelby and other counties.

The visitors from Columbiana were Messrs. Edward Davis, president of Columbiana Bank, W. E. Christian, cashier; Luther Fowler, editor of the Shelby County Reporter, Max Lefkovits, merchant, Perry McGee, merchant; Judge B. L. Riddle, life insurance, Joe Stone, vocational teacher, and A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

On our way home from the hospital in Montgomery, where we had spent two weeks for an eye eporation, in which we did not succeed in making the eye operate, we stopped at The Union-Banner office to learn if, under the circumstances, they still desired that we should try to carry on, as for many years past, as manager of Thorsby Section of the Union-Banner. Having been assured that they should like to have us do so, and also confident that our Thorsby friends will give us such assistance as they can, we have decided to keep up the work. With such good assistants as Miss Dorothy Butler and Miss Mary Louise Bates, we hope to continue to make the Thorsby Section of The Union-Banner interesting to our readers.

The Union-Banner is always glad to publish letters from our Thorsby boys which indicate success in their undertakings. The following letter from Walter Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, of Thorsby, indicates a considerable degree of success in what he has undertaken:

Walter Peterson, editor-in-chief, The Modulus, annual publication of the Engineering Society of Tri-State College, Angola, Indiana.

My Dear Mr. Norton:

For several months I've been neglecting to write to you in regard to the sample of "gold ore" that you so generously gave my mother to send to me. I've neglected to write on account of being too busy with other matters, such as editing the above publication.

In regard to that sample, I ran an analysis on it for gold and could find only a minute trace of the precious metal. To confirm my analysis I sent the sample out west and received a report of twenty-five cents per ton. I thought that perhaps the sample was not a representative one, so I had my brother, Willie, get a fair sample of the ore body, according to my instructions, and upon analysis it ran eighty cents per ton. So, I'm convinced that someone spent a lot of money out there on a worthless property. I would not advise operating that property on less than $7.00 per ton in gold.

Graduation exercises will soon be here and it is my turn to graduate. I have been working on two degrees, mechanical and chemical engineering, with bachelor of science in both. Although graduation exercises are held at the end of this month, I will have to remain in college during the summer in order to complete my work. In organizing our 1933 class, I was elected its president, so I have considerable work to do in that connection.

Well, I sincerely trust you and Mrs. Norton are well and enjoying the balmy Alabama spring weather. Spring is a beautiful time of the year and reminds me that there really is an invisible architect busily at work with the affairs of the world.—Cordially yours, Walter L. Peterson.

We think that this letter clearly indicates the advantage gained by a man who is willing to pay the price in time and money required to secure a technical education in his chosen profession.

SPRING FEVER
may not put you in bed

. . . but if you feel listless, tired, run-down, appetite dull, with a weak let-down feeling—perhaps nervous and worn out—why not "snap out" of this condition? Tone up your appetite, increase those red-blood-cells, and get in step with those who put zip and pep into everything they do—the best way to be happy and cheerful.

There is a good old medicine, S.S.S.—tested both by time and by scientific research, which in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has been found to be remarkably efficient in restoring to the blood the normal amount of red-blood-cells and their hemo-glo-bin.

. . . if you suspect an organic disease, consult a physician. S.S.S. is not a "cure-all" BUT for a pimply skin and that tired, worn-out, let-down feeling—"spring fever" just try S.S.S. and see how you awake after a night's sound sleep feeling fresh and fine,—and see how you eat with restored appetite . . . see how your skin clears up.

Instead of slowing down in the early afternoon, you should possess ample energy to carry on thru the day and evening hours. S.S.S. is a particularly valuable tonic in the Spring of the year. It is liquid of course . . . never sold in tablet form.

. . . as a word of caution to the millions who know S.S.S. and its benefits from personal experiences, we suggest that you do not permit anyone to switch you to any of the hundreds of "just as good as S.S.S." substitutes. Remember that successful products are always imitated, but it seldom pays to buy imitations—insist upon S.S.S. At all good drug stores.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

Bible Subject Discussed by Rev. J. Robert Bean, Clanton, Ala.

Correction: In Rev. Bean's sermon last week he intended to say "my sainted father, mother and wife." The word "sainted" was erroneously printed "sinful."—Editor.

Luke 17:17, "And Jesus answering said, were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?"

Leprosy is a chronic skin disease characterized by ulcers and white scabs, and was, and is more common in the east than in our country, while medical science is hard at work to produce a cure for that awful disease it remains one of the incurable ailments of the human race.

In Israel a law forbidding all leprous people from coming into the company of the general public accounts for the ten men in the text lifting up their voices calling to Jesus for help. Jesus from where he stood told them what to do.

There were no magical words uttered; there were no passing of His hand over the afflicted bodies. Jesus didn't say to them, "Come back tomorrow and I will see what I can do for you." All that Jesus did was to tell them to go show yourselves unto the priests, and as they were on their way they were cleansed. One poor fellow was so overjoyed because of his cleansing that he immediately turned around and went back to where Jesus was. The writer tells us that he was a Samaritan. The nine ungrateful fellows must have been Jews. Be that as it may, we know that nine-tenths of those afflicted with that incurable disease never so much as thanked Jesus for the great blessing.

I believe that if they had met Jesus and thanked Him for their healing some attention would have been made of it. I like to follow that tenth one. In my imagination I can see him as he walks along looking at his hands. I can hear him saying to himself, "I can now walk right up to Jesus or anyone else, because I am free from the law concerning leprous people—there is nothing now to keep me from enjoying every thing that all others enjoy; so I will walk right up to Jesus and fall down at His feet and thank Him for the great blessing that I have received, for my soul is saved as well as my body cleansed from that awful disease."

Can it be that nine out of ten of our saved people are as ungrateful for the cleansing from their awful disease of sin as the nine that went on their way. We must remember that their cure was as complete as the one that went back but they just were ungrateful. How many of our people today are like those nine men? They either remain in their homes or go somewhere else on their regular preaching days. How I wish that they could hear Jesus say, "Were there not ten cleansed, but where are the nine?" I am sure that if more of our people were like the Samaritan, that is, found at Jesus feet thanking Him for a wonderful salvation, telling a lost world how much they love Him and letting their church know by their presence that they are ready to shoulder their part, we would see more people that are afflicted with the awful disease of sin turn to the great physician for cleansing.

Brother, sister, just suppose that you once had been afflicted with leprosy, but had found a cure, and knew of someone who were so afflicted, could you go on about your business and never concern yourself about them? No, you would lose time from your work to go to them and tell them how that they may be cured, you would drive a long distance in your car and furnish your own gas and if they were not able to buy the remedy, you would see your friends and together you would procure the remedy and take it to them.

You was once a sinner unsaved, but by the grace of God through the blood of Jesus Christ you were cleansed from your sins. You know that is the only remedy for sin, and you know too, that there are a great number of people, and perhaps some in your own home are sick unto death with sin, and still you don't concern yourself about them at all. Some are even dying right around you and you go to see them put away in their graves and you never did say a word about Christ to them.

Christian friends, let us not be so ungrateful to our Lord for what He has done for us, and let us tell the unsaved how they may find relief from their sins through the shed blood of the son of God.—J. Robt. Bean.

OAK GROVE NEWS

The people reported sick last week in this community are improving nicely.

Quite a few singers and others from here attend the singing at Providence Sunday afternoon.

Our B. Y. P. U. is still growing. We had a fine crowd Sunday night. Four new members joined with us. Everyone seems to be interested in B. Y. P. U. work, and we want to invite all the young people who are near enough, to come and help us out.

Mrs. J. P. Cobb and children, of West Palm Beach, Florida, are visiting relatives here.

The play, "Dot, the Miner's Daughter," was well attended Saturday night. Twenty-five dollars and fifty cents was taken in and will be used for the church needs.

Those taking part in the play were: Mr. and Mrs. Homer Webb, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Orbie Martin, Joy Lee Martin, Frank Lessley, Van Glass, Rip Northcutt, Ned Northcutt, Sam Collins, Roberta Satterwhite, Mary Jim Sutley, and Gladys Satterwhite.

There will be no preaching or Sunday school here Sunday morning on account of the memorial day exercises at Providence. We will have preaching Saturday night, also B. Y. P. U. and preaching Sunday night.

Messrs. Ocie and Harry Martin and Miss Lois Martin of Birmingham were visitors at the home of their brother, Mr. Orb Martin, Sunday.

Miss Virginia Glass returned Saturday after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Tiny Hill, of Birmingham.

REFUGE NEWS

Health in this community is very good at present. Our Sunday school was very small Sunday on account of the Mother's Day program at Walnut Creek. There was a good number who attended service up there, and reported that they enjoyed the day.

We had a good crowd at our B. Y. P. U. Sunday night, and a wonderful service.

Wm. R. Baker of Birmingham was with us Sunday night and made a splendid talk which everyone enjoyed.

Everybody is very busy getting ready for our all day singing next Sunday. Come and bring a well-filled basket and enjoy the day with us.

WORKING AT REFUGE

Today (Thursday) at 1 o'clock there will be a working at this place. We will clean out around the yards and scrub the church. Everybody that is interested come and bring tools to work with.—Mrs. T. B. Easterling, church correspondent.

Uncle Morde Robinson of Mineral Springs was a visitor to Clanton on Tuesday.

JESUS ANSWERS HIS ADVERSARIES

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-44.

GOLDEN TEXT—The officers answered, Never man spake like this man. John 7:46.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Talking With Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Answering Hard Questions.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Way to Meet Opposition.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Deal With Objectors.

I. Jesus Silences His Enemies (vv. 13-34).

1. The Pharisees and Herodians (vv. 13-17). In order to destroy him they sought to discredit him among the people. To this end they sent representatives of both factions (v. 13).

a. Their question (v. 14). The Pharisees contended that since God was the real king of Israel, it was not obligatory to pay taxes to a heathen king. The Herodians were supporters of Herod. They came to him with flattery on their lips with this subtle question. For him to answer yes would have discredited him with the people, and to have said no would have made him liable to arrest by the Roman authorities.

b. Jesus' reply (vv. 15-17). He asked for a coin to be brought and inquired whose image and superscription it bore, declaring that those who accept the coin of Caesar should pay taxes to Caesar. In this reply Jesus escapes their trap and enunciates a principle which applies to all time and conditions as to the responsibility of Christians to civil government. Those who accept the protection and benefits of civil government should support that government. However, being a loyal citizen is not enough. There is a duty to God.

2. The Sadducees (vv. 18-27). The Pharisees and Herodians being silenced, the Sadducees came with a question which involved not only immortality but the resurrection of the body.

a. The case proposed (vv. 19-23). The law of Moses made it not only legal but morally binding in the case of a man dying without children for his brother to take his wife (Deut. 25:5). They proposed the case of a woman married successively to seven brothers. They asked whose wife she shall be in the resurrection.

b. Jesus' reply (vv. 24-26). By a quotation from the Mosaic law (Exod. 3:6), he proves the resurrection of the dead and their continued existence beyond death as human beings. He showed that marriage is for the present life only. In this respect human beings will be as the angels in the resurrection life. He pointed out that their gross error was due to two things:

(1) Ignorance of the Scriptures (v. 24). In the very Scriptures which they professed to believe was positive proof of the resurrection (Exod. 3:6).

(2) Ignorance of the power of God (v. 24). God is able to provide a life where there will be no death, no births, or marriages.

3. The scribes (vv. 28-34). Perceiving that Christ had effectively answered the Sadducees, one of the scribes came with the question as to which was the great commandment. Jesus summed up man's whole duty in one word, love—"love to God and love to man."

II. Jesus' Question (vv. 35-37).

He now turned upon his adversaries with a counter question. Its answer involves the central problem of Christian philosophy, indeed of all rational thinking. Christ's place in the scale of being is the foundation truth of all right thinking. "Is Jesus Christ man or God, is he God and man?" David spoke of the coming Messiah as both his son and God. There is but one answer to this question—the incarnation of God in Christ.

III. Jesus Condemns the Scribes (vv. 38-40).

The attitude of these people toward Jesus was not determined by insuperable intellectual difficulties, but by their moral nature.

1. They loved to go in long clothing (v. 38). This means they loved ostentation and display.

2. They loved to be saluted in public places (v. 38).

3. They sought to occupy the chief seats in the synagogues, and the uppermost rooms at feasts (v. 39).

4. They devoured widows' houses (v. 40). They lined their pockets at the expense of helpless women.

5. They offered hypocritical prayers (v. 40).

IV. Jesus' Praise of the Sacrificial Giving of the Widow (vv. 41-44).

These words of Jesus reveal unto us the fact that in God's sight a gift is measured by the heart motive.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There are five instincts that are universal. First, there is the instinct that insists upon a god of some kind. Second, there is the instinct of prayer. All men everywhere in the hour of emergency call upon some god of help. Third, there is the instinct of duty. All people have some sense of obligatibn. Fourth, there is the instinct of sacrifice. Fifth, there is the instinct of immortality. All men dream of a life to come.

Jesus Christ answers the universal instinct of the race. Do you need a god? Worship Him. He is all the God I want. If this universe should produce a greater God than Jesus I wouldn't know what to do with him. Do you want to pray? Jesus opens the door to the house of prayer. He says, "Whatsoever you ask in my name you can have." Do you feel a sense of duty? Jesus can give you power to do what you ought to do. He said, "All power is given unto me both in heaven and in earth." Do you believe in sacrifice? Then trust Jesus. He was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities. Dou you dream of a life to come? Then look up to Him. He said that He has gone to prepare a place for us, and that He is coming again some day to take us home.

I have seen the vista of rolling hills and verdant valleys, and winding streams and forests with their changing colors. I have seen the sky on a winterery night bejeweled with countless stars. I have caught the odor that floats through tropical islands on a summer evening. I have seen the hand of God sweep the eastern sky with the glory of a dawning day. I have seen Him put His canvas on the western horizon, dip his brush in fire and paint the exquisite tints of a golden sunset; but all I have ever seen and heard and felt, cannot compare with the first rapture that will thrill my heart when I look within the celestial city gate.

R. J. JACKSON IN FAVOR OF BEAN.

Says Two Terms In Office Is Enough for Any Man To Serve

To the Voters of Chilton County:

As the primary is at hand to nominate a candidate for county superintendent of education, I want to drop a few facts before you for your consideration.

First, I think two terms of office in succession is enough for any man, even though he makes a success. I don't believe the administration of our present superintendent has been a success. This I think I can prove. Up until about two years ago he almost ignored the people, so far as letting them say who should be their teachers. This statement can be proved in many communities.

His attitude toward the people has been such that he has failed to get sufficient cooperation to make the schools what they ought to be. Let us see if Mr. Lawrence has tried to get the cooperation of the people that the schools might be made better.

Right here I call attention to section 90, under article 6 of the Alabama school code, 1927, which reads as follows:

Special public meeting of county board on the second Tuesday in May of each year. The county board of education shall hold a meeting for the purpose of giving the public an opportunity of presenting to the board matters relating to the allotment of public school funds, or any other matter relating to the administration of the public schools of the county.

Now, I want to ask you voters and patrons of the schools of Chilton County if you had an invitation to meet with the board of education the second Tuesday of this month? Or did you ever know the board had a meeting?

If Mr. Lawrence wanted the cooperation of the people why did he not advertise this meeting and ask the people to come in and discuss school matters with him and the board? I don't believe Mr. Lawrence wants any advice from the public. If he did he has failed to call upon it.

Here is another point I would like for the public to delve into. On top of the $2,500 salary each year, there has been $700 to $900 expense account. This expense account is for the purpose of paying the superintendent's traveling expense to the various schools of the county. Now, I want to say that if the superintendent visited other schools of the county as little as he did mine, the expense would be less than half what it is. I would like for every voter that has children in school to ask them how many times Mr. Lawrence visited their school last year. See if you can find that he made a sufficient number of trips to justify such enormous expense account.

You noticed in Mr. Lawrence's letter to the Banner that he was complaining about having to submit himself to the voters of the county after having been appointed by the board. Let us consider when and how this appointment was made. Mr. Sanders and Mr. Wilkins were elected to the board on the platform that they stood for the superintendent to be elected by the people, and finally Mr. Webb stated through the paper that he stood for all officers to be elected by the people, that was subject to the people. This statement that Mr. Webb made caused him to get enough votes to be elected and as soon as he took his seat he betrayed the people by making a motion that the board appoint a superintendent at that time. This was not the usual time for appointing the superintendent, but was seven months ahead of time.

Now, this appointment that was made by three members of the board was unjust and unfair. It was seven months ahead of the usual time, and no other applicant had a chance to apply. Second, the one member that made it a majority had misled the people to get his position. Any man claiming the right of office under such appointment is too little a man to hold down the position of Superintendent of Education. We are looking for the man that is big enough to hold the job down and this man is Mr. W. T. Bean.

Why do I say this? Because we have his record that he made while he was superintendent before. Let us recall the administration in which Mr. Bean served as superintendent. He gave us seven months free school with less than one-fourth the amount paid into the school treasury during any year for the last several.

He visited every school in the county not less than twice each year. He gave special attention to the poorer schools. He made a great sacrifice to find out just what the people wanted in order to get their best cooperation. He was never wrapped up in politics to where he failed to do his duty as superintendent.

Now voters, it is up to you to go to the polls on next Friday, May 19th, and cast your vote for the man that will hear the voice of the people. If there ever was a time in history when the people need to be heard, it is now. Yours for better schools.—R. J. Jackson.

Hospital Day Was Observed Friday

Annual Hospital Day was observed with a very interesting and most appropriate program at Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton last Friday morning at ten o'clock.

The teachers and students of the County High School and the Clanton Grammar School, with many interested citizens, formed a large gathering in front of the hospital building to witness the program.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, president of the hospital, presided. After briefly stating the purposes and background of the program, he called upon Rev. Cochran for the invocation. Mayor Smith, representing the Town of Clanton, in a very few impressive words, expressed the appreciation of the community for such an institution as the hospital.

Miss Theda Wyatt gave a short summary of the life and work of Miss Florence Nightingale, who is recognized all over the world as the mother of the profession of nursing.

Dr. C. O. Lawrence had charge of music for the occasion. At his request the school children rendered several songs. The program was opened by singing America. The concluding musical number was America the Beautiful.

Short talks were made by Rev. Cochran, representing the churches; by W. M. Wyatt, representing the Kiwanis Club; by Mrs. Reed Mullins, representing the Pilot Club; by Rev. Buford Lawrence, representing the schools.

Quite a number of people representing important patient cases of the hospital were presented before the gathering.

E. C. Cox Supports Bean for Co. Supt.

To the Republican Voters:

I want to say a few words in behalf of my esteemed friend, Mr. W. T. Bean, who is running for County Superintendent of Education.

I went to school to Mr. Bean over 20 years ago, where I am now a patron, and he has served as principal of the Thorsby Public School for the last eight years. I believe that I am in position to know that Mr. Bean is the right man for this office. I believe that we need a man who is a practical school man and one who has a clear vision of the needs of the schools, and one who has the grit in his craw to take a stand for what he believes is right.

I have seen him tried in various capacities and he stands for what he thinks is for the interest of all the people. I really believe that Mr. Bean is one of the greatest school organizers in the county. He has made a wonderful success of our school.

The work he did for our school shows that he had the full cooperation of the patrons to such extent that he put our school through the full term this past year. It really took a man of ability to enlist a town council's support strong enough to give a half term free.

Mr. Bean did not apply for the position as principal of the school here for next year, but when the patrons learned this, he was petitioned, so I understand, by almost every patron of the school to return again. I was told by a friend of Mr. Bean's that he began teaching in 1905 and has taught a large portion of this time up to now and has never taught public school in but three different schools. Have you ever heard one complaint against his record as Superintendent of Education when he served before? I have not. I want to say in conclusion that Mr. Bean is the right man, asking for the right place.—Respectfully yours, E. C. Cox.

Clanton On The Air

Clanton again is in for some real publicity — publicity that will no doubt prove beneficial. Mr. H. J. McCollister, of Station WAPI and the National Broadcasting Company was in Clanton this week and stated that on each Saturday and Wednesday mornings at eight o'clock, for four weeks, a program touching on Clanton would be broadcast.

This broadcast comes over Station WAPI and will last each morning for about fifteen minutes. The first program will be given Saturday, May 20th, at eight o'clock. These programs which include several towns are most interesting, being given in the form of an airplane trip over town. Tune in on Station WAPI, Birmingham, next Saturday morning and Wednesday morning for this program at eight o'clock.

HILL'S WILL MOVE ABOUT JUNE FIRST

Mr. Ernest Arant, manager of the Hill Grocery Store in Clanton, announces that the store will move to its new location about the first of June. The new Hill place is the building formerly occupied by Calloway Drug Store, next to Wagoner's Barber Shop.

Mrs. J. C. Page and daughter, Peggy, are spending several days with relatives and friends in Tennessee.

FOR B. LAWRENCE

On next Friday we will go to the polls to select the Republican nominee as county superintendent of education. I want to endorse Mr. B. Lawrence's candidacy for the following reasons:

First, I do not believe in legislating officers who have been legally elected, out of office. It has been my understanding that it has been the policy of the Republican party all this while to oppose any legislation that would remove a legally elected officer from his post and if you will remember just a few years ago there was an effort made on the part of some of the Democrats of Chilton County to legislate our commissioners out of office and the Republican party as a whole strenuously fought this legislation and with the aid of some of the good Democrats of Chilton County, beat it down. The proposition confronting us now on account of the recent legislation is nothing more or less than legislating a legal officer out of office.

I am in favor and think it right for the people to elect the officials but in my way of seeing the present situation the purpose of the recently passed bill was to cause confusion among the people, as well as to get rid of an official whom I believe is conscientiously trying to do his duty but refusing to be dictated to by a political boss.

Second, even though he may have made mistakes I have all reasons to believe Mr. Lawrence is a sincere Christian gentleman, which I think is needed at the head of our education department.

Third, I believe that it is for the best interest of the children of the county that Mr. Lawrence, our present superintendent, continue until the next general election. I believe that it would be fair to him and to all of us concerned. Be sure that you go to the polls on May 19th and vote for the interest of the children. —Yours truly, W. M. Devaughn.

Fox's auction sale of Blacksmith Shop equipment will be held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, rain or shine.

SACRED HARP SINGING

The Chilton County Sacred Harp singing convention will convene the third Sunday in this month, May 21, at New Harmony church, near Lomax. All singers and lovers of music are invited to come and enjoy the day with us. Don't forget to bring a well-filled basket.—W. L. Sanders, Cha.

Wildcat Division Annual Reunion

The 81st "Wildcat" Division will hold a four days reunion in Winston-Salem, N. C., July 2nd to 5th, and from every section of the country the former members of this historic division will gather in the beautiful city in the Old North State, to renew their comradships formed during their service, and to meet once again their comrades of those hectic days of 1917-18.

The personnel of the division were the brave sons of North and South Carolina, Alabama Tennessee, New York, Florida, and every state in the union. Alabama had some 5,000.

The railroads are granting an excursion rate of 1c per mile from all points south of New York City and east of the Mississippi. There will be an abundance of rooms at 50 cents and 75 cents per night, and the committees representing the civic, fraternal, patriotic and veteran bodies of the reunion city are arranging a great welcome to all who attend.

The reunion is fostered by the splendid divisional association. Every wildcat is requested to write to the National Headquarters, 2028 Portner Pl., N. W., Washington, D. C., for full information. General Bailey and the General staff, as well as many regimental and company commanders will attend the reunion to greet the men who so bravely served under their command.

The veterans of the 81st "Wildcat" division association invites every comrade who served with this division between Aug 27th, 1917, or July 5th, 1919 to join their divisional association, and in the name of the good people of Winston-Salem, N. C., bid them welcome to the reunion.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION AT JEMISON THIRD SUNDAY

Mr. W. G. Culp, president of the Chilton County singing convention, says that he believes we are about to have the greatest singing that has ever been held in Chilton County. At the convention at Jemison the third Sunday in May there have promised to attend more outstanding singers than have ever before assembled at one time in the county. Among the notables are: Homer Morris, J. M. Henson, the Strand Quartet of Atlanta, Virgil Stamps and his quartet, of Dallas, Texas.

The singing will be held at the high school building at Jemison, beginning at 10 o'clock. There will be no public dinner, but those who like good singing are invited to come and bring their lunch and spend the day.

PLAN TO FINANCE BOY SCOUT WORK

Systematic Program Will Be Set Up For Chilton County District.

For over a year past no concerted or systematic program has been employed to secure finances for the promotion of Boy Scout training and activities in the Chilton County district. However, Scout Executive, John J. Sigwald, has been making regular monthly visits here, and while not much has been said, much really has been accomplished with the boys who are enlisted in Scouting.

New leadership has been secured for Clanton Troop 47. Regular Scouting activities have been aided and encouraged in both troops 47 and 51, besides assistance to Mitchell Dam Cub Pack. A training course for scouters was held. A camp site for local Scouts has been found and designated. Assistance was provided for holding the annual Scout Jamboree at Tallassee. Troops have been organized at Maplesville and Verbena. These accomplishments constitute the high spots of last year's Scouting program in Chilton.

Chairman Sam R. Powers and those other Scouters who are volunteers in promoting this character - building program among the boys last spring assured Mr. Sigwald that his professional services were still desired, and even though the district must postpone paying its share for a twelve months periods, that we would raise our finances.

In every way we received services satisfactory. Now the time has come when we should show our appreciation and fulfill our obligation. Clanton Scouters plan to secure every Clanton business concern and as many individuals as possible to subscribe to the 50 cents a month plan. This easy payment is to be made during each month, and a receipt will be given by the collector. This plan most fairly distributes the responsibility, but must meet with the approval and cooperation of enough of our public spirited business concerns and individuals, if it is to be a success.

In thinking of your opportunity to help in this great movement, you are asked to remember that our leaders in the business and civic world of tomorrow shall come from the boys of today. Surely, therefore, Scouting is worth your support and mine, because it is a concise, systematic and sincere movement designed to make of our boys better men for tomorrow. It is a work that is effective. It produces results.

The chairman of the finance committee will in a few days have the fifty cents a month financing plan outlined, and someone will call upon you for your support and regular contribution. We hope to secure a hearty response from our business, and professional men. Every individual will have an opportunity to help.

BASS AND BREAM PUT IN LAKE MITCHELL

A shipment of bass and bream from the state fish hatchery was liberated in the different streams of Chilton County, tributary to Lake Mitchell, during the last few days. Many local sportsmen were present and assisted, the planting being under the direction of the district game warden and an assistant from the state hatchery.

One of the considerations in making consignments is the promise by local sportsmen to help protect the streams in this vicinity from seining, dynamiting, poisoning and other illegal methods of taking fish.

The fish were received from the state fish hatchery at Eastaboga, near Anniston. In addition to the two hatcheries operated by the state at Eastaboga and Aliceville, the Department of Game and Fisheries has control of Oxford Lake, from which it secures both bass and bream. A total of 750,000 fingerling were produced and distributed during the last year, these fish going into every county of Alabama, according to a statement by I. T. Quinn, Commissioner of Game and Fisheries of Alabama.

While this is an exceptional production, it is not nearly sufficient for restocking the numerous streams of the state.

Fishermen hope the day is not far distant when Alabama will have many more hatcheries. With the natural fishing advantages offered in this state, Alabama should be one of the most important fishing states in the Union.

The following local sportsmen were present and assisted in the planting: D. A. Wingard, E. E. Upchurch, and H. M. Simpson.

Singing At Jemison Held Last Sunday

The spring session of the Chilton County singing convention at Jemison last Sunday exceeded all expectations both as to attendance and general interest of both singers and listeners. The announcement had been made that there would be more big singers than had ever gathered before in the county, and this was probably true. Outstanding composers were a little shy, but what they lacked was more than made up for by fine quartets.

Singing was opened at 10 o'clock by the county chairman, W. G. Culp. A program committee was appointed, composed of P. B. Shaw, A. H. Glasscock and Akins I. Collins. After the chairman sang one song the opening prayer was offered by Rev. Geo. W. Freeman of Randolph. Another song was sung by Mr. Culp and the first director was called.

Only one song was allowed for each director, and after every two directors there was a quartet. There were six bands who put on one or more numbers, some of them singing as many as five. They were: McDonald quartet of Birmingham; Stringfellow quartet of Tuscaloosa, a ladies quartet from Centreville, the Loyal Four of Shelby County, the Clanton quartet, and the Jemison quartet. All of the bands did good singing, but special mention should be made of the ladies from Centreville. They sang two numbers before noon and had to leave the convention at that time. The quality of their voices was unexcelled, and their harmony and melody showed that they have spent no little time and effort in preparing themselves for singing together in a quartet.

Those directing were: T. E. Wyatt, Sam Stone, P. B. Shaw, Marvin McDonald, L. T. Grant, Herbert Lowery, Marion Easterling, W. R. Adams, Mrs. Bailey, Edward Jones, Dr. Williams, Fermon Moore, Akins Mims, Emmett Wilson, C. W. Scott, D. O. Stringfellow, Vernon Lackey, Joe Painter, Miss Wells, Ralph Grant, Calvin Parrish, A. H. Glasscock, R. L. Godfrey, Ira Grant, Gresham Lowery.

After the announcement that there would be another session of the convention some time this fall, the closing song was sung by the chairman, and the benediction was invoked by Mr. A. H. Glasscock.

NEXT SATURDAY POPPY SALE DAY

Wear A Poppy In Memory Of American Soldiers Dead In Far France.

Next Saturday America will pay honor to its World War dead. Millions of Americans in every part of the country will wear bright red poppies to show that they still remember and are grateful for the services of those men who gave their lives in defense of the country fifteen years ago. Here in Clanton the women of the Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute memorial poppies in all parts of the city throughout the day.

Preparations for poppy day have been completed by the local auxiliary women. A large corps of volunteer workers are ready to take the streets early Saturday morning with the city's share of the memorial poppies. Women and girls from other organizations have offered their help to the auxiliary and are enrolled on the auxiliary's poppy squads. School girls will distribute poppies by the side of gray haired Gold Star Mothers whose sons died among the poppies in France. The women of the city will be united in a patriotic effort as they were in the World War days.

The poppies which the auxiliary will distribute tomorrow have been made by disabled World War veterans working under the auxiliary supervision at Veterans Hospital in Tuscaloosa. The employment that the auxiliary has been able to give these men has helped them provide food and fuel for their families during the period when they could not possibly have found other employment. How soon the poppy making can be started again depends on the public response to tomorrow's sale.

The auxiliary will distribute its poppies on a voluntary contribution basis. Poppies will be given in return for contributions of any size the individual is able to make. None of the American Legion Auxiliary workers, who will be easily identified by badges, will receive any compensation for her services. All contributions will be used for the relief and rehabilitation of disabled veterans and their families.

Prof. Calvin Parrish of Gadsden spent Saturday and Sunday in Clanton with friends and relatives. Mr. Parrish lived near Clanton up until five or six years ago.

Bean Nominated In Republican Primary

Majority Over B. Lawrence Was 125. Final Contest Will Be June 20, With W. T. Bean, Republican, Against L. E. Little, Democrat

At a meeting of the Republican County Executive committee at the courthouse in Clanton last Saturday at noon, Prof. W. T. Bean was nominated by a unanimous vote of the committee as the Republican nominee to run for county superintendent of education on June 20th. This nomination by the committee came about as the result of the primary election which was held in the county on May 19th. In this primary W T. Bean won over his opponent, B. Lawrence, with a majority of 125 votes. The primary, although not provided by law, was called by the executive committee, when the proposition was made by interested citizens that the expense of the election would be cared for by public donation. The committee agreed to designate as the Republican nominee whoever received a majority of the votes.

The votes of the different boxes were canvassed by the committee last Saturday and the results determined. After the winner was announced several short speeches were made. Everybody voiced their satisfaction in abiding by the wishes of a majority of the Republican voters and pledging their full support in the coming special general election. Among the speakers were B. Lawrence and W. T. Bean, the defeated and the winning candidates. Several expressed themselves as being well pleased over the condition of the Republican party in Chilton County—that harmony prevails now more than it has in the past two or three years. This fact was made evident by the splendid meeting of the committee and a few interested citizens last Saturday.

Following is the official count of the votes as cast in the primary of last Friday and as ascertained by the canvass of the committee:

DEMONSTRATOR MEETS WITH PROVIDENCE LADIES FRIDAY

Miss Pardue, newly employed home demonstration agent for Chilton County, met with the ladies of Beat 16 at Providence schoolhouse Friday of last week. There were eleven ladies present. Miss Pardue made a short talk on home demonstration work. A general outline of work for the county was given and explained. Miss Pardue will meet with the ladies of the Beat again on June 20th. At this meeting she will give various demonstrations on canning. This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Jonah Mims.—Mrs. Irene Mims, Reporter.

JEWISH CHRISTIAN PREACHER AT CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

The people of Clanton and vicinity on next Sunday morning will have the exceptional privilege of hearing a sermon preached by a Jewish Christian preacher.

Rev. Joseph Cohen, will preach at the Methodist Church in Clanton at the eleven o'clock hour. His subject will be "The Jewish View of Jesus." Everybody invited to hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Harton and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barnett, of Montgomery, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt.

WINNER THANKS HIS SUPPORTERS

People Urged To Think First Of Best Interest Of The Schools.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I want to take this means of expressing my appreciation of the very splendid vote I received at the primary held on May 19th. To everyone who voted for me, I want to express my very warmest appreciation and gratitude; to those whose judgment guided them to vote for Mr. Lawrence I want to say that I have not the least ill will nor criticism toward you. This is a great privilege that everyone has to vote for his or her own convictions. It was for this reason that I insisted that we be given a primary. I again want to thank the Republican Executive Committee, who was so considerate of the privileges of the people to vote, for their unanimous nomination given me for the office of County Superintendent of Education. Now that the primary is over, I hope that all will lay aside everything pertaining to this election except the best interest of the schools and the interest of his party. I want to ask everyone to study the great problem of running our schools successfully, compare the experience of the candidates, and weigh everything that comes in connection with this election, and then go to the polls on June 20th and cast his or her vote according to the best interest of the county.

I wish to say here in reply to two things that seem to be in the minds of just a very few people. I understand that a few people think that should I be elected that I would put the schools back on the old one-teacher type of schools; but this fear has no ground upon which to base its claim. I offer my past record as superintendent, and as a teacher, to show whether I am a progressive school man. If elected, I will make the school system just as progressive as the amount of money available will permit. I want to say, further, that, if elected, I will not be dictated to by any one or few, but that I will gladly listen to the advice and counsel given by everyone; and with the aid of this, I expect to make a thorough study of the school situation from every angle, and then formulate school policies that I think will be for the best interest of the whole county, and submit this policy to the County Board of Education for its approval or rejection. If elected, I will be superintendent myself for the whole county, with the counsel of the whole people.

I most earnestly solicit your vote and influence in the coming general election to be held on June 20. Very sincerely,—W. T. Bean.

Statement From Buford Lawrence

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I am taking this means of expressing my appreciation to all those of my friends who supported and voted for me in the referendum primary held on Friday, May 19.

Let me appeal to every citizen of the county to stand by any program that will mean better education for all children. I feel that many good people of the county do not understand the school program and the school situation. The teachers have sacrificed in a noble way and I am hoping that on July 18th everyone will be able to rise above any prejudice and that the Warrant Act will be passed in order that our teachers may be able to get pay for the warrants they are now holding. The "so-called" Economy League is putting out much misleading information both against the income tax and the warrant act. I can now speak without any room for misunderstanding. Both of these issues will be voted on after my term of office, and there is no room for any misunderstanding about my position. I am saying what I have in the interest of the children, and not in the interest of an individual. Our school system must go forward, and I again say that I am ready to support any and every move that means better schools.—B. Lawrence, County Superintendent.

Debt Refunding League Organized

Birmingham, May 22.—Dedicated to the task of assisting in the approval of the McDaniel Warrant Amendment, there has been formed in Birmingham the Alabama Debt Refunding League. Dr. Sterling J. Foster, one of the most widely known men in Alabama, has consented to direct the Association temporarily. It has been stated by Dr. Foster that the most important issue to be voted upon at the election June 18, is whether Alabama will follow the well established rule in business and refund her debts, or whether the debts will be repudiated. And he adds:

"The question seems to me an extremely vital one to our state. Our agents, for whose acts we are responsible, have made certain debts. Our citizens reposing faith and confidence in the honesty and integrity of our state parted with their goods and their services. The state has not paid for the goods nor the services, to the extent of $16,943,357.12. The simple question is: Can Alabama, as a sovereign state, commit an act of repudiation and dishonesty which would disgrace any individual so doing? Our answer is, that our state has not reached so low a scale in human conduct which would bring about such a reprehensible line of action.

"We are not at this time concerned as to which administration incurred the debts, or whether the debts have been wisely or unwisely contracted. It remains that we owe the debts; they were made by our authorized agents; they are due and unpaid, and those men and women who hold the checks marked "No Funds", are entitled to their money.

"Those of us who have opened headquarters of the League in the offices where we directed the Roosevelt campaign in Alabama, extend an invitation to all Alabamians, who approve the payment of these debts, to enroll in this organization and assume a helpful part in assisting our state to discharge this obligation, and by so doing, recapture the esteem and good will of those who feel that the state has neglected this obvious duty too long."

25 GRADUATES AT HIGH SCHOOL

Address Was Delivered By Supt. J. A. Keller, of Covington.

Final graduating exercises marked the closing of Chilton County High School on Friday night, May 19, at 8:00 p. m.

The program was as follows:

Salutatory address, Hilda Hart.

Valedictory address, Pearl Vinson.

Piano solo, Hilda Hart, class musician.

Baccalaureate address, Supt. J. A. Keller, of Andalusia.

Presentation of diplomas, by L. C. Warr, C. C. H. S. principal.

Superintendent Keller spoke with conviction and truth. He held his audience, which was a packed house, with rapt attention from beginning to end. His address was very practical and to the point. The speaker showed that money spent for education is not thrown away, especially in seven to nine month schools; but that it is thrown away reteaching repeaters in three and a half to five and a half month schools.

Those receiving diplomas were:

Richard Lewie Alford.
Thomas Jarrell Burdette.
Batson Culver, Mt. Creek.
Ralph O'Neal Culver, Mt. Creek.
Lucile Calloway, Cooper.
James Clarence Easterling.
Clarence Fiquette.
Hilda Hart.
Jesse Wayne Hiten, Verbena.
Tina Hyman.
Margaret Jones.
Clyde Jones.
Olive Louise Knox.
Elizabeth Ann McSwain.
Serena Mitchell, Verbena.
Calvin Minor.
Clara Mae Mims.
Morris Pyron.
Dorothy Dean Sessions.
Mary Lou Robinson.
Durwood Robinson.
Pearl Vinson.
Dewey Williams.
Grady Lee Carter.
Mabel Harris.

CLANTON ON THE AIR

Tune in on WAPI each Wednesday and Saturday morning, and hear the broadcast about Clanton. The program is between 8:15 and 9:15.

DRAINAGE DITCH GETS GOOD START

People Generally Are Pleased With Progress That Has Been Made.

The work of digging a drainage ditch in the swamp near Clanton is under full head of steam this week. Upwards of forty men are being employed every day up to next Saturday night, under the foremanship of Tom Wyatt, veteran road overseer of this district. Mr. Wyatt stated Tuesday when interviewed on the job that his men are all in high spirits, working hard, and having a good time as they go along piling high the mounds of sand and mud as they throw it out of the big ditch.

County Commissioner, Charley Duke, Mayor Lee Smith, and members of the Town Council all are heartily cooperating and doing everything they can to make every day and every hour count for as much as possible toward the progress of the work.

The job was begun last week at a point just above the Dake old mill. Up to Tuesday of this week 300 yards of the ditch had been practically completed, except the finishing touches, which will be done under directions of Engineer Kiker of the State Health Department. Mr. Kiker was here Tuesday afternoon and visited the project.

Proceeding ahead of the ditch is a crew of men with Morris Jones, engaged in clearing trees from the right of way. A clever and powerful device for pulling stumps and trees has been rigged up by Mr. Jones. It is built out of an old Model T Ford with other appliances which makes an outfit capable of uprooting the biggest of the gum trees that may be in the path of the ditch. This work is one of the most interestingETA is one of the most important features of the project, and is being accomplished with telling effect under the direction of Mr. Jones.

Everybody is enthusiastic over this project. It is a question that has engaged the interest of this vicinity for many years. Draining the swamp lands is a project that concerns the health and sanitation of a very populous district of Chilton County. One man stated that this project either directly or indirectly affects one-fourth of the people of Chilton County.

While it is a long way from where the ditch has started to the place where the city sewer enters the creek yet it is hoped that the progress of the work will continue until that objective is reached. Once it gets ditched to the sewer entrance, there is assured enough interest among private property owners to carry it on further up the swamps until it is completed to both sides of the Town of Clanton.

The general opinion prevails that the drainage project is the most valuable and permanent project on which the R. F. C. workers of this county can be engaged. Our County Commissioners are receiving hearty approval from many sources upon their consent to allow the relief work program to be applied in this direction.

LOOK OUT FOR VETCH WORMS

Warning Issued To Farmers By Our County Agent, Mr. C. E. Stapp.

County Agent Stapp calls attention to the outbreak of vetch worms in the county and urges farmers who have vetch still standing to watch same closely for worms, as they will spread from vetch to other crops near by.

Mr. Stapp points out that there is no need for farmers getting alarmed because the worms are easily controlled by dusting with calcium arsenate. If the crops near by where worms are found are dusted for some thirty or forty feet, the worms can be headed off from the rest of the crop. Calcium arsenate costs about ten cents per pound in small lots, and one pound may be mixed with three or four pounds of lime and dusted from sacks, or the calcium may be used full strength without injury to the crops.

Mr. Stapp doesn't think that farmers who have only Austrian peas will likely be bothered with the vetch worm, but cautions those who are saving peas for seed to keep on the lookout for the worms and treat as above, should any be found.

MISS PARDUE IS CO. HOME AGENT

Announces Series of Meetings Over the County For This Month

Miss Ruth Pardue, graduate of Montevallo and Auburn Colleges, arrived this week to begin her work as home demonstration agent.

Miss Pardue will occupy the office with County Agent Stapp. She is making her plans now for meetings that will take her to some twenty-five communities in the county. The object of these first community meetings is to find out whether the women and girls of the community wish to organize and have regular meetings at which demonstrations in food preservation and home making will be given. Miss Pardue announces the meetings as follows:

Pleasant Grove, May 30, 2 p.m.
Freeman, May 30, 3:30 p.m.
Mt. Pleasant, May 31, 2 p.m.

Women and girls of the above communities are urged to attend their meeting. Other communities desiring meetings are requested to get in touch with Miss Pardue.

SPECIAL ELECTION

For the Election of A County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Ala.

Under and by virtue of the provisions contained in Section Two of an Act of the Legislature of Alabama, approved April 11, 1933;

"To provide for the election of a County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, to fix his term of office, to prescribe his salary, and the manner of payment, to define his qualifications, powers, and duties, and to provide for the election of his successor in office," which said Section Two reads as follows:

"That immediately after the passage of this Act, a special election shall be called by the Probate Judge of Chilton County, and held in Chilton County, Alabama, the expenses thereof to be paid out of the general funds of said county, for the purpose of electing a county superintendent of education for said county, by the qualified electors thereof, who shall assume the duties of his office July 1, 1933, and shall hold office until his successor is elected and qualified, at the general election to be held on the second Tuesday in November, 1934, at which time his successor in office shall be elected, and thereafter the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County shall be elected quadrennial, and hold office for a term of four years, unless removed for good cause, nominations for this office shall be made in the primary elections as provided for the other county offices."

I, L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby call a special election for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent of Education for Chilton County, Alabama, said election to be held at the several voting places as they now exist in said county, on the 20 day of June, 1933.

Dated this, the 19 day of April, 1933.

TREE DWELLERS

Montgomery, Ala., May 23.—Trees not only furnish home building materials, but they sometimes comprise the home site itself, points out Colonel Page S. Bunker, Alabama state forester. Various savage tribes actually build their huts above the ground in the trees, according to the account of travelers.

The Guaronos of the Orinoco delta in South America fix their dwellings on the Ita palm trees in order that they may be above the annual overflow of the river. In Papua many tree houses are built by the natives high up among the branches of large trees. Some of these are as high as eighty feet from the ground and are reached by broad ladders.

In addition to the known tree dwellers, among certain primitive peoples others are referred to in traditions of peculiar origin. For instance, the Maoris of New Zealand have legends of a tree inhabiting people of small statute and always chattering. This probabably is a traditional remembrance of the orang-utans of Borneo and Sumatra, the supposed ancestral home of the Maoris.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp made a trip to Mrs. Stapp's home in Lamar County Sunday. Mr. Stapp returned home Monday morning and Mrs. Stapp went back to Gadsden, where she is directing social welfare work for the R. F. C. in Etowah County.

I. G. A. ANNOUNCES REVISION IN OWNERSHIP AND CONTROL

One of the most significant developments in the history of the voluntary food chain and the entire industry of food distribution is the announcement by the Independent Grocers' Alliance of America of a revision in ownership and control of its national headquarters.

This change, which becomes effective May 1, paves the way, in the opinion of I. G. A. officials, for greater expansion and development.

Under the new arrangement, fifty per cent of the ownership of the I. G. A. national headquarters is transferred by sale to the I. G. A. wholesaler members who now operate in 42 states of the union.

"With the steady growth of the I. G. A., the need for a larger organization to service more adequately the various sections of the country has been apparent for some time," said Mr. J. Frank Grimes, preisdent and founder of the I. G. A., in officially announcing the change in ownership.

"The I. G. A. is happy to announce that today this end has been accomplished through the wholesaler membes becoming associated in an ownership capacity in the Independent Grocers' Alliance Distributing Co.

"At a stockholders' meeting today the following board of directors was elected: James D. Godfrey, T. G. Harrison, Ned N. Fleming, W. W. Thompson, L. G. Groebe and J. Frank Grimes.

"The board elected the following officers: James D. Godfrey, chairman of the board; J. Frank Grimes, president; Gerard M. Ungaro, vice president and Louise G. Groebe, secretary-treasurer.

"Mr. Godfrey is president of the E. R. Godfrey & Sons Co., of Milwaukee, Wis., which firm was one of the first to become affiliated with the I. G. A. The Godfrey Company is one of the larger concerns in Wisconsin, and enjoys a splendid record and reputation of many years standing in the food industry. At the present time, Mr. Godfrey is a member of the executive committee of the National Wholesale Grocers Association. He is known throhghout the entire food industry and brings to the I. G. A. official family a wealth of experience and practical knowledge of grocery operations.

"Mr. Harrison is vice president of the Winston & Newell Company, of Minneapolis, with branch houses in Iowa, and North and South Dakota. As one of the larger wholesale grocery houses in the west, the Winston & Newell Co., has played a prominent part in the wholesale distribution of food products throughout this extensive territory. The firm has gained wide recognition for its splendid service to retail merchants and the fine reputation it enjoys throughout the trade.

"Mr. Fleming is vice president of the Fleming-Wilson Mercantile Co., of Topeka, Kansas, one of the first wholesale houses to join the I. G. A. Both Mr. Fleming and his firm are known for their outstanding leadership among independent merchants in Kansas.

"Attorney Ungaro has been legal counsel for the I. G. A. since its inception. He is widely known as senior partner in the Chicago firm of Ungaro & Sherwood. Mr. Ungaro has guided the I. G. A. through its development and has made important contributions to its progress.

"Mr. Thompson is senior partner in the W. W. Thompson & Co. firm of certified public accountants and has been prominently engaged in the accounting field for more than 40 years. He has served as secretary and as director of I. G. A. since it was founded and his extensive knowledge of corporate business affairs has been of utmost importance to the progress of the alliance.

"Mr. Groebe has been treasurer and director of the I. G. A. since it was founded. He is a partner in the W. W. Thompson & Co., and has an extensive background of experience in accounting, factory costs, bookkeeping and credit work in the food industry and at one time served as instructor in accounting at Northwestern University."

The national growth of the I. G. A., Mr. Grimes pointed out, brought about the change.

"This national expansion," he said, "prompted us to review what had been accomplished in the last seven years and to determine what the new scope of the Alliance required for the future.

"We reached the Pacific Coast more than a year ago and then began extensive development throughout the intermountain west. We began to see more clearly the need for a revamped administrative and executive control that would bring the I. G. A. wholesalers into closer cooperation with headquarters, give them a definite equity, increased responsibility, and provide an even greater interest throughout their own organization for the I. G. A.

"The new ownership plan means a greater interest on the part of our wholesalers in the administrative and executive control and in the shaping of new policies. It brings them closer to the buying, advertising and merchandising activities."

"In the I. G. A.," said Chairman Godfrey, "we have blazed a trail. Today we are confident that we have a complete program and a plan of operation that adequately meets the needs of the independent and territorial supervision that has brought excellent returns. We have each year improved our methods of coordinating and synchronizing the merchandising and selling of the whole organization from national headquarters to tht last retail store. This progress is best reflected in the extra profit figures of these wholesale and retail members who have seen the picture and played the game.

"Now, our new form of administration carries us a big step further. Now we have paved the way for greater cooperation, for a more close-knit national alliance that will function with greater efficiency than has ever been known before."

May 15, 1933

Time and again I am told---by my own organization and by others ---that I penalize myself by quality.

Friendly critics protest our putting into the Ford V-8 what they call "twenty-year steel." They say such quality is not necessary; the public does not expect it; and that the public does not know the difference anyway.

But I know the difference.

I know that the car a man sees is not the car he drives---he drives the car which the engineer sees. The car which is seen, comprises beauty of design, color and attractive accessories,---all desirable, of course. The best evidence that we think so is that they are all found on the Ford V-8.

But these are not the car. The car proper, which is the basis of all the rest, is the type of engine and its reliability; the structure of chassis and body, ruggedly durable; the long thought and experiment given to safety factors; the steady development of comfort, convenience and economy. These make the car.

A car can be built that will last two or three years. But we have never built one. We want the basic material of our car to be as dependable the day it is discarded as the day it is bought. Ford cars built 15 years ago are still on the road. It costs more to build a durable car---but two items we do not skimp are cost and conscience. A great many things could "get by"---the public would never know the difference. But we would know.

The new Ford V-8 is a car that I endorse without any hesitancy. I know what is in it. I trust our whole thirty years' reputation with it. It is even better than our previous V-8. It is larger, more rugged and mechanically a better job all round.

I readily say this in an advertisement because I know the car will back it up.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Our Sunday school is still progressing.

Last Saturday night and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Our pastor preached a good sermon.

Rev. A. C. Nelson and wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lubie Moats Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Giles were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Giles, and reported a nice time.

The preacher and wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Giles Sunday.

Mrs. Lula Littleton was the guest of Mrs. Minnia Moats Sunday.

Remember our Sunday school next Sunday afternoon. After Sunday school we will have prayer meeting; so everybody come and bring someone with you. Come with a well studied lesson. Everybody is invited to Mt. Springs.

MT. CREEK

The Midway-Mt. Creek Club met at Morganville May 22, at 3:30, with Miss Pardue. The following ladies were present at the first meeting: Mesdames Marie Adams, George Guy, Frank Dawson, Clarence Cooper, W. A. Alston, Charlie Cooper, Logan, Pearl Jordan, Larkey Davis, Russell Milstead, R. L. Duffey, Marion McGalliard, Tom Gulledge, D. Adams, S. R. Hudson, Harris Hudson, Ernest Barnett. We took "Food Preservation" as our first project. Mrs. R. L. Duffey and Mrs. Marion McGalliard were elected as leaders. Mrs. Russell Milstead is club reporter. The club will meet with Mrs. Charles Cooper June 22.—Mrs. Russell Milstead, reporter.

PATES CHAPEL

Stop! Look! and Listen. To those that love old time singing there is going to be one next Sunday afternoon at Pates Chapel. It starts at 1:00 o'clock. Bring your sacred harp and Christian harmony books. Don't forget the time, May 28th, in the evening.

Quite a few from this place attended the singing at Jemison Sunday.

The health of this community is not very good at present. Mrs. B. O. Blow is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cleckler spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes.

Our Sunday school was small Sunday on account of all day singings Sunday. But we hope there will be a big crowd there next Sunday.

Our B. Y. P. U. was just fine Sunday night. We had a big crowd out and are enjoying it very much. Everybody come and bring someone with you. It starts at 7:00 o'clock. Our Sunday school has one hundred enrolled.

Mrs. Vines of Besemer has been visiting her daughter and son-in-law the past week.

Wildcat Division Annual Reunion

The 81st "Wildcat" Division will hold a four days reunion in Winston-Salem, N. C., July 2nd to 5th, and from every section of the country the former members of this historic division will gather in the beautiful city in the Old North State, to renew their comradships formed during their service, and to meet once again their comrades of those hectic days of 1917-18.

The personnel of the division were the brave sons of North and South Carolina, Alabama Tennessee, New York, Florida, and every state in the union. Alabama had some 5,000.

The railroads are granting an excursion rate of 1c per mile from all points south of New York City and east of the Mississippi. There will be an abundance of rooms at 50 cents and 75 cents per night, and the committees representing the civic, fraternal, patriotic and veteran bodies of the reunion city are arranging a great welcome to all who attend.

The reunion is fostered by the splendid divisional association. Every wildcat is requested to write to the National Headquarters, 2028 Portner Pl., N. W., Washington, D. C., for full information. General Bailey and the General staff, as well as many regimental and company commanders will attend the reunion to greet the men who so bravely served under their command.

The veterans of the 81st "Wildcat" division association invites every comrade who served with this division between Aug 27th, 1917, or July 5th, 1919 to join their divisional association, and in the name of the good people of Winston-Salem, N. C., bid them welcome to the reunion.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., May 23.—Spring planting of fish in Alabama is in full swing.

Only the larger impounded bodies of water, where fry are afforded the best protection, are being restocked and the game and fisheries department is limiting the plantings strictly to public waters.

Assistance is granted owners of private ponds by the department only through applications for fish to the federal bureau of fisheries at Washington.

The fish are being hauled by truck from the state hatcheries at Eastaboga, Aliceville and Oxford Lake and distributed in the lakes and streams under the supervision of G. S. Black, superintendent of the hatcheries.

First plantings from the new Aliceville hatchery were made late in April. The fish from this hatchery have been planted in Lake Martin in Tallapoosa County, Lake Wilson in Lauderdale County, Lubbub Creek, Bear Creek and the Sipsey River, the latter three in Pickens County.

Fry from the Eastaboga and Oxford Lake have been placed in Lakes Wilson and Martin, Lake Mitchell in Chilton County and Lake Jordan which borders Coosa, Elmore and Chilton Counties. These lakes draw countless parties throughout the summer.

The spring plantings last but a few weeks and consist principally of bass. The annual planting of both bass and bream will begin early in August, the heaviest planting season of the year, when the fish reach fingerling size.

The game and fisheries department expects to plant approximately a million fry and fingerling during the present year.

"HEAVEN BOUND" TO BE GIVEN AT THORSBY FRIDAY NIGHT

A play, "Heaven Bound", will be given at the Gulledge School, Thorsby, Friday night, May 26. Proceeds will go for the benefit of the Union Baptist Church No. 2. Admission is 10 cents and 15 cents. The play will begin at 7:30. Everyone invited.

PREACHING AT JEMISON

There will be preaching at Jemison High School next Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Subject: "Practical Christianity". Come!—R. L. Huffman.

J. W. Cagle and T. E. Wyatt with their families, are spending a day or two this week in Jacksonville, Fla.

Several people from Chilton County attended the all day singing at Rockford last Sunday.

HOSPITAL STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

To the Stockholders of Central Alabama Hospital, Inc.:

You will take notice and you are hereby notified that the annual meeting of the stockholders of Central Alabama Hospital, Inc., will be held at the hospital building in Clanton, Alabama, on Monday, the 19th day of June, 1933, at 10 o'clock a.m. as required by law and the by-laws of the corporation, at which meeting officers and directors for the ensuing year will be elected, and such other business will be transacted as may come before said meeting.

NEW CEDRON NEWS

Last Sunday night we met and organized a B. Y. P. U. We have several on roll now, but there are still others who can come. Come one and all and do your bit. Let's remember that next Sunday is our regular day for preaching. We invite everyone.

Little James Owen underwent an operation for appendicitis last Friday. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ratliff and family were guests of Mrs. Bill Cox last Saturday night and Sunday.

Misses Marie and Vondell Penton spent Saturday night with Misses Pauline, Rubye and Willadene Collins.

Mrs. John Cox visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Weldon, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvy Devaughn and little daughter, Mary Ruth, spent the past week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Devaughn.

Misses Audry and Adna John son were the guests of Misses Rubye and Willadene Collins Sunday afternoon.

Miss Marguerite Maddox was the dinner guest of Miss Jewell Williams Sunday.

Little Mary Evelyn Johnson spent Sunday afternoon with Johnnie Sue Collins.

Little James Earl Smith of Billingsley spent the past week with his uncle, Hershal Penton.

Mrs. J. L. Penton and daughters, Willene and Vera, were the guests of Mrs. J. H. Collins Sunday.

Messrs. Parnell and Angles Ratliff were visitors in this community the past week end.

Mr. Elwyn Collins spent Saturday night with Mr. Howard Penton.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hill visited Mr. and Mrs. Pierce of Concord community last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hill visited the former's parents in Bethsalem community Sunday.

Miss Pauline Collins was the dinner guest of Misses Ila Mae and Vera Cox last Sunday.

Mr. James Burnett and Miss Jackie Ellison were united in marriage last Wednesday evening. They will make their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Burnett.—Rubye Collins.

REFUGE NEWS

The singing at this place last Sunday was good; better than was expected, on account of so many singings on that day. Directors were: S. L. Baker, O. R. Robinson, Fonza Cleckler, J. E. Minor, Marion Mims, Jodie Connell, M. Lockhart, C. H. Robinson, Gerthie Easterling; organists: Clara Mae Mims, Delene Robinson, C. H. Robinson, Fonza Cleckler, and Mrs. Fonza Cleckler. A beautiful solo was rendered by Mrs. Irene Robinson, the title of which was "The Wages of Sin is Death"; this was enjoyed by all.

Rev. M. Lockhart preached a wonderful sermon at 11:00 o'clock.

We wish to thank the other churches for their help last Sunday.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. were omitted Sunday, but everybody come back next Sunday. This is our regular preaching day, and although our pastor cannot be with us at the 11 o'clock service he will be there for the night service.

Everybody come and be with us on Saturday, as that is the day we have set to reach the goal of 75 present at church. Rev. M. Lockhart will be with us, and will surely have something good in store for us.

Our Sunday school will begin at 9:00 o'clock next Sunday morning on account of the desire of some of our people to attend the all day singing at Providence. Everybody come, and come early.

PARDON NOTICE

To the Honorable State Board of Pardons: Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Robert Thomason, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County on April 19, 1933, for violating the prohibition law, and sentenced for a term of 78 days in the penitentiary, will make application to the State Board of Pardons for pardon or parole. FLANDERS IS SPEAKING YET

(By Emma Wilson Emery)

Again the Poppies are blooming
And we've promised not to forget
That scarlet field in far-off France
Where Flanders is speaking yet.

The careless years are hurrying
By that place where Poppies wave
But America will pause and remember today
The distant soldier's grave.

Many have almost forgotten
Those crosses in long rows set,
But America will keep faith and remember today
That Flanders is speaking yet.

Next Saturday is Poppy Day. The American Legion Auxiliary will give everybody a chance to buy a poppy and wear it in memory of these American boys who sleep in Flanders.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Hurrah, for our B. Y. P. U., and Sunday school. The people around here are unable to express their thanks to the good people who were so kind to help us rebuild our church. Everyone wanted to help; and you can't picture the smiles all B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school members are wearing. Until our church burned, we didn't realize that B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are the best things to attend on Sunday. We want every boy and girl, mother and father, who is not attending Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. to come and be with us. We need you.

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Our pastor delivered three wonderful sermons.

The quilt was given away Saturday night; $16.00 was taken in on it; it was won by Mrs. Ludie Lenoir of Clanton. We thank each and every one who bought a chance on the quilt.

Mr. Oliver Glenn attended the singing at Rockford Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Parrish were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sandlin.

Miss Merle Kelley visited Miss Marie Devaughn Sunday.

Miss Lera Glenn had as her Sunday afternoon guest, Miss Mary Parrish.

Miss Kathleen Parrish was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Lera May Mitchell.

Little Lillie Mae Davis, who has been seriously ill, is improving.

B. Y. P. U. was held here Sunday night for the first time in several Sundays. There were several visitors from Poplar Springs, and we welcome them back again any time.

Come to Sunday school next Sunday at 10:00 o'clock; and B. Y. P. U. at 7:00 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Rube Thomas of Sylacauga spent Sunday here with relatives.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

It's About Half Time

A group of boys were seated about a barber chair waiting for a hair cut, and were discussing the possibilities of becoming successful farmers. All of these boys are either present students or were past students of agriculture at the County Training School. These are some of their expressions: "Boy, you can't do anything like that as long as dad's around". "You are right. If you say anything to him about new methods he will tell you how long he has been farming; yet he is still in debt." "Well, my daddy will let me do like I want to," one boy said. The others chorused, "Yes, and he is the only one."

That is the reason we have these boys carry projects. After getting practical experience by carrying projects, there should be sufficient carry over to apply to other enterprises.

Speaking of Canning

Quite a bit of interest in canning fruits and vegetables is being shown since Miss Mary Ellis, assistant welfare worker, met a group of women at the training school last Tuesday afternoon. Miss Ellis said she had noticed a number of our people were canning strawberries, and according to her observation she was afraid that most of the berries would not keep. That was her reason for calling them together. Before her talk to the ladies she asked us to sing some of our good old songs. "Steal Away," "I Shall Not Be Moved," "Study War No More," and "Great Day," were some of the songs we sang. These songs are strictly Negroid, and we should be very proud of them. Getting back to the subject, Miss Ellis made an interesting talk on canning and gardening. We were informed that demonstrations would be given on canning fruits and vegetables at an early date. It is interesting to note the great difference of opinion on the keeping quality of canned stuff. One lady said she didn't need any information on canning; she had never had any trouble; when her canned stuff began to mold she was certain that it would keep then. Maybe she knows her berries. We appreciate Miss Ellis' interest in our welfare, and we are hoping that a large number will be present at each demonstration. Whether you have any trouble in canning or not, there is always something to learn.

Get Ready For Tuskegee

If I have failed to invite any ministers or farmers to attend the N. F. A. conference at Tuskegee, early in July, I take this method of doing so now. If I haven't spoken to you, and you are interested, please call my attention to it at once. Revs. Craig, Dudley, Mims, and Bryant have already been added to our list.—Benj. Tire prices may never be so Low again!

GOODYEAR certainly makes it worth while for you to put money in tires now. Your dollars never bought tires to equal the quality, the safety, the mileage which Goodyear is today building in every tire wearing the Goodyear name—

And because Goodyear now concentrates on two main lines of tires—a real saving in costs is passed on to you.

Look at the present prices of the world's most popular tire, the Goodyear All-Weather — and the prices of the thrifty Goodyear Pathfinder — and you'll certainly agree, it's smart to buy Goodyears NOW— while prices are still down close to bottom, and your money buys more than it may ever buy again.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Reports being gathered over the country by news associations during the past few weeks indicate that business is better "in spots." There has been an undeniable pick-up in the steel and kindred industries and a slight pickup in carloadings. As is always the case, there are two schools of thought about the significance of this change. The optimists believe that we are now on the high road to success, while the pessimists, or perhaps we should call them the more cautious prognosticators, point to the fact that we have had two or more false starts during the past three years and express the fear that this will be another one.

Those who are inclined to be cautious, while admitting the pickup in commodities and certain lines of business, attribute this to two unusual causes—the bank holiday in March and the departure of Uncle Sam from the gold standard. They say that business went to zero while the banks were closed and that the present acceleration is merely filling the gap caused by the business standstill in March. They call to our attention the fact that after Great Britain went off the gold standard in 1931 there was a business flurry and a rise in commodity prices but after this the latter flattened out, alhough it is admitted that the move stopped drastic deflation in England. But, they add, when the effect of our going off the gold standard wears off we will be back where we were.

It must be taken in to consideration, however, that things are different now than they were in 1931. The time element is important. Then we had been in a state of depression only wo years. The stretch has now been extended to four years which is about the life of the worst phases of the average depression. The stage is therefore set for a revival, if a revival is at all possible. It is to be remembered also that following the departure of Great Britain from the gold standard there was no talk of inflation over there, either an inflation of credit or money. The farm bill recently passed by Congress gives the president the right to expand credit, and the currency, too, if he deems it advisable. The more cautious observers tell us that this is one of the reasons for the business pickup, that the people want to convert their money into equities or commodities before real inflation comes.

Bet it is to be seriously doubted, other financial experts tell us, whether the recent rise in the price securities is due primarily to the influence or the fear of inflation. That fear undoubtedly gave the stock market its upward start, they say, but the inflationary seems to have died down, and there is still strength in stocks and commodities. That indicates, so these more hopeful experts tell us, that there is a real pickup in business on the way. If the increase in security prices were due entirely to inflationary fears, the value of high grade bonds would decrease, and this has not been the case, they add.

Whatever is the cause of this change in business sentiment, it is to be hoped that it is permanent and will be followed by signs of real revival. Perhaps one fact that many people lose sight is that business actually showed signs of revival ten months ago, and the securities markets made their lows in July, 1932. Since that time Wall Street has had its ups and downs but has never descended to the low levels reached last summer. That may indicate we crossed the bottom of the big bear market neatly a year ago.

It is not time, of course, for throwing caution to the winds. As President Roosevelt stated, we cannot ballyhoo ourselves into prosperity. But we can at least keep our belts tight, perform as well as we can, and hope for the best. It is a long lane which has no turning. Maybe the turn is at hand.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL

The wave of agitation for government control of industry which swept over the country seems to have subsided somewhat. In the place of this we are told that the administration plans to permit private business to work out its own problems with the national government to give advice and assistance where necessary. This will doubtless relieve the tension of many who thought, a few weeks ago, that government regulation of private industry was to be made almost complete.

The first welcome news which the public had was the intimation from official circles in Washington that the so-called Perkins bill, advocated by the Secretary of Labor, providing for a thirty hour week, a mnimum wage, and other things, would not be passed by the present congress as written, but that there would be substituted a bill which would give private industry wider power to eliminate waste, extravagance and cut-throat competition. The speech of the president over the radio a few nights ago explained the plan of the administration.

It was not difficult to see trouble in the offing for industry in America if the originally planned thirty-hour week, minimum wage bill were put through. Industries which were limited and regulated would have found their products coming in competition with foreign-made goods, manufactured under conditions where there was time limit and no minimum wage. Many of the conservative labor leaders of the country were not favorably disposed to the so-called Perkins bill.

While approving the general idea of a thirty-hour week, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, announced himself as strenuously opposed to the minimum wage and the importation of goods made by foreign workers not on the thirty-hour schedule.

"Furthermore" Woll said, in his statement to the house labor committee, "the proposals submitted by secretary Perkins would permit criminal prosecution of those who refuse to abide by the findings of the secretary of labor, without any opportunity for a review by any tribunal, thus denying to the workers the right to strike. They would penalize domestic producers for domestic and export trade while favoring products of foreign countries, thus stimulating production in branch factories in foreign countries. They would abolish the right of collective bargaining; they could be used to set aside present contractural relations existing between organized workers and employers of labor.

"The minimum wage plan," Woll continued, "would make the low wages of unorganized labor a maximum which organized workers might be forced to accept and would place in the hands of the secretary of labor authority to socialize all American industries. Because the bill places no restriction on imports as to hours of labor, it unjustly and unwarrantably discriminates against American industries and favors foreign industries. While it restricts the parent corporation in America, it grants special privileges to foreign branch factories. It likewise encourages American corporations to seek foreign sources of manufacture and production to avoid the restrictions placed on home production and manufacture. It is difficult to understand how such legislation could be kept from endangering, hampering and even destroying freedom of trade. It will further freeze and demoralize industry and commerce."

We believe that most Americans are of the opinion that the government can help industry more by permitting industry to help itself, than through a federal control of industry which smacks strongly of socialism.

NO "SANTA CLAUSING" PLEASE

Fear is frequently expressed that Uncle Sam, in going into an international conference for the restoration of world prosperity, will be placed in a position where he will consciously or unconsciously be playing the part of Lady Bountiful to the entire world.

There is yet no reason, of course, to believe that the present administration will not look after the interests of the United States in any agreements which may be made at London. In placing an embargo on export of gold and permitting the dollar to take care of itself in the world market, President Roosevelt has placed Uncle Sam in a good position for bargaining at London. To throw away the advantage now by unwise tariff or debt agreement in the coming conference would, of course, be the height of folly and it is sincerely to be hoped that our representatives at London will have their feet squarely on the ground and their heads under their hats instead of up in the clouds.

It is the opinion of those most interested in the welfare of American industry that no tariff or trade agreements should be made by representatives of the United States before our own industries are securely protected against depreciated foreign currencies and any preferential trade agreement which have been made by foreign nations.

In this respect, James A. Farrell, former head of the U. S. Steel Corporation and now president of the American Foreign Trade Council, stated recently in a round table discussion of foreign trade in the United States Chamber of Commerce, that Uncle Sam cannot afford to enter the London conference as an "international Santa Claus." He called attention to the recent trade agreements made by Great Britain and some of the South American countries and certainly they are not entirely in keeping with the spirit of Secretary Cordell Hull's idealistic utterances on the necessity of lowering tariff barriers, and of a tariff truce until the proper results can be achieved at the London conference.

The fact is, of course, that the importance of world tariffs in the present economic depression have been exaggerated. The high tariffs now extant in Europe are a result rather than a cause of the depression. Let us not lose sight of the fact that the world-wide depression was the result of ever-expansion during and following the World War. Expansion of credit in America to dangerous lengths finally brought on the crash. Tariffs had nothing to do with it. Our foreign trade has never represented more than ten per cent of our total business and it has shrunk as much in proportion as our domestic trade.

BUILD UP THE NAVY

It is strange but nevertheless true that the only hope of getting a naval construction program through congress is to disguise it as unemployment relief. The navy has been shamefully neglected. At this critical period in international affairs Chairman Vinson, of the House Naval Affairs Committee, is forced to admit that "all the shipyards of the country couldn't possibly build our fleet up to permitted limits by the time the London treaty expires on December 31, 1936."

Indications are that President Roosevelt's program of public works will include construction of 30 naval vessels over the next three years. Two-thirds of the new ships would be destroyers, four submarines, four light cruisers and two aircraft carriers. This program represents only a fraction of what should be done to bring the navy up to its proper relative strength. But it is a beginning. If work on these vessels is pushed forward, the position of the United States will be considerably improved. Having launched a building program, the government could demand, at the expiration of the London treaty, a reduction of other navies as an alternative to the building for American defense of the largest fleet of fighting ships in the world.

No type of work furnishes so much employment for so little money as naval construction. It is estimated that $195,000,000 of the $230,000,000 that would be needed for construction of the 30 vessels, would go to labor. Here is one field in which money appropriated to relieve the unemployed can not be spent largely for machinery and materials.

It is not necessary to consider the unemployment problem, however, to justify this moderate program of naval construction. In no other field where public building might be undertaken is there a deficiency so glaring as that in naval construction. A few years after the World War, when the cost of American unpreparedness was so fresh in the minds of the people, no one would have believed that congress could be so neglectful of national defense as it is today. In recent years the government has had no naval policy. It has just allowed the navy to drift into a position of serious inferiority to the British and Japanese fleets. Continuation of that policy in the face of unsettled conditions in various parts of the world would amount to criminal negligence.—Washington Post.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Free Advertising

Not so long ago I saw a fellow walking down the street, and, for a fact, he was a walking advertiser for some kind of fertilizer. On the breast of his shirt was a picture of a big duck, or some other kind of bird, and on his back was "8-3-5", in numbers about three inches high. A guano sack shirt, that's all. Nothing wrong about it at all, except, maybe, the free advertising. And here's a recipe for anyone who might want to use the cloth, but are ashamed to carry the advertising. Soak the sacks in cold water over night; wash in warm, soapy water following morning; boil in soapy water, to which has been added one tablespoonful of borax to each gallon of water; then rinse twice. That will take the letters and pictures off the cloth, according to information given by the Department of Agriculture, and officials at Auburn. Not so bad.

How They Howl

Have you ever noticed the action of the big interests, such as power, telephone, and fertilizer companies. They like to prate of the burden of taxes they pay and the accomodations they afford. But all this time they are working toward the lowering of these taxes as much as possible, and the "wonderful accommodations" must be scanned with a spy glass. They spend immense sums for special agents, etc., in an effort to shift taxes off their shoulders, even going so far as keeping these agents around in position to bring pressure to bear on the legislative bodies of state and nation. And if there are any government appropriations to be passed out, you can be sure they will try for their share of these, too. But just let something happen that looks like it might cause them to cut rates, and they let out a howl that is really awe-inspiring. They can understand these government appropriations all right, but "government in business" is a colt of a different color—to them.

"Union Booster"

Newspapers and their editors are called lots of things—some are complimentary names—some not so much so. The Union-Banner likes to boost Clanton and Chilton County as much as possible, and does so every time it gets a chance. But we didn't know anyone took our boosting so seriously, until a card arrived in the mail one day last week, addressed to "The Union Booster." The person who made that mistake in address must have been reading our "sheet," and addressed the card according to the impression made on him. In that case The Union-Banner gracefully accepts the compliment.

Plenty of Money

For a long time I have wanted to get my hands on all the money I could "tote", and one day last week I had that wish gratified, or nearly so. Believe it or not, there is some money yet, even if we haven't been able to see nay for a long time. That sack of money weighed 103 pounds, nearly all I could carry. Somebody told me I couldn't carry it away if it was given to me, but he didn't run the risk of offering it to me. I might not have carried it, but what a scramble I would have put up in trying.

Big Teeth

I went out to the swamp-ditching project last Thursday, just to see for myself what all was going on out there, inasmuch as I had heard so much about it all. They are coming right along with that big gulley, and that clearing crew is a whiz. The Jones boys, about four of them, together with their pulling outfit, powered with a Model T Ford motor, make those big gum trees look weak. I saw them pull a Tupelo gum, all of two feet through at the ground. Hooking a wire rope around the tree about ten feet from the ground, the little old Model T was set going, and that big fellow was snagged out as clean as a whistle. The operation reminds one of a dentist pulling a big tooth—much groaning and popping, but the big tooth comes out just the same, roots and all. It is interesting to watch the work.

The Oldest Thing Alive

Do you know what the oldest living thing in the world is? It is a cypress tree. Near Oaxaca, Mexico, is a cypress tree which timber specialists believe to be the oldest living thing in the world. It is 140 feet high and 117 feet around at a height of 40 inches from the ground. After several examinations, these timber men have set the age of the tree at well over 4,000 years. There are many kinds of trees which grow higher than this, and other kinds grow larger, but for cypress, the examinations show a wood texture which gives room for the statement of this particular tree being "the oldest in the world."

The Last Straw

Yep! I suppose everything must be picking up a little. And the pick-up isn't limited to people and the times either I guess. Get a load of this. Some time ago a man in Tuscaloosa bought a set of fresh willow furniture. It was nicely made, painted green, and everything. Snappy goods! And then, along came the spring rains. A few days ago the man went out and sat down in one of his willow chairs, and noticed a nice tender, young willow sprout poking its leaves up by his ears. A careful examination showed the sprouts coming out on all the other pieces, too. Sprouting right out through the green paint. Well, oh well, this is a day of "New deals" you know. I suppose the willow had as good right to a new deal as anything else. And now, that'll be all, before somebody starts calling me a liar. But don't doubt my "rascality"—it's the truth.—Man in the Moon.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

The Wrangell Sentinel, of Wrangell, Alaska, of Friday, May 12, had a big headline on its front page saying: "School term shortened to nine months."

We infer from the article printed under the heading that the people in Wrangell feel disappointed that their school term is to be shortened.

Wonder how they would feel if they were down here in Alabama where, if they would have nine months, it would require adding on a lot instead of taking off a little.

IMPORTANCE OF SHIPS

One new American institution which will bear watching during the next few months lest it get into difficulties, is the American merchant marine. Efforts to scuttle it are to be made from within and without. From within will come efforts to take away from our shipping any such aid as our merchant marine may have received from our government in the way of mail contracts. The danger from without may appear in the forthcoming international conference. Before the World War only ten per cent of our foreign trade was carried by American ships. Now forty per cent of it is conducted in ships carrying the American flag.

European shipping interests, especially the British, do not like this. They would prefer to do our carrying for us so they could charge us what profit they pleased for the service. As a result, it is said that British shipping interests are requesting their government to "bear down" on America in the forthcoming conference to see whether or not Uncle Sam cannot be induced to cease encouraging his merchant marine through mail contracts.

A great many people seem to believe that the desire for an American merchant marine is little more than patriotic emotionalism. They are apparently not able to conceive the necessity for a strong American merchant marine both in time of peace and in period of war. Rear Admiral F. B. Upham summed up the importance of our shipping when he said to the Women's Patriotic Council on National Defense:

"In 1914, at the outbreak of the World War, and again in 1917 when we entered the war, our shortage of merchant ships suitable as naval auxiliary was acutely embarrassing. Long before that, however, we had been given a most impressive lesson in the dependency of the navy upon the merchant marine. When our fleet went around the world in 1904-5 we had to depend entirely upon merchant ships of foreign countries to furnish us with fuel and supplies. The lesson was clear. It demonstrated that a navy cannot move without an auxiliary fleet. Having practically none of our own at that time we were put in the humiliating position of having to call upon foreigners. The experience proved that merchant ships, in time of crisis, are as essential to defense as battleships and cruisers.

"Another lesson was taught us in the Britsh coal strike in 1926. At that time operators of British merchant ships, naturally, turned away from established American trade channels to carry coal to England for the use of their people. The strike came at a time of heavy movement of American crops overseas. If the American farmer and exporter had been wholly dependent on foreign ships at that time (as they practically were before the war) the cost in delayed movement would have been frightful. Fortunately, there were American ships available and the situation was saved."

"Congress and, apparently, the country, seem however to have learned the lesson taught by these and other experiences, and to have reached a determination to have an adequate merchant marine in foreign trade, so necessary to commerce and to national defense. Aid in the form of construction loans at low interest rates and in the form of mail subventions has been established. As a result, we now have 600 American ships in foreign trade plying regularly from sixty ports of the United States to 550 foreign ports. They constitute the second largest merchant marine in the world and must be maintained. The cost of this government aid is small when considered from either the commercial or naval standpoint.

"We must have these merchant ships, constantly available to the navy in case of emergency. The navy cannot function without them. No backward step, in the theoretical interest of economy, should be taken from the strong, supporting merchant marine policy which has been so successfully followed for the past five years."

DISCOVERING HOME

If necessity be the mother of invention, a lot of patents ought to be taken out of Washington. And that is what is happening. But necessity is also a great discoverer. Among other things—home.

Once upon a time a lot of us hardly knew we had homes. We ran from the bedroom to the breakfast room, ran through the morning paper and porridge, ran furiously downtown to the office, ran through the mail, ran out to get a bite of lunch, ran back through the routine of the afternoon, ran home at break-neck speed to run through the dinner menu, ran out to a party, ran through all the social demands, ran home after midnight and ran off to bed for a few hours sleep preparatory to another day of running around.

Life was just a continuous marathon and home was just showers at the end of the sprints.

Then the banks closed and we couldn't get any money. Willie's savings bank and mother's mite box could be robbed of only enough to get downtown on the street cars.

So we rediscovered our legs, our appetites, the sunshine, the fresh air, and above all—home! With no wherewithal to go elsewhere we stayed at home in the evenings and found we had families. Unable to hire a gardener, we began to make flower beds, weed our own lawns, spade up our own garden. And lo! we have discovered that the green bank on the arroyo has all the other banks of the country licked to a stand-still. —Los Angeles Times.

HAVE WE SECURED ECONOMY IN STATE GOVERNMENT?

For many months the people of Alabama have been insistent upon economy in state and county government. The popular demand for economy has been hurled in a steady bombardment toward the governor, legislature, and department heads.

Has there been any results accomplished toward economy, towards reducing public expenses? Some say there has not. Some say there has. There should be no dispute about a question where actual figures can speak for themselves.

Governor Miller, in a public letter, congratulates the legislature upon the great services rendered to Alabama for the economies that have been effected. Does the governor base his approval upon imaginary economies or upon actual figures?

Let us see. He quotes a report made to him by J. H. Hard, State Comptroller, which says the state payroll of March, 1931, compared with March, 1930, shows a reduction of $59,480, or an annual saving of $713,760. If anyone would dispute these figures, he must be able to do so with figures. Mere dispute will not suffice.

Mr. Hard's report continues: "The Bonner-Fletcher Act made a further monthly reduction of $84,678, or an annual saving of $1,016,141. The combined savings in the two instances mentioned is, therefore, $1,729,901.

A further reduction in salaries effective this month is cited by Mr. Hard through the operation of the Harrison Substitute for the Lapsley-Lusk Bill. This, he says, will amount to $18,860 a month, or $324,516 a year.

A comparison of the 1932 appropriation act with 1931 shows an annual reduction in appropriations (in addition to salary reductions) of $2,828,734.

Thus, it will be seen that the total annual saving in state expenses already effected is $4,883,151. If anyone does not believe these figures are correct, he should not condemn them unless and until he finds out for a certainty they are wrong.

Concerning the future of our government operations the report of Mr. Hard makes this interesting and impressive comment:

"Under the provisions of the Fletcher Act the state must operate within is income. Our revised estimate of income indicates that there will be collected for the benefit of the general fund and special educational trust funds a total of $7,354,600. This amount falls short of meeting the appropriations by $4,006,560, and the expenditures will necessarily have to be reduced by this amount. Steps have already been taken under the Fletcher Act to accomplish the result, which will amount to $4,006,560."

The total reductions in costs, as outlined in Mr. Hard's report to the governor is $8,889,711 a year.

Mr. Hard says further "if the Sparks Amendment is ratified on July 18th, the salaries of elective officers will be reduced, effective August 1st, $8,183 monthly, or $98,196 annually." It should be borne in mind that this particular item of economy cannot be accomplished unless the Sparks Amendment to our state constitution is approved by the voters on July 18th.

In justice to those who administer the affairs of our state at Montgomery, it should be remembered that they do not have all power. Our Constitution limits them, and reserves certain powers to the people. This is right and proper. It is a fundamental principle of American government. But our people should more fully appreciate that fact. They should realize that they, as citizens, are vested with powers as potent with responsibility as are the powers vested in public officials.

Has our State government, our governor and our legislature, done anything to make our government more economical? Don't answer this question until you have satisfied yourself with figures you can rely upon. It may be it is now up to the people of Alabama to do as much for securing economy and soundness in our state's business as our public officials have already done. The question certainly deserves careful consideration by the average citizen, in view of his duty as a citizen of the state.

We are not out to sponsor or defend the political administration of Alabama's business. We know that Governor Miller and the others in the seats of the mighty at Montgomery are Democrats. We know they have failed to please many of the members of their own party by the way they have run things at Montgomery. But in spite of the fact they are Democrats, we do not hold to the seemingly widespread idea that they are all rascals, dishonest, and blind to the interests of our great state.

There are four big propositions to be submitted to the people on July 18. If the people of Alabama close their eyes and ears to reason and vote against these measures blindly, somebody is going to be guilty of the folly of opposing some of the very things he wants to secure.

We do not appeal now specifically for support or opposition to any of these measures. We appeal to the reason and sound judgment of our people, begging them to think what they are doing and be sure they know what they are voting on when they cast their ballots July 18. The idea of voting no on every amendment without investigating it is dangerous. A man who will do it is not in any sense discharging his sacred duty as a citizen of this state.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

The music pupils of Miss Helen Phillips were presented in a recital Saturday afternoon.

The Alumni Association of Thorsby Institute met last Saturday night and elected the following officers for the year 1933-34: Ragnar Ekblad, president; Miss Lois Primm, vice president; Miss Willie Littlejohn, secretary; Miss Jennye Robinson, treasurer.

The Alumni Association entertained the graduating class of 1933 last Saturday night. An amusing program, consisting of a short play, "The Last Rehearsal," comic lantern slides of the seniors, seniors as we see and hear them (imitation of various members of the senior class by members of the Alumni Association), and music, was given at the Helen Jenkins Hall. From there the seniors were escorted to the dining hall, where cake and strawberries were served. Miss Edith Johnson, pianist, and Mr. Loyd Howard, accordionist, furnished the music for the evening.

Baccalaureate services were held on Sunday morning in the Helen Jenkins Hall. Rev. J. E. Each gave the baccalaureate sermon. The senior class sang "Marching With The Heroes," and the choir sang the anthem, "The Spacious Firmament On High."

Monday night was class night. The play, "Here Comes Three Knights," proved a great success. The characters were as follows: Henry Knight, Brady Billingsley; Manners Knight, J. T. Faircloth; John Knight, Guy Higgins; Betty Bowen, Mary Bratton; Margaret Bowen, her aunt, Elwyn Robinson; Lord Martin, Carl Ekblad; Lady ....., Helen Lowery; Mrs. Weathers, the maid, Juanita Each; Janet Riggs, Ruth Primm; Ella May, Lois Thompson. After the play the class history was given by Miss Lois Thompson; the class prophecy, by Miss Conradine Pate; the class poem, by Miss Edna Lee Wilder; and the class will and testament, by Miss Katheryn Lenoir.

Commencement day was held Tuesday. The exercises included: Processional, "Marching With The Heroes," school; scripture, Rev. J. W. Jones; prayer, Rev. J. E. Each; essay, "Municipal Ownership," Lois Thompson; Glee Club, "The Green Cathedral" (Hahn), "O Irish Hills" (Londonderry air); essay, "The End of War Through Disarmament," Carl Ekblad; trio, "Narcissus," (Nevin); address, Mr. W. L. Spencer, State Supervisor of Secondary Education; presentation of diplomas, Miss Helen C. Jenkins; announcements, Mr. H. R. Maddox; awarding of prizes, Rev. E. W. Butler; song, "Alma Mater," by the school; benediction, Rev. J. W. Jones.

The prizes awarded included: Two Piedmont scholarships, consisting of one year's tuition each given to the two students who stand highest in scholarship for the last three years' work, given to Miss Lois Thompson and Mr. Carl Ekblad; the Thorsby Institute scholarship of one semester's tuition, awarded to the underclassman who stands highest for this year's work, given to Miss Mary Louise Reinhardt; a $5.00 gold piece, given for the highest grade in English, won by Miss Louise Reinhardt; a $5.00 gold piece for the highest grade in French, to be divided between Miss Linnie Bell Reinhardt and Mr. Phares Raybun; and a Thorsby Institute scholarship of one semester's tuition to the grammar school student who stands highest in the eighth grade, given to Miss Ila May Bean, but as she cannot use it, it is given to Miss Julia Pratt Johnson.

Those who received diplomas were: Mary Bratton, Juanita Each, Kathryn Lenoir, Helen Lowery, Ruth Primm, Conradine Pate, Elwyn Robinson, Alice Simpson, Glads Smith, Edna Lee Wilder, Lois Thompson, Brady Billingsley, Carl Ekblad, J. T. Faircloth, Jr., and Guy Higgins. After morning service, exhibits of cooking and sewing done by Thorsby Institute students were shown in the dining hall, and a community dinner was served on the campus. In the afternoon the alumni played the school in baseball. The alumni won with a score of 19 to 10.

CITIZEN COUNCILS TO BE ORGANIZED

Auburn, Ala.—Citizens councils are to be organized in every county in the state.

This was announced here by Mrs. Albert Thomas, chairman on citizenship of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The purpose of the councils, as explained by Mrs. Thomas, will be to unite all agencies favorable to public education and to conduct an immediate and vigorous campaign to spread information that will enable citizens to vote wisely on questions affecting education which are to be voted on July 18.

Mrs. Thomas is being assisted in organization of the councils by 10 regional chairmen on citizenship. They are: Mrs. G. I. Spaulding, Mobile; Mrs. Marion Redd, Ozark; Miss Norma Smith, Montgomery; Mrs. E. L. Pepper, Selma; Mrs. Owen Meredith, Tuscaloosa; Mrs. John Ivey, Auburn; Mrs. B. R. Showalter, Auburn; Mrs. Edward H. Smith, Birmingham; Mrs. W. J. Young, Sheffield; Mrs. E. N. Jones, Valley Head.

In a letter to regional chairmen, Mrs. Thomas said: "The Alabama congress of parents and teachers is deeply concerned with the question of public education in Alabama.

"Schools must open and be state supported a full term.

"Plans for the future must make it certain that such a condition as now exists will not be possible again.

"In order that all forces may work together for adequate public support of public education, the board of managers of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers at its meeting in Gadsden decided to promote the formation of citizens councils throughout the state."

Questions affecting education to be voted on July 18 are the warrant and income tax amendments to the constitution.

4-H CLUB NEWS

4-H Club members in this and adjoining counties enrolled in a corn growing project will be greatly interested to learn of a fine list of prizes offered in a new contest just announced by the national committee on boys and girls club work of Chicago.

Beautiful gold filled medals of honor are offered to county champions. They are eligible to compete for the state championship title with which goes a prize educational trip to the twelfth national club congress to be held in Chicago in connection with the International Livestock Exposition. From the state champions will be chosen three to receive agricultural college scholarships of $300, $200 and $100 each. To make the contest more interesting, two special prizes, each a $155 solid gold watch, are to be awarded. One to the grower of the largest yield per acre and the other to the one who produces corn at the lowest cost per bushel.

The state extension department has approved this contest as an incentive to club members to carry their projects to a successful finish, and will work with county extension agents and the national committee in selecting the winners. The contest is made possible through the friendly interest in 4-H Club work of the Nelson Knitting Company, Rockford, Illinois, who have served farm people since 1876. Club leaders and members may obtain complete particulars of this great contest from their county extension agent or, if there be no agent, from the state club leader at the state agricultural college or the national committee.

INSECTICIDES, FUNGICIDES MUST PASS THE STATE TEST

Manufacturers, importers and cooperatives have been warned by Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture and industries, that the Alabama law requires all insecticides and fungicides be registered with the state department of agriculture before being offered for sale in this state.

"We have this week started a survey to see that all insecticides and fungicides offered for sale are properly registered and labeled and that the product analyzes according to the chemical analysis on the registration and label. Inspectors are at present taking samples to be analyzed in the state chemical labratory" he said.

Dr. George Mash, chief of the agricultural chemistry division, will supervise the enforecement of the law on insecticides and fungicides.

FIELD MICE CONTROL

Mr. Roy Moore, leader of rodent control work of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, advises Mr. Stapp that field mice and cotton rats are destroying crops in many sections by digging up the seed. Mr. Moore states that these rodents can be controlled by poisoning with bait prepared by mixing one ounce of powdered strychnine alkaloid and one ounce of borax with 12 pounds of rolled oats (regular, not three-minute oats.) This bait should be sprinkled on top of the ground where the seed are being dug up by the mice.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullins and little daughter, Martha, of Mobile, are visiting relatives here for a few days.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
By The GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at its last extraordinary session ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature at which the amendment was proposed, and

WHEREAS, the said session of the Legislature at which the said amendment was proposed finally adjourned on Friday, April 14, 1933, and the first Tuesday after three months from and after the said final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature is Tuesday, July 18, 1933, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by a proclamation of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 18th day of July, 1933, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

ARTICLE XXII. The Legislature shall have the power to levy and collect taxes for State purposes on net incomes from whatever source derived within this State, including the incomes derived from salaries, fees and compensation paid from the State, County, Municipality, and any agency or creature thereof, for the calendar year, 1933, and thereafter and to designate and define the incomes to be taxed and to fix the rates of taxes provided that the rate shall not exceed 5 per cent nor 3 per cent on corporations. Income shall not be deemed property for purposes of ad valorem taxes. From net income an exemption of not less than Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1500.00) shall be allowed to unmarried persons and an exemption of not less than Three Thousand Dollars ($3000.00) shall be allowed to the head of a family, provided that only one exemption shall be allowed to husband and wife where they are living together and make separate returns for income tax. An exemption of not less than Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00) shall be allowed for each dependent member of the family of an income tax payer under the age of 18 years. The Legislature shall reduce the ad valorem tax from time to time when and to such an amount as the revenue derived from the income tax will justify. In the event the Legislature levies an income tax, such tax must be levied upon the salaries, incomes, fees, or other Compensation of State, County and Municipal Officers and employees, on the same basis as such income taxes are levied upon other persons. All income derived from such tax shall be held in trust for the payment of the floating debt of Alabama until all debts due on Oct. 1st, 1932, are paid and thereafter used exclusively for the reduction of State ad valorem taxes.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 18th day of July, 1933, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 3rd day of May, 1933.

B. M. MILLER,
Governor.

PETE B. JARMAN, JR.,
Secretary of State.

MILK STOOL MUSINGS

Study each cow individually and you may find that she has as many pecularities as her owner. Cater to the little peculiarities of her appetite.

Examine the cow's horns and teeth—a little stitch in time here may avoid more serious trouble later.

Avoid bloat by turning the cows to pasture gradually during the early part of the season an hour or so only for the first few days.

The calf should be fed skim milk or other milk substitutes until at least six months of age. The young calf needs both milk and grain even if on pasture.

JESUS AND HIS FRIENDS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 13:1-14:9.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you. John 15:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Some Friends of Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus an Honored Guest.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being a Friend of Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Showing Our Friendship for Jesus.

A better title for this lesson would suggest Jesus as giving a prophetic outline of events in the interval between his crucifixion and his second coming.

I. The Occasion of the Prophecy (vv. 1-4).

As Jesus was passing out of the temple for the last time on his way to the Mount of Olives where he gave this discourse, the disciples reminded him of the splendor of the building, to which he replied that not one stone should be left upon another. When seated upon the Mount, the disciples came privately, according to Matthew 24:3, with a threefold question requesting further information.

1. "When shall these things be?"
2. "What shall be the sign of thy coming?"
3. "The end of the age?"

That which follows is given in answer to these three questions.

II. The Characteristics of the Age Between the Crucifixion and Christ's Second Coming (vv. 5-23).

1. The appearance of many deceivers (vv. 5, 6). Many false Christs have pressed their claims as being the Messiah since Jesus went back to heaven. As this age draws to a close we may expect these claims to increase.

2. Wars and strife among the nations (vv. 7, 8). The history of the centuries since Christ's crucifixion is written in blood.

3. Earthquakes, famines, and troubles (v. 8). Though these calamities grow increasingly severe as the days lengthen, the intelligent disciple is not surprised or alarmed for these are the precursors of a new order, the birth-pangs of a new age when the Kingdom of Christ shall be established on this earth. Let the believer in Christ in this time of darkness look up, for his redemption draweth nigh.

4. Dreadful persecutions (v. 9). God's witnesses shall be delivered up to councils, beaten in the synagogues, and shall be brought before rulers and kings for Christ's sake as a testimony against them.

5. Universal evangelism (v. 10). The gospel of the kingdom, according to Matthew 24:14, shall be preached in all the world for a witness. This is not the gospel of the grace of God which is now being preached, but a new evangelism which shall be proclaimed by elect Israelites immediately preceding the coming of Christ to establish his kingdom. (See Romans 11:13-15; Rev. 7:4-10.)

6. The universal hatred of the believing Israelites (vv. 11-13). They shall be severely persecuted. Civil government shall be against them. Their one duty notwithstanding shall be to preach the gospel of the kingdom, depending upon the Holy Spirit for wisdom and power. For this specific duty they are sealed with the seal of God in their foreheads (Rev. 7:3). This will be the real Pentecost of which the outpouring of the Spirit at the beginning of the church was a type (Joel 2:28-32; Acts 2:16).

7. The great tribulation (vv. 14-23). This is the consummation of the age immediately preceding the glorious appearing of Christ. Out of the missionary efforts of converted Israel shall eventuate the unparalleled horrors so vividly pictured here. Daniel's "abomination of desolation" is the Antichrist—"the man of sin" (Dan. 9:26, 27; Dan. 11:36; II Thess. 3:3, 4), who will direct this reign of terror.

III. The Glorious Return of the Lord (vv. 24-27).

Jesus' return is the superlative event, the one to which all prophecies have pointed and to which all ages are moving with unfailing precision.

IV. Application of the Prophecy (vv. 28-37).

1. As these events multiply in the earth, we know that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh (vv. 28, 29).

2. The Jewish race shall retain its integrity until the end (v. 30). The perpetuity of Israel is the miracle of the ages.

3. Certainty of fulfillment (v. 31). The unfailing guarantee of this is the words of Jesus Christ.

4. The time of Christ's coming is unknown (v. 32). In view of this fact it is folly to set the time.

5. The proper behavior in view of Christ's imminent coming (vv. 33-37) is watchfulness and prayer.

Life's Watch Towers

The watch towers of life are not all atop office buildings; some folks find them on a mountain, beside a quiet brook, or in the quietness of a pine forest where even the carpet of needles is silent to the tread.—Bok.

NEW ACT PROVIDES MORTGAGE RELIEF

Auburn, Ala.—Farm mortgages are to be re-financed at lower rates of interest and over a longer period of time under provisions of the new agricultural emergency act, which recently passed congress and was signed by President Roosevelt, May 12.

Provisions of the act were explained here by Prof. J. D. Pope, professor of agricultural economics of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "Direct relief is provided for the 400,000 farmers who have loans aggregating more than one billion dollars with the Federal Land Banks," Prof. Pope said.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the farm credit administration has announced that 60 days after approval of the act by the president, the interest rate on all Federal Land Bank mortgages would be reduced to 4½ per cent, with the new rate of interest to remain in force at least five years. Another provision provides that payments on the principal of these loans shall not be required for a period of five years if the mortgage is otherwise kept in good standing.

In addition, the act provides relief for other farm debtors. Those who do not have their loans with the land banks but have secured them from private parties or organizations may have their mortgages taken over by the land banks and share in the same benefits as those who borrowed from the land banks originally. This will apply where the place is in danger of foreclosure. Persons holding the mortgage must be willing to cooperate in order for this provision to be helpful to debtors.

Other provisions for motgage aid are provided. Prof. Pope suggests that farmers consult county agents in regard to details of the new plan.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford M. Manning

The History of Plants

The word "plant" is a small one, but has a large meaning. Many people live on the farm all their lives and never stop to think just what the plant is, or of the origin of the plants, which they work and cultivate each year.

There are three great epochs of geological time into which the earth is divided. The first, or primary epoch, brought the appearance of plants such as seaweeds, mosses, ferns and finally of huge trees, whose abundant vegetation was the source of our coal. The second epoch brought many animals, the fossils, of which we find today. The third epoch brought man, who gradually became civilized more or less as we see him today. He began to watch the habits of small plants, mainly those from which he derived his food, clothing or shelter, crude as were his observations. The facts collected by modern science make it certain that early man was first a savage, who lived on roots, herbs and animals which could be killed with his crude weapons. Then he was a barbarian before he reached anywhere the stage of civilization, where he began to cultivate the small plants for a mean of food and clothing.

There was no corn nor cotton then as we have them here today, but there were wild grain, grasses, berries and other plants, which resembled the plants of today. Man found that a plant would grow faster and bigger by digging around it with a stone or a stick. Later he learned that he could collect small seed from the wild plants and place them in the ground and they would come up and produce fruit as did the ones from which the seed were collected.

MISBRANDED FARM SEED SUSPENDED FROM SALE

During the past six months the Alabama department of agriculture has suspended from sale 2,714 bags of farm seed and within the past few days has removed from sale over 1,400 bushels of sorghum seed which fell short of the state law.

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, reports that this action was taken to protect Alabama farmers, who purchase some $7,000,000 worth of farm seed each year, against bad seed.

"Nine cases are at present before the United States Courts against interstate shippers of misbranded seed in Alabama and more than a dozen cases are under investigation, which will probably be filed at an early date," Storrs said.

The investigations by the United States official are made at the request of the Alabama department of agriculture against interestate shippers after tests in the seed labratory show that misbranded seed have been shipped in interestate commerce and are offered for sale in Alabama in violation of the Alabama seed law.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnson of Tennessee were the guests of Mrs. P. D. Wilson for the week end.

SPRING FEVER
may not put you in bed

. . . but if you feel listless, tired, run-down, appetite dull, with a weak let-down feeling—perhaps nervous and worn out—why not "snap out" of this condition? Tone up your appetite, increase those red-blood-cells, and get in step with those who put zip and pep into everything they do—the best way to be happy and cheerful.

There is a good old medicine, S.S.S.—tested both by time and by scientific research, which in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has been found to be remarkably efficient in restoring to the blood the normal amount of red-blood-cells and their hemo-glo-bin.

. . . if you suspect an organic disease, consult a physician. S.S.S. is not a "cure-all" BUT for a pimply skin and that tired, worn-out, let-down feeling—"spring fever" just try S.S.S. and see how you awake after a night's sound sleep feeling fresh and fine,—and see how you eat with restored appetite . . . see how your skin clears up.

Instead of slowing down in the early afternoon, you should possess ample energy to carry on thru the day and evening hours. S.S.S. is a particularly valuable tonic in the Spring of the year. It is liquid of course . . . never sold in tablet form.

. . . as a word of caution to the millions who know S.S.S. and its benefits from personal experiences, we suggest that you do not permit anyone to switch you to any of the hundreds of "just as good as S.S.S." substitutes. Remember that successful products are always imitated, but it seldom pays to buy imitations—insist upon S.S.S. At all good drug stores.

OUR WEEKLY SERMON

Bible Subject Discussed by Rev. J. Robert Bean, Clanton, Ala.

MIRACLES

Genesis 19:24, "Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven." Materialism, which is the doctrine that all spiritual phenomena, is the result of organized matter, is the result of all form of reasoning by men who are not willing to accept the supernatural in miracles.

The materialist tries, in every case, to account for a miracle from a natural or material point of view, and the fact that God uses natural means, those means at hand to accomplish His purposes, is the real reason why men will not accept the doctrine of supernaturalism.

The destruction of the cities mentioned in the above text is accounted for in the following way, by some materialists. There being a series of "slime pits" just outside the wall of the city having more or less of bitumen (mineral pitch) in the bottom, and by some means an explosion was caused, which threw the burning material into the air, and the wind carried it over the wall and fired the city.

Just for the sake of argument, let us for the moment agree that this theory is correct. The inhabitants seeing the burning "pitch" falling from above, would naturally think that it was directly from heaven, but the rotten part of the materialists' theory is found in the fact that he must first discard the doctrine of the inspiration of the Bible, or, at least, that of the text, for it stands to reason that if God inspired the writer of the above words He wouldn't have the writer to say that the Lord rained fire out of heaven. That would have been a perversion of the truth, and I had rather dispute the whole thing and say that the cities were not destroyed at all than to accuse God of a deliberate perversion of His word.

If the Bible says that fire came down from heaven and burned those cities together with their inhabitants, I accept it in the same light that I accept the statement that Christ came down from heaven.

But those fellows ran up against a snag when they came to the place in 2nd Kings 6:6, where the axe came off the handle and fell into the water. They don't pretend to say why that axe came to the surface when the stick floated down to the spot where the axe was. It would be just like them to say that it was the handle, and not the axe that fell into the water, and the writer just wrote it up wrong.

We may find materialism among our own people if we will look for it. The great number of disastrous cyclones within the last eight weeks, and especially the Helena horror, have revived the discussion of the cause or causes of these awful winds. We hear people here and there say that God is too good to send such destruction of life and property upon this world. They seek to account for it in various ways. The scientists say that a cyclone is the natural result of certain atmospheric conditions, but the unlearned says that the devil is the direct cause of all cyclones, earthquakes, floods and all other great disasters. If they are right, then the devil caused the fire and brimstone to fall on Sodom and Gomorrah.

Let us look at this subject from a reasonable point of view. All disobedience has its just reward. If your child is disobedient, you punish him for that disobedience and feel that you are doing the best thing for the child. I wish that those who have the responsibility of bringing up children today would feel that they were doing the wrong thing by refusing to punish their childen for their disobedience.

I feel sure that our God is punishing us for our disobedience and lack of interest in His cause when He sends these great death-dealing cyclones upon us.

So, instead of trying to get the answer from the scientist or the materialist, let us go down upon our knees and there before God confess all of our wrongs, then we will find our answer.—J. Robt. Bean.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The worst tragedy the world ever saw took place in the best environment the world ever had. Sin didn't begin in the slums. Sin began in a garden. Adam and Eve used to go to sleep at night in beds of lilies, and as Bob Taylor says, they breathed the air which came filtered through the jungles of roses." But they made a mess of their environment.

In every language and dialect in the world there is some word for "ought" or "duty" or "must". Every savage tribe has some word to show that the tribe has some sense of obligation.

"All have sinned and come short of the glory of God," says the Bible. In other words, we have tried to meet our obligations as we have understood them. We tried to hit the bull's eye when we shot, but we missed it. We failed, and we know we failed. No normal human being ever lived, with the exception of Jesus Christ, who did not at some time have some consciousness that he had done wrong.

I hang a rainbow of hope over the clouds of our past failures. All the stain is on the past. God keeps the future spotlessly white. From this day as long as you live you can succeed in life.

What is success? It is not making money. Men may make money while they succeed, but the making of money is not success. It is possible to succeed and die poor. It is possible to die rich, and wind up a life of failure. Success is not climbing the ladder of fame. Men may achieve fame, and fail. Men may travel the lonely and obscure road and die unnoticed and unknown, and succeed.

Success is finding out what God wants you to do and do it. God has a plan for every human life. The lawyer who can write over his office "I am a lawyer by the will of God," is a successful man. The same thing holds with every other profession and with every other business in life. The mother who can rock her baby to sleep at night and say, "I am a housewife and a mother by the will of God," is a successful woman.

The secrets of success is also the secret of happiness. Every creature that does what God meant for it to do is happy. God made the fish for the sea and the bird for the air. The fish plays in the water because he is at home. The bird sings in the air because the bird is at home. Put the fish in the air and the bird in the water and they die. The reason is that they are out of their God-planned sphere. Every human being who is in the center of the will of God for his life is not only successful but happy.

SPECIAL NOTICE

There will be an all day singing at Pleasant Grove church, seven and one-half miles from Clanton on the Billingsley road, the first Sunday in June, June 4th.

All singers and lovers of music are especially invited to come and bring a well-filled basket and let's spend the day together singing praises to God. Don't forget the place and date.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
By The GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at its last extrordinary session ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature at which the amendment was proposed, and

WHEREAS, the said session of the Legislature at which the said amendment was proposed finally adjourned on Friday, April 14, 1933, and the first Tuesday after three months from and after the said final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature is Tuesday, July 18, 1933, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by a proclamation of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 18th day of July, 1933, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

"ARTICLE XXIV. All provisions of the Constitution which prohibit or restrict the Legislature from decreasing or diminishing the salary, fees or compensation of any executive, legislative or judicial officer or of any public officer or of any officer holding any civil office of profit under this State or any County or Municipality thereof, whether elected or appointed, during the term for which he shall have been elected or appointed are hereby suspended until October 1, 1935. Provided that from and after the first day of the month next succeeding the date of the ratification and adoption of this amendment no salary, compensation, fees or commissions paid to any officer under this State or any County or Municipality thereof, shall exceed the sum of Six Thousand Dollars per annum. Said limitation of $6000.00 to be inoperative after October 1, 1935. Any Act of the Legislature heretofore adopted decreasing or diminishing the salary, fees or compensation of any such officer or officers, and which by its terms is to become effective after the expiration of the present term of any such officer or officers, shall, by virtue hereof, become effective from and after the first day of the month next succeeding the date of the ratification and adoption of this amendment; provided, however, that should the Legislature adopt any other Act or Acts decreasing or diminishing the salary, fees or compensation of any such officer or officers during the term for which such officer or officers may have been elected or appointed in a larger amount, such subsequent Act or Acts shall control. Any other Act of the Legislature adopted prior to October 1, 1935, decreasing or diminishing the salary, fees or compensation of any such officer or officers, during the term for which such officer or officers may have been elected or appointed, shall be effective from and after the first day of the month next succeeding the date of the ratification and adoption of this amendment, or from and after the adoption by the Legislature of any such Act decreasing or diminishing the salary, fees or compensation of such officer or officers."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 18th day of July, 1933, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 3rd day of May, 1933.

B. M. MILLER,
Governor

Attest:
PETE B. JARMAN, JR.,
Secretary of State.

COTTON ACREAGE YIELD IS UP 50 POUNDS IN 50 YEARS

Within the past 50 years Alabama farmers have increased cotton production 50 pounds per acre or an average increase of one pound per year.

Statistics compiled by the department of agriculture show that during a five year period from 1878 to 1883 the average cotton production in Alabama was 134 pounds per acre while for a like period from 1927 to 1932 the average production was 184 pounds per acre.

Fifty years ago Alabama produced 631,000 bales of cotton while last year it grew 930,000 bales, when the yield was much lower than usual.

The congregational singing is a special feature. The public is invited to ask for desired information. Only Bible answers will be given. Come.—R. L. Huffman.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

Sunday 10 a.m. Bible study for all.

11 a.m. Preaching and worship. The subject for 11 a.m. is: "The Outward Man and the Inward Man." This shows their difference and final state of each.

Preaching at the tent at Lomax Sunday night at 7:30. Subject for Sunday night is: "Where Are the Dead Between Death and Resurrection?"

Preaching Saturday night at Mineral Springs schoolhouse. Subject for Saturday night is: God's Will In Worship." Invitation is extended to everyone to attend all services.—R. L. Huffman.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala. May 23.—Four hundred and fifty seniors and graduate students received degrees from the University of Alabama Tuesday, May 23. President Denny delivered the diplomas.

In the baccalaureate sermon delivered Sunday morning, Dr. R. H. Crossfield, pastor of the first Christian church, Birmingham, said that religion must win if life is to be worth the living and the highest of which mankind is capable is attained. He stated that religion is necessary to the good life, the life which answers the deepest and the truest needs of man.

Addressing the graduates on Tuesday, Major General Edward L. King, commanding general of the Fourth Corps Area, declared that it is the duty and right of every citizen of the United States to take an active and studied interest in all things pertaining to this country's well being. He said that we are prone to be extraordinarily indifferent to all matters which do not affect us directly or individually.

"When a military crisis arises which immediately involves us, we have in the past been shocked and surprised to find that the proper provision had not been made to meet the emergency, and we have been compelled to improvise hurriedly and at enormous expense the means necessary to its solution. The high price of this indifference has been the blood of our people and the treasure of our nation."

In his report to the Board of Trustees on Monday President George H. Denny attacked the indifference of the people in taking care of public education. He deplored the attempts by intelligent leaders to impose a penalty on the University for the economical manner in which it has been managed.

Borden Burr addressed the alumni association at its annual banquet on Monday evening. There were also sessions of the alumnae association. Phi Beta Kappa initiated eleven new members and heard an address by Dr. Paul Sanders, New Orleans banker. Beta Gamma Sigma also initiated new members.

The Pensions Are Preferred Claims

Education Department May Continue With Use of Special Taxes, Although Work is to be Curtailed

(From Birmingham Post)

Montgomery, May 4.—Comptroller James H. Hard, Jr., today wrote letters advising 17 state departments that their appropriations would be withdrawn for the remainder of the fiscal year. This meant the necessity of suspending operations for most of these departments.

Pointing out Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Knight's ruling that only legislative, judicial, executive and eleemosynory functions were necessary state operations, Hard advised the departments that those functions would require $2,250,968.

Available resources which include $838,155 in the treasury on March 31 and an estimated total of $1,514,998 in receipts to be collected during the period from April 1 to September 30, amount to only $2,353,153, Hard said.

Pensions Have First Claim

Should the revenue meet the expectations, Hard added, there would be a surplus of $102,185. Confederate pensions, made preferred claims of the legislature, will have first call on the surplus, he said. The pension claims amount to $263,800.

"Acting under provisions of the budget act and the attorney general's opinion, I regret to notify you that there are no available funds in the general fund from which appropriation to your department can be met for the balance of this fiscal year." Hard wrote the various department heads.

The general fund supplementary appropriation of $1,500,000 to the Alabama educational trust fund was the largest economy. The $500,000 appropriation to the public school fund also was dropped.

The educational department may continue in operation, however, through special taxes, although work would be drastically curtailed.

Others Affected

Other departments dropped for the remainder of the fiscal year were:

Mining, including mining inspector.

Pasteur treatment, including fees to physicians administering the treatment.

State service commission, which formerly aided veterans in securing compensation from the government.

State serum plant.

Alabama industrial development board.

Geological survey, including state geologist.

Confederate soldiers' home appropriation for which has been paid through June 1. This appropriation may be met through other sources, Hard explained.

Confederate musem.

The white house of the confederacy.

Provision for upkeep of the governor's mansion.

Upkeep of state-owned residential property, which henceforth will be accomplished by convict labor.

State capitol insurance, which is transferred to the state insurance fund.

$8,000,000 Reduction In State Expense Shown

Cost of operating Alabama's state government has been reduced more than $8,000,000 a year through economies effected by the Miller administration.

This was disclosed today by a tabulation of all retrenchment measures enacted since January, 1931, compiled from records of Comptroller J. H. Hard, Jr., at Montgomery.

A list of the economies effected by the present administration to date follows:

Expense cuts in departments under control of the governor, made by executive order	$ 713,760
Salary cuts under Bonner-Fletcher bill and 1932 appropriation bill...	1,016,146
Appropriaton cuts under 1932 and 1933 acts	3,500,000
Futher reductions in appropriations under Fletcher budget and financial control act	2,300,000
Salary cuts under Harrison bill, enacted at 1933 special session....	500,000
Cut in travel expense allowance of state employes from $4 to $3 a day under McGowan bill	60,000

"THE MUMMY," TALE OF MYSTERIOUS EGYPT

All the mystery, intriguing beautp, splendor and spectacle of the days of the Egyptian Pharaohs will come to Clanton when Universal's amazing drama of reincarnation, "The Mummy," comes to the Wadesonian Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, May 29th and 30th.

"The Mummy," conceived by Nina Wilcox Putnam and Richard Schayer and adapted to the screen by the eminent British writer of the occult, John L. Balderston, deals with an ancient sacrilege committed by a High Priest of Osiris and a Priestess of Isis. A British archeological expedition unearths the mummy of the Priest who has been embalmed alive as a penalty for his crime. When a sacred scroll is unearthed, the mummy comes to life, bringing to the modern world his ancient occult secrets. He discovers the reincarnated soul of his unholy love in a beautiful Anglo-Egyptian girl, and his efforts to carry her back through the ages so that their love may be consummated provides one of the most singular and strangely fascinating themes of any recent screen drama.

The film is replete with spectacular sets of ancient Egyptian splendor executed by the noted stage designer and artist, Willy Pogany. Costumes and relics of the past enhance the unusual beauty and effectiveness of "The Mummy," which presents the great make-up artist, Karloff, in the starring role of the reincarnated mummy. His uncanny make-up is his greatest achievement, surpassing the unforgettable monster of "Frankenstein." Zita Johann, alluring Hungarian actress, and David Manners, provide the love interest of today, which struggles against the power of the past, exemplified by Karloff. Arthur Byron, Edward Van Sloan, and Bramwell Fletcher enact the other important parts in the film under the direction of Karl Freund, whose artistic camera eye is evident throughout "The Mummy".

OAK GROVE

We had a nice crowd out to preaching Saturday night. There were no services Sunday morning, on account of the memorial exercises at Providence; almost everyone from here attended these services.

Sorry to see our attendance take such a drop Sunday night at B. Y. P. U. Hope everyone will try to be with us again soon, as we need your help.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Northcutt and family, all of Birmingham, and the Rev. John T. Martin of Centreville, visited relatives here and attended services at Providence Sunday.

Mr. Raymond Cobb of Clanton spent the week end with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Cobb.

Miss Ruth Glass of Montgomery was a visitor here Sunday.

Miss Avis Cofer is visiting in Birmingham.

The committee appointed to select a piano for the church made a trip to Birmingham last Thursday for that purpose, and the piano was delivered Friday. We wish to thank those taking part in the play; also those who attended, thus helping to make this possible.

SINGING AT PROVIDENCE FOURTH SUNDAY IN MAY

The thirty-fourth annual session of the Salem May singing will be held at Providence the fourth Sunday in this month. All singers of Chilton and adjoining counties have a cordial invitation to attend. Services will begin at 10 o'clock. Everybody bring dinner and song books and come spend the day with us singing praises to God.—R. Robinson, chairman; J. W. Clackler, secretary.

HILL STORE MOVED

The Clanton store of Hill Grocery Company has been moved into its new location on Main Street, where Calloway's Drug Store used to be.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE FRIDAY NIGHT THIS WEEK

There will be a community singing at the courthouse in Clanton Friday night of this week. The hour to start will be 8 o'clock and the singing will last about two hours. Everybody interested in singing come and bring your new song books. Mr. J. Z. Mims will act as chairman. All of the singing societies of the county are expected to cooperate and make this two hours of the best singing there has been recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Mims of Bethel community were visitors to Clanton Wednesday. While here they visited The Union-Banner office and renewed their subscription. Mr. Mims has been a constant friend and subscriber of The Union since the paper was established, in 1903.

HENRY LAWRENCE SAVED HIS SISTER FROM DROWNING MON.

Henry Lawrence, age 13 years, performed the act of a hero Monday, when he saved his sister, Avoleen, age 7, from drowning in the river above Lay Dam.

The Lawrence family were spending the day on the river. The children were in swimming. The little girl got out too far into deep water and was unable to get back. She had gone down the second time, when Henry became aware of her plight. He swam the distance of several yards to her and brought her to the shore. When he got to land, he used artificial respiration methods to get the water out of her lungs, and she was soon all right again.

Henry and Avoleen Lawrence are the children of Rev. and Mrs. Buford Lawrence, of Clanton.

SUPPORTS MR. LITTLE

Editor Union-Banner:

I am happy to see the announcement in your paper of the nomination by the Democrats of Prof. Luther E. Little for county superintendent of education to be voted on June 20.

I know Mr. Little as being a man of good report, energetic and a Christian gentleman. Can think of nothing more helpful and progressive than for the Democrats and Republicans to join hands and forget party lines and place this young man at the head of education in Chilton County. Feel like every child in Chilton County, regardless of color or location will be benefitted.

I sincerely trust every voter, regardless of party affiliation, will give Prof. Little their support on June the 20th.—I am, yours very truly, Chas. E. Parnell.

BALL GAME TODAY

The baseball team from Wilsonville is expected to come to Clanton for a game with the local team this afternoon. Everybody is invited to attend, at the high school park.

Mr. Ashby of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, at Washington, was in Chilton County Tuesday. He made a tour of the Union Grove storm area to inspect some of the farm homes that were rebuilt following the tornado disaster of last year. Plans for many of these homes were furnished through the Department of Agriculture.

Republicans Met Here Last Saturday

Republican Executive Committee Approves The Tax Reduction Plan.

Editor Union-Banner:

The following is the proceedings of the Republican Executive Committee in session Saturday, May 20, 1933:

After roll call and organization the following Resolution was unanimously adopted, nominating W. T. Bean as the Republican candidate for Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabamma:

Resolution

Whereas, on May 8th, 1933, the Republican Executive Committee called a Referendum Primary for the purpose of ascertaining the wishes of the people relative to a candidate for Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama, to be voted on in the Special Election to be held on June 20, 1933, and the Committee having appointed a sub-committee to make all the necessary arrangements for holding said Referendum. And, whereas said committee having arranged and held said Referendum on May 19, 1933; and, whereas the results of said Referendum having been canvassed and the results determined and whereas it appearing from the returns of said Referendum that W. T. Bean received the highest number of votes cast in said Referendum;

Be it Resolved by this Committee, that this Committee hereby in session assembled, nominate and publish the name and person of W. T. Bean as the Republican candidate for Superintendent of Education of Chilton County, Alabama.

Motion carried that the Republican Executive Committee in session assembled go on record favoring a readjustment of the tax values in Chilton County, Alabama, said valuations to be fixed in accordance with present values.

It was discussed in the meeting and suggested that Monday, May 29, 1933, was the latest date at which a request for reduction may be filed with the Chairman of the Board of Reviews, Mr. Akins Collins.

If there is anyone who feels that the values on their lands are too high they should ask for a reduction not later than May 29, 1933.—J. N. Dennis, Chairman; J. Z. Mims, Secretary.

CLANTON STORE WINS IN A & P SALES CONTEST

The A & P Store of Clanton won the sales contest which ended last Saturday night, registering the highest percentage of increase of sales among the 600 stores in the Birmingham division. The contest covered a period of four weeks from April 20 to May 20.

As a reward for winning this contest Mr. G. C. Armstrong, manager of the store, and Mack Wyatt, his assistant, will each get a four-days vacation with pay and a $10 cash bonus.

Expressing his appreciation to his friends, Mr. Armstrong said: "We are delighted to win this distinction among the 600 A & P stores in our division. Our success is due to the loyal support and untiring interest of our friends and customers. We realize that we could not have approached the prize without those loyal friends. We sincerely thank each and everyone who contributed to our success. In the future we shall continue to show our appreciation by continuing to serve them with the utmost fidelity."

PRICE-RIGGINS WEDDING

Mr. Hilber Price and Miss Bonnie Riggins of Lomax were married last Sunday morning at the home of Rev. F. A. Ellison in north Clanton.

Concord-Billingsley

Rev. J. S. Johnson filled his regular appointment here Sunday morning. Due to the illness of his daughter he could not remain for the night service. We hope she will soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hill and little daughter, Irene, were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Price, last Sunday.

Mrs. D. H. Missildine and children visited her mother, Mrs. Emmett Ray last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Stewart visited Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw Sunday.

Miss Virginia Little was the dinner guest of Misses Sallie and Linnie P. Shaw last Sunday.

Rev. J. S. Johnson dined with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Surles last Sunday.

Mr. T. J. Headley and Misses Norene Headley and Annie Lee Bates were guests of Miss Virginia Little Saturday night.

Several of the young people attended a social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Turner Saturday night.

Mr. J. P. Williams and sons, Clarence and Charlie, and Misses Alice, Bessie and Jettie Williams attended the all day singing at Jemison Sunday.

Mrs. John Cox and children were guests of her mother, Mrs. Ella Weldon, Sunday.

Mr. Tommie Williams dined with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams Sunday.

We are sorry to know that Mrs. Emma Williams is on the sick list. We hope she will soon be well again.

TOM McKEE WANTS TAXES LOWERED

Mr. Tom McKee, while in Clanton Tuesday, declared hearty favor for a movement to bring about lower taxes on property. "The Democratic party in the county has given some consideration to such a movement," declared Mr. McKee, "and I heartily endorse it," he added, "but I hope to see this important question approached without regard to political alignments. Democrats, Republicans, and all citizens who own property need relief from high valuations on their property, and I want to see all of them come together to demand and secure relief."

Aubrey Taylor has gone to Longview, Texas, for a visit of ten days with friends.

NEW HARMONY

The singing at New Harmony last Sunday was enjoyed by everyone, and we wish to thank all the singers and visitors of other counties for their presence. We had a splendid singing. We wish to extend a cordial invitation to all our singings throughout the year.

A bountiful dinner was spread for the singers and visitors, but we are sorry to say that half of the people didn't get enough dinner on account of the loafers who came in about 11 or 11:30 for their dinner. And the people who carry out dinner want them to know that they are tired of them. So, if they come, let them all bring their dinner like the rest, for they are not too pretty to do so. They are apt to go to some place and the dinner will not be spread, and their faces will be known. Hope someone will remind them to bring their dinner next time. But they remind us of the big boy in church.

Once upon a time a meeting was running, and a young fellow would not sit still in church. He kept on getting up and going out and annoying the preacher and his audience, until the preacher called his attention and told him to take a seat. When the service was over, the boy's mother went to the preacher and told him she was sorry he called her son down in church—that he was to be pitied—that a calf ran over him when he was a little fellow.

So that's the way we will look at them the next time they come up at dinner time and don't bring their dinner. We'll know they should be pitied—the calf ran over them when they were little fellows.

There will be preaching every 4th Saturday and Sunday at this place, and everyone is invited to come and bring someone with you.

ORGANIZATION MEETING AT THOMAS JR. HIGH

On May 22 we met at Thomas Jr., for the purpose of organizing a club. There were 17 present at the meeting. Mrs. Mattie Lou Crew and Mrs. W. C. Moore were elected to attend the canning demonstration at Clanton on June 6th. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Farley Mims, on June 21. All women and girls are urged to attend.—Myrtice Smith, reporter.

Whether or Not Alabama Will Repudiate The State's Debts

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—Among hundreds of opinions received at the headquarters of the Alabama Debt Refunding League, one from Judge Thomas D. Samford, of Opelika, seems to express a cross section of sentiment in Alabama, according to Dr. Sterling J. Foster, chairman. Judge Samford's statement follows:

"The character and good name of a state is a matter of supreme importance. Its affairs may be mismanaged and frequently are by its officers and agents to the great detriment of its best and highest interests, but the people are responsible for all of this and have to suffer the consequences. Nevertheless, a state cannot afford to suffer its credit to go to default nor the integrity of its obligations to be questioned. If so, future generations will curse us for the stigma and the disgrace which we bequeathed to them.

Honorable people do not stand on technicalities when it comes to the payment or acknowledgement of an honest debt. Neither does an honest man nor an honest state accept the services of another or use the money or material of others for its own benefit without compensation and payment.

It's unthinkable to me that the honorable citizenship of a great state like Alabama will refuse to acknowledge and validate its floating indebtedness.

I do not endorse many things which have brought about this condition. I condemn extravagance in government as much as anyone. I deplore the lack of leadership which has brought about this serious situation which is upon us. I have been deeply disappointed that those who have assumed the responsibility of working out our problems have apparently failed. However, I am not willing for these things, or any other considerations, to have the credit of the state discounted or its reputation besmirched.

There are other considerations which would impel me to support the amendment to validate the floating debts of the state, but the paramount concern with me is the credit and good name of Alabama, and to protect this, I am willing to subordinate every petty objection which might in anywise enter into a consideration of the subject.

FATS BEAT LEANS IN A BENEFIT GAME HERE

Last Tuesday afternoon at the high school ball park the Fats and Leans of Clanton engaged in their annual baseball game, a benefit affair sponsored by Circle III of the Baptist W. M. S.

The score was close—the Tubbies nosing out the Striplings, 35 to 33. Base hits galore rattled off the bats of both teams all afternoon, and errors were numerous—too numerous for much real baseball, but just enough to make the game a rib-tickler second to none.

There was a good attendance, and over $10.00 was taken in. Up to the seventh inning the Fats led from five to fifteen runs, but in the last three frames, the Leans put on a rally that almost tied the score.

Among those engaged in the game were Earl Parrish, Joe Calloway, Lester Wagoner, Elwyn Gore, Maurice Lande, Dewey Rockett, Clay Marcus, Grover Harris, Chester Mims, Delbert Norris, John Mullins, George McCain, Alex Callen, Earl Gore, John Page, Albert Davis, Jean Gore, Renfroe Jones, Leo Alred, Bob Alred, Cecil Jones and others too numerous to remember. Tom Pyron and Bill Simpson did the umpiring, and Pud Walker was official score keeper. Mr. Short hit a home run for the leans and doubles and triples were more numerous than singles — enough to produce a total of 68 scores.

TEACHERS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Chilton County Teachers Association at the high school auditorium, Clanton, Alabama, Friday, June 2, at 2:30 p.m. This is an important meeting and all teachers are urged to be present.—Respectfully, J. A. Peterson, president of Chilton County Teachers Association.

CLANTON ON THE AIR

Tune in on WAPI each Wednesday and Saturday morning, and hear the broadcast about Clanton. The program is between 8:15 and 9:15.

CLANTON TO PLAY THORSBY HERE THIS AFTERNOON

The Clanton baseball team will play Thorsby here this afternoon, (Thursday), at the high school park at 3:00 o'clock.

The management has announced that this will be Ladies Day, and all ladies will be admitted to the game free of charge.

The price of admission for the games this year has been set at 10 cents, big, old and young, and at this low price they expect to see the park packed at every game. No one is trying to make any money out of the games, but just to meet expenses the dime charge is made.

The ladies are all invited out for the game Thursday—no charge for admission. And don't forget the hour —3.00 o'clock sharp.

The local team will take on the boys from Maxwell Field, Montgomery, here Friday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. The admission price for this game will also be 10c. This game promises to give the local boys some real competition; so don't miss it.

SMITH-BACHELOR MARRIAGE RITES

Ceremony At Baptist Church In Wetumpka Was Last Thursday

Wetumpka, Ala., May 27.—A marriage of wide interest throughout the state was that of Miss Mary Nell Bachelor and Billy Smith, of Clanton, which was solemnized Thursday afternoon at the Baptist church. The Rev. James H. Ivey, pastor of the church, officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with a profusion of Southern smilax, which was used as a background for baskets of white lilies and many lighted candles placed among the evergreens added to the beauty of the scene.

Preceding the ceremony was a program of music rendered by Mrs. A. G. Ruffin, organist, and Mrs. C. T. Reneau, soloist. Mrs. Reneau sang "At Dawning," by Cadman and "All For You," by Bertrand Brown. Mrs. Ruffin's selections were, Nevin's "Venetian Love Song," "Traumeri," played during the ceremony, and the Lohengrin Wedding March.

The ushers were Dan Smith, brother of the groom, and Rufus Brown, both of Clanton and the best man was J. B. Atkinson, also of Clanton. The bride entered with her father, Henry Bachelor, by whom she was given in marriage. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. J. R. Sanford, who was matron of honor.

The bride wore a costume of powder blue triple sheer crepe. Her hat was a shark skin model, maline trimmed and shoes and accessories in shades of pink. Her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies.

The matron of honor was costumed in the blush triple sheer crepe with beige accessories and carried a boquet of garden flowers.

Miss Bachelor is a member of a prominent Elmore County family, is a graduate of Womans College and has taught for several years in the public schools of Alabama and Florida.

Mr. Smith has won distinction in newspaper circles. He is editor of The Chilton County News and of the Rockford Chronicle.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will return to Clanton, where they will make their home.

BROWN-GULLEDGE

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brown, of Maplesville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Dorothy, to Frank Dudley Gulledge, of Verbena, the wedding to take place in June.

HILL GROCERY STORE NOW IN THEIR NEW LOCATION

The many friends and customers of the Hill Grocery Store in Clanton are delighted with the new location and improved arrangement of this popular food store.

The work of removing to the new location on Main Street was accomplished in record time last week, and scarcely without any interruption in business. Trade has been improving every day, which fact indicates to the store management that the move was a step toward increased business by offering more attractive service to the trade.

Mr. Ernest Arant, manager of the store, extends a cordial invitation to all his friends and customers to come to Hill's for their grocery needs. "We have a larger and more conveniently located store," said the manager, "and we are prepared to give our customers better service than ever before."

Remember the location of the new Hill store is on Main Street, in the building formerly occupied by Calloway Drug Company.

CAMPAIGN ORGANIZED FOR SUPPORT OF W. T. BEAN

Committee Will Push Campaign Of Republican Candidate In Every Beat of Chilton County Between Now and Election Day, June 20

An active campaign committee of prominent Republicans has been organized to carry forward the campaign of Mr. W. T. Bean, Republican candidate for County Superintendent of Education in the election of June 20th. Composing this committee are J. Z. Mims, chairman; Omar L. Reynolds, secretary; J. N. Dennis, J. D. Collins, and W. G. Culp.

A meeting of the committee was held Tuesday night, when plans were outlined to carry the campaign to the people in every Beat in the county. This central campaign committee will be enlarged to include members of the Republican Executive Committee as well as two other active and aggressive Republicans in each Beat of the county.

The central campaign committee at its meeting Tuesday night addressed the following statement to the citizens of the county in support of Mr. Bean:

The Republican party takes pleasure in offering Mr. W. T. Bean to you as its candidate for Superintendent of Education of Chilton County in the special election to be held on Tuesday, June 20th. Mr. Bean was nominated for this place by the Republican voters in a primary May 19, and was thereafter unanimously designated and endorsed by the Republican Executive Committee.

The Republican party is glad to offer to the people of the county a man of the experience and ability of Mr. Bean to perform the important duties of Superintendent of our schools. He is a man of mature years and ripe business experience. He has served as Superintendent of our schools in the past, and we believe he made a record that stands as worthy and commendable.

Both as Superintendent and as a teacher, Mr. Bean has been in active contact with the school business of our county for many years. We believe he has thereby gained knowledge and experience that makes him now the best qualified of the two men to take up the administration of our school business and carry it forward successfully in the future.

The administration of our schools should be carried out upon the broadest and highest principles, looking to the greatest good to all our school children. We believe Mr. Bean will pursue such a policy if he is elected as our superintendent.

We believe he can and will formulate such policies in the future as will be effective in giving to the people, the teachers, and the pupils the very best schools it is possible for us to have.

Your active and hearty support of Mr. Bean on the 20th of June is hereby solicited on behalf of what we sincerely believe to be the best interests of our whole school system for the future. — Republican Campaign Committee.

DATE OF PICNIC IS 21ST OF JULY

5,000 People Will Be Cared For At Same Place Picnic Was Held Last Year

County Agent Stapp is busy making preparations for the big county-wide picnic which will be held at Popwell Woods, in front of Boswell's tourist camp on Friday, July 21st. Mr. Stapp announces that Congressman W. B. Oliver has accepted an invitation to attend and speak to the gathering. Loud speakers will be installed so that all may hear. The grounds will be cleaned off in the near future, platform built and seats arranged.

Mr. Stapp says that indications are that five thousand people will attend, and he is making preparations to take care of that number. Abundance of free ice water will be at the disposal of everybody.

PARDONS GIVEN TO FOUR MEN

Who Were Serving Sentence For Prohibition Law Violations

Among the one hundred and fifty-six prisoners given permanent paroles Monday by Governor Miller, four are from Chilton County. They are: Cleveland Davis, Will Henry, Grady Langston and Junior Reed. All those paroled in the state were prohibition law violators who had served six months or more of their respective sentences before temporary clemency for a limited period was extended to them.

The governor issued this statement with the men named: "It is therefore ordered that parole pending good behavior issue to each one herein named."

High Points of the Warrant Amendment Act to be Voted on July 18th

The McDaniel Warrant Amendment proposes to refund outstanding and unsecured obligations of the state upon the ratification of the amendment by the qualified voters at a special election set for July 18.

The amount of this debt to be refunded is $16,943,357.12 plus $2,405,063.02, appropriated for the construction of new school and college buildings for which no warrants have been issued. The total of these two sums is $19,348,420.14.

If approved, the McDaniel Amendment would authorize the state to substitute five per cent interest bearing warrants for all outstanding, unsecured, and non interest bearing warrants. All new warrants issued under the authority of the proposed amendment would be negotiable.

The interest would be payable semi-annually on the floating debt mentioned above, the first interest payment falling due on January 1, 1934.

The amendment further provides that the new warrants "shall be a direct obligation of the state." For a prompt and faithful retirement of which, including principal and interest, "the full faith and credit of the state is hereby irrevocably pledged." The new warrants are declared exempt from taxes.

To provide a sinking fund for the retirement and payment of interest, the net proceeds from any income tax which may be levied by the legislature is pledged in full. This does not mean, however, that the McDaniel Warrant Law will fail to become effective if the income tax amendment is not approved.

The McDaniel Amendment includes several provisions from the Budget and Finance Control Act (commonly called the Fletcher Bill). Upon its adoption, therefore, these provisions would be preserved in the state's contsitution and could only be removed or changed by the submission of another constitutional amendment to the people. Included in the amendment are these provisions from the Fletcher Bill (a) it shall be unlawful for the comptroller to issue any warrant unless there is money for its retirement in the treasury. (b) At the end of each fiscal year any existing deficit in the state treasury shall be prorated among the several state departments. The violation of this act entails a penalty of a $5,000 fine or two years in prison, or both. (c) At the end of any fiscal year unpaid appropriations in excess of the amount of money available for their retirement after the proration clause has been applied shall become null and void.

Other sections of the McDaniel amendment deal with the proclamation and advertisement of the proposed amendment, calling of the election, the selection of the election officials, the canvassing and announcement of the returns of the election results.

SEVERAL HOME CLUBS FORMED

Under Direction of Miss Pardue, Home Demonstration Agent

A spirit of ideal cooperation has been manifest in the promotion of the organization of home demonstration work in Chilton County, according to Miss Pardue, newly appointed home demonstration agent for this county.

Within ten days more than twenty-five clubs have been organized in the various communities in the county, with a membership of approximately 400. Two leaders have been appointed in each community to assist the agent in the promotion of the work.

Miss Pardue stated that in no place where she has worked has there been evidence of more worthy cooperation than has been evidenced in Chilton County.

Most of the summer months will be spent in behalf of canning projects, Miss Purdue stated. An extensive program is being mapped out in connection with the local relief unit.

Clubs organized have been at the following places: Baker school, Concord (Beat 4,) Providence (Beat 16), Thomas, Jr., Morganville, Enterprise, Fairview, New Cedron, Shiloh, Isabella, Sardis, Shoults, Stanton, Alpine, Pletcher, Jackson Chapel, Collins Chapel, Union Grove, Pinedale, Oak Grove, Providence (B), Pates Chapel, Pleasant Grove, Freeman, Mt. Pleasant.

VERBENA BOY HONOR GRAD AT ANNAPOLIS

The names of the 32 members of the graduating class at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis who are to graduate with distinction were made public Monday. K. F. Neupert, of Portland, Ore., whose general aggregate for the four years was 903.29 points out of a possible 1,000 points led the list. Others included E. G. Howard, Verbena, Ala.

PROF. J. ALEX MOORE HERE

Prof. J. Alex Moore, of near Montevallo, was in Clanton Monday of this week. Prof. Moore has been in Chilton County since January 1st, after an absence of twenty-six years. Most of this time he has been in Walker County and served several terms as superintendent of education of that county. He is now living on his farm in the northwestern part of this county.

MARRIED IN VALDOSTA, GA.

People of this county will be interested to learn of the wedding of Mr. O. D. Grooms to Miss Mildred Turner, both of Valdosta, Ga. The wedding took place Saturday night, May 20th, in Valdosta. Mr. and Mrs. Grooms left Sunday for Pablo Beach, near Jacksonville, Fla., where they spent a few days on their wedding tour. They are now at home in Valdista at 204 East Central Avenue.

Mr. Grooms formerly lived at Mulberry in this county. He is a son of the late H. J. Grooms of that community, who died four years ago. The Union-Banner joins the other many friends of Mr. Grooms here in wishing him and his new bride gobs of happiness and unbounded success in life.

WINS FREE SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Margie Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wallace, of Maplesville, was chosen valedictorian of her class in Maplesville High School this year. She was given a free scholarship in her choice of a stenographic, bookeeping or telegraph course at the Chillicothe Business College, in Chillicothe, Misouri.

FIVE QUESTIONS BEFORE PEOPLE

To Be Voted On At Election To Be Held the 18th of July

Montgomery, Ala., May 21. — Five questions are presented to the voters of Alabama for disposition on July 18. Four proposed amendments to the constitution and the selection of delegates to a state convention to repeal or retain the 18th amendment to the federal constitution. These constitute sufficient material, political observers point out, to furnish entertainment for the next eight weeks.

Advocates of repeal have already organized and selected Col. A. M. Tunstall, veteran politician and legislator, as campaign manager. This was done at a mass meeting presided over by Frank P. Glass, editor of The Montgomery Advertiser. The Grand Theatre was the scene of the mass meeting which was attended by representatives from every section of Alabama. Judge Leon McCord was the keynote speaker. Lieut. Gov. Hugh Merrill of Calhoun County; Will L. Lee, of Houston; Judge W. H. Tayloe, of Hale; W. H. Holcombe, of Mobile; Mrs. Solon Jacobs, of Birmingham; S. Hugh Dent, of Montgomery, were among the speakers on this occasion. It was stressed in this meeting that the fight is for state's rights.

While the repealists were perfecting their organization, those responsible for the adoption of the 18th amendment were planning for a series of county mass meetings to rally their forces to resist repeal. Assurance of a struggle such as the state has not seen since 1909 is apparent.

Former State Senator W. H. Mitchell, of Florence, has been selected as leader in the fight to "pay Alabama's debts." Prominent educators are assisting Sen. Mitchell in effecting the permanent organization which will carry the battle of "liquidation instead of repudiation" into every nook and corner of the state. The warrant validiating amendment and the income tax proposal to provide a source of revenue with which to pay the interest and principal when these interest-bearing warrants are issued, are intended to relieve the state's present financial troubles. These two proposals will most probably be coupled together with one organization directing the fight for both.

While the repealists and anti-repealists will doubtless occupy a big place in the political news, the campaign for paying the state's debts will not be a tame affair, those who are watching the early maneuvers predict. There is also the Sparks salary cutting amendment which is aimed at every county and state office, especially those drawing above $6,000. Another, and by no means insignificant proposal is that to cut in half the time for advertising proposed amendments. The present law requires the publication in some newspaper in each county for eight consecutive weeks immediately preceding the election. The proposed amendment would cut this to four weeks.

In the preparation of the amendment ballot, all four are listed on one ballot, with the Sparks amendment No. 1, income tax No. 2, warrant validiating amendment No. 3 and reduction of publication time No. 4. This is the order in which the proposals passed the recent special session of the legislature.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE THURSDAY NIGHT THIS WEEK

There will be a community singing at the courthouse in Clanton Thursday night of this week. The hour to start will be 8 o'clock and the singing will last about two hours. Everybody interested in singing come and bring your new books. Marion Easterling will act as chairman. All of the singing societies of the county are expected to cooperate and make this two hours of the best singing there has been recently. P. B. Shaw, of Birmingham, has promised to attend, and will likely bring a quartet with him. Prof. Lackey, of Birmingham, will also be here. The local quartet will arrange some special numbers.

Miss Helen Crump, of Tampa, Fla., is in Clanton spending several weeks with relatives and friends.

STAPP AT AUBURN

County Agent, C. E. Stapp left Tuesday morning for Auburn, where he will attend a short course in study of poultry this week. He will be back in his office Saturday.

Beginning next Monday Mr. Stapp plans to spend two weeks in visiting the different 4-H Clubs of the county.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

ALABAMA HOME GARDENS INCREASED 11,500 ACRES

To make a larger proportion of their living at home Alabama farmers have within the past five years increased their home garden acreage by 11,500 acres, according to F. W. Gist, department of agriculture statistician, who shows 61,200 acres in home gardens in the state in 1932 compared with 49,700 in 1929.

"It appears from these figures," he said, "that the acreage devoted to gardens has been increased since 1928 by slightly more than 20 per cent. This is thought to be the direct result of a general tendency among the farmers to produce a larger proportion of the family living at home while the price of cotton has been steadily declining."

The statistics released by Gist show there were 49,700 acres in home gardens in 1928, 49,700 in 1929, 55,500 in 1930, 58,300 in 1931, and 61,200 in 1932.

TRUCK CROP SHIPMENTS LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

Farmers of Alabama have this year shipped about 1,000 more cars of vegetables and fruits than they had to the same date last year.

Commissioner of Agriculture, Seth P. Storrs, reports 3,200 cars shipped from the state to date this year compared with 2,279 cars last year. Despite the increase from Alabama the carlot movement in the United States is less than that to the same date last year.

FORESTRY CAMPS ESTABLISHED

Montgomery, Ala., May 30.—Sites for the location of the four forestry camps recently authorized by President Roosevelt on state and private lands in Alabama are being selected by representatives of the forestry department and the U. S. Army, according to a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The general locality of the camp with reference to the bulk of the work to be performed is selected by the forestry department. However, the exact spot on which the camp is to be situated will be determined by the army, since this branch of the public service has had much detailed experience in determining the relative merits of different sites.

It is not sufficient that the camp be close to the work. Other considerations are equally important. Among the latter are the character of the soil and typography with reference to drainage, the availibility of a continuous supply of good water, accessibility by road, rail, telephone and telegraph and the possibilities of recreation and the general comfort of the workers.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., May 30.—Practical application of the principles of conservation has supplied Clarke County with many herds of deer and probably more wild turkeys than any other county in the state, declared F. E. Poole, Grove Hill attorney, in a letter to Commissioner I. T. Quinn, expressing gratification for aid rendered by the Department of Game and Fisheries.

He said the quail outlook also was very promising for next year and, although fish have been plentiful for years, some streams need restocking. He commended the state's new fishing law and the enforcement of all game and fish laws by Warden C. P. Finch.

"We are making great progress in this county, especially in the game line," asserted Mr. Poole. "We now have 150 deer in the county, exclusive of the forks of the rivers where deer always have been plentiful. I would not be surprised if in Clarke County we have more turkeys than any county of the state. The season so far for the raising of turkeys and quail has been ideal and we are expecting great crops of both for the coming hunting season.

"I often think how we labored in getting about a dozen deer planted up here in the cut-over sections and in the virgin woods, how the turkeys had almost decreased to zero in those sections, and now when I see the great results obtained with both turkeys and deer, I feel fully rewarded for all my labors and am anxious that the department of game and fisheries have its share of the praise.

"The first day of last November I killed a 200 pound buck where one would not have dared to tread a few years ago. We must have at least 40 in that immediate section now, there must be around 100 deer in the Silver Creek section and 10 or more in the Jackson creek area."

Mr. Poole said fishing for bream, goggle-eye, bass and white perch was very good, but that enough attention has not been given to restocking because fish have been so plentiful in the past.

"I have put many fish into the streams, but have been unable to get many interested in restocking because we have been able so far to catch as many any day as we wanted," he said. "I thought you would be interested in a report from this county as I never tire in working in behalf of game and fish."

MET WITH HOME DEMONSTRATOR

Quite a number of ladies in Stanton and from adjoining communities met with Miss Pardue, county home demonstration agent at the Stanton school building Thursday afternoon and discussed plans for canning and preserving summer fruits and vegetables. Mrs. C. E. Cagle, Mrs. Mattie Woolley, will attend the demonstration on June 6th. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. C. E. Cagle on June the 16th, at one o'clock. At this meeting some canning demonstrations will be carried out. Everyone is invited to attend.—Reporter, Mrs. Chas. G. Dawson.

FIELD INSPECTOR HERE

Mr. H. B. Reid, field inspector in this district for the crop production loan office, with headquarters in Memphis, states that the work of making the loan is practically over. He calls attention to the fact that this loan was made pursuant to an act of congress that authorized the secretary to prepare rules and regulations setting forth the terms and conditions on which such loans would be made.

One of the first requirements was that all borrowers would be required to reduce their cash crop acreage 30 per cent less than such cops grown by them in 1932 (except that such reduction would not go beyond a certain minimum number of acres, which was eight acres with respect to cotton.)

Mr. Reid, the field inspector in this territory, tells us now that the pressure of his work in connection with making the loans is considerably less than it was, that he is devoting his time in traveling his territory in order to see whether or not the borrowers are making the reduction to which they agreed.

Mr. and Mrs. Shux Clackler left Sunday morning for Huntsville, where Mr. Clackler has accepted a position as Linotype operator.

ACT MAY INCREASE PURCHASING POWER

Auburn, Ala., May 30.—Increasing the purchasing power of farmers is the declared purpose of the new farm emergency act, according to an explanation given by Prof. J. D. Pope, head of the department of agricultural economics of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Several methods for bringing about an increase in rural buying power are provided for in the act. Just what is to be done this season will be determined immediately in hearings called by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The alternative methods made possible by the act are:

(1) the secretary of agriculture may arrange with individual farmers to reduce their acreage or production by specified amount and to compensate them either by paying rentals or by making direct benefit payments.

(2) by entering into marketing agreements with processors and others to reduce wasteful and price-depressed competition, excessive handling charges and so on, the secretary may bring about better prices to the farmers.

(3) Cotton growers who reduce their acreage at least 30 per cent can be given an option contract for an equivalent amount of cotton, from stocks now owned by the federal government—more than two million bales. If cotton prices rise, the grower may have his optional cotton sold, and take the profit. In no case would the grower be liable for losses incurred in holding this cotton.

Funds to pay rental and benefit payments would come initially from the federal treasury. Subsequently they would be derived from an adjustment tax levied on the first processing of the basic commodity.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS

Magnesium asenate is the best insecticide for controlling the Mexican bean beetle, but it is effective only when it is applied to the undersurface of the leaves.

The same calcium arsenate used for dusting cotton to control boll wevils may be used for dusting Irish potatoes to control the Colorado potato beetle.

The 13-year cicada or locust is appearing in Alabama. Prof. J. M. Robinson of Auburn requests that those who find the insect report the time and place of its appearance to him through county agents.

On the average it costs $249 less for a family to live in the country for a year than in the city. Almost 40 per cent of the difference comes from living in a less valuable house, or from doing without things which have become a part of city living.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO VISIT CAPITAL

Auburn, Ala., May 30.—Two 4-H club boys and two 4-H club girls have been picked from the 40,000 members of Alabama 4-H clubs to attend the national 4-H club encampment in Washington, June 15-21.

They were selected for outstanding achievement and are considered the best all-round 4-H club boys and girls in Alabama. They are Claude Samuels, of Altoona, Etowah County; Brandt Cunningham of Headland, Henry County; Otis Pearl Hood of Gadsden, Rte. 1, Etowah County; and Mary Evelyn Bishop, of Lincoln, Talladega County.

They will be accompanied to Washington by T. A. Sims and Miss Bess Fleming of Auburn, specialists in 4-H club work.

Both of the girls have been in 4-H club work for eight years and have studied clothing, canning, home improvement, foods and nutrition, and other subjects. They have been presidents of their local clubs and have held county 4-H club offices.

The boys have been active as presidents of their local clubs and have studied many subjects, but have achieved special distinction in the production of dairy calves and cows.

While in Washington the Alabama representatives will meet with 4-H club boys and girls from every state. They will be entertained at the White House, see the American League baseball teams play, and visit all of the interesting government buildings and other historic spots in and near Washington.

Let's also keep the weeds and thistles out of the pasture.

Tonight after supper sit down with the family and see if you can make out a list of 57 tempting dishes. This should be more entertaining than a jig saw or cross word puzzle.

Ask the wife to try a dairy dish for the next 57 consecutive days. You are no doubt hard to please but the wife and children may enjoy the experiment.

COTTON CLOTH USED TO SACK THE BEET SUGAR

Fully 50,000,000 square yards of cotton cloth will be used during 1933 in making and sacking sugar from the nation's crop of sugar beets, according to estimates announced today by the United States Beet Sugar Association. Although domestic cotton had played an important part in the domestic business, when the need for greater cotton consumption in the United States became acute, the beet sugar industry turned to means of cooperating with the result that more and more cotton is used each year in packing beet sugar. In addition to heavy filter press cloth, cotton liners for large bags and cotton sacks for packages up to twenty-five pounds, a new type of heavy American-made sacking of American-grown cotton, has proved satisfactory in many cases where imported hemp was formerly used for large bags.

The estimate of this year's production of 2,800,000,000 pounds of beet sugar indicates that the industry will require 50,000,000 square yards of various types of cotton cloth, not allowing for possible new uses for cotton which beet sugar makers are constantly seeking. In 1932, production of 2,700,000,000 pounds is estimated to have consumed 45,600,000 square yards of cotton sacking and 750,000 square yards of heavy filter cloth used in beet sugar factories.

It is calculated that the average weight of these cloths in the proportion that they are used is about a pound per square yard. The department of agriculture reports an average production of 162.1 pounds of linted cotton per acre in the United States for 1932. On this basis, the American beet sugar industry will consume the production of 308,450 acres of cotton land.

If the cotton to be used in the domestic beet sugar business were spread out in a straight strip thirty feet wide, it would extend from New York to San Francisco. This ten-yard strip would be 2,841 miles long. Laid in a one-yard strip, this cotton would go around the earth and lie in double thickness entirely across the United States.

The general practice in sacking sugar is to print the bags with ink that is readily removed by washing, but no statistician has come forward with calculations of the number of dishes that will be dried, or the number of light garments that will be made from this cloth after the sugar has been consumed.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford M. Manning

The History of Plants

So scientists believe and so history has prover much of our most valuable knowledge has come through work which, at the time, was done in order to discover truth, with no thought of a practical application.

Although there is some difference of opinion it is rather generally believed that corn is of American origin. John M. Horshberger suggests that the corn plant probably was cultivated first in a high plateau region of Central or South America.

This region is the native habitat of teosinte and jama grass which are closely related botanically to corn. He states that the cultivation of corn probably started in this region about the beginning of the Christian era, spreading rapidly both to the north and to the south, reaching the Rio Grande about 700 A.D. and as far as Maine by about 1000 A.D.

It is believed that both corn and teosinte doubtless trace back to a plant resembling jama grass, the plant having a tassel at the top of the central talk or culm and tassel-like structure on the long lateral branches, all the tassels bearing both male and female flowers. In the process of evolution and diversification those plants survived which most successfully and efficiently used food materials in producing seed. As the pollen tends to fall to lower levels, that form the lower tassels was often lost, while the female flower from the uppermost tasels were least likely to pollinate and produce seed for reproduction.

In time, through careful selection of seed and plant, the lateral branches were shortened as the seed plants with long branches were lost, due to the branches breaking down. As these branches were shortened the seed ports were enclosed by the modified leaves—the husks.

This story of corn deals with the experiments of the great Austrian scientist Gregor Mendel, whose labors have given us a worthwhile thing, the knowledge of heredity and the laws of ratio.

When this continent was first discovered by European explorers the American Indian of the North Atlantic Coast were extensive corn growers; and we are told that the early colonists would have perished by starvation except for the corn stores of the Indians. These colonies soon learned the art of growing corn as taught them by these friendly people.

Cotton came into existence about the same way as corn, only cotton probably branched from small trees with the environment of weeds, and it is not a native of America as the corn. Columbus found cotton growing in the West Indies and it was found by other explorers in Mexico and Peru.

Cotton production did not become important in the United States until Whitney invented the cotton gin in 1793.
